MANY SITES FOR THE PROPOSED CITY HALL.

Each Has Friends Who Sound Its Good Advantages.

MANY IN GOOD LOCATION.

HOT COMPETITION EXPECTED OVER FINAL CHOICE.

Park Avenue and Fifth Street, West Front Street and Central Avenue, East Front Street and Watchung Avenue, and East Front Street and Church Street, are Some of Those Mentioned.

In connection with the question of selecting a site for a city hall, with jail combination, there has been no end of discussion, and the probable site is located on every corner and vacant lot in the city according to the opinion of many. It will be of interest to many to know of some of the sites mentioned.

One is at the corner of Park avenue and Fifth street, which is said to be the choice of Third ward people. Another is at the corner of West Front street and Central avenue, where Manning's marble yard stands. Fourth ward people are interested in this site. It is claimed that the whole block from New street to Central avenue could be secured and an imposing building placed theron. Still another site in which First warders are interested is at the corner of Watchung avenue and Front street, known as the Meeker property, and another site on the opposite corner, where J. F. MacDonald resides is mentioned. The First ward has plenty of sites, in fact, and another one is offered at the corner of East Front and Church streets. This is looked upon as one of the most likely and best. Some have ventured to suggest that the property on East Front street adjoining that occupied by Powlison & Jones, would be just the place.

Thus it can be seen that every ward has its selection and when it comes to the question of actually selecting the site there will be fun enough to suit everyone. Some think one site is too far off another believes the other site is too close to the centre of the city, and if all the opinions should be published a good-sized book would not contain them. It may be stated that the people in general are not unanimous on any particular choice, and this will cause the trouble when a site is picked out.

HIGHLY SPOKEN OF.

Filipino Lecturer is Said to be a Man of Exceptional Talent.

The Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, through its director, Prof. Franklin W. Hooper, speaks of Ramon Reyes Lala, who is to lecture with illustrated views at Music Hall, Tuesday next, in following complimentary manner:

"Mr. Ramon Reyes Lala gave before the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences a most interesting and instructive lecture on the Philippines and Filipinos, in December. The information which he has to convey is valuable, and the illustrations that he uses in connection with his lecture, give an excellent idea of the physical character of the Islands, the nature of the cities and towns, and their inhabitants. I have commended Mr. Lala as a lecturer on several occasions, and wherever his services have been secured, he has given more than satisfaction."

The pictures which accompany the lecture are said to be something superb and out of the ordinary. They give a pictorial beauty and add material worth to what Mr. Lala has to say concerning his native land.

Watchung Avenue Needs Repairing.

One of the city streets that will need the attention of the street committee as soon as the weather permits is Watchung avenue, between North avenue and Fifth street. The upper surfacing is entirely gone and the large stones are rapidly loosening. Wheeling is difficult and the carriages rattle over the stony surface with unusual noise, and a shaking up for the occupants.

"The Coming of the Lord."

J. C. Holmes gave a diagram-illustrated address on "The Coming of the Lord" in the Babcock building last evening to a fair-sized audience. The lecturer carried his audience along from the time of Adam to the Millennium, which he predicted was near at hand. The meetings will continue each evening until Tuesday.

OLD CITIZEN GONE.

Joseph Cooney, Sr., Died at His Home Yesterday Afternoon From Pneumonia—Was a Blacksmith.

Joseph Cooney, Sr., aged 72 years, father of Former Policeman Joseph Cooney, died yesterday afternoon at his home on West Sixth street, after a severe illness with pneumonia. He was born in Switzerland, and came to this country when a young man, locating in Plainfield many years ago. He was by trade a blacksmith, and worked at his trade for years. He was attended during his illness by Dr. Zeglio. He is survived by a wife and a son. The funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's R. C. church. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

ROSS IN COURT AGAIN.

SAME OLD TROUBLE OVER KEEPING DECAYED VEGETABLES.

Found Guilty on the Charge Although He Hasn't Paid Old Fine Yet—To be Sentenced Next Tuesday Morning.

"I'll get square with you yet." So muttered the proprietor of the Delmonico oyster and chop house on Park avenue as he passed out of the city court room this morning. The remark was doubtless intended for for Health Inspector William Addis, on whose complaint William Ross was arrested.

It is the old trouble, an alleged violation of the Board of Health ordinances in keeping decayed vegetables in the basement of his establishment. Several months ago Ross was tried and found guilty on that same charge. He was fined $25. The City Judge and the Corporation Counsel felt sorry for him and allowed him his time in paying the fine. Nothing has been paid yet. Ross says that he has had the hardest possible time to keep going without paying that.

The last alleged offence occurred between Oct. 28th and Nov. 4th, 1899. Ross was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning to answer for it. Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh appeared for the city. Health Inspector Addis was also present. He testified and brought several others with him who told of the vile stench that arose from the collection of decayed vegetables in Ross's basement.

Ross took the stand and admitted that there had been spoiled goods there. He deals in vegetables and fruits on the side while giving his restaurant his principal attention. He had to store his goods somewhere, he explained, and occasionally the rains came and prevented him from removing them. Furthermore, he declared that it was spitework on the part of the Inspector who would not let men cart the goods away. He didn't explain, however, that the men Addis had refused to allow to cart the goods away were not licensed garbage collectors and were not equipped with the proper wagons.

Corporation Counsel Marsh asked the court for a severe sentence and that the court collect the fine by issuing an execution against the prisoner's goods and chattels as provided for by the statutes. If the fine could not be collected, he asked that the court then see that a term of imprisonment be given. According to the State law, the imprisonment is limited to ninety days.

Judge Runyon deferred sentence until Tuesday morning when Ross will appear again.

CONCLUDING "AT HOME."

Society Folk Pay Their Respects to Miss Ackerman on the Occasion of Her Formal Debut.

The second and concluding informal "at home" of a series following the introduction into Plainfield society of Miss Lydia P. Ackerman, daughter of Mrs. J. Hervey Ackerman, of West Seventh street, was held yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Ackerman's residence. Like the first on the preceding afternoon, it was largely attended by society folk from this city and New York.

The house was very handsomely decorated with roses and southern smilax. A profusion of pink roses were used in the table decorations. The guests were received by Mrs. J. Hervey Ackerman, Miss Ackerman, Mrs. Warren Ackerman and Mrs. Wood, of Trenton. They were assisted by Miss Carrie Hall and Miss Katherine Wood.

SOCIETY HONORED BRIDE AND GROOM.

Reception Given to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Tyler.

BY THE PARENTS OF GROOM.

MANY GUESTS GATHERED DURING AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Important Social Event Held at Residence of Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh Street — Magnificent House Decorations—Those who Assisted in Receiving the Guests—Dancing in Evening.

One of the social events of the winter season in Plainfield society was the reception last evening, that was given by Col. and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler at their spacious residence, 525 West Seventh street, to their son, William Seymour Tyler, who was married at Grace Episcopal church, November 23d, to Miss Ethel, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Van Boskerck.

The reception was in honor of the newly wedded couple and it proved a brilliant affair. There were more than 200 of the society folk of the city present.

The reception began at 3 o'clock and continued uninterruptedly through the evening. Col. and Mrs. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Tyler and Mrs. G. W. VanBoskerck were assisted in receiving by the bridesmaids and groomsmen who were the Misses Helen Frances Bushnell, Helen Ashton Bloodgood, Effner Strong, Daisy VanBoskerck, Rosabell Shroeder and Dwight W. Morrow, Boardman Tyler, Dr. James Windsor Decker and Henry D. Tyler.

At the evening portion of the reception the bridesmaids were assisted by Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Mrs. W. G. Wright, Mrs. John Doull Miller, Mrs. Edward H. VanBuren and the Misses Katharine Rinehart, Mr. and Mrs. VanBoskerck, Maud and Lizzie VanBoskerck, who also poured the chocolate.

The spacious residence was handsomely decorated, southern smilax being used in profusion, while red, pink and white roses were also conspicuous in the parlors and drawing rooms. The large piazza had been inclosed and this with the four lower rooms, including the handsome library, were used for the younger guests to dance in. An orchestra of four pieces supplied the music. The refreshments were served individually. The affair was one of the most elaborate and brilliant functions that has been held this season in Plainfield. The toilets of the ladies were very rich and elegant, in keeping with the position the host and hostess occupy in society.

THREE FOR WESTFIELD ON HOME ALLEYS.

Defeated Cranford Casino in Daily Press League.

ONE GAME HARD FOUGHT.

AND THEN CRANFORD RESIGNED TO THE INEVITABLE.

Westfield Team Won First Game After Hard Fight—The Second Was Very Easy—Forster Made a Great Recovery in the Third Game and Saved the Day—Westfield's Scores All Over 800.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 13.—After one hard fought attempt to wrest victory from the bowlers of the Westfield Club on their own alleys, the Cranford Casino team settled back into lethargy of defeat. Three games were rolled in The Daily Press Bowling League last night and Westfield won them all. Westfield rolled well and all her team scores were above the 800.

Cranford opened the first game by taking the lead, the only time during the evening. On the second frame, Westfield led by six pins and held the lead for the remainder of the game W. M. Townley rolled strikes in the first four frames, but could not hold that phenomenal pace. In the fourth frame Westfield was 58 in the lead. That was the apex of their strength in that game and Cranford followed with a mighty effort. The sixth and seventh frames saw two double headers for each team. Bates and Sharp made it two triple headers for Cranford in the eighth and Sharp made his fourth consecutive strike in the ninth. It reduced Westfield's lead, but could not win. Westfield won out by 33 pins.

Westfield opened the second game, with a clean frame of strikes. But that was too good to last. The home team kept at it, however, and soon the visitors were so far distanced that they were not in the running at all. A little brace in the fourth and fifth frames stopped Westfield's victorious career for a moment but they went right on and led by 124 pins in the eighth. Victory went to Westfield by the fat majority of 140. Cranford failed even to make 700.

The third game was a trifle more exciting than the second. Everybody rolled way off form and it was a tossup which could do the worst. Forster, of Westfield, started in to break all records for low score. He broke in the first two frames, then followed three splits. He broke again on the sixth, being at that time nine behind his frame. The Westfield rooters were in dispair. Then Forster saved his reputation with four straight strikes giving him 157 on the windup. It was the finest recovery that has been made in the league.

Westfield was in the lead by 39 pins in the third, and then Cranford made a brace. Westfield was only twelve pins ahead in the fifth and sixth, but Forster's famous recovery sent Westfield way in the lead and there was no excitement after that.

The individual scores were as follows:

WESTFIELD CLUB.	1st game.	2d game.	3d game.
Forster	128	163	157
Condit	180	168	170
W. S. Smith	168	143	168

TREASURER MILLER ARRESTED.

He is Accused of Misappropriating a Draft for $341.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Orange, Jan. 13.—Hamilton Miller, until recently the treasurer of the Niles Tool Manufacturing Company, of 188 Liberty street, New York, which is interested in the Pond Tool Machine Company, of Plainfield, was arrested here last night by Detective Drabell, of Orange, and turned over to Rutherford authorities on a charge of forgery and embezzlement. It is alleged that on October 4th he received a draft from W. R. Kimball for $341.41, payable to the tool company and forged the President's signature. He then deposited the draft to his own credit in the Rutherford National Bank. He has drawn against the credit until he has a balance of only fourteen cents in the bank. Two other drafts aggregating $700 are also missing, but the company has not charged Miller with misappropriating the funds. In November Miller was deposed as treasuerer and made secretary of the company and he then resigned and moved here with his wife.

THREE YEARS FOR BIGAMIST BLACKFORD

The Plainfielder's Duplicity Punished by Judge Vail.

STRONG PLEA FOR MERCY.

JUDGE CODDINGTON MADE THE BEST OF HIS ARGUMENT.

Strong Petition Read to the Court—Prosecutor English Arraigned the Prisoner in Scathing Terms—Blackford Appeared Composed Through the Trying Ordeal He Was Subjected to.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 13.—Evidently reconciled to the fate that was in store for him when he pleaded guilty to the charge of bigamy, John L. Blackford was brought into court this morning at 10:30 o'clock to have sentence passed upon him by Judge Vail. The court room was well filled with persons having business there or had put in an appearance out of curiosity in the Blackford case.

Blackford was brought in looking worried, but composed in manner. During his incarceration he has grown a beard, which gives him quite a changed appearance. He looked neat in his dress, wearing the black Prince Albert coat in which he was married to Miss Morgan of Westfield. Though the object of gaze from all in the court room, he kept his eyes straight ahead, only once or twice lifting his eyebrows to glance at either Judge Coddington when he was making a plea for mercy for the prisoner or at Prosecutor English, when the latter was delivering a scathing arraignment of Blackford.

When the prisoner was brought in Judge Coddington arose and said that while he recognized that the court had a duty to perform, he trusted that leniency and mercy would be shown towards the prisoner. Notwithstanding that physicians had declared that the prisoner was insane, Mr. Coddington said that it appeared to him that no man could have been in his right mind and have committed the offence of bigamy in such a bold way as the defendant had. While he might be perfectly sane at the time the examination was made, Mr. Coddington held that the course of events in his case showed that at the time the illegal marriage was performed there was every evidence that the defendant was mentally unbalanced. There was nothing in his conduct then that led to the presumption that he tried to be a cute criminal, so the lawyer argued.

After this juncture Judge Coddington presented the affidavit of Justice Collins, of Westfield, in which the latter stated his belief that during last summer, when Blackford was associated with him in work, he often acted in an irrational manner, and believed him to be mentally unbalanced. Judge Coddington also presented the petition asking for clemency which had been secured by Mrs. Blackford, No. 1. It contained the names of nearly every city official, police force, several physicians and ministers and nearly all the business men of Plainfield.

In closing his remarks, Judge Coddington made a touching appeal in behalf of the wife, by whom the lawyer had been engaged. He said that it was she who would suffer most for the punishment that the prisoner would receive. She was without support herself, and no friends to whom she could appeal.

Prosecutor English's remarks were not extensive, but they were sharp and withering to the prisoner. He said that inasmuch as the prisoner had pleaded guilty all the facts in the case had not come to the attention of the Court. "The offense of which the prisoner is guilty was not committed in a sudden impulse, but was a cold-blooded and deliberate proceeding," said the Prosecutor. He related the circumstances that Blackford paid assidious court to Miss Morgan, and so open and bold was his conduct that suspicion of his acts was warded off. He described as "cold blooded villainy" the way in which Blackford joked with his first wife over the newspaper accounts of the wedding at Westfield for the purpose of deluding her. "He did this act to satisfy his unbridled passion," declared the Prosecutor, "and deliberately and maliciously ruined the honor and happiness of two women."

Commanding the prisoner to stand, Judge Vail addressed him seriously and quietly. He said that the extreme punishment for the crime was ten years in State prison and $1,000 fine. But in view of the fact that the prisoner had saved the county the expense of a trial by pleading guilty, and

GOLF CLUB CONCERT.

Entertainment for Benefit of Park Golf Club Was a Success—Held Last Night.

The first of the series of entertainments for the benefit of the Park Club was held in the Park Club house last evening and proved very successful. The entertainers were from the New York Musical Club and they rendered a delightful programme of instrumental and vocal music. There was a fair attendance.

The programme that was published in these columns was followed and all the numbers were well received. The instrumental duets by Messrs. Willard and Bartlett were particularly fine, although the entire programme was very creditably given.

HONORED HER MEMORY.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. ARTHUR L. TITSWORTH HELD.

An Effective Service Held at the Home of Mr. Titsworth — Beautiful Floral Tributes—Selections by a Quartette.

A large number of friends and relatives assembled at the home of Arthur L. Titsworth, 415 West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon to pay their last homage to the memory of Mrs. Titsworth, whose sudden death a few days ago was such a shock to the community. Rev. Arthur E. Main, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, conducted the services, and read appropriate Scripture selections, and Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, where Mr. Titsworth has been organist for the past eighteen years, assisted by offering prayer.

Remarks concerning the life of the departed were made by Rev. Dr. Rice, pastor of a Presbyterian church at Newark. Dr. Rice was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Syracuse, into which Mrs. Titsworth was received as a member, and he was pastor at the time she was received.

He spoke in the highest terms of Mrs. Titsworth, of her great devotion to her church. He told of her work in the church, and of her noble and pure life, and dwelt upon her many excellent qualities known to him as a pastor. He offered touching words of sympathy and comfort to the bereaved husband and pointed him to the Heavenly Father who alone could give the divine comfort so much needed at this time.

Very effective was the singing by a quartettee, composed of Miss Etta Krymer, Miss Nan Randolph, E. E. Runyon, of this city, and Robert Gordon, of Boston, Mass. They sang "Asleep in Jesus," and "The Christian's Good Night," and Mr. Gordon sang affectively Rodney's "Calvary."

The floral tributes were beautiful, the predominating color being pink, a favorite with Mrs. Titsworth. There were many bouquets of choice roses and one handsome wreath of galax leaves and roses tied with ribbon. This came from the choir and consistory of Trinity Reformed church, where Mr. Titsworth is the organist.

Interment was at Hillside, where the remains were placed in the receiving vault for the present.

BOLD THIEVES ROB A DEPOT.

Carry off Furnishings at Westfield While the Agent is on Duty.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 13—Some one is evidently trying to furnish a house at the expense of the Jersey Central road. A little over a month ago an arm chair and the Persian rug off the floor of women's waiting-room were stolen from the Westfield depot. They were taken in the early evening, while the depot was brilliantly lighted, and the agent was in the ticket office in the next room.

Thursday night some one entered the woman's waiting room and removed a large mirror from the toilet room. In order to get away with it, it was necessary to unscrew the iron brackets that held it to the wall. This was also done while the depot and platforms were brilliantly lighted and there is no inkling as to who is the expert.

Shot Out His Friend's Eye.

Albert Sandord, of Elizabeth avenue, Newark, was shooting muskrats near Waverly with Henry Chandler yesterday afternoon, when Chandler's gun was accidentally discharged. The shot tore out Sanford's left eye and filled the left side of his face with shot. Sanford was taken to St. Barnabas's Hospital. He may die.

The Turkey Will be There.

The American bird, the turkey, will be a prominent figure at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday and Friday evenings, January 25th and 26th, when the annual turkey supper will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society. Don't forget the date.

BUYING ON MARGIN IS BAD AS POKER PLAYING

Many Plainfielders Indulge in the Former Game of Chance.

ALWAYS LOOKING FOR TIPS.

BUTTONHOLE NEW YORK BROKERS ON THE WAY TO BUSINESS.

Invest All the Money They Can Rake and Scrape Together and Sink it Like All the "Lambs" Who Try to Make a Big Strike in the Deals That Are Made in Wall Street.

A party of Plainfielders, speaking about the number of "poker" joints in this city a few days ago, had occasion to remark that in their opinion they were no worse than the business carried on by some Plainfielders who are making a practice of playing the markets in New York. Some of these people, and there are a number in private life, are constantly putting up all the money they can borrow, beg and scrape to buy stock of one kind and another in the hope that some day they will make a strike. The party who was referring to this matter said that he knew of a number of Plainfielders who gamble in this way every day, and some of them are high in church circles.

While he did not uphold poker playing, he thought that the gambling carried on by these private individuals in playing the markets was equally as bad. The persons who are quietly playing the markets are simply infatuated with it and nothing could induce them to stop. They constantly see the various brokers living in this city who do business in New York, and thereby hope to get private tips on various kinds of stock.

These people can be seen at the North Avenue station buttonholing the various brokers for this purpose, and it is sometimes amusing to see the latter dodging these would-be speculators in their endeavors to escape them and thus be spared the bother and trouble caused by this "peanut-stand" method of doing business.

On the other hand it has been a custom for sometime past for certain brokers to keep their eyes open for this class of people and try if possible to get them to invest their money on a "dead sure thing." It is not often that the novice makes a strike, but then he becomes infatuated and he is led on until he becomes what he thinks a thoroughbred speculator, and in order to keep the thing a going he borrows from his friends and does all in his power to collect a few dollars confidently hoping that he will make a big strike, but, alas, the big pile never comes his way.

JUST BEYOND A HUNDRED.

Columbus Drake Died Eleven Days After His Birthday.

Columbus Drake, the oldest resident of Monmouth county, died at his home at Matawan Thursday. He was one hundred years old January 1st. Death was caused by the breaking down of his system, due to old age.

Mr. Drake was hale and hearty until a short time ago, and for several years had lived in hope that he would pass the century mark. He was a native of Ireland. He had been a resident of New Jersey since 1852. He never married, and for many years lived with an only sister, who is herself nearing the century mark.

Elizabeth Banks Profiting.

The banks in Elizabeth are reaping a benefit from the closing of the Union County Bank of Rahway. The business men of Rahway must have banking facilities until such time as a new bank is formed in Rahway, and Elizabeth is the nearest place for them to go to, and the First National Bank and the Citizens' Bank of Elizabeth, owing to their proximity to the Pennsylvania Railroad station, are getting the bulk of the Rahway depositors.

ACROSS THE TUGELA

Buller Executes a Successful Flank Movement.

IMPORTANT NEWS EXPECTED SOON.

Death List at Ladysmith Growing Because of Insanitary Conditions—Death of the Duke of Ava Confirmed.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—General Buller's 28 words announcing his forward movement of Thursday are interpreted as meaning that he has passed around the western end of the Boer lines at Colenso and is now several miles behind them and within 14 miles of General White's outposts at Ladysmith. The Boers, a few days ago, had forces with guns at Springfield, where General Buller dates his dispatch. These commandos have been obviously dislodged either by fighting or by maneuvers, the Boers retiring across the Tugela as General Buller advanced.

From General Buller's dispatch, coupled with the fact that unofficial intelligence from the seat of war has virtually ceased since Monday, the deduction is drawn that important operations are in progress, as he cannot move far without going against the Boer intrenchments.

The death lists from enteric fever and dysentery at Ladysmith, averaging from eight to ten daily, are considered more serious than the 420 casualties of Saturday's fight, as they indicate the frightfully insanitary condition of the beleaguered town. A letter from Ladysmith, dated Dec. 7, says that even then 90 out of 540 men in the battalion of which the writer was a member were sick with dysentery or enteric fever, and according to a dispatch to The Daily Chronicle, dated Jan. 8, the patients and attendants in Lombi camp, where the hospital is, then numbered 2,800.

The war office has the following dispatch from General Buller, dated Springfield, Jan. 11, 9:20 p. m.:

"I occupied the south bank of the Tugela river at Potgieter's drift this morning and seized the pont. The river is in flood. The enemy is strongly intrenched about four and a half miles to the north."

General Buller's movement obviously is of a flanking character, but whether it is intended to push the advance home or whether his operations are only a feint to cover an attack in force on the Boer position at Hlangwana mountain remains to be seen.

Springfield, where General Buller's dispatch was sent from, is 16 miles west of Frere. The last news from Springfield was that it was held by the Johannesburg corps, under General Ben Viljoen, and that the Boers had big guns in position at Potgieter's drift, apparently six or eight miles north of Springfield and across the Big Tugela. The possession of the drift and the pont is regarded as of great importance.

It is reported here that General Buller submitted his plan of campaign to Lord Roberts immediately after the latter landed and that Roberts sanctioned it.

The war office announces that the British casualties at Ladysmith Jan. 6 among the rank and file were 135 killed and 242 wounded.

The Daily Telegraph has the following dispatch, dated Jan. 9, from Frere Camp:

"A heavy storm has been raging all night, but there is every prospect that it will continue. The roads are impassable and the rivers and spruits are full.

"There has been no firing at Ladysmith or Colenso. The trenches must be filled with water. The Boers are holding Mount Hlangwano, but they are certainly quite isolated, as their bridge over the Tugela must have been carried away."

The report of the death of the Earl of Ava is officially confirmed. He died without regaining consciousness.

An apparently well informed correspondent of The Morning Post says:

"The Boer strength, originally 83,000 men, is now heavily augmented by Cape Colonists, and the enemy's fighting forces may be estimated fairly at 100,000 men and 206 guns. The Boers are not compelled to guard their communications. Their grass is good, the crops are growing, vegetables, cattle and sheep are plenty, and game is abundant."

Missionary to Cuba.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—Bishop Ozi W. Whitaker of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania has left here for New York, from whence he sails for Havana. He is accompanied by his wife and the Rev. Dr. Powers of the general church missionary board. Bishop Whitaker has under his control the missionary schools of the Protestant Episcopal church established in Cuba, and he intends to make a thorough survey of the ground already gone over and that is yet to be covered. Under the changed condition of the government of Cuba he feels that missionary work there will be more fruitful than heretofore. The bishop intends to spend a month or more on the island.

Knitting Mills Sold.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The most important transfer that has taken place here in many years was that of yesterday, when Charles Bailey & Sons of Little Falls purchased outright the site, building and plant of the long established Dunn, Smith & Co. knitting mills, employing 150 hands. The Baileys are the pioneers of the knit underwear business in the Mohawk valley, the father having come to Little Falls from England a half century ago and establishing what developed into the Little Falls Knitting company, employing from 400 to 600 hands.

McCoy Gets Decision From Choynski.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—At the Broadway Athletic club last night Kid McCoy got the decision over Joe Choynski in a bout which lasted three rounds. Choynski would have had the fight in the second round were it not for an accident as to time keeping. He simply made a monkey of McCoy in the second round and floored the Kid four times, but the timekeeper pulled the bell as McCoy was counted for the limit of ten seconds, and this saved the Kid from absolute defeat.

Shot by a Drunken Man.

DUBOIS, Pa., Jan. 13.—Robert Kane, 20 years of age, shot and instantly killed Steve Carri, about the same age, in the Hotel Lafayette at Driftwood Thursday night. Carri was sitting in the hotel office when Kane came in intoxicated. A dispute arose, and Kane drew a revolver and fired, the ball taking effect in Carri's head, and he fell to the floor dead. Kane fled, but was arrested at his home and is now in the county jail at Emporium.

A ST. LOUIS ROW.

Citizens Seek a Reason For Neglect of City to Furnish Light.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—When the members of the house of delegates met at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, citizens assembled at the doors and tried to gain admittance. The doors were locked, and none but members of the house were admitted.

The galleries were filled with city hall employees, and the committee of prominent business men appointed at Thursday's mass meeting to inquire into the neglect of the house of delegates to furnish light for the parks, alleys and city institutions could not enter there.

Sergeant-at-Arms Weeke guarded the door to the chamber. He opened the door to admit a member, and the crowd surged forward, trying to rush in. Weeke drew a revolver and drove the crowd back.

A squad of police arrived and were posted about the door. When order had been restored, the committee of citizens, headed by ex-Governor Stanard, was admitted. Following the entry of the committee somebody threw a noosed rope through the door.

The speaker called the house to order, and Delegate Albright moved to exclude all but members of the house and working newspaper representatives from the floor. The motion was warmly debated, but was finally withdrawn.

The house then proceeded to business and gave the committee of citizens a hearing.

BACK FROM CUBA.

Prospectors Return, With Little to Say About La Gloria.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The Cuban Land and Steamship company's steamer Yarmouth has arrived from Nuevitas, Cuba, in ballast with 16 passengers. Listed on the steamer's passenger list are ten merchants, one salesman, three clerks, one manager, one laborer and one female passenger. Nearly all the passengers are prospectors who went to Nuevitas on the Yarmouth to investigate the conditions of the new colony about to be established at La Gloria, situated about five miles from the coast. About 200 colonists have already landed at Nuevitas, where much dissatisfaction is reported to prevail.

Owing to the poor roads and the tedious means of reaching the new colony only three of the Yarmouth's passengers succeeded in reaching La Gloria, and these, on being interviewed at quarantine, were very reticent as to their experiences. They state, however, that the company's land is excellent, but the lack of a good road is a great drawback to the development of the colony. The colonists waiting at Nuevitas will be apt to suffer from the scarcity of provisions, which are very expensive. The returning passengers speak highly of their treatment on board the company's steamer.

The Yarmouth was met at quarantine on her arrival by several representatives of the company. They refused to talk for publication.

THE SIBERIAN RAILWAY.

Reconstruction Necessary Before It Will Be of Value.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Before the completion of the Siberian railroad it has become necessary to reconstruct the work already done, and this will cost not less than $25,000,000. The information is supplied to the state department by Commercial Agent Greener at Vladivostok. His report, compiled from Russian sources, shows a curious condition of affairs on the road. In the haste of construction and the anxiety to get everything cheap the road was laid with a 12 pound rail instead of a 24 pound rail. The bridges were built of wood, and crossings were made far apart. Consequently more than 20 miles an hour cannot be made on the level with safety.

Only one passenger and two freight trains a day are run. To add to the danger there has been put on the line one of the heaviest engines in existence—the compound system. The light rails, the steep inclines and the high gradings combined make traveling risky. On steep inclines, owing to the light rails, the heavy engine cannot be held, and running at a speed of 33 miles an hour turns the rails out. Therefore it has been concluded that the road must be reconstructed on broader lines.

More Coal Miners Discharged.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Jan. 13.—One hundred and thirty additional miners employed in the collieries of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company have been discharged for failing to report for work on Wednesday. One hundren men were previously discharged for the same reason. All of the discharged miners attended the funeral of a miner who was killed in one of the collieries and who was a member of two beneficial societies to which the discharged men belonged. The mine officials state that they have no objection to the men going to funerals of employees killed at the mine where they are employed, but will not allow workmen from four collieries to cease work and thus cripple the operation of all of them.

More Land Discovered.

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—A remarkable discovery has been made by Hon. Verplanck Colvin of the state land surveys. In recent surveys made in ascertaining the boundary line between Herkimer and Hamilton counties he found that the state owns between 800 and 900 acres of valuable Adirondack forest lands in Hamilton county, though the state authorities were not aware of the fact.

Ice Cutting Under Way.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Ice cutting is under way in different parts of Rockland county, the ice averaging from 7 to 10 inches in thickness. A good cut is indicated, unless the warm spell continues for several days. The Consolidated Ice company expects to commence cutting at Rockland lake in a few days, although its houses are still nearly full of ice harvested last winter.

Dewey Prefers May.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Mayor Harrison has received from Admiral Dewey a letter stating it was the admiral's desire that his visit to Chicago be in May instead of September, as requested by the arrangements committee of the G. A. R. The admiral said he favored that date because of other engagements he had in this territory about the time set for the Chicago celebration.

MORA TAKES A FALL

Fiscal of Supreme Court In Havana Deposed.

GENERAL WOOD ACTS QUICKLY.

Mora Largely Responsible For Delays In Bringing Prisoners to Justice and Blocking Prosecution of Custom House Officials.

HAVANA, Jan. 13.—"Federico Mora, fiscal of the supreme court, is hereby removed from office for the good of the public service. This removal is the result of an investigation into the conditions existing in the administration of justice under his supervision."

The foregoing official order was handed to Senor Mora yesterday by Governor General Wood. Senor Mora's fall has been predicted ever since the first case was brought against the custom house officials, and the disgraceful condition of the prisons, especially as affecting those awaiting trial, has been generally charged against him. For some time it has been said that Mora has been devoting too much attention to social affairs and too little to his duties. General Wood's investigation has shown that the office of the supreme court fiscal is largely responsible for a number of the untried cases and that not only Mora, but others in the department of justice, have been persistently trying to block the charges against customs officials whom Collector Bliss is anxious to prove guilty of wholesale bribery and corruption.

Every possible influence has been exerted to protect the incriminated men from receiving punishment which is their due, but the public has scarcely been willing to believe that high officials of the rank of Mora have been implicated. Mora's letter to the supreme court regarding the custom house fraud cases under trial, which has already been cabled, was only the last straw. His dismissal had been decided upon some days before.

Senor Estevez, secretary of justice, had a long consultation with the governor general before final action was taken. Both agreed that the letter, published without the authority of the members of the government of which he was a part, was published through a real desire to thwart justice, although there was a superficial attempt to make it appear that the civil authority was being overturned by the military.

The Kentucky Muddle.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 13.—The Republican leaders insist on the claim that the contestants for state offices must receive a majority in each branch of the legislature instead of a majority of a joint assembly, as claimed by the Democrats, and this is another of the questions which may have to go to the courts. If the Republican contention is sustained, it is admitted Goebel would be in exceedingly close lines in the senate. The latest poll of that body by the Republicans is that it contains at least five anti-Goebel Democrats, and Senator Hill (Dem.) is ill at home, with little prospect of getting here during the session. With Hill and Goebel not voting, the Goebel senators under these circumstances would be in a minority. The Goebel leaders claim telegraphic advices from counties in the eastern part of the state that military companies in that section are being equipped to come to Frankfort next week.

Rural Free Delivery a Success.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 13.—Postmaster Harry G. Smith has sent to the postoffice department at Washington his report upon the first year of rural free delivery in Chester county. The system covers the country surrounding West Chester for about nine miles in every direction, and, according to Mr. Smith's report, has been a pronounced success. The cost to the government for this service has been $2,400 and the revenues $3,531, leaving a balance in favor of the government of $1,131. Six suburban carriers are required for the work.

Canal Bill Reported.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce has ordered a favorable report on the Hepburn bill for the construction of the Nicaragua canal. The bill is practically the same one reported by this committee in the last congress. There was some discussion about the advisability of delaying action on the bill until the isthmian canal commission reported, but this was finally regarded as unnecessary, and all the members except Mr. Fletcher of Minnesota voted to report the bill favorably.

Over $80,000 For Lawton Fund.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—General Corbin announces that the subscriptions to the Lawton fund have reached the handsome figure of $80,101, being an increase of nearly $8,000 since the last report. Yesterday's subscriptions included one of $6,595 from the members of the Union League club of New York, which is in addition to subscriptions sent to Washington direct by members of the club amounting to $10,222.

To Aid Beet Sugar Industry.

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—Assemblyman Rogers of Broome will early next week introduce a bill appropriating $125,000 for the promotion of beet sugar culture. Last year's appropriation was $30,000, but there was an unexpended balance of $60,000 available, which gave $90,000 for the work. There is $20,000 of this amount still unexpended, which, with the appropriation to be asked for, will make $145,000 available this year.

A Kentucky Minister's Crime.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Jan. 13.—The Rev. Wesley Hall, at Hindman, Knott county, is reported to have shot and killed Mrs. Lucinda Isaacs, a sister of his dead wife, and then to have shot himself in the abdomen. Physicians say he will recover. The cause was Mrs. Isaac's refusal of his offer of marriage.

Brisk Seat Sale In Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 13.—The opening sale of seats for the engagement of Henry Irving at the Alvin theater next week was the largest ever held in Pittsburg. The line extended for more than a block from the theater, and in the first 12 hours $8,400 was taken in at the box office.

Tenth Cavalry Distributed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The war department is informed that the squadron of the Tenth cavalry which recently arrived at Galveston from Cuba has been distributed among Forts McIntosh, Clark, Brown and Ringgold, Tex., and has probably arrived at those posts.

CHRISTIANS SCORED.

Malietoa Tanus Harsh on Samoan Missionaries.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Malietoa Tanus, in his letter to the London Times, published today, inclosing copies of the protests he addressed to the United States, Great Britain and Germany against the Samoan treaties, characterizes the partition of Samoa as a gross violation of the treaties and as a crime against the law of nations only equal to the dismemberment of Poland, Denmark and France. He thinks that if it is necessary for the great powers to promote wars and annexations to distract the minds of the peoples then The Hague conference was the greatest farce of the century.

The writer also asserts that the civilization introduced by the great powers in their annexations in the south seas, Africa and elsewhere is inferior to the primitive state of the countries stolen, leading to war through breach of faith on the part of the government officials and to the decimating of the peoples by contagious diseases and spirituous liquors.

He continues: "The missionaries who graced our country with their holy or unholy presence introduced the same religious differences and hatreds against each other as pertained at the hour in civilized states. The missionaries live in palatial concrete houses, with all the luxuries their countries can afford, and charge us for Bibles and prayer books which, we understand, are sent as free offerings."

Malietoa Tanus further charges the missionaries with extracting all the money possible from them, in return for which they only receive a Bible, a prayer book or a "Pilgrim's Progress." He instances the Wesleyan missionaries with collecting £20,000 at a single meeting at Tonga, adding:

"The missionaries aroused a great spirit of emulation, telling the natives that the largest givers would be the most acceptable in the sight of God, thus reversing the spirit of the widow's mite."

The Samoan chief concludes, "These be thy Gods, O Israel!"

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A fire in Colorado Springs destroyed property estimated at $150,000.

The village of Navesink Highlands, N. J., was partially destroyed by fire.

An epidemic of influenza has broken out in Berlin, and scores of deaths are already reported.

Lewis E. Goldsmith was sentenced to eight years in Sing Sing prison for wrecking the Port Jervis National bank.

A national bank in Owensville, Ind., was robbed of $15,000. The blowing open of the safe completely wrecked the building.

Mrs. B. A. Price, the mother-in-law of Attorney General John W. Griggs, died at Mr. Griggs' home in Paterson, N. J., aged 66.

Storm Blocks a Railway.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 13.—As the result of a number of washouts on the Groton extension of the Consolidated railroad, caused by the heavy rains of Thursday night, traffic over this division was entirely suspended yesterday, and it will take thousands of dollars to permanently repair the roadbed. The line runs from New London to Norwich, a distance of 14 miles, and ten different places were washed out, any one of which would cause a suspension of traffic. The most severe washout was just east of the Thames river bridge and extended beyond the navy yard, a distance of a mile and a half. When the situation was discovered, arrangements were at once made to run the trains over the Central Vermont tracks.

Cleveland's Duck Hunting Party.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 13.—A special from Georgetown, S. C., says: "Ex-President Cleveland, Commodore E. C. Benedict, Captain Robley D. Evans, U. S. N., and a party of friends arrived yesterday in their private car and went down into the Santee Gun club reserves for a week's sport shooting ducks and other game. General Wade Hampton of Columbia joined the party."

Man Frozen to Death.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 13.—A heavy snowstorm visited this section during Thursday night. The following morning Peter Ebee, 60 years old, was found frozen to death on the road entering Rensselaer Falls. He was going to his sister's house and was overtaken by the storm. He was found in front of his sister's place on his hands and knees, nearly covered with snow.

Ten Years Without Speaking.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 13.—Frederick Richardson, aged 62 years, for 21 years a city charge, is dead at the almshouse. In one respect the man's case is the most peculiar ever brought to the attention of the authorities. For over ten years he had refused to talk, and his keepers believe that during that period he had not uttered a syllable. He broke his long silence just before death.

Two Stores Burned.

SARATOGA, Jan. 13.—At Rock City Falls, Saratoga county, yesterday, the store of Jedediah Kilmer, including the postoffice, and the store of Charles G. Jones were burned. The buildings were owned by the Pergament company. Loss $5,000; partly insured.

Crispi's Son a Convict.

ROME, Jan. 13.—Luigi Crispi, son of Signor Francisco Crispi, the distinguished Italian statesman and former premier, has been sentenced to four years' imprisonment for the theft of jewelry from the Countess Cellere in April of 1896.

THAT'S THE IDEA!
You ought to see what we can do for you before doing anything for yourself. Painting depends upon the paint and the painter. Better preparations than ours were never put on by a brush. Wherever paint is put, it should be put there to stay long enough to make it worth while to do the job. The warring elements have no effect on our durable mixtures.

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

Year's Trade Begins Well, Wages Increase, Money Market Easy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The business of the new year begins well, though there is still much of the usual hesitation. In branches where last year's business was extraordinary and prices have risen greatly some pause is natural, though nothing indicates decrease of consuming disposition or purchasing power, but there is continuing rise in wages to promote increase. Monetary conditions have grown easier with the return of $4,000,000 from the interior during the week, and further deposits by the treasury and more liquidation in some speculative stocks have also helped.

Stocks have grown weaker in spite of the progress of combinations which promise great things for trunk lines. The speculative tone has been largely influenced by London selling, having for basis a belief that foreign unloading must lower prices here as long as British reverses in South Africa continue.

The furnaces in blast Jan. 1 were producing weekly 294,186 tons of pig iron against 296,959 Dec. 1, but as several had stopped only for the holidays and others had started the output now is probably larger than at either date. It exceeds consumption at last.

Wheat has been slow to move. Atlantic exports in two weeks having been only 4,376,514 bushels, flour included, against 9,452,106 last year, and Pacific 1,312,993 against 1,524,051 last year. The price closes a fraction higher. Corn receipts have also fallen below last year's, though the exports in two weeks have been 7,331,988 bushels against 7,199,913 last year, and prices have advanced about half a cent.

Failures for the week have been 274 in the United States against 318 last year, and 25 in Canada against 24 last year.

THE CLARK TRIAL.

Senate Committee Hears More Testimony In Bribery Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—There were again four or five witnesses before the senate committee on privileges and elections yesterday in connection with the attack upon the right of Senator Clark of Montana to retain his seat in the senate. One of the witnesses, State Senator Myers, produced a letter from C. W. Clark, son of the senator, telling him (Myers) he had forwarded $500 as a retainer for him as attorney in connection with the local interests of the Clarks. A dentist named Ector also displayed letters from Senator Clark himself referring to Mr. W. M. Bickford as a representative of his and saying that while he (Clark) knew nothing of Ector's claims for services, his policy was to remunerate all who served him.

Probably the most important witness of the day was H. H. Garr, a member of the legislature who had voted for Mr. Clark for the senate. He is one of the men in whose name money was turned over to the state. Mr. Garr said that while this money, $5,000 in $1,000 bills, had been shown to him by Mr. Whiteside and he had marked the envelope containing it, Mr. Whiteside had not said anything to him about voting for Mr. Clark.

Li Hung Chang's Advancement.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 13.—A telegram from Peking just before the steamer sailed from Yokohama announced that Tank Chung Lun, commander in chief of the two kwang, had been summoned to Peking and that Li Hung Chang had been appointed to succeed him. It is said that Li Hung Chang's resignation of the office of minister of commerce and his appointment to the more important posts of commander in chief and viceroy is due to Russian representations at the Chinese capital.

A Negro Shooter Shot.

NORFOLK, Jan. 13.—An insane negro named Rix, living in Southampton county, shot and instantly killed Mills Rayford, a Quaker preacher, and slightly wounded Thomas Hall and George Bradshaw, farmers. The shooting was done without apparent provocation. A posse was organized and pursued Rix. He was overtaken, but resisted arrest, firing upon his pursuers, wounding one or two before he fell pierced by several bullets. He lived only a few minutes.

Chicago Millionaire's Will.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The will of E. J. Lehmann, the pioneer department store man in Chicago, has been filed for probate. He left an estate valued in the instrument at $6,076,000. Of this $3,526,000 is in personal property and $2,550,000 in real estate. The will was written Feb. 22, 1886, four years and three months before Mr. Lehmann was adjudged insane.

ALL ON BOARD LOST.

Appalling Disaster Off the Newfoundland Coast.

VESSEL WRECKED AND BURNED.

Went Ashore In St. Mary's Bay, and Not a Soul on Board Was Saved—Much Wreckage Washed Ashore.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 13.—The following comprise all the details regarding the wreck in St. Mary's bay that could be obtained up to midnight:

The ship is a two masted steamer of nearly 3,000 tons and probably carried a crew of 60, with possibly some passengers. She went ashore before daybreak on Thursday, striking a ledge at the foot of the cliff, where escape was hopeless. The crew launched the boats, but probably during the panic some were crushed against her sides, others being swamped and all the occupants apparently perishing.

The ship was seen to be on fire by residents six miles away. Attracted to the scene, they found the after half of the wreck blazing fiercely and the fore part under water. Kerosene in the cargo helped the blaze.

At that time only three men were left on board. Two were on the bridge, and one was in the rigging. Those on the bridge were safe until about 2 p. m., when they were washed overboard and drowned, the bridge being carried away. The other survivor left the rigging, swam to the rocks and twice endeavored to get a footing. Failing in this, he made his way back to the rigging, where he died of exposure during the night.

Many dead bodies are visible tossing in the surf. Two of them are thrown up in a cove, but cannot be reached owing to the heavy sea. One is thought to be the body of a woman.

Boats and other wreckage are strewn among the rocks for miles. Yesterday was more stormy than the day before, and it was impossible to reach the wreck, which has gone to pieces to such an extent that it has sunk beneath the waves. A severe gale is raging tonight, which is likely to reduce her to fragments.

The wreck commissioner hopes to be able to obtain her name today. Residents along the shore made every possible effort to rescue the survivor in the rigging; but, lacking proper outfits, they were unable to succeed.

There is not the slightest prospect that any soul on board escaped death, as the intense midwinter cold would kill any who escaped drowning.

A messenger who has just arrived from Peter's river reports that a trunk filled with women's clothing has been washed ashore there, as well as a garment which is either a waterproof cape, such as would be used by a woman, or a man's overcoat. Nearby was found some underwear, evidently a man's, marked with the initials "J. J." This seems to indicate that the ship had passengers.

Not a Passenger Steamer Wreck.

HALIFAX, Jan. 13.—A dispatch received from St. John's, N. F., says it is thought the steamer ashore at St. Mary's bay is an oil tank vessel and not a passenger steamer, as supposed at first. It was reported here that the steamer ashore was the Glencoe, which left here on Tuesday, but the agents here of the Plant line discredit the report.

Lost Diamonds Returned.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—In answer to a newspaper advertisement for which she had been watching since Dec. 19, 1899, Mrs. Jansen of Kingston, N. Y., communicated with Miss Marie L. Brundage of 117 West Fifty-eighth street on Jan. 9 and informed her that her jewels, valued at more than $7,000, which had been lost on Dec. 19, 1899, would be returned. Mrs. Jansen said that she had found the gems near the entrance to a Sixth avenue dry goods store on the day they were lost. As she was pressing through the crowd an oblong, yellow article lying upon the sidewalk caught her attention. For the return of the lost property a reward of $1,000 had been offered. This Mrs. Jansen declined to accept. Miss Brundage, learning that there was a mortgage for $500 upon Mrs. Jansen's home in Kingston, finally persuaded her to accept that sum as a gift.

December Postal Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A statement of the gross postal receipts for December, 1899, as compared with the receipts for the same month during the preceding year, shows a net increase of $199,835, or 5 per cent. The total receipts for last December were $4,162,038. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Baltimore and Pittsburg all showed increases. San Francisco's receipts decreased 7.8 per cent. The largest percentage of increase shown was at Albany, 21.6 per cent. Decreases are shown at Providence, Lowell, Mass.; New Haven, Hartford, Peoria, Ills., and St. Joseph, Mo.

The Ferris Wheel.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Foreclosure proceedings have been begun against the famous Ferris wheel to collect $300,000 paid to the Ferris Wheel company by the holders of 300 bonds of the value of $1,000 each. At the time of the issuance of the bonds a trust deed was given on the wheel, its income and patents, as a guarantee of the payment of the bonds and the interest thereon until their maturity in February, 1898. It is alleged that a great deal of the interest is unpaid, and the bonds were not redeemed at their maturity.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 13.—S. W. Smith and Thomas Fagan of this city have been arrested on the charge of making counterfeit quarters and nickels. Smith has confessed his guilt and turned over to the officers dies which he used to make the spurious coin. Fagan was arrested as an accomplice. He has nothing to say. The arrest was made by Secret Service Agent R. S. Brown of Washington and Acting Sergeant Mitchell of the police force of Newport News.

Morrison Under Arrest.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Alfred Morrison, who shot and killed one of his wives, with whom he was living in Mount Vernon, is under arrest. Crowds waited around his house all day in anticipation of the arrest, and they followed Morrison, who was in charge of two detectives, to the courthouse, where he was arraigned and held for the grand jury on the charge of murder in the first degree.

"Justifiable Pri'e."

The Newark Evening News, one of the most evenly balanced and able newspapers of the country, and the peer of any journal published in New Jersey, which probably did more to elect Foster Voorhees Governor than any other medium, because it threw Essex county into the Republican column a year go—thus turning the tide against the Democrats—does not share in the jubilation that seems to fill the chief executive over the condition of the public treasury. The News speaks with force and truth when it says:

From one point of view the increase of $695,78.77 in the State's income for 1899 over that of 1898 merits the "justifiable pride" with which Gov. Voorhees refers to it in his message From another, it is not such a pleasing prospect. It is evident from the figures quoted by the Governor that the entire increase is found in the receipts of the Secretary of State's office and in the tax on miscellaneous corporations. That is to say, it is due to New Jersey's over-liberal corporation laws, which have made this State a trust and syndicate incubator and earned for it the contempt and scorn of a large portion of the people of the United States.

The Dey of Algiers, a century ago, might with equally "justifiable pride" have pointed to his overflowing treasury, made rich by the ravages of the piratical corsairs, which sailed under his flag and bore his commission.

The News offers a parallel to the Governor's "justifiable pride" that is at once apt and convincing—even though it is an unpleasant one. The Governor may have the party organs, which generally act in defense of any and everything done by one chosen from their own tribe, back of him in his views concerning the relation of the incorporation laws to the honor and probity of the State, but not so of the free and independent press, of which the Newark News is a shining example

The subordinates of Tammany Hall are reported to be in a quandary as to how to treat Col. William Jennings Bryan when he visits New York the latter part of this month, to begin a "swing around the circle" in the Eastern States. When Mr. Bryan visited New York a year ago he was ignored by the Tammany leaders, but since then Boss Croker has had several flattering things to say of the Nebraska man, but the boss is over in England nursing a broken leg and his assistants are a bit ticklish about extending the "glad hand" too warmly in his absence, lest he should disapprove. To all appearances Sir Richard has become a thorough convert to Mr. Bryan's position in public life, and if Tammany's welcome is extended with that idea in view everything will probably be serene when Croker hears from home.

The Philadelphia Times says that the suggestion by Professor Hadley, of Yale, that trusts may be cured and suppressed by the social ostricism of the trust promoters, will hardly do. The promoters are sufficiently numerous to form a society of their own, which so far as money goes would be "good society," and the members of which would represent every known interest. It would be a society, too, which the outsiders would struggle as hard as ever to enter.

Fifteen cents for each name enrolled is the estimated cost of taking the twelfth census. The compensation of the enumerators will not be less than two or more than three cents for each living inhabitant and for each death reported; not less than 15 nor more than 29 cents for each farm; not less than 20 nor more than 30 cents for each establishment or productive industry enumerated and returned, may be given in full compensation for all services.

When Governor Voorhees ignored partisan views and re-appointed Judge Lippincott to the Supreme Court, he did a graceful act that undoubtedly meets with the approval of Republicans as it won the gratitude of Democrats. Judge Lippincott went out of politics when he entered upon the bench, and therein he commands an exceptional respect from the people of the State.

The time for a merchant to quit advertising is when he wants to retire from business, truthfully says the Philadelphia Record. If the desire of the tradesmen be to keep his business active and pushing the assistance of a powerful trade-getting factor is indispensable. That factor is advertising. Permanent success without it is impossible.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest to Plainfield.

The rector of a church in Westfield, who received an annual salary of $1,200, has resigned to accept a charge in Baltimore, where the salary is only $500 and the work three times as hard. There is a man to whom Christianity means something.—Newark News.

William Jennings Bryan, in his prospective tour of New Jersey, expects to call on James E Martine, at Plainfield. Mr. Bryan in Plainfield will be "in the enemy's country" sure enough, and want's to keep a sharp lookout for Silas Dewey Drake. Should these two meet there would be a wordy tug of war worth hearing.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Among the visitors to Trenton last Tuesday was Joseph E. Crowell, editor of the Paterson Call, who told this story about the end of the century controversy:

"The other night a man called up our office on the 'phone and asked us to decide a bet as to when the nineteenth century ended. I told him that it went out with this year. He wanted to know my reason and I said to him:

"'Suppose a man owed you a dollar, would you be willing to take ninety-nine cents?'

"'Yes, and mighty glad to get it,' he fired back. "Of course, I couldn't continue the argument with a fellow like that."

Samuel Boss, who has just returned from the south, tells of the cold weather that has been experienced in Florida and other southern points. He says that in Florida, where he visited in the interest of some New York fruit dealers, the mercury went down to 18 above zero and that in some places snow fell to the depth of two or three inches. Fruit and vegetables have been frost bitten and in some cases the entire early crop has been ruined. Oranges and strawberries have been so blighted by the frost as to be completely ruined; at least this is true of the strawberry crop. It will be necessary to plant a second crop of tomatoes and many other kinds of vegetables. The cold weather has also occasioned a great amount of suffering among the poorer classes. The damage to the southern fruit crop has already sent up the price of strawberries to $1 25 a box, while tomatoes are very scarce. The extreme cold weather is the clodest that has been experienced in many years.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

J C. Lewis will make his initial bow to a Plainfield audience today at Music Hall, supported by a capable company in "Si Plunkard," which is a four-act comedy of New England farm life. The action of the piece opens on the farm of the Pages, at Fairview, Conn., which is invaded by Robert Denny, a bogus stock speculator, who has inveigled old Farmer Page into stock speculation and ruined him. He introduces the old farmer to an accomplice in the person of Moses Wilton. Felix Smart, a dutch inventor, appears on the scene, selling his ganzophone, and he and Si Plunkard, the farmer hero, become fast friends, and foil the villain and the willy Jew in their attempts to ruin the old farmer. During the action of the comedy a number of up to date specialities will be introduced by the big company of comedians.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 13.—There is considerable sentiment expressed in Dunellen in favor of the Boers, and any number of sympathizers can be found among the business men. It is possible that an effort may be made in the near future to hold a mass-meeting to express sympathy with these liberty-loving people. If a meeting is held there are many who would be pleased to have James E. Martine, the farmer orator, address the citizens and thoroughly enlighten them upon the Boer-British war.

A number of friends of Mrs. Jane Apgar were the guests at her home on Front street Thursday evening, the occasion being a birthday social. THE MAINE'S DEAD AT HOME.

The bodies of the victims of the Maine explosion are at rest in Arlington cemetery, Washington. The interment took place on Thursday, December 21, with appropriate ceremonies. It was peculiarly fitting that the battleship Texas, the sister ship of the Maine, commanded by Captain Sigsbee, who was the ill-fated ship's commander when she was destroyed, should bear the remains of the dead sailors from Havana to the United States. John P. Chidwick, who was the Maine's chaplain, rendered valuable service at the disinterment at Havana, in identifying the coffins as they were dug up.

ARE YOU SICK?

A sure cure for Bronchitis, Croup, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, Consumption or any disease of the lungs or throat. Medicine taken into the stomach will not cure these diseases, because it is impossible to reach the affected part through the stomach. Doctors know this.

These diseases are cured by

DOWNING'S CHLORIDES.

Why? Because it cures by inhalation and reaches the affected parts. Ten to thirty drops poured on a plate and allowed to evaporate gives you immediate relief, and every breath helps to cure. The cure is positive and quick. Downing's Chlorides are breathed naturally into the lungs and throat, and is a germicide which kills all microbes, the cause of all troubles of the lungs and throat. This cure is so simple as to be perfectly safe for the youngest infant or for the aged person. There is no apparatus, smoke or danger. Unlike medicine, it cannot upset the stomach and nerves. If you have any form of lung or throat trouble, we guarantee to cure you. It is recognized and recommended by eminent specialists as the proper treatment for lung and throat troubles.

A free trial will be given by applying to the regular physician in charge of the office at 241 West 51st St., New York City. Descriptive booklet will be mailed free.

EVA: Every afternoon about 5 o'clock I begin to gape and yawn and I yawn and gape and yawn till bed-time. If I nip one yawn in the bud the next follows almost immediately and is bound to be a regular jaw-breaker.

MAY: I had such an experience myself one time, and I remember asking the doctor whether one should try to keep from yawning, and he said no, that the act of gaping gives to the blood more oxygen and acts by mechanical pressure on the heart and lungs. If one has chronic gaping it is a symptom which should cause the affected one to look after her general health, for it is a sure sign that something is wrong.

MRS. MOORE: It is pretty well understood that yawning is an ailment that comes from indigestion or lack of tone in the system and may be cured by taking a Ripans Tabule before retiring. After a few days of this treatment the tendency will disappear.

A MATRIMONIAL MIX-UP

English Magistrates Insist on Making a Mystery of It.

A few more such matrimonial problems as that of which the Richmond, England, justices have patiently but vainly sought a solution would probably render an appointment on the Commission of the Peace a less coveted honor than it is at present. Mrs. Gibson a few weeks ago summoned her husband for arrears of maintenance under an order, and the defaulting Gibson pleaded that a former husband of his reputed wife—one Joe Boxall—was still living. At a subsequent hearing Samuel Boxall, a brother of Joe, appeared, and deposed that he had met him last spring.

At the next hearing, a day or two ago, a man claiming to be Joe Boxall himself entered the witness box and swore that he separated from his wife about twenty years ago, and had nearly ever since been living in France. Confronted with this witness, Mrs. Boxall stoutly affirmed that he was not Joe Boxall, but Joe's brother Tom, who, she said, had gone to Australia about the same time that her own husband went to France.

Other witnesses, however, swore positively to their recognition of him as the veritable Joseph whom they had known eighteen or twenty years ago, and Samuel Boxall, on being further interrogated, declared that Tom did not go to Australia until several years after Joe disappeared; that he was living eighteen months ago in Western Australia, when he had written to his brother Samuel, and added, by way of putting a final touch to the confusion, that Tom "had a wife of his own now living in Battersea."

On the other hand, there are undoubtedly weak points in the alleged Joseph's account of himself, for whereas Samuel had described him as able to write letters, and Mrs. Gibson's marriage certificate purported to bear his signature, he admitted in cross-examination that the noble art of penmanship was not included among his accomplishments. There was a considerable gap, too, in his French record which he at last endeavored to fill up by stating that he had been "in the ginger-beer department"—a ministry which is certainly not known in Paris by that name, though in the present state of effervescence over the "Affaire Dreyfus" it would be no unapt description of more than one official bureau.

In the result the bench declined to make the order applied for by Mrs. Gibson against her second husband; but "they did not otherwise express any opinion on the case." This decision seems to mean that though they cannot for the moment precisely indicate the persons liable for Mrs. Gibson's maintenance, they feel reasonably assured that he will ultimately be discovered somewhere or other among the crowd of Boxalls. No accounts are yet to hand of the condition of the magistrates since the last hearing of the case; but we should think it not improbable that some of them are suffering from acute headache.

His Hat Made of Spun Glass.

A guest at one of the leading New Orleans hotels put in an appearance in the office wearing a very peculiar looking hat, says the Times-Democrat. At first glance it seemed to be made of finely woven brown straw, but closer scrutiny showed that the material was evidently something else. It was passed around among a group of friends and they all took a guess. One thought it was prepared silk and another thought it was asbestos. "You are all wrong," said the gentleman, "it is made of spun glass. You can see it has considerable elasticity, and I fancy it would be about as hard to break as an ordinary panama. I value that hat chiefly as a curio," he continued, "for it is too hot to be worn with much comfort. It was made several years ago by an old Alsatian at Pittsburg, Pa., who invented a process for spinning and weaving glass, his idea being to produce a non-inflammable fabric for window curtains and other draperies. It was found, however, that the stuff couldn't be made attractive to the eye. It was too stiff and ungraceful, and the expense was prohibitive for theatrical drop-curtains—the one purpose to which it might have been adapted. Anyhow, he gave up the undertaking, and this hat was one of the last things he made. I had backed the enterprise to a small extent, so the hat stands me in about $1,100. It is the most expensive article of attire that I possess. I don't know anything about its acoustic properties, but I presume one might talk through it the same as through any other hat."

Her Crew Disabled by Lightning.

The American ship Sachem, which sailed from Philadelphia laden with kerosene oil, arrived at Shanghai after an eventful voyage. Before reaching Hong Kong her master died and was buried at sea. In Formosa channel after leaving Hong Kong she had a most trying experience. She only missed the tail end of a typhoon, and then a tremendous thunderstorm came up. It gathered so quickly and quietly that the officers and crew bent their combined energies toward taking in canvass. The seas rolled so high and the ship pitched so fearfully that it was feared she would sink. To cap the climax her foremast was struck by lightning. The immense stick was splintered, and pieces of mast and rigging went flying over the ship. Over half of her crew were knocked insensible by the lightning, and for a number of hours the ship drifted about at the mercy of the storm. Her new mate, secured in Hong Kong, suffered the worst of all, and was believed to be dead for six hours. Two members of the crew thought him still alive, and were determined to resuscitate him. By vigorous rubbing and pouring brandy down his throat he was finally brought to.

Minus White.

Minus White of Twenty-second street and Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia, a gayly dressed colored man, created quite a sensation in North Penn village by displaying a roll of notes, which appeared to amount to nearly $2,000, and frequently pulling a $2 or $5 note from the bunch and lighting his cigar with it. At the Lehigh avenue station it was found that with the exception of $8 in genuine $1 bills, the supposed money was Confederate notes, which White had found in an old house in the neighborhood.

JUST ONE GIRL.

She Had Loved Him Years Before But He Had Changed.

"That is Horatio Dalton."

The voice that spoke these words came from another portion of the room, but it gave Mrs. Dairymple a trembling fit.

Horatio Dalton!

Her first love of over twenty years ago.

His image had ever been in her mind though she had never seen him since the night she had obeyed the parental injunction and said "No!"

She looked around the room nervously.

No! He was not there.

The tall, slim figure; the pretty black curling hair; the smooth, boyish face and the merry blue eyes! The description fitted no one there, and, with a sigh, half relief and half regret, she drifted supperward on the arm of her escort.

Her hostess interrupted them.

She was accompanied by a portly man of middle age, with a bald head, a double chin, gray side whiskers and a fishy eye—two of them, in fact.

"Mrs. Dairymple," said the lady of the house, "permit me to introduce Mr. Horatio Dalton. He says that he's an old friend of yours."

Mrs. Dairymple paled and gasped. It surely couldn't possibly be!

"I—I remember the name," she faltered, "but"—

"But not the man, eh?" broke in Mr. Dalton in a rich, oily voice. "Well, well, perhaps I have changed a little."

A little! Great Heavens!

Her soul rebelled! She would not admit that this thing was possible! Had she made her heart a storage house all these years for an upheaval like this?

They were seated in a corner of the drawing room now and he was "looking her over" in a critical way that made her wince.

"You've changed a good deal, too," he said. "Gracious! I'd hardly know you. Why, you must weigh a hundred and seventy."

She fanned herself furiously.

"And I've always thought of you as a slim little thing," he went on, "with a face like a lily and eyes like stars. Dear, dear, but time does work wonders?"

"I'd never know you in the world," she retorted. "I never saw such a change in a human being in my life! You were such a graceful, handsome young man."

He laughed merrily. He seemed to be shot proof, as it were.

"I was a gosling in those days," he went on. "Dear, dear, how silly it all was. D'ye remember the night that you refused me and I ran out into the snow and vowed I'd commit suicide?"

"It was in the afternoon and not at night," she corrected, icily, "and there couldn't have been any snow, for it was the Fourth of July."

"Why, so it was," he assented hastily. "I must have got it mixed up with something else."

Mixed up with something else!

And she had remembered the day, hour, minute and second all these years.

She grew faint.

"I wish you'd call my cab," she murmured.

"Must you go? I'm so sorry! Awfully glad to have met you again. You've married nicely, I hear. Good! So have I."

He ordered the cab and came back to say:—

"D'ye remember how I used to swear that I'd be something great in the world—how I'd one day be in every one's mouth? Well, I am! I'm a dentist! Ha, ha, ha!"

She rolled away sick at heart and he waddled back to where the band was playing "Just One Girl."—New York Herald.

The Gay Soubrette.

She was a dainty pink soubrette,
Her locks were like pure gold,
Her eyes they flashed like polished jet,
Her lips the Cupid mold.

Her form was classical indeed,
Diana in her youth,
Excelsior she did not need,
An emblem she of truth.

I bought her roses by the ton,
She took them with a smile
And said her love was almost won,
Yet I must wait awhile.

I bought her rubies, too, and pearls,
And necklaces galore;
She was like all the other girls,
She wanted more and more.

At last I grew quite desperate
And longed to call her mine:
"Oh, dear soubrette, tell me my fate
And I will order wine."

"Alas," she sighed, "it cannot be;
I cannot marry you!
I'm far too old, dear boy, for see,
Your grandpa loved me, too;"

Just What He Wanted.

Miss Tuffenuff—Sa-ay, I wish youse would paint my picture some time.

Artist—I would be pleased to, my girl, but I only paint game, flowers and fruit.

Miss Tuffenuff—Well, I'm a bird, a daisy, an' a peach. See!

Any Number of "Lasts."

"You mustn't say 'the two last performances,'" protested the grammarian.

"I know what I'm doing," answered the theatrical manager. "I'm talking about the farewell appearances of a prima donna."

The egotist now rails again
Against the public plan;
The census counts him only once,
Like any other man.

LABORI AND HIS WIFE.

The Brilliant Leader of the French Bar and His Constant Companion.

Mme. Labori is a woman of sorrows with the gift of joy. She is gay. She is vivacious. But in her laughter is the sound of falling tears. There has been tragedy and there has been what is equally sad—disillusion. She has always been brave and smiling.

Mme. Labori loved her husband. She was his bonne camarade, his sweetheart, his guiding spirit. He was her idol, her ideal, her king of all men. She always went to court to hear his speeches. Parisians wondered why the brilliant Maitre Labori's wife went so often to his office. Was she jealous? Not that. The maitre said he could not study a case well if she were not there among his books and his documents.

She laughingly humored this whim, though it cost her many a drive on the Boise, many an afternoon at the concert, many an evening at the theatre. She was proud of the flower-covered yoke. She loved him for his loving tyranny. She thrilled to tears in court under his speech—"our speech."

She struck hands with him bravely when he declared he would fight the Dreyfus battle to the end. She went to Rennes with him and sat in court, as near him as she might, every day. When he pleaded for Dreyfus her eyes were as full of indignant fire as his own.

One morning she started to the Lycee with him as usual. They met Colonel Picquart and Edmond Gast, Maitre Labori's brother-in-law.

"I have forgotten my ticket," she exclaimed, and ran back to the quaint house in the Place Laennec for it. When she ran out from the house she saw a group of men standing about a prostrate figure in the center. Her woman's heart called aloud the name of that man in the center. The wind was not quicker than she.

The lawyer lay upon his side. The blood was pouring from a bullet wound in his back. She had left him for but a moment, and this had come. She lifted his head upon her lap. He could not speak, but he kissed her hands. The blood from the wound flowed over her black dress. The dust of the street settled whitely upon both of them. She looked upward, an agonized expression in her brown eyes. Men took off their hats. They knew she was praying.

They carried him to the house, she walking by his side. When they were trying to stanch his wounds, and men about him were whispering of death he had said: "Tell my wife I am thinking of her every moment."

Now he smiled when he felt her presence. When they were carrying him through the door, pain blinding him, he groped around for her hand.

She was his nurse and constant companion until he was able to appear in court once more. She will not be separated from him for a moment.

AUTOMOBILE TIRES.

An Important Question That Has Not Yet Been Settled.

The tire question is one for which the manufacturers of automobiles have not yet found a satisfactory answer. The most vulnerable part of the vehicle is the vehicle is the rim of the wheels, and in order to insure comfort, safety and beauty experiments have been made by nearly all manufacturers which involved much more expense than is known to the people outside of the business. The monster pneumatic tires are unsightly, and give the vehicle a ponderous and unwieldy appearance, besides being expensive. In order to overcome these objections tires of various sizes, shapes and designs have been made and are being used for the purpose of determining which is the most practicable.

Among the recent patterns is a square tire with corrugated surface, which is a great improvement on the old balloon in looks, although its manufacturers have not tested it sufficiently to give an opinion on its lasting properties. Some of the newest pleasure vehicles have the narrow wheel and a tire correspondingly small, and the life of these tires are being watched closely.

"Only careful investigation," said a manufacturer "will solve the problem. We have nothing except the bicycle tire to go by, and must get our knowledge through expensive experiments."

The cost of rubber tires justifies a large outlay for the purpose of discovering which is the most durable pattern and design. Tires cost from $25 to $50 each, and some of the special patterns are still more expensive. The experiments with the various tires are being watched with much attention by the people who are interested in the horseless trucks, because the heavy vehicles will require tires of great strength. The solid rubber tire has been used with some success in heavy vehicles, and is having its share of attention in the tests which are now being made.—New York Tribune.

CARICATURING CHOATE

Presumable Jokes of Our Ambassador —Embarrassed By His Own Wit.

(We understand that an enterprising London publisher has just issued a Choate Jest Book, in honor of the witty American Ambassador. We have not as yet seen a copy, but from the fashion in which certain famous people are at times compelled to assume the responsibility for others' jests, we imagine the volume contains the following:)

I.

It was while traveling in Bermuda that Mr. Choate was introduced to Gen. Sir William Wintergreen of her Majesty's Blues. Having heard of Mr. Choate's fame as a master of repartee, Gen. Sir William resolved to put it to the test before a large company gathered in his honor.

"Mr. Choate," said he, "you have studied architecture, I presume?"

"Well," replied Mr. Choate, calmly, "not deeply, General Sir William, but I know a house from an automobile and could distinguish off hand, I think, between an Italian renaissance facade and a piece of pumpkin pie."

"Quite so," observed Gen. Sir William. "But, Mr. Choate, do you know when a door is not a door."

The witty American chuckled slightly to himself, and then without an instant's hesitation, replied:

"Ah, General Sir William, indeed I do. When it's ajar." (N. B.—This is new!)

II.

Mr Choate was once asked by an American newspaper reporter who was trying to find out who illustrious men would rather be if they were not themselves, who he would prefer to be if he were not Mr. Choate.

"I am sure I cannot say," returned the famous wit. "I have never not been myself."

III.

While crossing the ocean Mr. Choate was asked as to his plans upon his arrival in London.

"Well, madam," he replied, "of course, I am entirely at sea. But the first thing I shall do, I presume, will be to study the language."

IV.

Mr. Choate, when asked by Lord Iveagh, the famous brewer, why he and not Gen. Porter was sent to England, the witty American replied: "Me Lud, to send Porter to a country that makes such excellent beer would be like sending coals to Newcastle or gloom to the Isle of Man."

V.

On the appointment of his predecessor to the portfolio of State, Mr. Choate said in confidence to Mr. Depew: "I suppose the President wants to make Hay while the sun shines."

VI.

Mr. Choate is sometimes embarrassed by his own wit. An inquisitive Englishman once asked him as to Mr. Depew's rank in the United States.

"Is he a man of high station?" asked the Briton.

"He's a man of the Grand Central Station," replied Mr. Choate, with a twinkle in his eye.

"Aw!" said the Briton. "Grand Central—middle clawss, I presume?"

It took the witty lawyer four hours to explain that his joke was based upon the fact that Mr. Depew, as president of a railroad, has his office in a railway station.

VII.

It is not known whether it was in a jesting mood or because of some natural embarrassment on the Ambassador's part that caused him in his first address to her Majesty to begin with the well-known American formula, "If your honor please." In any event, Mr. Henry White, the talented secretary, tugged at his coattails warningly, and with wonderful readiness the Ambassador corrected himself by bowing low and saying, suavely: "Or, as I should have said, may it please the court."

The ice was broken at once, and the new Ambassador became, as his friends all knew he would, so distinctly a persona grata that he was invited to stay over night at the Castle and breakfast at the expense of the crown. —Harper's Bazar.

He Saw Jonas.

When Mr. Jonas Howard, an esteemed citizen of Jeffersonville, Ind., went to Washington from his Congressional district several years ago, he left behind him a devoted and affectionate body of constituents in town and country, who fancied that great personal benefits would come to them through Mr. Howard's powerful presence in the halls of national wisdom. One of these rural adherents, a small farmer with some momentous political design on his mind, followed Mr. Howard to Washington in eager pursuance of that mysterious object. He returned in about five days, seemingly not much elated.

"Well, Bill," a town acquaintance saluted him, "did you see Washington and Mr. Howard, and did you get what you went after?"

"Ya-as, I seen Washin'ton," he replied grumpily, "and I seen Jonas; but Jonas couldn't do nothin' fer me; he was a havin' hard work to keep from gittin' tromped on hisself."

Correction.

"We stated," says the Plunkville Bugle, "that the gent now playing Othello at the Opera house let his hands hang around like a couple of miniature hams. He called on us yesterday in regard thereto. With assistance of the pressman and the shoemaker who occupies the room adjoining the Bugle office, we ejected him, but not until he had landed on us with a hand that showed the use of the word 'miniature' to have been a serious mistake."—Indianapolis Journal.

Revised to Suit.

"My motto," said the new boarder, "is pay as you go."

The landlady shook her head.

"It wouldn't do in my business," she said. "A man might hang around a month and then forget his motto. My motto is pay Saturday night or go."

Between the Lines.

When women write—some sage opines,
A man must read between the lines;
But, heavens! what a contract greets
That wight whose girl writes sixteen sheets!

"There's a load off my mind," said the Italian woman, as she deposited the seven bushels of coal that she had picked up along the railroad tracks.

WALSH ON DEWEY

Sizes Up the Admiral and Calls Him "An All Right Little Man."

John Walsh was chief gunner on the Baltimore. He has been in the navy thirty years, has known Admiral Dewey twenty-five years and has served under him seven years.

"He is an all-right man, is Uncle George; an all-right little man," declared Walsh.

"Why do you call him Uncle George?

"Why wouldn't we call him Uncle George? Don't we call this Government Uncle Sam? Ain't he next to Uncle Sam? Why wouldn't we give him the same title? He is Uncle George and an all-right man. You can stow that in your cocoanut and keep it with you."

The tall, powerful gunner, with the grizzled mustache, turned his clear, gray eyes toward his questioner and continued earnestly:

"We always liked Dewey because he is square. He is calm and quiet. He don't make a fuss. He looks as if he might be sitting on a cake of ice. But there ain't nothing icy about his heart.

"When a man goes to Dewey for justice he knows he'll get it. If there is a complaint about the rations he don't turn it down. He calls officers from another ship to investigate. He don't take 'em from their own command.

"He has nice, soft, easy ways, but he is strict on discipline. He put me in the brig twice, but he's an all-right little man. The first time I got drunk in Shanghai. I was mixing it up with a mate—good friend of mine, too—on the 'bloody ground'—that's by the bow binnacles—when a lieutenant came down. He had no business there and he knew it, and so did I. Being drunk I just naturally gave him some lip and then stowed myself in my hammock.

"The bo'sun comes along and routs me out, and I licked him, of course. Then I was taken up on the bridge.

"'Too much cognac, my lad?' says Dewey.

"'Don't know, sir; think so, sir,' says I.

"'First offense, I see,' says the Commodore, 'fined five days' pay and five days in the brig,' he says.

"He made me wear the epaulettes, too. That's one of Dewey's own punishments. For infractions of the rules he makes a man wear 'em during a watch. Nice things, they are. They are gun swabbers and they weigh thirty pounds each, and after the first half hour they weigh a ton. Then your mates walk around and salute you and ask when you got your promotion and call you sir.

"And he has made me wear the cuspidor, too. That's the penalty for spitting on the deck. The biggest one in the ship is tied around your neck and you have to wear it so many hours a day until another man commits the offense. It's a jewel of a punishment, that is. The other men come up and talk to you about your habits and expectorate in that thing under your nose. Those are the ways that Dewey handles the men.

"We all liked him before Manila. Now there isn't a man in the fleet that doesn't love him. Why wouldn't they? He's an all-right man. He was just as cool as an old maid taking tea. I couldn't see much of him during the fight, being busy handling No. 3 and No. 5, the same being eight inch guns on the port starboard sides.

"It was like a slaughter-house, hell fire and two million boiler factories on the gun deck. The only thing that made more noise than the guns was the way my heart hammered against my chest. We didn't have anything on particular. I was scared all right, don't make any mistake about that.

"You could see the men laughing and cursing and cheering. You could see 'em take in a full breath and let out a screech, but not a ghost of it could you hear.

"But when we drew away after the first part of the battle you could hear enough. I had been hit by a shell, which cut open the side of my head. Dewey came down to look the boys over.

"'Hurt much, my lad?' he asked me.

"'No, sir; all ready for duty, sir,' I said.

"'All right, my lad, stand to your gun,' he said, and then he took his own pocket handkerchief and tied it around my head. He's an all-right little man.

"Have I got that handkerchief now? Have I? I am going to keep that handkerchief along with a piece of the cable, for I was in the boat that grappled it and cut it.

"I had another souvenir of that battle. A bullet from a Spanish sharpshooter buried itself in the mother-of-pearl setting of a ring I wore. I was offered $50 for that ring, but I sent it to a little woman in Pittsburg that I am going to anchor to."

Can't Dodge Bullets

"The temptation to stoop when under fire is almost irresistible," said a veteran, talking over the recent hot work in the Philippines, "and that accounts for so many of the wounds received by raw troops. You see, when a man happens to be hit in a stooping posture, the chances are that the bullet ploughs right through his body from end to end. On the other hand, if he is standing erect, the probabilities are in favor of the wound being slight—anyhow, not mortal. Old soldiers are well aware of this, and while they will drop flat and hunt cover every chance they get, they never stoop.

"After a soldier has been in a few engagements he learns such tricks, and as far as the rest of it is concerned he becomes simply a fatalist. There is nothing strange about it, for almost all his experiences appear to lend color to that doctrine. For instance, he never dodges, because he has seen men dodge and get killed when it really seemed as if they had reached for the bullet. In fact, the strangest things are happening, all apparently the pure whim of chance. I remember near Petersburg a comrade of mine, as brave a fellow as ever lived, took refuge behind a little hut.

"He was worn out under fire and wanted to get a moment's breathing space. Twenty feet in the rear a little to one side was a pile of crosstie full of wrought iron rails. A bullet came along, splintered a tie and drove out one of the nails at right angles. The jagged iron struck my chum in the side, penetrated his kidneys and killed him. That's the blind chance of war, and after getting a few such object lessons a fellow is apt to acquire a sort of sang froid that is immensely impressive to a recruit. It isn't because he has a contempt for danger; he has merely learned the folly of trying to evade it."

HEROIC HOME TREATMENT

Mr. Shivvers Meant Well, But Went Too Far to Back Out Gracefully.

"Um-m-m!" said Mr. Shivvers, thoughtfully, laying down his paper "I believe there is something in that."

"In what?" asked Mrs. Shivvers.

"Why, in their 'Health Hints for the Helpless' they say that the reaction and after-glow of cold morning baths is an infallible cure for neuralgia and rheumatism," explained Mr. Shivvers.

"Cold water right out of the spigot, without any warm water at all?" cried Mrs. Shivvers.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Shivvers.

"O-o-o-oh! I couldn't," shuddered Mrs. Shivvers.

Mr. Shivvers smiled a superior smile.

"Of course, it is rather heroic treatment and requires considerable moral as well as physical courage, but to a man convinced of its efficacy that is of no consequence," he said, complacently, "and I certainly shall give it a fair trial. Besides," he continued, fortifying his sudden resolution, "it is not one sudden freezing plunge, but a gradual immersion while you very slowly count six. Like this: One, and you put in one foot; two, and you put in the other; three, you sink upon one knee; four, you kneel on both; five, you plunge in your arms, and six, you immerse your body. So, after all, it is not so very dreadful. Yes, I shall certainly try it to-morrow morning."

However, Mr. Shivvers did not seem so enthusiastic in the morning. His wife let the cold water run, according to his instructions, until the tub was full to overflowing, but in spite of reiterated information to that effect he still lingered in bed.

"Jeremiah," cried Mrs. Shivvers, at last, from the bureau, where she was doing up her hair, "this is the eleventh time I've called you, and you just must get up. You'll be late for breakfast as it is. You needn't try that bath if you are afraid of it," she added, with a laugh.

Slowly and reluctantly Mr. Shivvers crept out from under the warm covers, silently casting a look of reproach upon his smiling spouse, and into the bathroom, with the laggard step of one who has something weighing upon his mind. Then there was a long, a very long wait. Nor was it until his wife had several times exhorted him to "Hurry up, Jeremiah!" that she heard him say:

"O-o-o-one. Ouch! Gosh!"

Then there was another wait, and another exhortation.

"T-t-t-t-twoooo. Ow-ow-ow-wow!"

Another wait and exhortation.

"To-th-th-th-th-three-e-e-e-e-e," next came chattering from the bathroom, immediately followed by a blood-curdling shout and a tremendous splash. Then there was a succession of agonized yells, and what Mrs. Shivvers at first took for a streak of lightning flashed out of the bathroom, plunged into bed and rolled itself tightly up in the covers.

"Why, Jeremiah!" gasped Mrs. Shivvers.

"Woman," he growled, when he could control his chattering teeth, "did you leave that cake of soap in the bottom of the bath-tub on purpose?"—Harper's Bazar.

Sardonic Humor

The State takes under its special protection none but those who merit it by their character.

It certainly is remarkable how well we endure our confinement, considering how everybody in the world that we were chased from is enjoined to take plenty of exercise and live as much as possible in the open air.

Of course, you've heard this before. Once upon a time a little girl visited this place with her mother, and, seeing a lone "con" strolling thro' the yard (a rare sight then, as now), exclaimed: "Oh, look! There goes a tame one!" But this little joke, ancient as it is, tickled me into a laugh when I had six and six staring me in the face.

The author of "My Excessive Sentence," "A Victim of Mere Circumstance," "Falsely Accused," "The Keeper's Inhumanity" and other pessimistic articles written for the Star of Hope, who have threatened to discontinue their contributions unless the above mentioned articles are published at once, will no doubt be suprised to learn, using the language of the "con," that "there are others," and we do not believe that in the multiplicity of choice our readers will beg for their tales of woe.—Sing Sing Prison Paper, "Star of Hope."

Love's Limitations.

Smart Tramp—Please, mum, folks say you sets a chair at the table fer y'r husband at every meal, yet he's been dead a year.

Widow—Yes. A medium told me if I did that his spirit would come and occupy it.

"That was some time ago, I guess."

"Yes. Why?"

"'Cause a medium told me only yistiday you were very foolish to keep up that custom 'cause y'r husband had met Queen Elizabeth, an' Helen of Troy, an' Cleopatra an'—an' Venus, in the spirit world, an' married 'em all."

"The miserable brute! Come right in, and I'll give you all his clothes, and his watch, and everything the old fool left."—New York Weekly.

He'll Win.

"I wish I were playing cards just now."
He said to the maiden fair.
He was clasping her fingers close to his
As they sat in the twilight there.
"I knew I should win if I ventured in—
Win money galore and lands.
Whatever the game it would be the same,
For I'm holding such lovely hands."

Wise Precaution.

"I have just been writing to my boy in the army and asking him for pity's sake to use his leisure in improving his penmanship."

"That took gall. You write a worse hand than he does."

"I know, but I used a typewriter."

A Savage Revenge.

"There was a tea store chromo of strawberries in our dining room, but the landlady had to take it down."

"What for?"

"It made the boarders all call for an extra piece of rhubarb pie."

The Daily Press Bowling League.

	Games Won.	Games Lost.	High Score.
Roselle Casino	7	2	911
Westfield Club	6	4	866
Cranford Casino	2	10	843

It was decided at a recent meeting of the physical work committee of the Y. M. C. A. to have a pin boy on the association alleys for the benefit of those who did not care to set up their pins. A small charge will be made. Heretofore it has been the custom to let the bowlers set up pins for each other, but that plan did not find much favor among the older members.

The results of last week's games in The Daily Press Bowling League showed an improvement in the work of the Westfield and Cranford teams. When Westfield took two games from the Park Club on the latter's alleys they accomplished quite a feat. The Westfield team has some excellent material in it and is likely to give Roselle a close rub before the season is over. It looked like poor judgment in the game on the Park Club alleys last week when Chauncey Smith, captain of the Westfield team, withdrew Condit after two games and put in R. I. Townley. When Townley is at his best he is an excellent bowler, but that was his first game of the season and he had little or no practice before it. He was ill for some time and did not take an active part before, as he was not strong enough. Westfield won the game, however, although Townley's score was not high.

GOLF

The Board of Trustees of the Park Golf Club are planning some improvements for the club house at the links this spring. Two additional rooms are to be built in the rear of the present structure. They will be occupied by the club professor, W. B. Mitchell, and his wife, who are now south for the winter. Professor Mitchell will take complete charge of the course and club house while his wife will act in the capacity of stewardess. It will be advantageous to have a woman at the club house to attend the wives and daughters of the members who may play there. Arrangements will also be made so that she can serve little lunches for such of the members as desire them. The course will also be improved but no attempt will be made this season to enlarge it to eighteen holes. That will be done, it is hoped, at some future time.

WHIST

The State challenge trophy of the New Jersey Whist Association still remains in the hands of the New Jersey Whist Club, of Newark. Tuesday they defeated the Roseville Club by a score of 21 to 8. The Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club is still in the lead with nine victories for the trophy. The Park Club is second with seven and the New Jersey Whist Club with six.

Chief of Police Seymour P. Gilbert, of Bloomfield, has declared war on the nickel-in-the-slot machines and all other gambling devices in saloons hotels and stores in the township. It is estimated that nearly two hundred machines will be banished.

Charles Hermes died in the German Hospital, Newark, December 19th, of hydrophobia. This has been shown at the Pasteur Institute. Portions of the remains were sent to the institute and a rabbit inoculated. It developed rabies and three days later died.

Another case of smallpox was reported to Health Inspector VanDyke, of Morristown, yesterday. The disease broke out in a colored family named Irving. The house has been quarantined and young Irving removed to the contagious annex of the Memorial Hospital.

One hundred and fifty men employed in the making department of F. Cummings, Son & Co.'s hat factory, in Orange Valley, went on strike yesterday. The firm accuses the salaried men of not doing what it considers a fair day's work. On the other hand, the men claim they have been imposed upon.

Separated from her husband more then eleven years, Mrs. Carrie Wiggins, of Newark, formerly of Montclair, has begun divorce proceedings against John Wiggins, of Livingston, Morris county. The ground for the action is desertion. Mrs. Wiggins also alleges that her husband has been illegally married to another.

recognizing the plea made in the petition by the representative citizens of Plainfield, he would not impose the extreme penalty.

"The sentence of this court is that you be confined in the State prison for three years," said Judge Vail.

Without a tremor at the result, Blackford turned and walked through the door that led to the cell from which he had come.

The general sentiment in court was that the prisoner had been dealt with in a very lenient manner. Judge Coddington said that the sentence was lighter than he anticipated.

NEW JERSEY'S PROSPECTS.

A Pennsylvania Politician Thinks Hobart's State Can Capture the Vice-Presidency.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Philadelphia, Jan 13.—A Pennsylvania politician who is in close touch with the Republican leaders of the State, in speaking of the Republican National convention to be held in this city, said yesterday to a Tribune correspondent:

There will be a flurry, if not a contest, over the Vice-Presidential candidate. Although New York is said to have several candidates, there is more likelihood of New Jersey carrying off the prize. There will be quite an array of candidates, there being several in the far west, who will be trotted out at the proper time.

The mention of the name of Attorney-General Griggs is received with great favor. There is no truth whatever in the report that the President has any preference in the matter. He has stated this for the reason that it would be inappropriate for him to take any part which would force him to discriminate among men all of whom are his friends, and any one of whom would be satisfactory.

New Jersey has all the elements of success. The prestige established by the late Vice-President, the great ability, popularity and social status of Attorney-General Griggs, and such masterful convention manipulators as Sewell, Kean and the Republican organization of New Jersey generally, could easily win success if the men in command go about it.

The sentiment in New Jersey is unanimous. A little missionary work would soon set the ball a-rolling outside.

HE WILL GO TO JAIL.

Wife Beater will Not Pay Fine of $10, Though He Has the Money to Do So.

With more than sufficient money in his pocketbook to pay the fine, Winslow Carson, a machinist living on East Second street and employed at the Aluminum Plate and Press Works, declares that he will go to jail. He was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning on the complaint of his wife. W. S. Angleman represented Mrs. Carson.

Mrs. Carson alleged that her husband had cruelly beaten her and she presented testimony to that effect. She wanted him punished so that he would behave in the future. Judge Runyon found him guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $10 or go to jail for for forty days.

Carson had the money, but declared that he would not pay the fine.

GIRLS IN RUTGERS "GYM"

In Bloomer and Blouse and All by Themselves, They Try Bowling.

The gymnasium class at Ballantine Gymnasium, Rutgers College, New Brunswick, made up of young women, held its first regular meeting Thursday evening. For two hours they took light work under the direction of Prof. Dodge, instructor of the college students.

The young women wear a loose blouse, skirt, bloomers, black stockings and slippers, and look natty and comfortable. Men are excluded from the gymnasium Thursday nights.

The young women bowled. For a time the question of pinboys was a difficult one to solve. Three very small boys have been selected, and give general satisfaction.

The names of the young women in the class are carefully guarded.

IN THE THEATRICAL LINE

ATTRACTIONS THAT WILL BE PRESENTED IN MUSIC HALL.

"The Turtle," a Metropolitan Success, Will be Seen Friday Evening, to be Followed by Other First-Class Pieces.

The severe storm of Thursday night naturally caused the poor attendance at Music Hall on the occasion of the first appearance of Ullie Akerstrom in this city, but those present were highly entertained and had the pleasure of witnessing one of the best farce-comedy performances of the season. "My Mother-in-Law" proved to be a remarkably clever play, and in the character of "Katrina," Miss Akerstrom was seen to excellent advantage. Tonight we are to have a "truly rural" play, "Si Plunkard," in which J. C. Lewis, a well-known character comedian, makes his appearance in the title role. One of the features of Mr. Lewis' play is his "Farmers' Brass Band and Superb Orchestra" which will be heard during the evening.

Three good attractions are announced for next week. Tuesday night, the noted Filipino author and lecturer, Senor Ramon Reyes Lala, will deliver his lecture on the Philippines, illustrated by a series of beautiful photographic views, said to be the most perfect. Senor Lala comes with highest recommendations from some of the most famous men and societies in the country and his discourse will undoubtedly be of great interest to all. The famous French play, "The Turtle," will be seen Friday night. This play was the greatest sensational presentation of the season last year at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, where it had a run of over 200 consecutive nights, to crowded houses. A strong cast of Metropolitan artists, and duplicate scenery and accessories of the New York production, will be seen here. "At Piney Ridge," the scenic picturesque and romantic creation of David Higgins, will constitute the bill for Saturday night. A better play has never been seen in this city. Manager Maze Edwards has been often importuned since its first showing a year ago, for opportunity to again witness it, and it was his intention to present it in the early part of the week, but it was impossible to secure it for any other date than Saturday. Mr. Higgins, the author, and Miss George Waldron, appear in the principal roles.

Vogel & Deming's Minstrel Company, which is the equal in every respect to the Primrose & Dockstader Company—said to be the acme of all organizations—appear during the following week, on Tuesday, 23d inst. "The Heart of the Blue Ridge," another fine play, will be seen Friday, 26th inst., and on Tuesday, 30th inst., Wm. Gillette's famous comedy of "All the Comforts of Home" will have its first presentation by regular dramatic organization. This comedy was performed some two years ago by a college amateur club at the Casino. The play is considered one of the best by Mr. Gillette, now playing Sherlock Holmes at the Garrick Theatre, New York, and its revival at this time is under the immediate direction of Mr. Gillette, and approval of Chas. Frohman. The late Bartley Campbell's famous play, "The White Slave," a new comedy, "A Man of Mystery," the St. Felix Sisters and other novelties are among the February bookings.

—Rev. M. E. Dwight will lead the meeting at the East Third Street chapel tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

SENATOR REED SAYS THERE WAS NO DEAL.

Denies That Judge Bartine Was Promised a Reappointment.

HOT FIGHT FOR THE PLACE.

REED REPORTED TO BE IN FAVOR OF HUGH GASTON.

Friends of Mr. Bartine Say That They Have a Very Strong Petition to Present to the Governor, But Republican Leaders are Against It—John L. Griggs Mentioned for Prosecutor.

The fight over the judgeship of the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Somerset county is becoming interesting. John D. Bartine, the present Democratic Judge, is taking active measures to impress the Governor with the fact that the people of the county want him continued in the office. Petitions in his behalf are being circulated in every township of the county and have already been numerously signed. His friends say that they will have the names of half the voters of the county on the petitions to lay before the Governor before the appointment is made, and they believe that this will go a long way toward keeping him on the bench. Judge Bartine has occupied the Somerset bench for fifteen years, and has always been an active Democratic worker.

It was reported last fall that Senator Reed had agreed to his reappointment, but this the Senator positively denied. The Judge, however, showed a friendly feeling during the campaign for the Republican ticket. Republican leaders here, including Assemblyman Cooper, are opposed to his reappointment on political grounds, and it is said that Governor Voorhees has said that he would not hear of a reappointment. The situation seems to be unchanged, unless the Judge's big petition should influence the Governor.

Hugh K. Gaston and Lewis H. Schenck are the two available Republican candidates, with the chances now apparently in favor of the former, though Mr. Schenck's friends are doing good work for him and the Governor seems in favor of his candidacy. Senator Reed's influence, however, seems to be for Mr. Gaston.

James L. Griggs seems to be the most probable man for Prosecutor of the Pleas.

ORGANIZED CHARITY.

Methods and Aims to be the Topic of the First Meeting for the Year of Unitarian Women.

A brief business conference at 3 o'clock will precede the public meeting, to which all are cordially invited. Tea will be served at 4:30 o'clock. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, the vice-president, Mrs. A. D. Conklin, will preside.

The other meetings of the Alliance will be as follows: Tuesday, February 20th, Mrs. Charles L. Sykes, of Fanwood, who has recently returned from a sojourn of several years in Europe, will speak of "Experiences in Germany." HIGH WATER IN RARITAN SWEPT THE ICE OUT OF THE RARITAN RIVER.

Last Week's Rain Caused a Freshet That Flooded the Lowlands—Great Cakes of Ice High on the Shores.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 15—As a result of the big storm of last week the Raritan River is now practically free from ice. The river froze over in the period of continued low temperature that marked the ending of the old year and remained ice bound until Friday when the heavy fall of rain produced a powerful young freshet that swept the ice out of the river and distributed it over the lowlands all along the river.

The north and south branches of the Raritan, which unite just above Somerville to form that river, have been covered with ice for several weeks. The river itself was frozen almost all the way to New Brunswick. The ice was ten inches thick in places and easily sustained the weight of the many young people who flocked to its banks from this and other places near the river to enjoy the skating. Skating parties were numerous and they found the ice in good condition.

The heavy rains of Thursday and Friday found the ground frozen. So most of the water drained into the brooks that form the Raritan. That produced a freshet. The water lifted the ice which finally broke away and rushed downstream. All along the north and south branches, the water rose rapidly as the ice in front dammed it up. The rise in some places was as much as ten feet. The river roads that follow the course of the two streams were flooded in many places and hugh cakes of ice stranded right in the highway. None of the bridges were washed away but the roads across the meadows were obliterated for the time. Since then, travelers are compelled to dodge the great white cakes of ice that were scattered along such spots.

In Bound Brook, the breaking up of the ice was watched by many. A temporary ice gorge was formed but finally broken up by the force of the waters and no damage was done by the high water that resulted. The meadows that spread along the river banks are covered with ice cakes of varying size that were left there by the freshet.

OLD TALK OF NEW DEPOT

BOARD OF TRADE TO ADVOCATE THE IMPROVEMENT.

Annual Meeting to Be Held This Evening and the Subject Discussed—Company to Be Asked to Go Ahead.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade will be held this evening, when reports are to be submitted by Secretary H. C. Runyon and new officers elected for the ensuing year. It is important that every member of the Board should be present, as it is possible some action may be taken toward furthering the project of securing a new passenger station on the East side of the Central tracks on North avenue.

It is understood that the Central Railroad is willing to construct a second station on the east side of the tracks if there is a demand by the public for another station at this point. It is understood that it is now possible for the Central people to secure the property of Rushmore & Co., the lumber dealers, who it is believed are willing to dispose of their holdings, that the railroad company may be able to transform the land at that point into a park and still have sufficient room to erect a substantial station on the east side of the tracks.

The citizens believe that the station should be built and so arranged as to have a tunnel or arcade constructed beneath the tracks connecting the two buildings for the use of passengers, and also to have an iron fence built between the east and west bound tracks, thus doing away with the possibility of accidents that are now liable to occur from the tracks being open to public usage.

After the games the members enjoyed dancing, music for which was furnished by an Angelus. It was early in the morning when the guests departed, and all were sorry then to leave. The club will meet again in two weeks at the home of Ms. and Mrs. Hiram Woodruff, of Westervelt avenue.

LIFE AND WORK OF MOODY

LATE EVANGELIST A SUBJECT FOR TWO SERMONS.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck Portrayed the Characteristics of the Lamented Man in Glowing Colors—Dr. Yerkes' Tribute.

Yesterday morning at Trinity Reformed church the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., delivered an intensely interesting discourse on the life and work of the late Dwight L. Moody. The speaker entered fully into his subject, starting from Mr. Moody's birth and concluding with his death. He spoke of his being a born leader, a trait manifested when a boy, and of his being one of the best of salesmen, as evidenced when a clerk in a shoe store in Boston, and of his being a leader in evangelistic work, always showing that he was destined to lead in the grand work he had undertaken.

In concluding his discourse Dr. Schenck spoke of wherein Mr. Moody's secret power lay, which was in his general composition or makeup, being especially adapted to his work, having full determination to do what he set out to do, and this, coupled with the grace of God, prayer and an abundant knowledge of God's word, gave him great power that made his work always count for the best. He dwelt at some length on his knowledge of God's Word and how faithful he was in the study of it, thereby being thoroughly fitted for his work.

There was a large congregation present to hear the discourse, many visitors being noticed among those in attendance.

Yesterday morning at the First Baptist church the pastor, Dr. Yerkes, delivered a highly interesting sermon in which he dwelt at some length on the life and work of the late Dwight Lyman Moody. He referred to him as the greatest evangelist of the age and said that the influence of his work would extend to the end of time. He told considerable of his work and of the good he accomplished, and related some very interesting personal incidents in connection with his life.

Goes on Dangerous Spots.

John H. Tier, Sr., the ice dealer, has been bothered a great deal of late with small children who persist in going on the ice on his pond. The ice is very thin and will not hold a person safely, and yet these small boys and girls are determined to go on it. If an accident should occur and any of the children should drown, no doubt there would be a disposition on the part of some to hold Mr. Tier responsible. He therefore would like to give proper warning so that parents can keep their children home.

House was Full of Smoke.

Second Assistant Chief Andrew D. Jennings and No. 2 hose wagon responded to a telephone alarm sent into fire department headquarters Saturday afternoon from the residence of George J. Coe, 827 Third place. The house was full of smoke. The trouble was caused by the burning of Christmas greens in the furnace and fire place. The dense smoke leaked through the flues and made its way into the rooms in that way.

Teachers Taught.

The Somerset County Teacher's Association met at Bound Brook Saturday. Principal C. E. Morse, of East Orange, was present and gave two interesting and inspiring talks. Several papers were read, one of the best being that of Miss Frazee, of the North Plainfield School.

FIVE-CENT TROLLEY FARE TO WESTFIELD.

Riker-Hine Syndicate Agree to Demand of Westfield.

BEEN CHARGING A DIME.

COMPANY HEMMED AND HAWED OVER THE MATTER.

When the Westfield Franchise Was Granted the Company Promised to Carry Passengers From Westfield to Plainfield Depots for One Fare, But They Failed to Keep the Agreement

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 15.—The fight between the Westfield Township Committee and the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company over the rate of fare charged from this town to Plainfield has ended, the company agreeing to hereafter carry passengers from the Westfield depot to the Plainfield depot for five cents, the rate asked for by Chairman J. Alston Dennis and his companions on the township committee.

By the ordinance which the Township Committee granted the trolley company the latter was to carry passengers "as near as possible" to the Plainfield or Westfield depots for five cents, but after the road was in operation ten cents was charged. When Col. E. W. Hine, the secretary of the company, was appealed to he told the members of the Township Committee that he could do nothing at that time as the company was running their cars over the line of the Plainfield Street Railway Company from the Terrill road, and that if the fare was reduced to five cents passengers would be able to ride from Cranford to Dunellen for that price, as transfer tickets were given to the Plainfield cars.

The people of Westfild made a stiff kick at the ten-cent fare and one resident and his wife were put off the car at Scotch Plains because they refused to pay the extra five cents when the ordinance called for a five-cent fare. Chairman Dennis made the statement last evening that the company had at last agreed to carry passengers to Plainfield for five cents, and that the new rate of fare would probably go into effect today.

SAYS HORSE IS STARVED.

Charge of Cruelty to Animals Made Against F. O. Smith by Officer Pangborn.

A summons was issued by Justice Moffett this morning in an action brought by the New Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against Ferdinand O. Smith, of 686 West Front street. The papers are returnable Saturday, the 20th inst. The complainant is William N. Pangborn, the local agent of the society, who affirms in his complainant that the animal in question is a horse, which is not properly fed and cared for.

Officer Pangborn makes affadavit that the horse has had but little to eat since December 1st, and that it has eaten its manger and part of a galvanized iron watering pail.

Mr. Smith says the action against him is one of spite and that he will be able to prove that the horse has been properly cared for. The papers were served by Constable Weaver today.

Married at Pastor's Home.

The marriage of Miss Mary Allen Durkin, of 335 Somerset street, to George William Kliner, also of the borough, was performed at the home of Rev. George Hauser, of Duer street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. J. J. Kliner was best man, and Mamie Kliner bridemaid. After the ceremony the couple went to their newly-furnished home at 5 Walnut street, where a reception was held.

Sport on Ice.

ANOTHER BIG FACTORY.

Eastern Machine Shop, Employing Several Hundred Men, May Locate Here.

There appear to be reasonable assurances that Plainfield is to have at an early date another first-class machine shop, where between five and six hundred expert machinists, including draftsmen, pattern makers, moulders, foundry men, etc, will be employed. This firm that has been established in the east for twenty years, is desirous of locating where the value of property is not so high. They wrote to Mayor Rockfellow for the purpose of ascertaining what advantages Plainfield would offer.

The matter was turned over to Silas Dewey Drake, who this morning communicated with the firm and arranged for a personal interview. Mr. Drake says that he is determined to get the factory here and locate them at Dewey Park, where there is plenty of land having the advantage of the Lehigh Valley and Central Railroads. This being on the westerly border of the city and easy of access to the trolley it will be of great advantage in many ways.

FOR JERSEY BASEBALL.

STEPS TAKEN TO ORGANIZE A LEAGUE OF SEVERAL TEAMS.

Meeting Held in Newark Saturday Night and Plans Talked Over—Another Meeting to be Held Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, January 15.—It looks now as if the much-talked-of New Jersey State Baseball League would be pushed through to a successful issue. A meeting was held at the Park House in this city Saturday evening, when representatives from a number of clubs were present. Newark was looked after by Charles Smith, Paterson by F. Fredericks, Trenton by Owen Sheenan, and Belleville by J. Comeeky. Plainfield and Elizabeth were represented by proxy.

The league proposes to play only Saturday and Sunday games. Already the prospective Newark club has secured the Shooting Park grounds for the summer, and fine new grounds are to be fitted out in Trenton. It is expected that Sunday games will be played in Newark, Paterson and Belleville, and Saturday games in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Trenton and probably Hoboken, and either Perth Amboy or New Brunswick. Mr. Fredericks, of Paterson, was elected president and Mr. Dobbins, of Newark, secretary. Another meeting will be held next Saturday at the Park House when it is expected to complete organization, appoint a committee on schedule and apply for National League protection.

President Fredericks said that every effort would be made to give the public a good article of ball, and to keep the teams as evenly matched as possible in order to insure an exciting series of contests. It is proposed to sign three or four local players in each town where good players can be found.

CARPENTERS MAY STRIKE.

Westfield Workmen Demand an Eight-Hour Day, But the Bosses Will Not Agree to It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 15.—There promises to be a general strike of the journeymen carpenters employed in this town. A number of the men who belong to the local union have asked for an eight-hour day with nine hours pay and the bosses have refused to grant the request. Several of the men employed by E. C. Winter have been discharged and Mr. Winter says that he will not employ any union men, as all such will have to give up the union or leave his employ. There are about forty carpenters in the town and most of them belong to the union which was formed recently.

Change of Location.

The Daughters of the Cross under whose auspices a tea is to be held next Friday afternoon a change in the place of holding the tea from Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutbhen's home, 85 Myrtle avenue, to Mrs. Charles A. Reed's home, 27 Myrtle avenue. Owing to unforseen circumstances this change was a necessity.

Sick Since Summer.

Miss Lilia Jones, who has been ill and confined to her bed since last August, died Saturday at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. L. Croom, 620 East Third street. The funeral services were held this afternoon from the house. Interment was at Hillside cemetery.

Assumed His New Duties.

Charles E. Ball, formerly of this city, arrived in Plainfield this morning and assumed his new position as superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company's local office. He will take up his residence here in a few days.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT.

MISS VAN BOSKERCK SUCCEEDS MRS. W. A. WOODRUFF.

Latter no Longer in Charge of Organized Aid Association—Presented With Purse of $50 and Two Sets of Resolutions.

Miss Zuidee VanBoskerck has been appointed superintendent of the Organized Aid Association to succeed Mrs. William A. Woodruff, whose resignation was tendered to the board of managers some weeks ago.

Although Mrs. Woodruff had expected to be relieved of her duties at the close of the year, she decided to remain until her successor was appointed, which she did, to the gratification of the board of managers and the district committee of the association.

For the past six years Mrs. Woodruff has been the faithful and efficient superintendent of this very important and humane, charitable organization. During that period she has devoted her time so closely and exerted her energies so assiduously as to greatly impair her health, which is now in anything but satisfactory condition. This fact led to Mrs. Woodruff being compelled to withdraw from active association in the organization, although still interested in the welfare of the association and the good it accomplishes.

In recognition of Mrs. Woodruff's faithful services and indefatigable labors in behalf of the Organized Aid Association the board of managers have presented her with a purse of $50 in gold and a set of resolutions that express the high regard in which she has been held and the noble efforts she has put forth in assisting to build up the organization. Similar resolutions were also presented from the district committee.

Miss VanBoskerck, the newly-appointed superintendent, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. VanBoskerck, of West Seventh street. Miss VanBoskerck is a young woman who has taken much interest in charitable work and is believed to be thoroughly fitted to fill the important position which the resignation of Mrs. Woodruff made vacant. It is believed the Association will be in good hands with Miss VanBoskerck in charge. She assumed her new duties this morning.

PLANS FOR PALISADES

GOVERNOR VOORHEES FAVORS A PERMANENT COMMISSION.

And Give Them the Power to Acquire Title to the Land, the State Giving Money for the Object.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Elizabeth, Jan. 15—Gov. Voorhees, on being seen by a reporter on the subject of preserving the Palisades, spoke as follows:

"In any reasonable efforts to acquire the lands necessary to protect and perpetuate the Palisades the co-operation and assistance of the State of New Jersey may be confidently expected.

"I called the attention of the Legislature in my annual message to the desirability of creating a permanent Palisades Commission, that would try to acquire title to the land, and so that, from time to time, if the Legislature saw fit, the State might make appropriations for the purpose of enabling the Commission to carry out the object of its creation.

"The present Commission, appointed by me last winter, is now engaged in the preparation of a bill which it will present to the Legislature during the present session, and the passage of which will be strongly urged by the Commissionors. I am not yet fully advised as to the exact provisions of this bill, but I have no doubt they will be such as to offer a solution of the question in a way to commend itself to the good judgement of the people of State.

"Personally, I do not think at present that there exists a general sentiment among the people of New Jersey in favor of any large expenditures of the State's money in acquiring the necessary lands. Such a sentiment can only be created, in my opinion, by a vigorous agitation of the subject, and the creation of a permanent Palisades Commission by the Legislature will indicate, in my judgment, a long step in that direction."

Chief Grant's Daughter Weds.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grant, of West Fifth street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Eudora Onderdonk, to Louis Lester Miller, of Westfield, Saturday. Mr. Miller is connected with the office of the C. & C. Electric Company, of Garwood, and is a well known member of the Westfield Club.

Annual Meeting Y. M. C. A.

The annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Thursday evening, when the report of the directors for the past year will be submitted and a new board of directed elected.

MONUMENT SCHEME HAS BEEN DROPPED.

No Shaft To Be Put Up To Honor The Soldiers.

ENCOURAGEMENT TOO POOR

COMMITTEE DECIDES TO ABANDON THE PROJECT.

Old Committee Failed to Co-operate With the New Committee, and the Financial Aid That was Promised was Insufficient to Warrant the Going On With the Intended Project.

Last Saturday evening there was a meeting of the soldiers' monument committee, and those present were Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, chairman; F. H. Smith, secretary; J. F. Buckle and W. C. Dobbins. The work of the committee was reviewed and the prospects for the success of the project discussed. After deliberation it was decided for the present to drop the matter. The committe has not received the encouragement that should have.

After repeated attempts to secure from the old soldiers' monument committee a report concerning the money collected by them and how much had been subscribed, and every attempt failed, the present committee has decided that they have not the proper basis. The old committee virtually agreed to turn over to the new committee its accounts, together with the money received and a list of those who have subcribed, but they have not done so and every effort has been a failure in this direction.

It was upon this that the new committee expected to work and they thought that it would furnish a substantial nucleus. Another thing that has argued against the project is the lack of enthusiasm displayed on the part of those who were counted upon. There is no doubt in the minds of the committee that a suitable monument should be erected, but they have decided that there are too many other things that are claiming the attention of the public to secure the necessary enthusiasm and money. In a few days Chairman W. C. O'Donnell will publish a signed statement concerning the work done by the committee and the facts in detail.

MOBBED THE SOUBRETTES.

Police Called Out to Protect Women From Men Angered by Lack of Spice in Show.

A theatrical troupe advertised as sensational and consisting of a number of women, who have been playing for the past week in Turn Hall, New Brunswick, was mobbed Saturday night after the performance because, owing to the police warning, the programme failed to redeem the promises of the lithographs and the advertisements. A crowd of several hundred men and boys surrounded the stage door of the theatre, on Dennis street, and, as the soubrettes emerged, captured them.

The women were made the centre of a veritable football scrimmage. The police reserves were called out to escort the women to their hotel. Many of them were hurt and bruised and all of them had their clothing torn. The manager of the company threatened to make complaints, but was unable to secure the names of any of those who figured in the incident.

A number of the company came to Plainfield last night and stopped here till this morning, when they went to Bound Brook where they appear tonight.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

F. S. Cutter, of East Second street, has purchased of Former City Judge W. A. Coddington his sorrel horse, "Doc," and pneumatic rubber-tired road wagon. It is a handsome turnout and Mr. Cutter expects to get much pleasure out of it to offset his close application to business as one of the receiving tellers in the New Amsterdam Bank, New York.

The ranks of owners of fine horseflesh in Plainfield have been added to in the person of J. W. Leary, superintendent of the Aluminum Plate and Press Company. Saturday night Mr. Leary purchased the bay mare owned by John Mantz. The mare is one of the best road horses in this vicinity, being able to step off at a 2:27 gait at any moment. The purchase includes the complete outfit, which is one of the nattiest turn-outs in the city. Mr. Leary made the purchase for the purposes of pleasure only. He will not have the mare driven on the race track. Mr. Leary has owned several fine pieces of horse-flesh in the past while a resident of New Haven, and he feels very proud of his present acquisition.

NO CHANGE, NO NEWS

London Worries Over General Buller's Movements.

WARREN FINDS COLENSO DESERTED

Rumors That Boers Are to Leave Natal, Being Depressed by Recent Heavy Losses—Ladysmith Said to Have Been Relieved.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Lord Roberts' enigmatical announcement, "No change in the situation," does nothing to allay public anxiety or to explain the mystery surrounding General Buller's movements on the Tugela, although there is a disposition to regard the dispatch as disposing of Saturday's adverse rumors. The week has opened in a state of suspense almost equal to that of last week, because it is recognized that failure in General Buller's present attempt would seal the fate of Ladysmith.

Presumably "No change in the situation" refers to previous dispatches sent to the war office which have not yet been revealed to the public. Except the announcement of the seizure of Potgieter's drift and of the advance of General Warren there has been no news from the Tugela for a week. A ray of hope is in the fact that the same silence prevails from the Boer side. Thus it may perhaps be fairly inferred that General Buller has not yet met a serious check.

If the announcement of General Warren's movement be correct, it is evident that General Buller's forces are spread over a very wide front, perhaps 25 miles, and in the event of a sudden fall of the river his operations might be full of danger. It is believed that General Buller has no good survey maps of the district. This will add to his difficulties.

Sir Charles Warren's advance probably means an attempt to seize Hlangwane hill, the main post of the Boers south of the Tugela. Upon the success or failure of these operations depends the whole future of the campaign.

The Standard publishes the following from Ladysmith, dated Jan. 11, by heliograph, via Weenen:

"The Boers are fortifying positions north and west of Ladysmith doubtless with a view of securing a safe line of retreat should their opposition to General Buller's advance fail. They still surround Ladysmith in large numbers and may be contemplating another attack.

"It is known, however, that they are greatly depressed by their heavy losses. Prior to Saturday they were perfectly confident of their ability to defeat the garrison and to take possession of the town."

A dispatch from Ladysmith by heliograph, dated Jan. 12, says: "The besiegers have been quiet for two days, but can be seen in active movement on the distant hills. We have perceived two small bodies galloping with two machine guns. The Boer heavy piece on Bulwana hill has not been fired for two days. More Boer dead have been found at the base of Cæsar's camp.

"All is well here."

A dispatch from Modder River, dated Jan. 11, says: "General Babington, with two regiments of lancers, the Victorian Mounted rifles and a battery of horse artillery, left here on the evening of Jan. 7 and crossed the Free State border next morning.

"Simultaneously other movements were made. A column under Colonel Pilcher went from Belmont to the south of General Babington's route, while a portion of the garrisons of Klokfontein and Honey Nest kloof under Major Byrne advanced toward Jacobsdal.

"General Babington penetrated 12 miles and his scouts 20. They saw no signs of armed Boers. The farmhouses were found empty, the occupants having had news of the advance and gone farther into the interior. The British bivouacked at Ramdon. They burned three farmhouses, the property of Lubbe, one of the Boer leaders. Yesterday they swept around southward, returning here today. Nothing was accomplished except a reconnoissance.

"Colonel Pilcher came into touch with General Babington and then returned to Belmont. Major Byrne reconnoitered the hills about four miles from Jacobsdal and saw 700 Boers."

The war office issued at midnight a dispatch from Field Marshal Roberts, dated Cape Town, Sunday, Jan. 14, 8:30 p. m., saying:

"There is no change in the situation today."

The war office simultaneously issued the following from Lord Roberts, dated Cape Town, Jan. 13, 3:30 p. m.:

"Methuen's cavalry reconnoissance returned on Jan. 11. Went 25 miles into Free State. Country clear of enemy, except patrols. All quiet at Modder River.

"French reconnoitered around the enemy's left flank on Jan. 10. Advanced from Sliumger's farm on Jan. 11 with cavalry and horse artillery to bombard Boer laager east of Colesberg Junction, but was unable to outflank the enemy.

"Reconnoissance of cavalry and mounted infantry pushed north of Bastard's nek and examined country north of ridge. Gatacre reports no change. All well on Dec. 28 at Mafeking."

A dispatch from Boer headquarters at Colenso, dated Jan. 11, says:

"Everything points to a great battle within the next few days. Ladysmith for the last two nights has been firing rockets. The object is not known here."

A Durban dispatch, dated Jan. 10, reports:

"There is a Boer commando in Zambaan's country, Zululand, within a day's march of the sea, with wagons. It is believed to be waiting for supplies and ammunition secretly landed near St. Lucia bay. The Boers have looted all the stores and mines in the Swaziland territory, and the ruined natives are completing the work of destruction."

A dispatch to the Daily Mail, dated Jan. 12, from Pietermaritzburg, says:

"Sir Charles Warren marched with 11,000 men eastward from Frere by way of Weenen. His scouts found no sign of the enemy at Grobler's kloof, while Colenso was ascertained to be deserted.

"There are rumors that the Boers are preparing to leave Natal, discouraged by their failure to reduce Ladysmith. All the colonials and irregulars have been placed under General Warren's command.

"Among the Free Staters killed in the attack on Ladysmith on Jan. 6 was Commandant de Villiers, who but for his well known friendliness to England would have been commander in chief of the Free State forces."

Rumor of Ladysmith's Relief.

DURBAN, Jan. 15.—The entire absence of news from Chieveley or Frere camp continues, but there is a persistent rumor here that Ladysmith has been relieved.

TRYING DUTCH TRAITORS.

Prosecutions by British May Make More Rebels.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 15.—The proceedings for treason instituted against the Dutch colonials who were taken in arms at Sunnyside are being pressed. Witnesses have been interrogated, the preliminary examination before the magistrate will be held later, and the trial will probably be conducted by the supreme court.

The colonial Dutch point out that these prosecutions will serve to make more rebels, as they consider the treatment of the prisoners designed to terrify them. Some Britons regard the prosecutions as impolitic, in view of the fact that the Boers are able to retaliate upon 100 British officers and 2,500 privates in their hands and might do so unless all who fight in the Boer ranks are treated as prisoners of war.

The Boers keep up a continuous sniping at Dordrecht.

Five colonial scouts were captured last week.

The American residents gave a dinner to Mr. Webster Davis, United States assistant secretary of the interior.

Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener were most fervidly received on their arrival at Cape Town.

KRUGER PREDICTS SUCCESS.

Threats Against Prisoners if Embargo Is Not Removed at Delagoa.

PRETORIA via Lourenco Marques, Jan. 15.—President Kruger, in the course of a stirring address just issued to the burghers, affirms that Providence is on their side, that their cause is just and that they must succeed.

Reports from Colesberg represent the position there as favorable to the republicans, but that the British are concentrating for operations on a large scale. The official list of the Boer casualties in what is called the "Plat Rand fight" on Saturday, Jan. 6 (the attack upon Ladysmith), shows 26 killed and 77 wounded. These figures are described as the "first return."

The embargo at Delagoa Bay upon Transvaal imports is the question of the hour with the burghers. If this be not removed, it is asserted that steps will be taken prejudicial to prisoners and aliens.

ESCAPE FOILED.

Prisoners of an Illinois Jail Break For Liberty, but In Vain.

BELLEVILLE, Ills., Jan. 15.—Thirty prisoners in the St. Clair county jail made a break for liberty Saturday. One of them was mortally wounded. The sheriff was wounded. Turnkey Phillips opened the door to the cage to give the prisoners their supper. A trusty pinioned his arms, and the others rushed out of the cage.

The turnkey was forced into a corner and handcuffed, and his revolver and keys were taken from him. His cries for help were heard by Sheriff Barniskal, who was at supper. As he ran up the stairs Ed Revely, a prisoner, fired at him. He threw his left arm over his head and received the bullet in his fore arm. He shot the prisoner twice. One bullet entered his abdomen, and he is dying.

When the police arrived in answer to a riot call, the men could not get into the jail until the doors had been broken down with sledge hammers. The prisoners were then driven back into their cells.

FIGHTING CONTINUES.

Filipinos Routed In the Cebu Mountains—Two Towns Taken.

MANILA, Jan. 15.—A battalion of the Nineteenth infantry has routed the Sudlon rebels in the Cebu mountains. Considerable ammunition and a smooth bore cannon were captured. Four Americans were wounded.

Captain Benson, with troops E and K of the Fourth cavalry, occupied Humingau in the province of Nueva Ecija on Jan. 10. Senor Flores, the rebel "secretary of war," was establishing a rendezvous for the insurgents at this place. Flores and a garrison of 100 insurgents escaped. The barracks, which had a capacity for 500 soldiers and contained a ton of rice, were burned.

Major Thomas L. Hartigan of the Thirtieth volunteer infantry has occupied Magallanes in the province of Albay and captured the rebel colonel in command of the insurgent forces there.

Burned In Their Home.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 15.—A. Blanchard and his wife and a boarder by the name of W. Money, who resided in the town of Merrimac, were burned to death in their home Sunday night, and the cause of the fire is unknown. When the bodies were discovered, nothing could be told. They were in the habit of using kerosene to light their fires, and it is thought that an explosion took place and set fire to the house. All the bodies were burned to a crisp and wholly beyond recognition.

Rapid Transit In Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 15.—The Kansas City and Leavenworth Electric Railway company will open its road tomorrow. The last trial trip made the distance, 21 miles, in a little more than an hour. Should the line prove a good investment it is more than probable that all the towns within 60 miles of Kansas City will be connected by a big electric rapid transit system. Right of way franchises have already been secured for a similar line between Topeka and this city.

Two Editors Shot.

DENVER, Jan. 15.—Frederick G Bonfils and H. H. Tammen, proprietors of The Evening Post, were shot while in their office by W. W. Anderson, a prominent lawyer. It is said that neither was wounded mortally. Both were able to walk to carriages and ride home.

Ex-President's Brother Injured.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Jan. 15.—J. S Harrison, a real estate man of Kansas City, a brother of ex-President Harrison was kicked in the head by a vicious horse here. He was knocked senseless, and his skull was fractured. His physicians hope for his recovery.

Compiling a Dictionary.

Nearly everyone has had the bright idea that it must be a tremendous amount of work to get up a dictionary, but few have any notion of the real size of the task. When Johnson got his famous dictionary started he calculated that, with six assistants, he could complete the task in three years. It took him nine years instead. He received the small recompense of $7,500, and had to pay his assistants out of that.

Webster worked 24 years before his dictionary made its bow to the world. Webster was very punctilious in his definitions, and so painstaking that it was a wonder he completed the work when he did.

The words which give the compiler of a dictionary the most trouble are the little one-syllable Saxon words. Their history extends back into the Saxon period, and their meaning has become twisted in many directions. Words with pedigrees are the hardest to trace.

When a new dictionary is projected one man is selected as editor-in-chief and he appoints his subeditors. Then appeals are sent out to literary people in general for voluntary contributions in the nature of rare and curious words. There are over 1,000 people who have offered their services in the case of a dictionary now making. They are to read standard works, ancient and modern, in the search for curious words, their origin and meaning. These words, written on slips of paper, are filed in thousands of pigeon-holes. Over six tons of clips have been put away. This means 6,000,000 words. But only 1,000,000 will be printed. The amount of work necessary to properly sort these is evident.

Wall Paper, Ancient and Modern.

A recent issue of Paper Trade contains some interesting points concerning the development of the wall paper industry. While various kinds of printed fabrics were known to the people of most remote antiquity, it was not till the eighteenth century that wall paper in anything like its present form came into common use in Europe though it appears to have been used much earlier in China.

A few rare examples which may be as early as the sixteenth century exist in England, but these are imitations, generally in "flock," of the old Florentine and Genoese cut velvets, and hence the style of the design in no way shows the date of the wall paper, the same, traditional patterns being reproduced with little or no change for many years.

THE KENTUCKY CASE

Hearing Before the Legislative Committee Begun.

REPUBLICANS PLAN TO RETAIN OFFICE

Ex-Governor Bradley Denounces the Report of His Conference With Republicans and Anti-Goebelites. Senatorship Promise Denied.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 15.—The hearing of the evidence in the contests for governor and lieutenant governor began at 9:30 this morning. The committee to try the contest in the case of the governorship is composed of ten Democrats and one Republican.

The committee in the case of the lieutenant governor is composed of nine Democrats and two Republicans. Representative Hickman is chairman of the committee trying the governorship case, and Senator Coleman is chairman of the lieutenant governorship committee. Under the rules already adopted by the committee the contestants are given four days in which to introduce their proof. The contestees then are given five days in which to present their side, and one day is allowed the contestant to bring in rebuttal evidence. Both sides are to be given a reasonable time for argument by counsel in addition to Louis McQuown and John K. Hendrick, who will act as general counsel. Mr. Goebel will have special counsel who will look after his case when certain counts are being considered. Judge James P. Tarvin of Covington, Seack Philips and Aaron Kohn of Louisville will be among the Goebel special counsel. Former Governor W. O. Bradley, Judge W. H. Yost of Lexington, Judge A. P. Humphrey and David W. Forleigh of Louisville will be among those who will look after Governor Taylor's case.

Senator Blackburn, who has been in Washington for several days, will return tonight, and his close friends call silly the stories that he has relaxed in his support of Goebel. It is said he will remain here and assist Goebel till the fight is ended.

The Republican leaders claim to have encouraging news from the eminent lawyers who are representing the Republican contestees. They claim to have assurances that even if Governor Taylor and Lieutenant Governor Marshall be unseated by the legislature they will institute proceedings before Federal Judge Evans at Louisville to restrain the Democratic contestants from taking the offices and that a year or more will elapse before the case can be finally decided, as the case will be carried up to the supreme court no matter how it may be decided by the inferior courts. Meanwhile they say the Republicans will hold the offices. Senator Goebel's attorneys and the Goebel leaders generally do not think there is anything in this claim, as they insist that no federal question is involved, and the case if filed would have no standing in the federal courts. Ex-Governor Bradley gave out an interview last night in response to the charge that he was in conference with the Republicans and the anti-Goebel Democrats at Louisville prior to the election. He said:

"The statement that I was the agent of a plan to confuse or terrorize the voters in Louisville or to carry the election by force of arms or money is a malicious falsehood. The statement that I was induced to take part in the campaign by promise of the senatorship is also a deliberate lie. I went into the campaign because I felt it my duty to the party and to the country, especially after the opposition speeches and platform were leveled at my administration."

Sought Death In the Genesee.

ROCHESTER, Jan. 15.—An unknown young man, well dressed in a dark suit, with a dark cap, was seen to leap from Central avenue bridge into the Genesee river yesterday afternoon and was carried over the falls and drowned. The young man, whose identity promises to remain a mystery for some length of time, walked out upon the bridge and after watching the rushing waters below several minutes with the evident purpose of locating the deepest and swiftest part of the river suddenly, without a word, jumped from the bridge and struck the water on his back. A short distance below the bridge the body was thrown into an upright position in the rapids, and the stranger was seen to pull his cap down more firmly upon his head. Then he shot over the falls and struck the river below, a distance of 96 feet.

B. and O. Improvements.

MITCHELL, Ind., Jan. 15.—The Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern is spending $1,500,000 straightening and shortening its line through Indiana more than five miles preparatory to cutting the schedule between St. Louis and Cincinnati from nine to eight hours. Four thousand men will be worked just as soon as the weather permits, and the road will be practically rebuilt across Indiana. One of the greatest changes is made by tunneling the hills in the Willow valley and the big hill west of this city. The Willow valley tunnel will be 1,080 feet in length and will cut off more than two miles and many sharp curves. The big tunnel east of Mitchell is being lowered nine feet. It is 1,700 feet in length.

Killed In a Coal Shaft.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 15.—Two men lost their lives in an accident at the Barnum shaft of the Pennsylvania Coal company at Pittston Junction. The victims were Fred Smalz and Michael Maloski, both laborers. They were ascending in the carriage, when in some manner they were jostled off and fell down the shaft, a distance of 120 feet.

Editor Takes a Rest.

WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 15.—Thomas D. Wells has retired from the editorship of the Waterbury Republican, taking this step in order to get rid of night work. Mr. Wells has been connected with The Republican for 11 years. After a brief vacation he will resume newspaper work.

Enormous Exports of American Farm Products.

ENGLAND TAKES THE LION'S SHARE

Four Years' Figures Show an Average Annual Export of $663,536,201—Of This the United Kingdom Took Sixty Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Mr. Frank H. Hitchcock, chief of the foreign markets division of the agricultural department, has prepared an interesting collation of figures showing for the first time the respective amounts of our agricultural exports which go to the several countries of Europe and to other countries. The period covered is 1894 to 1898. The statement shows that the agricultural products exported from the United States during the five years had an average annual value of $663,536,201. Of these enormous exports about 60 per cent found a market in the United Kingdom and its various dependencies. The sum paid by the British people for the American farm produce purchased during the period mentioned reached as high as $403,953,854 a year. Great Britain alone took more than one-half of all our agricultural exports, the consignments credited to that country forming about 55 per cent of the total shipments and having an average annual value of $362,407,701.

Germany, which ranks next to the United Kingdom as a market for the products of American agriculture, received about 13 per cent of the exports for 1894-98, the average yearly value amounting to $86,320,274.

France, with purchases that averaged $43,988,790 a year, or about 6.6 per cent of the total, was the third country in importance. These three countries—the United Kingdom, Germany and France—received together nearly 75 per cent of the total agricultural exports.

After the three countries just mentioned the Netherlands, Belgium, Canada, Italy and Spain afforded the most important markets. The Netherlands bought 4.3 per cent of the total, Belgium 3.6 per cent, Canada 3.5 per cent, Italy 2.2 per cent and Spain 1.5 per cent. The average annual values of the exports to these countries were: Netherlands, $28,803,156; Belgium, $23,731,669; Canada, $23,020,517; Italy, $14,264,424, and Spain, $9,761,870. Brazil took $6,258,729; Cuba, $6,099,824; Denmark, $5,990,952 (exports to that country doubling during the five year period); the British West Indies, $5,241,657; Mexico, $4,636,486; British Africa, $4,138,920, and European Russia, $4,060,236.

These figures show that with very few exceptions the leading foreign countries materially increased their purchases of American agricultural products during 1894-8. In the total value of the agricultural exports there was an advance from $636,633,747 in 1894 to $858,507,942 in 1898, making a gain of $221,874,195. The countries of destination that contributed most to this increase were the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Belgium, Canada, the Netherlands, Japan, Italy, Denmark and British Africa.

Our exports of farm products to the United Kingdom increased $82,588,854 during the five years, to Germany $46,441,338 and to France $33,415,208.

The summary brings out the fact that about 88 per cent of all the farm produce shipped from the United States during the five years mentioned was marketed in Europe, the annual average being $586,958,907.

A Bold Robbery.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 15.—In true western fashion a lone robber, masked and armed, cleaned out two restaurants in the center of the city at 6 o'clock yesterday morning under the glare of an electric light. In Lewis' restaurant, at 1210 Walnut street, he pointed a pistol at the cashier and robbed the cash register, while he kept his revolver in plain view of two customers eating nearby. He went across the street to the restaurant of Robert McClintock, covered the cashier and commanded two waiters and three customers to hold up their hands. They complied promptly, and the robber emptied the register in a twinkling. He pocketed the contents, $146, and disappeared.

Harrison Will Not Run.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Mayor Carter Harrison has refused formally the offer of the Democratic nomination for governor. He was waited on by Chairman Watson of the Democratic state committee, in company with ex-Congressman Hinrichsen and M. F. Dunlap of Jacksonville, nominee of the party for state treasurer in 1898, and asked if his informal declination of the nomination was final. They urged that it was his duty to the state Democracy to accept the nomination and make the race. The mayor replied that he did not look at it in that light, that there were plenty of good men who would make acceptable candidates, and he must decline.

Letter Carrier a Thief.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The mystery of the thefts of thousands of letters sent out for city delivery from the Chicago postoffice in the last three months has been solved by the arrest of a mail carrier, Fred Lawrence Buck of 2256 Wilcox avenue. Inspectors who watched him for hours discovered convincing evidences of his guilt, and after he was taken into custody stolen letters, money orders, checks and cash were found in his pockets. Then he confessed to pilfering for more than three months.

Wreck Still Unidentified.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 15.—The gale has not yet blown itself out, and the sea is still too rough to allow boats to get near the wreck in St. Mary's bay. As yet there is nothing to show the name of the vessel. Ten bodies have been located among the rocks, and others can be seen floating about. Plans have been made for recovering these as soon as the weather permits, and it may then be possible to get at the name of the steamer from pieces of boats wedged in the clefts of the rocks.

Dynamiter Sentenced.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—Leander Kimball was sentenced Saturday by Judge Meredith to seven years' imprisonment in Kingston penitentiary for having dynamite in his possession. The two Varcoe murderers—McIntosh, who was killed by a policeman, and Williams, awaiting the death penalty—were safe blowers, and enough dynamite to blow up the whole town, shipped by them to Kimball, who ran a repair shop here, was found on Kimball's premises after his arrest.

If your hands are rough, hard or chapped from the repeated washings necessary to keep them free from the office dirt, examine carefully the soap you use. If it is a cheap toilet soap, you will find that it is greasy, acrid and irritating.

Ivory Soap makes a profuse lather that removes the dirt and rinses easily, leaving the skin soft and clean.

If your office force is large there are two considerations that will recommend Ivory Soap to you. It is quick in action, saving time; and is inexpensive.

Send the office boy for some and try it.

TO ELEVATE THE NEGRO.

Professor Washington Unfolds His Plans In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Hundreds of colored people of Chicago crowded into Bethel church to hear Booker T. Washington discuss the movement for a new fraternal insurance organiation for colored people. Among those seated on the rostrum were the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch, State Attorney Charles H. Deneen, Judge C. C. Kohlsaat, Judge Orrin C. Carter, Judge Richard Tuthill, Hon. Patrick H. O'Donnell and Miss Jane Addams.

Professor Washington said: "In seeking to give encouragement to this movement I do so because it is in line with the teaching to which my life is largely devoted, that of helping the race to prepare itself for industry, business, to exercise thrift and economy, to save money, to help lay up something for a rainy day. Neither actively, officially or financially can I enter into the business of this organization, for I am determined to let nothing draw me aside from the work that I have undertaken for the elevation of our people through the medium of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute at Tuskegee, Ala.

"A few days ago I was asked by a gentleman in the north in what manner could the negroes' interests in the south be protected. My answer was, 'Assist us in making the negro the most useful man in his community.' Usefulness will constitute our almost lasting and potent protection whether we live in the north or in the south."

INDIANS MAY RISE.

Canada Fears Trouble With Her Northwest Tribes.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—There is fear of the Canadian Indians in the Northwest rising owing to the withdrawal of some of the mounted police for the Transvaal. The condition is considered serious. Clifford Sifton, minister of the interior, and the commissioner have telegraphed the Indian agents to warn the Indians that misconduct on their part will mean a stoppage of the government bounty, and any outbreak will be suppressed by force. The white men and half breeds who have been doing their best to foment trouble will be made to leave the country.

The department of the interior was informed by cipher telegram that a serious state of affairs exists in the northwest portion of Assiniboia and Alberta along the Saskatchewan. The Indians of the northern districts, principally the Crees, it appears, have been taking a great interest in the South African war and have been most anxious to get every scrap of news concerning it. At first their anxiety to get news seemed to be merely that of members of a fighting race who took an interest in any trouble anywhere, but within the past fortnight affairs have taken on a dangerous aspect.

Says Hoar Caused Insurrection.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—John Barrett, ex-United States minister to Siam, for the first time publicly named Senator Hoar at Lake Forest university as the United States senator whose antiexpansion speech was called to Hongkong and subsequently put in the hands of the Filipino soldiers, causing, as Mr. Barrett believed, the open insurrection. Frequently this speech and its presumed effect have been mentioned, and the reading public has connected the name of Senator Hoar with it, and it is probable that Mr. Barrett would not have used the lawmaker's name on this occasion had he not been facing an audience known to be largely hostile to the administration's policy in the oriental islands. It appeared further from the ex-minister's speech that the government had discovered privately the stages by which the antiexpansion address reached Luzon.

Ohioans May Not Celebrate.

TOLEDO, Jan. 15.—The directors of the Ohio Centennial company have announced that unless $338,000 stock subscriptions are forthcoming from the public within one week they will abandon the project of celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the admission of Ohio into the Union in 1902. The directors of the enterprise have been trying for nearly a year to raise $500,000, which amount is necessary before government and state appropriations are available. It is thought that if the present company abandons the centennial project a new company will be formed here or that the centennial may go to Cleveland or some other Ohio city.

Home After Nineteen Years.

TRENTON, Jan. 15.—Richard Raywood, 19 years missing from home, ate dinner yesterday with his wife and son. The latter was but a little boy when his father one day disappeared, leaving no trace. From that time until recently nothing was heard from him. He will not talk about himself, neither will his wife nor son say anything about what he did or where he was during his long years of absence. Mr. and Mrs. Raywood will leave here this week to take up their residence at Springfield, Mass., where, it is said, Mr. Raywood has a handsome home awaiting her.

Factories Short of Coal.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Inability to secure bituminous coal in sufficient quantities is necessitating the shutting down of some of the manufacturing concerns in the Schuylkill valley. At Bordsboro the plant of the E. & G. Brooke Iron company has been shut down for several days. The Reading Iron company is practically without coal, and unless it can be secured a temporary shutdown must follow. From other points throughout the valley come reports of coal shortages for manufacturing plants.

Sherman For Senate Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—When the caucus of Republican senators reassembles next Friday, the caucus committee appointed to select candidates for the elective offices in the senate and to distribute the patronage will present the name of James S. Sherman of Utica, a member of congress from the Twenty-fifth New York district, for secretary of the senate. It is said there is no doubt of his acceptance.

The Plague In Australia.

ADELAIDE, South Australia, Jan. 15.—The health authorities report two cases of bubonic plague here, one being fatal. The victim was a runaway sailor from the British bark Formosa.

A UNIVERSITY CRISIS.

President and Faculty at Odds—One or the Other Must Go.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—This is a time of anxiety among those connected either directly or indirectly with the University of Cincinnati. Following the declaration of President Ayers that the members of the faculty should all resign and that he would then accept such resignations as he might select comes a movement on the part of the professors to stand together and not only refuse to resign, but for all to quit if the trustees at a special meeting today sustain the recent decree of President Ayres. The trustees last year before electing President Ayres adopted a resolution giving the president power to appoint members of the faculty and declare vacancies. One of the professors said yesterday:

"Every bridge has been burned. Even if the trustees should refuse to sanction what has been done we would decline to be longer associated with Mr. Ayres. One or the other must go."

The students, alumni and others have been industriously conferring with the trustees regarding the crisis.

CUBAN SCHOOL STATISTICS.

Blanks Prepared For Information. Disinterring American Dead.

HAVANA, Jan. 15.—Mr. Alexis E. Frye, superintendent of Cuban schools, has prepared a series of blank forms to be filled in by the mayors of the various municipalities with statistics regarding schools in their respective districts. It is also intended by means of these reports to determine the share the various schools should have in the furniture and other school material now being purchased.

The work of disinterring the remains of Americans is in progress at Colon cemetery. The bodies of 70 have been disinterred. Some 40 workmen, who began at $1.50 a day, went on strike for twice that amount, but other workmen were immediately hired.

The sugar planters have suffered severely from the drought this season.

In consequence of the war in the Transvaal the price of coal is now prohibitive, and wood is being burned in furnaces, which is a source of great inconvenience.

Trying to Make Virtue Pay.

One of the bitterest quarrels that is now raging between newspaper competitors—and Jersey journalists always seem to be fighting with one another—is to be seen in New Brunswick. The New Brunswick Home News charges a representative of The Fredonian with sending exaggerated and sensational stories of local incidents to the New York Herald, thereby injuring the fair name of the city. The Home News man therefore demands the discharge of The Fredonian as the representative of The Herald. If this was the end of the affair everything would be serene. But right here is where the trouble begins. In making the charge against The Fredonian man, The Home News writer uses it as a basis for asking for the appointment as Herald representative, the job being worth, probably, from $50 to $100 per month.

The outcome of such a condition of affairs very naturally leads to strained relations between the two journalists, and what The Fredonian does not say in criticism of The Home News' use of virtue in order to increase the finances of one of its own tribe, is scarcely worth saying. To an impartial observer it does seem that The Home News has indulged in very unprofessional and despicable conduct in making the charges such as it has, and then using them as a basis for depriving one man of a job in order that the assailant may secure it himself.

The Fredonian utters the belief that there is not another man in the newspaper business in New Jersey who would be guilty of such contemptible action. That is where they are mistaken. Right here in Plainfield we have one of the like. We refer to our esteemed friend of the News. For over six months Editor Runyon kept up a running fire of lies and villification of the work of a member of the staff of The Daily Press for several New York papers—palably for the same purpose as the Home News man has done. But he never succeeded in his designs, and as a matter of fact has since been discharged himself by the sole newspaper which he finally had left out of a one-time almost monopoly of the New York newspaper correspondence list.

New York newspapers are now changing correspondents every day to satisfy the spleen and selfishness of competitors of the men that represent their interests in suburban towns, and so it is likely that the Fredonian man will come out on top, though he may worry somewhat now.

In a Doleful Mood.

Whenever the esteemed editor of the Elizabeth Journal commences to discuss the prospects of trolley connections between Elizabeth and Plainfield, he seems to be in a doleful mood. Contrary to his general good humor, trolley talk always makes him pessimistic. It is evident that he had one of his mournful moods last Friday, for on that day a long editorial appeared in the Journal under the caption "Will It Build?"

The article, of course, referred to the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company's intentions. It was couched in despairing tones, and to one who was not acquainted with the real situation an impression would be gained that Elizabethians had good cause for setting down and having a real good crying spell over the dark outlook, as our Journal friend seemed to be doing himself.

Our advice to the Journal editor is to have a little patience. Wait and see. As we have said before, the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company must enter Elizabeth under such a franchise as the City Council insists on giving them. The company has no other alternative—except to quit right where it is, and that will never happen.

Cheer up, esteemed Journal, as your frowns must necessarily turn to smiles eventually, although even then we doubt whether or not you will be willing to admit it.

Politics Do Not Pay Here.

There were two sales last year of the real estate property held by the State Sinking Fund. The Arrowsmith farm, in Somerset, which cost the State $13,919,71, was sold for $2,000 cash and $2,000 on mortgage. The Hoagland farm, also in Somerset, which cost the State $9,385.74, was sold for $2,000 cash and $3,500 mortgage. Net loss to the State on the two sales, $13,805.45.

The above instances, together with several others in different parts of the State of a similar nature, leads the Newark Advertiser to comment:

The loans to favored individuals made by Sinking Fund Commissioners in past years were upon properties not worth the face value of the mortgage, and, in many cases, as the mortgage interest was defaulted, the fund had to foreclose and buy in the properties. The fund has carried them year after year, deriving little or no income from them. The best of the lot have been sold, and what remain would probably not bring over twenty-five per cent. of their cost.

There is hardly any need of commenting upon this exhibit of political management of a State Trust, the figures speak too eloquently for that.

Probable City Hall Site.

It is reported on excellent authority that the special committee on city hall site has about made up its mind as to which one is the most desirable, and that they will report favorably on the site located on East Front street between Powlison & Jones' building and the Y. M. C. A. This information is not official, but is considered reliable. During the past few days the committee has been communicating with architects, and other people who will be needed in the construction of the building and it is said that complete estimates are being obtained for the cost of the building.

The best time to advertise is when it is desirable to draw profits from a business venture, says the Philadelphia Record. Since the enjoyment of profits is the permanent object of financial investment, it follows that advertising is alwas necessary. All successful merchants have found this to be true.

Robert Davis has a signed article in the Jersey City Evening Journal in favor of abolishing the present board of 7 chosen freeholders and the substitution of a commission to be elected by the people. And when Sir Robert speaks let ordinary people have a care.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Congratulations to Hon. James E. Martine, the farmer orator of New Jersey. For the Hon. William J. Bryan is to be the guest of honor under his hospitable roof, when visiting this State. But how shall we administer comfort to Hon. Wm. D. Daly, who has declared that the free silver issue is dead? It would, however, be just like Hon. James E Martine to fully forgive Mr. Daly, and invite him to his generous home while Mr. Bryan is his guest.—Elizabeth Journal.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS BEST.

One of Gatacre's Scouts In South Africa So Asserts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—In the second cabin of the St. Paul, which has just arrived, was a young man dressed in a khaki uniform. A sword clanked from his belt, and he carried a carbine in a leather case. The young man was George Clarke and said he was from South Africa, where he was one of General Gatacre's scouts. He was taken with the fever, and his horse fell upon him, he said. He has come here to recuperate.

"I was in Cuba during the Spanish-American war," he said. "You can say for me that Tommy Atkins is a good man, but he is not the equal of the American soldier. Tommy is better fed, though, than was the American soldier in Cuba."

In speaking of the way General Gatacre was ambushed at Dundee the rough rider said:

"As one of the scouts it was my duty to go ahead of the army. For two days before the battle we knew the disposition of the Boers, but the kopjes are so much alike in that country that you cannot tell one from another. Although you can use a compass, you cannot tell where you are, and so it was that General Gatacre found himself early in the morning with the Boers on each side of him. Three of my comrades fell in the fight."

GRAIN-O! GRAIN-O!

Remember that name when you want a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it. Grain-O is made of pure grain, it aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder and the children as well as the adults can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee. 15c. and 25c. per package. Ask your grocer for Grain-O.

A prominent vocal instructor, living in one of the prosperous cities of Connecticut, relates a curious experience: "In learning," she says, "to properly place and sustain the tone, pupils sometimes feel a faintness and dizziness arising from the peculiar action of the diaphragm and the effort of controlling of the breath. I have known a girl to actually have to sit down for fear of fainting. I became convinced that the difficulty came from a weak stomach and talked with my physician about it. He was inclined to think that I had the right solution of the trouble. Some time after that I, from time to time, gave a Ripans Tabule to a pupil, suggesting that it be taken before coming to the next lesson. The effect was precisely what I had hoped. The pupils were relieved of the difficulty and able to take the full half hour of vocal exercise without any of the old trouble. It seems a queer use to make of a medicine, but it was effective."

Rice Growing in America

It Is Rapidly Becoming one of the GREAT INDUSTRIES of the South.

TO THE people of the northern states the idea of eating American-grown rice has hardly presented itself. With them the subject of rice is connected with China, with India or with Japan. But during the past year one-third of the rice consumed in this country was home grown.

The history of rice cultivation in the United States dates back to early colonial times, the records showing an attempt at its cultivation in Virginia in 1647. It was not until the present century, however, that it became an idea of any importance to the districts which produced it. By the year 1847 this country was producing practically all the rice needed for home consumption, and in that year the three states of North and South Carolina and Georgia produced the enormous total of 115,477,200 pounds. That, however, was the banner year until 1860, when the total of 1847 was exceeded by some 2,000,000 pounds. Then came the civil war, and the rice fields of the south were destroyed by the contending armies, until the production had dropped to less than 2,000,000 pounds per year.

Since the close of the civil war the increase in the production has been gradual, and at the same time the field has shifted from the Carolinas and Georgia to Louisiana and Texas. Louisiana now produces far more than one-half of all the rice grown in the United States. During the year 1899 there was grown in the United States 136,900,720 pounds of rice, and of this Louisiana produced the enormous amount of 107,792,000 pounds.

The total imports of rice into the United States for the year 1899 amounted to 204,177,293 pounds.

There are several conditions of soil and climate necessary for the successful cultivation of rice. A moist climate, the means of irrigation and an impervious subsoil are all necessary if the cereal is to be grown successfully. With the means of irrigation alone rice could be grown almost anywhere south of the Ohio river, but in much of the territory the crops would not compare in either quality or quantity with the crops grown abroad or along the gulf states, and so could not compete successfully in the world's markets. The one great essential that is lacking in much of this territory is the moist climate. As an example, in southwestern Louisiana the winds from the gulf are laden with moisture, and the north winds are dry, and consequently the lands along the south side of a lake or large pond usually produce two barrels per acre more than on the north side, although other conditions of soil and moisture may be equal. Again, the island of Kiushu, Japan, produces on an average three barrels of rice per acre more than the remainder of the empire. This is because the island is situated where the warm ocean currents first strike the cooler lands and give off a large amount of moisture.

According to the best estimates there are about 10,000,000 acres of land in the five states bordering the Gulf of Mexico well suited to rice cultivation. The amount which can be successfully irrigated by present methods, using the available surface and artesian flows, does not exceed 3,000,000 acres. The balance of the land could probably be brought into cultivation were it necessary, but the cost would, perhaps, be prohibitive at present prices. Three million acres is a conservative estimate of the amount which can be successfully irrigated. The best results require rotation of crops; consequently only one-half of that amount, or 1,500,000 acres, would be in rice at any one time. At an average yield of ten barrels (of 162 pounds) per acre, 1,500,000 acres of rice would produce nearly 2,500,000 pounds of cleaned rice, nearly six times the amount of our present consumption. It will be noted by referring to the preceding table that the imports for 1899 show a considerable increase over preceding years. The crop harvested in 1899 is said to be the largest which has ever been grown. Unofficial estimates place it at 300,000,000 pounds. It would appear from these figures that the demand for rice and rice products is increasing in the United States.

The outlook for the further extension of the industry is very promising. There has been recently quite an awakening among the farmers to the importance of this industry, so that there have been large annual increases in the area planted. There is no satisfactory reason why the United States should not grow and mill all of its own rice, nor is there any reason why the United States should not become an exporter.

The cultivation of rice is fast becoming a great industry in some of the southern states, and will in time equal, if not exceed, in importance the cultivation of sugar, tobacco and cotton. Improved machinery make it practicable for producers in these states to compete successfully with the rice-producing countries of the east, where all parts of the cultivation and milling of the cereal is performed by hand, for these reasons the southern planter is turning hopefully to rice as a product for their acres.

The revolution in the methods of growing rice has been as great as that caused by the introduction of modern agricultural machinery into the wheat fields, which has given the United States control of the markets of the world.

In 1884 and 1885 a few farmers from the northwestern prairie states settled on the great southern prairie which extends along the coast from the parish of St. Mary in Louisiana to the Texas line, about 140 miles. Finding that rice, which had been grown for many years for home consumption, but by oriental methods, was well suited to the conditions of agriculture here, they commenced immediately to adapt the agricultural machinery to which they had been accustomed to the rice industry. The gang plow, disc harrow, drill and broadcast seeder were readily adjusted, but the twine binder encountered a number of serious obstacles. However, by the close of 1886 the principal difficulties had been overcome. Wherever prairies were found sufficiently level, with an intersecting creek which could be used to flood them, they were surrounded by a small levee thrown up by a road grader or by a plow with a strong wing attached to the mold board extending it four or five feet. Very few interior ditches were made for drainage. The land was so level that fields of 40 and 80 acres were common. Large crops were produced, the prairies were practically free from injurious grasses, and the creek or river water was soft and bore no damaging seeds to the fields. The rice fields were handled like the bonanza wheat farms of Dakota, and fortunes were made.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

Some of the Things Which Tell of the Forward Movement.

Almost daily we hear of new honors pouring in upon the professional woman who is seeking to elevate as well as promote the interests of herself and sisters. Miss Beatrix Jones, daughter of Mrs. Cadwalader Jones, a young and attractive society woman of New York city, is winning new laurels. She is the only woman in America who has bent her energies toward landscape gardening. She will probably be appointed in this capacity and have entire charge of the grounds of the new cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul which is to be erected in Washington. Professor Sargent of Harvard university, who is generally known to be most kindly disposed toward the advancement of woman and the broadening out of her horizon, took particular interest in Miss Jones and made it possible not only for her to take his courses, but also to study at the Arnold Arboretum. As there are no schools for landscape gardening, Professor Sargent assisted Miss Jones in planning out a practical course, which combined surveying, road building and mineralogy, in addition to an exhaustive course on horticulture and forestry.

Miss Jones' method is to assume complete charge of the grounds after consulting with the architect as to the location of the house. Her most recent success was the planning and laying out of Chiltern, the new country home of Edgar Scott at Bar Harbor. Her plan is to direct her energies toward assisting nature. She advances the cardinal idea of having everything in keeping with the natural surroundings. In this one instance at least Miss Jones accomplished this to perfection, turning wild woodlands and swamps into enchanting bowers and terraced lawns.

Among the new society women who will grace the coming season in Washington is Miss Edith Root, daughter of Elihu Root, secretary of war.

Mrs. Ira E. Tutt is the founder and manager of an electric plant at Long Branch, Cal.

One of the strange features of the recent election in New York was a family feud which lost one man a job worth $60,000 a year, while his own nephew won from him a bet of $20,000 on his defeat. When Alderman McGarry, one of the Democratic leaders of Brooklyn, died some time ago, he left a fortune of $1,000,000, a widow and two ambitious sons. After his death the boys and their mother agreed that they would control the politics of the ward wherein the former alderman had been the leader. John Morrissey Gray, a brother of Mrs. McGarry, objected to this and essayed to be the leader himself. The political forces, ignoring the McGarrys, nominated Gray for a lucrative office. Then began a contest in which a woman's wit and tact proved more than a match for the political managers. Mrs. McGarry organized a campaign against her brother, personally directing the fight, generously unloosening her purse strings and opening her handsome residence as political headquarters. As a result Gray was defeated, all his colleagues on the Democratic ticket being elected by large majorities, and Mrs. McGarry triumphed as a political leader.

There recently arrived in this country the Countess Adeline Schimmelmann, who is known as the royal missionary. She goes around the world on her yacht Duen on a self imposed task of relieving misery wherever she finds it.

South Dakota has a "girl campaigner" in the person of Miss Hattie Rose Laube, daughter of a well known western inventor, who has made many political addresses. Politically she is a Republican, but one of her warmest friends is United States Senator W. A. Clark, a Democrat, the Montana copper king and multimillionaire.

One of the very few women who hold justices of the peace commissions from the governor of a state is Mrs. Louisa J. Cabel, an attractive widow of Lowell, Me. Mrs. Cabel not only holds court with becoming judicial dignity, but prosecutes pension claims, manages a farm and conducts an express business.

Miss Nellie Tully, a bright young woman who went to Colorado a few years ago, was recently elected treasurer of San Juan county, in that state.

Mary E. Trivett-Haight, wife of Attorney Charles V. Haight of Norwood, Ills., is one of the early pioneers in the work of original designs and interior decoration. Her work commands the highest prices and has won wide attention. She is a scrupulously conscientious worker and has made her fame by the originality and adroitness in execution of her designs. The beautiful decoration of the Woman's building and the entire interior of the Arkansas building at the World's fair in 1893 stand to her credit; also the erection and decoration of booths at the Atlanta exposition.

HIS KIND OF A SPOT

The Colonel Didn't Appreciate the Young Lady's Sentiment.

"Here we are!" exclaimed the gushful young woman. "Home again, home again, from a foreign shore!"

"I—er—understood that you had just been to Philadelphia," said Colonel Stillwell, who had met her at the depot.

"Yes."

"Do you allude to Philadelphia as a foreign sho'?"

"No. But I couldn't restrain my enthusiasm as I thought of the dear old spot from which I have been separated for four long days. Tell me, colonel, isn't there some dear old spot that you long for and which it would fill you with happiness to see once more?"

"I beg pardon!" exclaimed her escort, whose eyes had wandered to the world outside the street car. The colonel never did like this young woman much, anyhow.

"I say isn't there some spot for which you yearn at times; one whose memory cheers you even while separation causes regret and the hope of seeing which revives in you disappointment and encourages you to struggle on."

"If you allude to real estate, with clematis climbing ovuh a grape arbor and roses around the do'," he answered with great deliberation, "I'm afraid I can't exactly follow you, owin' to my having lived at a hotel fo' the last twenty years. But if you allude to the ace of trumps, I desiah to say that I sympathize in yo' sentiments thoroughly and indorse them without reservation."

AUSTRALIAN LUNG-FISH.

It Cannot Live on Land, But Breathes Through Lungs.

There has recently arrived at the Zoological Gardens in London some living specimens of the Australian lung-fish, a species first discovered in 1869 by Forster and described by Krefft.

The lung-fish has teeth similar to certain fossil teeth of the triassic strata in Europe.

The body is long and much flattened from side to side, and covered with large cycloid scales; the limbs are shaped like the blade of a paddle or a trowel, and broadly fringed. The flesh —red, like that of a salmon—is excellent eating, and large specimens are said to attain a length of six feet and a weight of about twenty pounds, the apparent disparity between size and weight being probably accounted for by the tapering off of the body behind the posterior limbs. Their home is in the Burnett and Mary Rivers; and as they were in danger of becoming extinct the Royal Society of Queensland recently resolved to establish them in new habitats.

The lung-fish in its natural state eats large quantities of vegetable matter, but this does not appear to be necessary to it.

The lung-fish cannot live on the land, like a true animal, but its lungs are of a higher type than the gills of ordinary fish, and its heart has three divisions instead of two.

A Hanging Scrap Book.

"What is all that newspaper stuff hanging over your desk?" a loiterer asked a man who writes for a living.

"That?" the man answered, pointing to long strips of newspaper clippings which were pendant from a gas chandelier, directly over the desk at which he sat, "that is my scrap book. You've heard of the hanging gardens of Babylon, haven't you? Well, this is my hanging scrap book. People generally go on the plan that a scrap book must be neatly pasted full of clippings, and then piled away on a top shelf of a closet, or in the bottom of a trunk where you can never get at it without much time and trouble. Now, my idea of a scrap book is one that you can have where you want it and when you want it; so I have pasted these long strips of blue paper together, over the cross bar of my old fashioned gas chandelier. On these strips—as I clip short newspaper bits relative to my work—bits of prose or poetry, jest or philosophy, statistics or other information, I stick a little dab of library paste, and up the clipping goes. It is convenient, and easily renewable; there is no patent on it, and the 'hanging scrap book' will be found valuable to all writers who like the things where they can clap their eyes on them."

Current Plants.

The same words, or words pronounced alike, may have different meanings to different people, as in the following incident:

A farmer stopped in front of a Michigan city electric plant and asked a bystander:

"What is that 'ere building, a factory?"

"No, a plant," was the answer.

"What do they raise there?"

"Currents," replied the quick-witted bystander.

"What are they worth a bushel?"

"We sell them by the shock."

The farmer pulled his beard, scratched his head and drove downtown to market his vegetables.

An Unwelcome Visitor.

When the prime minister of the Chinese emperor has a grudge against one of the nobles he advises his royal master to pay him a prolonged visit. This visit generally means ruin, for the emperor travels with a retinue of 10,000 persons.

Ingenious Shower Bath.

A Frenchman has designed a mechanism similar to that used in driving a bicycle, to be placed in a bath tub, to drive a rotary pump, by means of which water is forced up to a sprinkling rose to shower the operator.

Philippine Mail.

Mail is delivered in the Philippines about a month after it is posted in the United States. The time depends on connections, especially at Hongkong, but mail is never delayed at that port more than three days.

About Turnip Seed.

A turnip seed increases its own weight fifteen times a minute. On peat ground turnips have been found to increase by growth 15,999 times the weight of their seed each day they stood upon it.

The Difference.

A metropolitan paper is authority for the statements that when a man illuses his mule in New Orleans he is fined $25, and that cultured Boston fines a man $10 for beating his wife.

Murdered Rulers of Russia.

Of the eleven emperors and empresses of Russia between Peter I and Alexander II, four have been assassinated.

Closely Timed.

A Berlin watchmaker has perfected mechanism capable of measuring and recording the 1,000th part of a second.

The Largest Organ.

The largest organ in the world is in the cathedral of Seville, Spain. It has fifty-eight pipes and 110 stops.

No Wonder.

Fully 2,500 persons commit suicide in Russia every year.

Raise Silk Worms.

There are 600,000 people employed in Italy in rearing silk-worms.

THE EXCHANGE EDITOR.

New York has 6,919 acres of public parks.

An electric automobile in France recently ran 124 miles without recharging.

During a recent Sunday shower in Manila 7.39 inches of rain were recorded.

Nearly 175 Congregational churches have adopted the individual communion cup.

Switzerland's expense for the keeping of each inmate in the insane asylums is $48 a year.

Nikola Tesla's new laboratory on Pike's Peak is a long, wooden structure with a big veranda.

Taking all civilized countries, the average age at which women marry is said to be twenty-three and a half years.

The official records of Kansas show that there are sixty-one counties in that State where there is not a single bicycle.

Czar Nicholas's usual tip for servants when on a visit is $5. The Kaiser usually gives about $1.50 for the same service.

Upon President McKinley's desk in the White House lies the old-fashioned Bible given him by his father when he first went away from his home.

There are 500,000 goats in the United States, 258,000 in the West Indies (where goat mutton is extensively used), 15,000 in England and 4,500,000 in Spain.

Central Asian railroad managers try to meet the desires of their public. A harem car with latticed windows has been constructed for the Emir of Bokhara.

A missionary paper reports that the opposition to the Natural Foot Society in China comes chiefly from the women who are afraid to go against fashion.

Among the points dwelt on at the recent tuberculosis congress in Berlin were the facts that more than 40 per cent of the printers of Berlin who had died were phthisical.

A German fish-breeder named Jaffe has succeeded, after several fruitless attempts, in transporting from Colorado to Germany the eggs of the purple trout (salmo purpurata) and raising a large brood.

A Whangarei (New Zealand) youth who advertised for a wife was amazed to find among the replies letters from two of his sisters, with photos inclosed. In this case the mania for matrimonial alliances seems to have been quite a family disorder.

When the Queen of Roumania makes a stay at the seaside she delights to sit on a camp-stool in the middle of the sands, gather around her all the children, and tell them fairy tales of her own composition. Most of the fairy tales of Carmen Sylva have received the approbation of a large circle of children before publication.

Thirty years ago the sardines and young herring in Canadian waters were sold mostly as fertilizers. In 1897 nearly a million boxes of sardines in oil were put on the market. The price paid to fishermen varies extraordinarily according to catch, season and year, being sometimes as low as $6 per hogshead and sometimes as high as $100.

John Williams, a young farmer, of West Union, O., is an expert squirrel hunter, and is also afflicted with somnambulism. Last Saturday morning at daybreak he awakened to find himself at the edge of a wood half a mile from home. He was in his night robe, and was carrying his gun. He had evidently started off on a squirrel hunt.

An extraordinary occurrence happened the other day in Brussels. A milkwoman with her cart, drawn by two dogs, was passing through a street in the center of the city, when of a sudden the roadway opened and the cart and dogs disappeared. Investigations showed that the roadway had been undermined by rats, which swarm in the neighborhood.

Princess Louise seems likely to become one of the richest members of the English royal family. Her marriage with the Marquis of Lorne has not necessitated the keeping up of any great state, and, being childless, her expenses are comparatively few. On marriage she received a dowry of $150,000, and she had magnificent wedding gifts of diamonds, rubies, pearls and other jewels. Like the rest of the Queen's children, she has an income of $30,000 a year.

Rudyard Kipling, according to the London Chronicle, was taken by Thomas Hardy to see a house which the latter thought would suit Kipling. When Mr. Kipling moved out of earshot, Mr. Hardy observed to the occupant: "I may mention to you that this gentleman is no other than Mr. Rudyard Kipling." "Is that so?" she replied. "I never heard the name before." Presently Mr. Kipling in turn, found himself alone with the lady, and remarked: "Possibly you may not be aware that the gentleman who brought me here to-day is Mr. Hardy, the eminent author." "Oh, indeed," was the reply, "I don't know his name."

Once upon a time Parties offered to sell a Farmer a tin box for $500. "But it contains only sawdust!" protested the farmer, who took seven daily papers. "Yes," replied the parties, smiling patiently, "but with a sucker being born every minute, there's going to be a great demand for sawdust. There's bound to be a bulge in sawdust sooner or later." The farmer was much struck with this theory, and bought the box, mortgaging his farm to raise the money. This fable teaches that with the common people become so exceedingly intelligent as they now are, methods of doing business with them will have to be revolutionized.—Detroit Journal.

ATKINSON FAIR SEX.

Another Atchison girl who gets $40 a month for sitting in an office will resign in a few weeks to wash dishes and cook for love and her board.

Mean people say that the man a widow selects to support her at her husband's funeral is the one she usually marries afterward.

"Well, I see Mrs. Blank is breaking in," is the women's comment when they read in the paper that Mrs. Blank will give a reception.

By the time a man has saved up enough money to have a palm and a brussels carpet in his parlor his girl has reached the "company" age and he is not allowed to sit there.

Several years ago an Atchison man married a slender, modest little darling, and everybody said it was a case of hawk and dove. Now the wife weighs twice as much as the husband, has whiskers and talks bass.

There comes a time to every married woman when she has to use a sort of faith cure on her belief in her husband's affections.

It is a pitiful truth that women trust their daughters with men whom their husbands wouldn't trust to open an account.

A certain Atchison woman is always invited to serve the brick ice-cream at parties, for the reason that she cuts it in such thin slices.

Would some terrible thing happen if a girl forgot to tie up those terrible buttons on the back of her skirt, and is it possible under present fashion conditions for a girl to dress without the assistance of the neighbors?

It always makes a daughter mad to see her mother obey her father, and she vows she will show more "spirit" when she has a husband.

ARMY AND NAVY.

Eight torpedo boats have just been added to the German navy.

The Navy department reports an increase in desertions from American ships.

Japan has received four 360-ton torpedo boat destroyers from the Yarrow yards.

The British authorities have opened a war employment bureau to find situations for the wives and families of army reserves.

An English authority asserts that the shooting in the French navy, as disclosed in target practice, is superior to the British.

Rapid progress is reported on two formidable battleships, the Duncan and Cornwallis, for the British, at the Thames iron works, London.

Two troopers of the Fourth Hussars and two men of the West Riding Regiment in India have purchased their discharges and joined the Roman Catholic Brotherhood in Bungalore.

The Russian armored cruiser Gromoboy, built at St. Petersburg, will carry no less than sixty-four guns of all descriptions, including four eight-inch, sixteen six-inch, twenty three-inch twenty three-pounders, and four machine guns, all being quick firers.

One result of the war in the Transvaal is that all leave of absence from the English army to go out of the country in India, has been stopped, but privilege and general leave inside the country, subject to short call, may be granted to all officers. This decision appears to the Simla News to point toward further Indian assistance in the Transvaal.

SPORTING.

BASKET BALL.

After a somewhat lengthy period of inactivity, the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team will play again this evening against the team from the Summit Y. M. C. A. The game will begin at 8:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The old team that has represented the association for the past three years and has repeatedly defeated Summit will not play this evening. Under the present ruling of the physical work committee, several are not eligible as they do not attend class work regularly and most of the others do not care to play.

JERSEY AT THE CAPITAL.

Congressmen and Senators are Busy Looking After Interests of Followers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Jan. 15.—Representative B. F. Howell has received notice from the pension bureau that the pension of John H. Mattison, of Somerville, has been increased to $8 a month.

Petitions from the clerks employed in the postoffices at Red Bank and Somerville, advocating the passage of the bill for the reclassification of clerks of clerks in first and second-class offices, were filed in the House of Representatives Friday.

Letters of congratulations are being received in every mail by Senators Sewell and Kean upon the fine speeches they delivered Wednesday in eulogy of the late Vice-President Hobart.

Representative Howell has recommended the appointment of William M. Seely as postmaster at Port Monmouth.

Senators Sewell and Kean and Representative Howell have received copies of a set of resolutions adopted at a recent meeting of the Middlesex county board of directors of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The resolutions express warm sympathy for the Boers in their struggle with England, and commend the resolutions introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Sulzer, of New York.

Among the measures Senator Sewell will probably introduce soon is a bill to take off the tax on perfumery and proprietary medicines.

Representative Howell has been placed on two sub-committees of the committee on public buildings and grounds, one of which has charge of New Jersey building bills.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The paid members of the Plainfield Fire Department are entitled to an occasional day off and they frequently utilize it in visiting the departments of other cities. A short time ago, it came the turn of Fred Breem, driver of the truck, to take a day's vacation. He went to New York and visited some friends on the fire-boat "New Yorker." While he was there an alarm came in and the fire-boat started up North River at a lively rate. Suddenly, without warning, the "New Yorker" rolled well over so that the rail was under water. The crew, Breem among them, were thrown across the deck and cabins and narrowly escaped falling overboard. For a moment it looked as if the boat would roll completely over but it finally regained its balance. It was discovered that the vessel had collided with some sunken craft. An investigation was made but there had been no damage done by the collision and the fire-boat proceeded on its way. There was a lively time for a minute, however, and Breem confidently expected to have to swim for his life.

Those who were passengers in a certain trolley car Thursday evening have not a high opinion of the conductor of that car. As will perhaps be remembered it was decidedly slippery that evening and everybody was glad of the opportunity to get somewhere nearer home in a trolley car and thus escape part of the icy sidewalks. The car was on the Netherwood branch and was well filled. When the car reached the Fourth street switch the lights went out. The car went as far as Fifth street and then stopped. The conductor informed the passengers that the power had been shut off and that they would have to wait until it was turned on. In various resigned frames of mind they waited. Some were rather impatient and expressed their opinion of a company that would shut off the power on such a night as that. After a wait of perhaps fifteen minutes the passengers were much astonished to see a car approaching from the other direction. Then a man on the sidewalk yelled:

"Why don't you put on your trolley pole?" An examination showed that the trolley pole had slipped from the wire, but the conductor had forgotten all about such a possibility and supposed the power had given out. The passengers did not swear. They agreed that under the circumstances the conductor would not be able to appreciate even that.

SENOR RAMON REYES LALA.

The forthcoming lecture at Music Hall tomorrow night by Senor Ramon Reyes Lala is exciting much comment and he will undoubtedly be greeted by a fine audience. His elaborate book on the Philippine Islands—the most complete and artistic published—is significant proof of his literary ability. He also is peculiarly well-fitted to speak on the subject, being a Filipino by birth, an educated cosmopolitan by travel and study, and an American citizen by choice. Hence it naturally follows his audiences have the advantage of being taken over the ground by a cultivated, observant man—a native of the country which he represents for the time being. Mr. Lala tells the American public, without laborious phrase of wearying statistics, what it is eager to know about the most extensive and valuable of its new acquisitions. His lectures, furthermore, are brimming over with sparkling conceits and infectious humor, and brilliantly illustrated by superbly colored pictures, or lantern slides. Reserved seats can be secured at box office, which will remain open until 9 tonight to accommodate the public.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"The Turtle," the most-talked-of play of the day, the theme of all New York's winter talk and unquestionably the most widely-discussed play seen for years on the American stage, is announced for next Friday evening at Music Hall. It will be presented by its notable cast direct from the phenomenally successful engagement at the Manhattan Theatre in New York. "The Turtle" will be seen in so few towns outside of the larger cities that the local management is to be congratulated in having been fortunate enough to secure this organization. The piece will be presented in identically the same manner as in the metropolis. No pains or expense having been spared in the ambition of the management to make the tour notable.

David Higgins and Miss Georgia Waldron will present the picturesque drama of the Tennessee Mountains "At Piney Ridge," at Music Hall, Saturday night of this week. This splendid play of Mr. Higgins' is now in the full swing of a a well-deserved triumph and bids fair to be one of the few dramas that do not die out in the interest of the public in one season. There are many swift and dramatic situations in the drama added to which is the fine presentation given the scenes by a more than usually capable company. The scenery and effects are fine and carried complete by the company.

THE FINISHING TOUCH.

Chicago Dude Who Completed His Toilet on a Train Made Ridiculous by a Bright Girl.

Some wise person has said somewhere that if a woman desires to see vanity face to face let her look in her mirror. That is all very well, but now and then you run across a man who can ring in new changes on the feminine folly.

On one of the Alley "L" trains last week, along in the afternoon, a young woman got on at Thirty-ninth street. She was a quiet, lady-like girl, dressed in a well-fitting gray tailor-made suit, and settled herself back for a good read on the way to the city, when he got on at the next station and seated himself opposite. He was "gotten up regardless." One of those new, stunning suits in brown and tan checks that are all the go, white felt hat, with blue band, and a silk umbrella. As soon as the train was well under way again he drew out a penknife and worked industriously at his finger nails for several minutes. This finished, he produced a pearl toothpick and labored at his white, even teeth for awhile. After this operation was over he gazed thoughtfully out of the window at the glimmer of the lake far in the distance, and, with a sigh of contentment fumbled in his vest pocket until he found a small mirror. Having studied the effects of his new red and purple tie in this, he started in on his mustache, a pale, feathery suggestion of what might be in days to come. This latter was combed and twirled and petted until it stood out at the proper angle with a well-defined curl at either end. The felt hat was pushed further back to see if the part of the hair was O. K., and at last, with another sigh of relief, he replaced the mirror and leaned back complacently.

But the girl in gray had been watching him over the top of her book, watching each new branch of the business with increasing interest, and, finally, when she saw the mirror go back in its leather case, she laid aside her book, and, opening her chatelaine bag, drew out a chamois skin well powdered and proffered it with a smile to her traveling companion, while the people around enjoyed the little comedy.

"Wouldn't you like to put on the finishing touch?" she asked, sweetly, and he stiffly arose and went into the smoker.—Chicago Tribune.

THE STOOPING HABIT.

By a Few Minutes' Attention Every Day Round Shoulders Can Be Made Straight.

One of the greatest and most common deformities of the day is one that with care and attention can be remedied. It is the round-shouldered or stooping habit. Many of the most natural figures show this tendency to stoop, while in the narrow-chested it is marked to a painful degree. And yet, by raising oneself leisurely upon the toes in a perpendicular position several times a day this deformity can be easily rectified. To do this properly one must be in a perfectly upright position, the arms dropping at the side, the heels well together and the toes forming an angle of 45 degrees.

The rise should be made very slowly, and from the balls of both feet, and the descent should be accomplished in the same way, without swaying the body out of its perpendicular line. The exercise is not an easy one, but may be accomplished by patience. It can be modified, too, by standing first on one leg, then on the other. Inflating and raising the chest at the same time is a part of the exercise, and if persevered in will ultimately show an increased chest measurement, development of lung power and ereet figure.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Old-Time Apple Dumplings.

To make old-time apple dumplings take one quart of flour, add three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a level teaspoonful of salt, a heaping tablespoonful of lard; mix with milk, roll out, spread lightly with butter, roll out again, and keep on doing this until a tablespoonful of butter has been worked in. Roll out half an inch thick, cut in squares large enough to cover an apple, place a cored and pared apple in each square, gather up the corners, pinch and bake. To make them brown, brush with white of egg when nearly done.

Character in Woman's Walk.

An observing man insists that he can tell a woman's character by her manner of walking and the kind of shoes she wears. He says that the listless way of lifting one's feet indicates laziness or ill-health. A heavy, flat-footed step means a good housekeeper, but an aggressive nature. A dragging, shuffling step denotes indolence of mind and body. He observes, further, that the woman who likes mannish shoes is not dainty or feminine, and that the ideal woman wears well-fitting shoes in the street and dainty slippers in the house.

DENOUNCED BOARD OF HEALTH'S COURSE.

City Judge's Remarks in Sentencing William Ross.

SAID CADI WAS A PUPPET.

ORDINANCE OF BOARD OF HEALTH COMPELLED HIM TO FINE ROSS $25.

Case Was Not Left to Discretion of the Judge—Law Set Arbitrary Penalty—Execution Will be Issued Against Ross, and If Amount is Not Realized From His Property He Will Go to Jail.

"The course of the Board of Health in this city is an outrage." Thus City Judge Runyon expressed himself this morning in concluding his remarks in the sentencing of William Ross, proprietor of the Delmonico Oyster and Chop House. Ross, it will be remembered, was found guilty last week of violating the Board of Health ordinance in keeping decayed vegetables in his basement. At that time Judge Runyon deferred sentence until this morning.

The acquaintanceship of Ross and the Board of Health has been a long and not particularly friendly one. Ross has dealt in fruits and vegetables besides looking after his restaurant and the Board, through its inspector, William Addis, has frequently found part of Ross's stock stowed away after it had reached an unhealthy state. Ross was once convicted of the charge and sentenced to pay a fine of $25. City Judge Runyon and Corporation Council C. A. Marsh were sorry for him and allowed him to take his time in paying the fine.

Henry B. Newhall, president of the Board of Health, learned that none of the fine had been paid and communicated with the City Judge, calling his attention to the fact. Then came this last complaint and conviction.

When Ross appeared in court this morning City Judge Runyon explained that the health ordinance left him only one course to pursue. It was not left to his judgment for the ordinance expressly stated that if the prisoner was found guilty he should be fined $25, and that an execution should be immediately issued and levied on the goods and chattels of the convicted violator. In case $25 could not be realized from the property, the violator should be sentenced to jail for a term not exceeding ninety days.

The Judge said that he was merely a puppet and must do his duty. So he fined Ross $25 and made the imprisonment a week should the fine not be paid. That the Judge was not in sympathy with that manner of dealing with the poor restauranter was evident from his remarks in closing.

Execution will be issued at once and served. Ross has had a hard time to get along under ordinary circumstances and it is hardly likely that he can raise the necessary funds to pay the two fines that now hang over him. It is also a question whether he possesses enough property which, if disposed of at a forced sale under the execution, would produce the amount. In that case, he will have to go to jail for a week.

Ross says that it would have been all right had it not been for Health Inspector Addis. He firmly believes that the latter is trying to ruin him and is using this means to do it.

Westfield, Jan. 16.—The handsome cup to be given by The Daily Press to the winner of The Press Bowling League games, was placed on exhibition in the window of Harry P. Condit's drug store on Broad street Saturday morning, and was the attraction that drew many people to that show window. The cup was much admired and the Westfield Club team is now out to win as the members of the club have said that it must be brought to Westfield.

NO PRISON BIG ENOUGH.

IMPOSSIBLE TO CARRY OUT GRAND JURY RESOLUTIONS.

Governor Voorhees Does Not Think a Law Can be Passed to Commit to Prison Habitual Offenders in the County.
(Special to The Daily Press).

Elizabeth, Jan. 16.—Governor Voorhees said yesterday, in regard to the resolution of the October grand jury concerning the sentencing of men and women to State's prison who had been committed three times in succession to the county jail for disorderly conduct, that he did not believe that a law could be passed to that effect, as the State's Prison was now overcrowded and that frequently two and three prisoners were placed in one cell, and that if all the disorderly prisoners were sent to the prison wings that would cover entire Mercer county would be necessary.

Senator Cross, to whom the resolution had been presented, said that under a law passed in 1799 the County Board of Freeholders should erect a penitentiary or work house to which the perpetual violators of the law could be committed and forced to work. The present grand jury has been petitioned to present the matter to the Court with the resolution that the Union County Board of Freeholders act on the subject. Some of the women now in the county jail have been sentenced to that institution seventy times.

OLD OFFENDERS' BILL.

Legislature to be Asked for Law to Punish Habitual Violators—To be Drawn by Prosecutor English.

Prosecutor English is preparing a bill to be presented to the present session of the Legislature. It will embody some of the features which were in the resolution adopted by the Grand Jury of Union county at the October term, in relation to the punishment in State Prison of persons who have been convicted three consecutive times of drunkenness, and also for the punishment in State Prison of other incorrigible characters.

The bill is to be introduced in the Senate by Mr. Cross, who, however, expresses doubts as to its passage, from the fact that the State Prison is already overcrowded. He is in sympathy with the bill so far as punishment of drunkards and persistent disorderly characters are concerned, but suggests the establishment of a county penitentiary, like the ones of Snake Hill in Hudson county, and Caldwell, Essex county, to which they should be committed.

Governor Voorhees is of the opinion that something should be done, as suggested in the proposed bill, looking to the punishment of habitual drunkards and disorderly characters, and has promised to extend the proposed bill all the aid in his power.

BRYAN'S RECEPTION.

Congressman Daly to Make the Necessary Arrangements this week for the Visit.

Hoboken, Jan. 16.—Congressman W. D. Daly, before leaving for Washington said that he expected to meet Mr. Bryan in the capital this week and would then make arrangements for the Nebraskan's reception when he comes to New Jersey.

"We cannot do anything until we ascertain just what Mr. Bryan's plans are," said Congressman Daly. "When we do, we will arrange to give him a rousing reception. I do not know how many speeches he will make in this State, but I shall endeavor to induce him to make several. It is our intention to organize Bryan clubs in every county, and thus insure our securing a Bryan delegation from New Jersey to the next national convention."

BOARD OF TRADE STILL IN EXISTENCE.

Though Its Membership Grows Gradually Less.

ANNUAL MEETING WAS HELD

L. B. WOOLSTON SUCCEEDS F. C. LOUNSBURY AS PRESIDENT.

List of Newly Elected Officers Shows Changes—Treasurer's and Secretary's Reports Submitted—Small Balance to the Credit of the Board—Committee Appointed to Advance New Station.

Including the newspaper reporters, there were thirteen men in attendance at the annual meeting of the Board of Trade last evening. In the absence of President Lounsbury, Vice-president L. B. Woolston occupied the chair. The principal business was the submission of the collecter's, secretary's and treasurer's reports. The collector's report showed that $379.75 had been collected since January 15th, 1899, and the report of Treasurer E. M. Laing denoted a balance of $45.46 to the credit of the Board. Secretary H. C. Runyon's report was the most interesting. It stated that ten meetings had been held during the year, with an average attendance of but eleven members! The most important meeting held was on Nov. 20th, when representatives from out-of-town Boards of Trade and other organizations of like character had met with the local Board to co-operate in a movement toward securing a reduction of fares on the Central Railroad. The report also showed that a year ago there were 94 members, but of that number 21 had resigned and 24 were suspended, leaving a present membership of but 51. During the year the Board had been instrumental in securing the establishment in Plainfield of a silk mill and had brought about the extension of the trolley to Scotch Plains.

Secretary H. C. Runyon brought up the question of building the proposed new passenger station on the east side of the present depot. He stated that he understood the Central Railroad Company was willing to build the station and make the necessary improvements if the citizens were really anxious to have them. He suggested that a committee of three be appointed from the Board of Trade to meet with a committee from the Plainfield Advancement Association at its meeting this evening and assist the latter organization in bringing about the much needed and desired improvement. Some discussion followed as to the best method to be pursued to reach the railroad officials and to properly present the matter. It was suggested that possibly a committee from the Common Council might be appointed to join the other committees. The chairman appointed Messrs. Charles Runyon, F. C. Lounsbury and L. B. Woolston.

The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year:

President, L. B. Woolston; vice-president, James C. Pope; second vice-president, F. C. Lounsbury; counsel, W. B. Coddington; secretary, H. C. Runyon; treasurer, E. M. Laing; trustees for two years, John D. Runyon and Robert A. Meeker.

Although Mr. Woolston strenuously objected to being elected president and at first positively declined the honor, he was finally persuaded to accept the office.

Secretary Runyon, from the railroad committee, said he had been informed by the president of the Plainfield Street Railway that the company would build the Arlington avenue line early in the spring, and that the company was favorable to the extension of the trolley to Washingtonville and if possible as far as Stirling and Warrenville. He said the trolley people were also in favor of later on extending the road from Netherwood over Leland avenue, through LaGrande avenue, and so on to Fanwood.

This statement precipitated further discussion regarding railroads which was participated in by Messrs. Charles Runyon, J. H. Vail, Herman Schwed and J. D. Runyon. It led to a resolution being offered to the effect that the secretary be directed to write to the president of the Plainfield Street Railway, Assemblyman Cooper and Messrs. Woolferth and J. Y. Wilson, requesting them to meet with the Board of Trade at its next meeting with reference to the proposed Washingtonville extension.

Before adjourning the Board accepted the resignations of George L. VanEmburgh, Frank S. Runyon and Messrs. Spicer & Hubbard, and incidentally discussed at some length the question of street paving. John D. Runyon expressed the opinion that good paved streets were more essential than a new city hall.

There were various opinions voiced as to the proper material to use for durable pavement. No definite action was taken in the matter, however, and the first meeting of the new year came to a close without any mishap, notwithstanding the fact of holding a session with the so-called unlucky number to make up the quota of the meeting.

AID FOR THE HOSPITAL.

Colored Christians Contribute $20 in Appreciation of What Good the Institution Does.

Hospital Sunday has been more generally recognized among the churches of Plainfield this year than ever before. When the returns are all in The Press will hope for a statement from Treasurer H. P. Reynolds, of the hospital. Press readers will be interested to learn that a successful appeal for an offering in support of the hospital was made at the union services of colored churches, held January 4th, in Mt. Olive Baptist church by the zealous pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson. The offering, amounting to $20, has been paid to the treasurer of the hospital; and, whether we consider it as a first attempt, or as compared with the offerings of other churches it, must be regarded as a liberal contribution in view of the fact that the congregation was made up of wage-earners, and included but very few who can be called property owners.

The services rendered by the hospital to our colored people have been very great; and, from the first, no discrimination whatever on account of race, color or condition has been allowed in the institution, or has ever occurred to the thought of governors, physicians, officials or nurses.

BENEVOLENT CATHOLICS.

Patrick Casey Elected President of the Legion—Organization in Prosperous Shape.

The annual meeting of the Catholic Benevolent Legion was held at the Catholic Club last evening, when the yearly reports of the secretary and treasurer were received and acted upon. The reports showed that the Legion was in excellent condition and prospering. The following officers were elected:

President, Patrick Casey; treasurer, Hugh McDonald; secretary, J. A. Moore; collector, John A. McNally; marshal P. O. Sullivan; orator, J. E. Bebout; guard, W. Bourgeois; trustees, J. Kelly and P. Devier; chancellor, H. Latz.

The newly-elected officers were installed by State President Hannigan, of Jersey City; State Chancellor Althol, of Elizabeth and Supreme Auditor John L. McCabe. After the installation some informal speech making was indulged in by the State officers and various members. Before the members left for their homes they were regaled with a light collation.

BIDS FOR GREAT JOB.

Former Plainfielder May Construct the Underground Transit System for City of New York.

Andrew Onderdonk, probably the successful bidder for the construction of the underground transit system of New York at the sum of $39,000 000, was formerly city engineer of Plainfield. The first city map and grade maps were made by him.

He was also employed by James E. Martine in laying out and opening Park avenue from Seventh street to the city line. Mr. Onderdonk also laid out for the late John Taylor Johnston "Johnston's Drive." He has many friends in this city who appreciate his ability and who will wish him all success in this, his latest undertaking.

Second of the Assemblies.

The second of the Assemblies will be held in the Casino Friday evening. The great success of the first points to an even larger attendance at this one. Charles E. Brooks, who has taken charge of the arrangements for the Assemblies, says that the music will stop promptly at 1 o'clock. If the young people want to dance the entire evening they will have to begin earlier, he says. The music will begin at 9 o'clock, and there is every prospect that society will be right on hand this time.

A Real Estate Purchase.

E. C. Mulford & Son, North avenue real estate brokers, have sold to George Conover, of Jackson avenue, a large piece of property on that avenue, upon which Mr. Conover will build a fine house and stable this spring. Through the same agency Audley Marsh has rented 135 Duer street and takes possession at once. Dennis W. Howley, of Hampton Junction, has rented Daniel Dugan's house on Kensington avenue and will take possession this month.

THE LEHIGH MAY YET RUN TO PLAINFIELD.

Local Capitalists Are Willing to Build the Road.

THEN WANT TO LEASE IT.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE BEING CONDUCTED WITH LEHIGH OFFICIALS.

The Promoters are Determined to Secure Competition for the Central Railroad—Trying to Fix it so That There Will be no Violation of Agreement Between Central and Lehigh.

The project of getting the Lehigh Valley railroad to make connections with Plainfield by running trains from its main line at South Plainfield on a spur that it is advocated to be built, has not been given up, although the railroad company is not now moving in the matter. The project has been under consideration by the Lehigh Valley officials for four or five years, and has been agitated by Plainfielders quite vigorously at times.

A reputed agreement between the Lehigh Valley and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in which the former agreed to keep out of Plainfield in return for the latter not encroaching on certain territory in Pennsylvania, has always prevented the Lehigh officials from taking definite action on the proposed spur.

A number of influential capitalists are determined, however, to bring about competition for the Central, which they allege is charging too big rates for Plainfield business, and within a very short time steps have been taken to build a railroad between here and South Plainfield, a distance of two miles. The idea is to make it an independent corporation to be known as the Plainfield and South Plainfield Railroad Company, and after the road is built to lease it to the Lehigh Valley Company, which would relieve the latter directly of violating its agreement not to build connections to Plainfield.

The gentlemen interested in the new project have had several interviews with Lehigh Valley officials with the idea of getting their promise to lease the road and operate it when finished. While the Lehigh people would not, at present, promise to do this, they gave the promoters to understand that arrangements could undoubtedly be made, when the line was constructed, to operate it with Lehigh Valley trains. The impression secured by the promoters of the scheme was that the Lehigh officials, owing to their agreement with the Central, did not care to be directly connected—even by making promises—with the first steps to build a connecting link with their line from Plainfield to South Plainfield. The matter will not be allowed to rest, as those interested believe that their efforts will meet with success in a short time.

Object to New Brunswick Trolley.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Jan. 16th—There is talk here of a public meeting to protest against an ordinance which has been passed through second reading extending the Brunswick Traction Company's right of way over certain streets for two years from date, although that right expired two years ago, by the Board of Aldermen. The ordinance also provides that $3,000, which the company deposited with the city treasurer to secure the improvement of streets over which the line runs, be returned to the city.

VICTORIOUS BY A POINT.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION TEAM WON AT BASKET BALL LAST NIGHT.

Defeated the Summit Y. M. C. A. Team By a Score of 9 to 8—Neither Side Showed Very Good Team Work.

After nearly two months without a game, the advocates of basket-ball had an opportunity last evening to witness an exciting game in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The visiting team was from the Summit Y. M. C. A., and they came within just one point of victory. It was very close, but the honors went finally to the local association team by a score of 9 to 8.

At the beginning of the season the physical committee decided that only those who attended class work regularly should be eligible to play on the basket-ball team. As most of the old team have not been at class work of late, it was thought that a new team would be on hand last night, but the rule was dropped at the last moment and all the old team, with the exception of Walter Long, the captain, who is in the south on a hunting trip, took their regular positions.

There was a large and enthusiastic audience and the game was an exciting one. There was, however, very little evidence of good play. Neither team possessed any team play worth mentioning, and it turned into a general scramble after the ball.

The teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD.		SUMMIT.
Smith	right forward	Day
E. Moraller	left forward	Muchmore, Wagoner.
Egan	centre	Wagoner, Muchmore.
M. Moraller	right guard	Meller

Score—Plainfield, 9; Summit, 8. Goals from the field—Perrin, (3); Muchmore, (2); Wagoner, (1). Goals on fouls—Smith, (3); Day, (1); Hawkey, (1). Fouls—Plainfield, 9; Summit, 7. Referee—C. E. A. Heywood. Umpires—L. I. VanAlstyne, of Plainfield, and Samuel Houston, of Summit. Timekeeper—J. H. Doane. Scorer—Frank Marcley.

COOPER INTRODUCES FIVE PER CENT BILL.

The Somerset Assemblyman Hopes to Secure Its Passage.

JUDGE FORT NAMED AGAIN.

GOVERNOR AND SENATOR M'CARTER ARE AT ODDS.

It is Over the Terms of the Supervisor of Bills—Nomination of Judge Lippincott Confirmed—Governor to Make No More Nominations This Week—Anti-Trust Bill is Also Introduced.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 16.—The Legislature started in last night to do actual legislating for the State. Several important bills were introduced, among the most prominent of which was the measure of Assemblyman Cooper, of Somerset, providing for a reduction of the legal rate of interest to five per cent. Assemblyman Cooper succeeded in having this bill passed by the Assembly last session, but it was effectually squelched in the Senate. This year Mr. Cooper hopes to have better luck.

Governor Voorhees last night nominated J. Franklin Fort to succeed himself as County Judge of Essex county. The term is for five years and the salary is $7,500 a year. The nomination was referred in executive session of the Senate to the judiciary committee and will be acted upon next week. The Governor announced later that he would send in no more appointments this week.

There is a hitch between Governor Voorhees and Senator McCarter, of Essex, over the appointment of the Supervisor of Bills, and Jesse B. Salmon, who has been selected for the berth, has not yet been nominated to the Senate, as the law requires. The Governor is anxious to have the law creating the office amended so that the term shall be fixed at three instead of five years. Senator McCarter, who is sponsor for Salmon, objects to any such change, and has locked horns with His Excellency on the question.

In executive session last night the Senate confirmed Justice Job Lippincott of Hudson county, who was last week re appointed a member of the Supreme Court bench. Owing to the absence of Senator Pitney, the chairman of the judiciary committee, none of the other appointments of last week were confirmed, action being taken on Justice Lippincott's nomination because his term expires tomorrow.

Assemblyman Fallon, of Hudson, introduced an anti-trust bill, which clearly defines trusts. It prohibits pools, trusts, monopolies and conspiracies to control business and prices of articles, providing for a fine of from $200 to $5,000 a day for all violations as well as the forfeiture of the charter of the violator.

It is probable that a joint resolution will be introduced at an early date, setting apart a day for the delivery of a eulogy on the late Vice-President Hobart. It is understood that Attorney General Griggs will be invited to be the speaker and January 30th is likely to be fixed as the day for the delivery of the eulogy.

TO STOP "BARBER'S ITCH."

Circular Letter of Advice Issued to Tonsorial Artists by the Board of Health.

The Plainfield Board of Health has issued a circular today which has been distributed among the local barbers. The Board has issued the circular in view of the fact that what is known as "Barber's Itch" is prevalent, and is often transmitted from one person to another through the barber shop.

In the circular several rules for cleanliness are given as suggestions to barbers, and they advise the tonsorial artists to cleanse their hands each time they shave a person or cut the hair, keep their finger nails clean, boil their razors and shears, use powder blowers instead of puffs, and they urge customers to have their own cups and brushes. If it becomes necessary to stop bleeding with alum, they suggest that the piece of alum be discarded after being used once. A number of other excellent suggestions are offered to the barbers, all of which they are supposed to follow.

The funeral services will be held from his late home, 560 West Front street, Thursday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Bound Brook.

W. H. Crandall, of Alfred, N. Y., has been the guest of Plainfield friends.

BULLER ADVANCING.

Boer Army Said to Exceed British Forces.

TUGELA CROSSED EAST OF COLENSO.

Kruger Urges Burghers to Show More Energy and Fight in the Name of the Lord—Three Thousand Prisoners in Pretoria.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—General Buller's latest authentic word as to what he and his 30,000 men are doing was wired from Springfield after his first forward step Striving to think out the unknown, London is confused by surmise and rumor and disquieted by suspense. Mr. Spenser Wilkinson, the lucid military expert of The Morning Post, asserts that the Boer force in northern Natal is larger than General Buller's and Sir George White's together, so that the Boers are able to leave a force around Ladysmith larger than that within the town and yet to oppose General Buller with a force superior to his own.

The Standard gives prominence to the following dispatch, dated Saturday, Jan 13, from Durban:

"A man who has just arrived here from Springfield says that a British column proceeding to the relief of Ladysmith has crossed the Little Tugela. When he left, it was facing the Boer position on the Big Tugela, and a howitzer was shelling the Boer trenches.

"He says that 270 wagons laden with commissariat stores for Ladysmith had left Frere, and it was expected that the column would join hands with General White Monday evening.

"The traction engines have been doing excellent work in hauling heavy wagons out of holes and swamps. This they accomplish with the greatest ease.

GENERAL WARREN.

"British patrols have discovered parties of Boers in the direction of Ennersdale, between Frere and Estcourt."

Dispatches from South Africa say that the Boers are retreating north from Colenso, taking their big guns.

A dispatch from General Buller announced that he had completed plans for a synchronous movement of all his columns on Ladysmith to begin yesterday.

The crossing of the Tugela river east of Colenso by General Warren's column of 11,000 men yesterday is the beginning of this movement.

The Boers have evacuated Groblerskloof, one of their strongest intrenched positions.

Buller's battle line of advance extends 25 miles east and west. General Warren commands the right wing and Buller himself the left, with General Clery in the center.

Fighting, it is believed here, is raging all along this line.

A telegram from Newport, Wales, says Mr. Rutherford Harris, formerly resident director in South Africa of the British South Africa company, has received a cablegram to the effect that General Buller has suffered another reverse.

Later Mr. Harris denied having received the telegram referring to the alleged repulse of General Buller.

The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Pietermaritzburg, telegraphing Thursday, Jan. 11, says:

"The gallantry of the Ladysmith garrison last Saturday appears to have depressed if not actually demoralized the Boers generally. It is believed that they lost at least two if not three killed as against our one.

"Many Boers are believed to be trekking northward. The magistrate at Nqutu, Zululand, telegraphs that scouts report having seen many Boer families, with wagons, proceeding north via Zululand, while a European who formerly resided at Dundee declares that after the repulse at Ladysmith a number of Boer wagons loaded with dead and wounded passed through that mining township and that the Boers burned some of the public buildings."

A dispatch to The Daily Mail, dated Saturday, Jan. 13, from Lourenco Marques, says:

"President Kruger has issued a proclamation ordering all burghers to the front. The Volksstem, the Transvaal official organ, suggests that the moment the British cross the border the gold industry should be 'irretrievably destroyed.'

"President Kruger also issued a circular, dated Jan. 8, to Boer commandants and burghers, urging them to show more energy in the Transvaal cause. He quotes Psalm xxviii, verse 7, as God given instructions to the burghers and says that the British have fixed their faith in Psalm lxxxiii. He also quotes Psalm lxxxix, verses 13 and 14, and asserts that he has searched the Bible without being able to find any other mode which can be followed by the Boers, who must fight in the name of the Lord.

"Commandeering is proceeding busily at Pretoria, where the town guard is exchanging Mausers for Martinis, as the former are badly needed at the front. It is said that there are nearly 3,000 British prisoners in Pretoria."

Warren's Advance Confirmed.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 16.—There is good reason to believe that the statement that Sir Charles Warren, with 11,000 men, has gone toward Weenen is correct, and we may expect important news shortly. Reports have been received here that dysentery is very rife in Ladysmith. Everything is phenomenally quiet at Sterkstroom.

EDUCATIONAL FACTS.

New York Board of Regents Makes Annual Report.

ALBANY, Jan. 16.—The annual report of the state board of regents shows that there were 31,499 students in 1899 in New York colleges, professional, technical and other special schools as compared with 29,776 in New York high schools and academies. The report says that "there has been during the past year a decided advance in the standards of business education in New York, and largely on account of the movement in this state there has been also a distinct increase in the interest taken in business education in other states.

"The better class of business schools in New York and in many other states are urging the necessity of longer and more thorough courses than they have heretofore advocated."

Beginning with 1901, business examinations will be held in January and June each year.

The report of the high school department shows the number of high schools now in the university to be 541 and the number of academies 134, an increase of three academies and 27 high schools during the past year.

The average salary of high school teachers has increased from $615.11 to $697.01 in 1899, while at the same time the average salary in academies has decreased from $606.61 to $595.27.

In 1898 500 high schools expended $2,239,226.45, or $43.91 for each student instructed. In 1899 the amount expended by the 541 high schools was $3,708,195.53 or an average of $62.19 for each student The average expenditure per student in the academies was $149.73 in 1899, an increase of $18.14 over that of 1896.

A Tailors' Trust.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—The Record today says: "Negotiations are pending for the consolidation of Chicago 'tailors to the trade,' with a capitalization of $5,000,000 or more. The new combination will be known as the United Tailors and will apparently control the wholesale custom tailoring industry of the country Interests to be merged represent a business volume of over $10,000,000 a year Relief from trade abuses and the evils of excessive competition are named as the motive of the amalgamation rather than an attempt at a 'corner.' In the one item of sample books alone it is estimated a saving of $1,000,000 a year will result."

Twelve Physicians Dismissed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Commissioner of Charities Keller has dismissed from the Metropolitan hospital on Blackwell's island 12 physicians who because of differences with Superintendent George T Stewart of the institution on Sunday hanged him in effigy in the morgue, using a cadaver for the purpose. Pinned to the breast of the corpse, which was suspended from the ceiling by means of a rope, was a placard bearing an opprobrious reference to the superintendent. The matter was referred to the visiting board of physicians and reported to Commissioner Keller, who summarily dismissed the physicians from the service.

The Rev. Dr. Francis Brown one of Dr. McGiffert's colleagues and warmest partisans, enlivened the reading with at least one motion to adjourn.

If Women Only Knew
What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Plainfield Homes

Hard to do housework with an aching back.
Hours of misery at leisure or at work.
If women only knew the cause;
Backache pains come from sick kidneys
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure it.
Plainfield people endorse this.

Mrs. I. L. Holmes of 442 West Second street, says:—"I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than from anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp, acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

The Mazet Committee Report Paints a Dark Picture.

PERFECT CENTRALIZED PARTY POWER

Man Behind Mayor's Chair Holds Absolute Sway—Criminals Protected and Conscience Debauched. The Minority Report.

ALBANY, Jan. 16.—The reports of the majority and minority members of the Mazet investigating committee were presented last night to the assembly. Both are lengthy documents. The former is signed by Assemblymen Robert Mazet, Edward H. Fallows, Harris Wilson, Thomas M. Costello and James B. McEwan and the latter by Benjamin Hoffman and Anthony J. Boland.

The majority report opens by stating that a great part of the testimony was directed to the conduct and control of the various offices and departments and in this connection says:

"In many of these grave evils were disclosed. For such as were administrative in their nature the remedy must be sought at the ballot box and not at the hands of the legislature. The one clear and distinct fact brought out by this investigation is that we have in this great city the most perfect instance of centralized party government yet known."

It declares that "we see the central power not the man who sits in the mayor's chair, but the man who stands behind it. We see the same arbitrary power dictating appointments, directing officials, controlling boards, lecturing members of the legislature and the municipal assembly. We see an enormous and ever increasing crowd of officeholders with ever increasing salaries. We see the powers of government prostituted to protect criminals, to demoralize the police, to debauch the public conscience and to turn governmental functions into channels for private gain. The proof is conclusive not that the public treasury has been directly robbed, but that great opportunities have been given by manipulation of public offices to enable favored individuals to work for their own personal benefit. The people alone can remedy these evils. There is no legislative panacea for such administrative ills.

"We are strongly of the opinion that the mayor's term is too long and advise that it should be shortened to two years to take effect with the next incumbent.

"We urge the immediate passage of an amendment to the charter by simply striking out the section which restricts the borough board's voting capacity to matters exclusively relating to their own borough.

"The conduct of the present police department of the city of New York is unqualifiedly bad. Not only are the laws against poolrooms, gaming houses, policy shops, excise violations, dance halls and wicked resorts of all kinds not enforced or enforced in such a way as to be ridiculously ineffective, but the general discipline is lax, grave offenses of persons dereliction in the way of drunkenness, absence from post, inattention to duty, etc., go unpunished or are visited with such small fines as almost to be an encouragement and not a deterrent for wrongdoing.

"Robberies, bunko games, deceits, frauds, thefts, have increased in an alarming degree, and the detection of these crimes and the recovery of property has steadily decreased during the last two years.

"We believe that the great mass of the rank and file of the department under proper leadership would execute all the laws with courage and vigilance, but it is not in the nature of things that subordinates dependent upon their superiors for continuance and promotion in rank should conduct themselves in direct opposition to the clearly known views of those superiors. When at the direct instance of the gambling and pool selling fraternity officers have been 'pounded,' captains transferred and a chief retired, it is hopeless to expect any other administration of such laws than that which the overwhelming evidence proves to exist.

In conclusion the report urges that the meetings of all city boards be public because "in a free government publicity is absolutely essential."

The majority of the committee presented eight bills for the consideration of the legislature. One provides for the appointment of a commission by the governor to revise the New York city charter.

In its report the minority declares that the entire investigation was actuated by partisan spite and a desire for revenge.

"As to the report of the majority in general, we feel justified in claiming that it is grossly unfair, conspicuously partisan, coarse in language, vituperative in temper and absolutely unjustified except by the reckless disregard and perversion of the proof advanced before your committee. In all these respects it agrees with the methods pursued by the counsel of the committee at all its hearings."

In the opinion of the minority the partisan character of the investigation and the fact that it was prompted by revenge rather than reform aroused "disgust and indignation" on the part of "the people the press and the pulpit," which led to condemnation at the polls.

Smallpox In North Carolina Town.

RALEIGH, Jan. 16.—Mayor Taylor of Greensboro, N. C., has made the following statement in regard to the smallpox situation there: "Inspection today by government experts shows only eight cases of smallpox within the city limits confined exclusively to the negro districts. A thorough inspection of the city will be made at once and all cases sent to the hospital, as well as those who have been exposed."

New Jersey Lawmakers.

TRENTON, Jan. 16.—The two houses of the legislature were each in session about an hour last night. The senate confirmed the nomination of Job Lippincott for supreme court justice, and the governor sent in the name of J. Frank Fort for reappointment as common pleas judge of Essex county. His nomination was referred.

Arms For the British.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 16.—An agent of the Colt company says that his company is working night and day on a rush order for the British government, principally for a large number of the Colt machine guns. The Union Metallic Cartridge company has a rush order for several million Lee-Metford cartridges.

Weather Probabilities.

Threatening, with showers; light southeasterly winds, increasing.

ST. MARY'S BAY WRECK.

Wreckers Search In Vain For the Lost Ship's Name.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 16.—The latest advices destroy many theories propounded concerning the disaster and render it more mysterious than ever. Owing to the continuance of turbulent seas it is impossible to launch boats or to venture to the beach with any safety. Bodies and wreckage are still visible, the latter increasing as the ship breaks up.

The colonial cruiser Fiona is now at the wreck. She will be joined by the tug Ingraham, and a diver will then go down if the sea permits. Failing this, an attempt will be made to effect a landing in Scuipin cove, where there are two bodies and almost an entire boat. It seems highly probable that the name of the vessel will be learned soon.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The French defeated the Chinese in a battle over the disputed boundary at Kwong-Chau-Wan bay.

The floods in northern Washington state were reported subsiding, and the danger was believed past.

The recovery of Mrs. E. J. Cook of New York, injured in a runaway at Mason, was believed doubtful.

The Delaware and Lackawanna railroad has equipped a number of locomotives with electric headlights.

The Japanese government has offered to establish a military academy at Peking to educate Chinese under Japanese officers.

Consul General Mason, at Berlin, reported that some of the German restrictions on American trade promised to be removed soon.

Insurgents Retreating South.

MANILA, Jan. 16.—Part of General John C. Bates' troops are operating about Lake Taal. The insurgents continue to retreat. Colonel Hayes, with the Fourth cavalry, is supposed to have reached Lipa, where many Spanish prisoners are held. Colonel Anderson, with the Thirty-eighth infantry, took Talisay, on the north shore of the lake, with but little opposition. Major Cheatham, with a battalion of the Thirty-seventh, on his way to San Pablo, dispersed 400 insurgents, whom the cavalry are pursuing toward Alaminos. A troop of the Third cavalry lost two men killed and three wounded in an encounter with the insurgents near San Fernando de la Union Jan. 12.

Coffins For Manila.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Jan. 16.—The next United States transport to leave Santiago will carry 1,000 coffins, which will go to Manila. Unfortunately one of these contains the body of a soldier. As it was not marked the coffin was mislaid, and it is now impossible to discover which one it is, as each box contains three caskets. The transport McClelland carried back 40 tons of commissary supplies, principally canned goods, which have been here since the surrender of the town. Senor Rafael Salsado, who was mayor of Santiago at the time of the capitulation, is dead of heart failure.

Wedding Party Poisoned.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Nearly 100 guests who assembled at 569 Canal street to witness the marriage of Morris Pollack and Annie Schwan were poisoned at the wedding dinner. In less than half an hour nearly every one in the hall was in a helpless condition. The general belief is that the chicken, which had been prepared in a copper kettle, contained the poison. So far no deaths have been reported, but many are seriously ill, including the bride and groom.

Fed Her Lover Strychnine.

TIFFIN, O., Jan. 16.—Miss Orpha Sheets, a handsome young lady of Green Springs, has been arrested, charged with the murder of her lover, Claude Tuttle. He died under peculiar circumstances several weeks ago, with symptoms of strychnine poisoning. Miss Sheets is said to have purchased strychnine on the day of his death and to have been the custodian of $200 of her lover's money. The coroner's verdict charges her with his death.

Gage Helped Bury His Pseudo Cousin

TOLEDO, Jan. 16.—Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the treasury, has sent $10 to help defray the funeral expenses of Weaden W. Gage, who died here penniless last week and who claimed to be a first cousin of the cabinet officed. Correspondence revealed that the claimed relationship did not exist, but Secretary Gage sent a contribution "on account of the similarity of names."

A Ten Per Cent Increase.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—By order of the directors the pay of the operatives in the employ of the Nonantum and Newton Worsted companies has been advanced 10 per cent. This means an actual increase and not a restoration. It affects about 600 hands and will cost the companies about $2,200 per month beyond what they are now paying.

Another Wage Increase.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Jan. 16.—A 10 per cent increase in wages has gone into effect at the Norwalk and Fairfield Worsted mills here. The raise is general, the operatives in each department being granted the same amount. About 200 hands are employed.

Pony Express Originator Dead.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Alexander Majors, the originator of the pony express and the first man to conduct a complete overland mail service across the continent, has died here, aged 86. He will be buried at Kansas City. He had been a scout for 40 years.

Insular Census Returns.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Every effort is making to tabulate the returns of the census of Cuba and Porto Rico as rapidly as possible, and it is probable that the general results of the work may be ready for public announcement in three or four weeks.

The Roberts Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Roberts committee was in executive session yesterday, but reached no conclusion and adjourned until tomorrow owing to the absence of Mr. Miers and the sickness of Mr. Frear of the committee.

Gifts to Harvard.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Charles Francis Adams, second, treasurer of Harvard university, announces that the total amount of the gifts to the institution during the fiscal year from Aug. 1, 1898, to Aug. 1, 1899, was $1,544,828.67.

CUBAN FOREST DESTRUCTION.

An Appeal to General Wood—School Furniture Contract.

HAVANA, Jan. 16.—General Rius Rivera, secretary of agriculture, industry and commerce, has addressed a communication to General Wood, advising that steps be taken immediately to protect Cuban forests belonging to the public domain. He urges that he be empowered to appoint six inspectors at a salary of $2,500 each, with instructions to locate public property and to consult with the officers of the rural guard in the various provinces as to the best methods of preserving the trees, which are now being used at the pleasure of the first person who desires to cut them, the result being in many parts of the island a wholesale destruction of young trees.

The recent contract for school furniture, under which the municipality had agreed to pay $46,000, was reconsidered and referred to Mr. Frye, superintendent of Cuban schools. He consulted with the bidders, and the latter agreed to accept $21,000 and a 10 per cent commission. This arrangement Mr. Frye regards as fair, and the municipality ratified it.

Tried to Kill the Judge.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 16.—James Welch made a desperate attempt yesterday to assassinate Judge William Lochren of the federal court. Welch had a damage suit against the Northern Pacific for being thrown off a train at Mandan, N. D. After a trial lasting three days Judge Lochren last Friday took the case from the jury and delivered a verdict for the defendant. Welch appeared at Judge Lochren's chambers and leveled a revolver at the judge's head. Court Crier Conway, standing by, without hesitation, jumped on to Welch and bore him to the floor. Welch was then overpowered and disarmed. He was locked in the judge's room until he might be arrested and jailed, but in the interval before the arrival of the officers he smashed out a window and jumped from the second floor to the ground and escaped. While Conway was reporting the case to the police he saw Welch passing on the other side of the street and had him arrested.

Taxation Reform.

ALBANY, Jan. 16.—Senator Stranahan and Assemblyman Allds both submitted to the legislature the interesting report of the joint committee on taxation suggesting a method of taxation by which direct state taxes shall be abolished and the state government shall be supported by indirect taxation. With the report a bill to carry out its recommendations was submitted. Rarely in recent years has a bill of greater importance been submitted to the legislature. It radically changes the taxation laws of the state. An attempt is made for instance to impose taxes on $2,000,000,000 invested in mortgages.

American Bank In Venezuela.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Several New York and Boston capitalists will open the first American bank in Venezuela in about three months. The final papers to this end have been signed by Consul General Gonzales and Confidential Agent N. Bolet Peraza for the Venezuelan government and George Upton for the organizers. The institution, which will be known as the Banco Nacional Bolivar, will have a working capital of $3,000,000. The head office will be located in Caracas, with branches in various cities.

Harrisburg Prepares For Bryan.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—The Democratic city committee has arranged for a reception to William J. Bryan on his visit to Harrisburg on Jan. 25 to attend the Democratic state committee meeting. Mr. Bryan will meet the state committee in the afternoon at the board of trade rooms, and in the evening a mass meeting will be held, at which it is expected he will make an address. He will probably be tendered a banquet after the public meeting.

Diseased Cattle Killed.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 16.—An examination by E. M. Ranck, an expert employed by the state veterinary board, disclosed tuberculosis in the cattle owned by David and John E. Wenger at Weaverland, this county, and the entire herd of 11 valuable cows were killed to prevent the spread of the disease. The cows had the appearance of perfect health. Farmers in the vicinity are greatly alarmed, the source of the disease being unknown.

A SPIRITED DEBATE.

Senate Listens to Much Talk on Philippine Question.

WOLCOTT REPLIES TO PETTIGREW.

Says Aguinaldo Himself Would Be More Patriotic If He Represented South Dakota—The Urgent Deficiency Bill Reported.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Spirited debate on the Philippine question occupied the attention of the senate for nearly three hours yesterday. Mr. Berry (Dem., Ark.) first addressed the senate in support of the resolutions recently introduced by Mr. Bacon (Dem., Ga.) regarding the disposition of the Philippines. He was followed by Mr. Pettigrew (Silver Rep., S. D.) in support of his resolution of inquiry. Mr. Pettigrew was very bitter in his attacks upon the administration.

Mr. Wolcott (Rep., Colo.) replied to Mr. Pettigrew, scathingly arraigning the South Dakota senator for the attitude he had assumed on the Philippine question. He declared his belief that if Aguinaldo himself occupied the seat in the senate occupied by Mr. Pettigrew, representing the people of South Dakota, who had sent their sons as soldiers to the Philippines, he would be too patriotic, too devoted to the interests of the country, to assume the attitude assumed by the present South Dakota senator. Mr. Wolcott adverted also to the speech recently delivered by Mr. Beveridge (Rep., Ind.), sharply criticising it for the spirit of greed which seemed to animate the senator in making such a deliverance.

At the conclusion of the Philippine discussion Mr. Rawlins (Dem., Utah) addressed an elaborate argument to the senate in opposition to the proposed financial legislation.

The session of the house was devoted to consideration of business pertaining to the District of Columbia. Representative June W. Gayle of Kentucky, who succeeds the late Evan Settle.

The urgent deficiency bill, the first of the important supply bills for the government reported to the house by Chairman Cannon today, carries $56,127,841, of which $47,602,332 is reappropriated for the military and naval establishments and $8,525,509 direct appropriations. The more important direct appropriations are: Treasury department, $3,069,624; war department, $199,617; naval establishment, $2,750,000; postal service $290,327; Paris exposition, $169,500; printing and binding, $270,000; judgments, Indian depredation claims, $242,112; judgments, court of claims, $2,123,925.

More than 100 persons, half of them members of the drill corps, are on the special train, which is composed of nine cars, including sleepers, smoker, library and buffet, dining and baggage cars. In New York the visitors and the ladies accompanying will be the guests of York commandery at the Murray Hill hotel. A charity ball will follow the drill evolutions.

Buried the Wrong Man.

WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 16.—What were supposed to be the remains of Fred McDonald, a Waterbury young man alleged to have died in the Philippines, were buried here a few weeks ago with military honors. Yesterday Officer Noonan received a letter from his son, who is in the Philippines, saying that McDonald is alive and now with the Forty-seventh infantry. The remains were sent to this city in a sealed casket and were not opened before the interment. There will be an effort to verify Noonan's story. The mother of the supposed dead man is the only living relative here.

Whallen and Ryan Indicted.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 16.—The Franklin county grand jury has returned indictments against John H. Whallen and Charles H. Ryan charging them with unlawfully conspiring to bribe a member of the general assembly—to wit, Senator S. H. Harrell. Bench warrants were at once issued for Whallen and Ryan, bond being placed at $1,000 in each case. The cases were set for trial on Thursday, the 25th inst.

The Plague In Rio Janeiro.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 16.—The bubonic plague is officially declared to be only sporadic in this city. Hitherto there have been 22 cases at Santos, 15 at Sao Paulo and three or four at Rio Janeiro. Energetic measures have been taken in other ports of Brazil to prevent outbreaks of the plague. At the cities mentioned the federal government has undertaken sanitary measures. All vessels are disinfected.

Partridge, superintendent of public works, has transmitted to the legislature his first annual report covering the condition of the canals, detailing improvement and repairs made during the past year, giving a statement of moneys received and expended and also giving a detailed statement of the trade and tonnage during the season of navigation.

Imported Weavers Refuse to Work.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 16.—The 22 weavers imported from Greenville, S. C., by agents of the Lonsdale company to take the places of those now out on strike at mill No. 4 did not go to work yesterday, though the company expected them to do so. The newcomers attended a meeting of the strikers, and it was definitely decided not to accept work in view of existing conditions.

Trouble In Brazil.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 16.—The Bolivian division sent to Acre has made prisoners of the commission and has also taken all the vessels on the upper Amazon and captured the converted cruisers of the revolutionary government under Galvez. All the vehicles in the city of Rio Janeiro have stopped running and serious complications are expected.

Ready to Consider.

Plainfielders, often displaying a lack of lively interest in improvements of a public nature that would be of inestimable benefit and value to the city, seem to have passed from that period into one in which the public mind is ready to entertain projects of considerable magnitude.

That is evident in the talk about the proposed new city hall. For several years this subject has been agitated by the newspapers, discussed by Mayoralty messages and encouraged by those who had special interests to be served by the consummation of the idea. Now, however, the whole people are unusually interested and definite steps are being taken to bring about the erection of a suitable home for city officials. This is the right kind of spirit, and it will be productive, if carried out, of successful results.

Another project that has been talked of even longer and more persistently than the city hall, is the erection of another depot at the North avenue station, to carry with it all the necessary improvements that the safety and the convenience of the railroad company's patrons demand and are necessary. While private enterprise must materialize this improvement, if it comes at all, public sentiment will do more than anything else towards impelling the company to go ahead with the work so long contemplated. At the present time the public mind seems ripe to entertain and vigorously push the idea of a new depot. While in the present mood every advantage should be taken to so form popular sentiment that the proposed improvement will gather force rapidly, and eventually become a reality.

The Board of Trade has taken the initiative. Now let aid and encouragement of an energetic character be given it.

One of the bills which the Essex men propose to introduce in the Legislature is the one which is intended to open the New Jersey Home for Disabled Soldiers and Sailors to the men who served in the Spanish-American War or in the later war in the Phillipine Islands. Assemblyman Klein, of Belleville, had such a bill in preparation and will probably present it this week. At present the board of managers of the Home takes the position that only the veterans of the Civil War and the war with Mexico are eligible to admission to the institution. It has been said by lawyers that the courts would probably decide against the attitude of the managers should a contest be made for the admission of those who served in the Spanish-American War, but that it would be better to have a specific act passed so that there could be no question as to the right of the young veterans to be admitted.

Russia has discouraged the introduction and use of typewriters on the ground that they would facilitate Nihilistic communications, but the needs of commerce and business have become so urgent that it is now disposed to admit them, a concession which will be of benefit to the empire as well as to American trade in these instruments.

The Chicago politicians known as "The Original McKinley Man" is head over heels in a domestic scandal. We may expect Uncle Mark to take a hand in removing the stain on the political escutcheon of the administration.

Negotiations with other countries for reciprocity treaties have been suspended by the administration because of the prospect that those already negotiated will not be ratified by Congress.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The second edition of Wand's Plainfield and North Plainfield directory has just made its appearance. Mr. Wand's first attempt was a success but he has done still better this time. In presenting the directory to the public, Mr. Wand says that there are a few mistakes and omissions. While he was in the midst of a personal canvass, he was compelled to stop for a time on account of illness. Nevertheless, the directory is by far the best and most complete of its kind that Plainfield has seen. The list of names with residence and business address is very complete. There is also a classified business directory together with a fund of information concerning the city, its government and other items of interest that is to be found nowhere else. The volume is well printed and neatly bound with a red cloth cover.

Students of folk lore find that many superstitious practices have their origin in religious beliefs. The superstition of knocking or scratching on wood three times when one has boasted of immunity from any calamity is one of these. You say "I have not had the doctor for years," and some one will say, "Knock on wood three times, or you will need the doctor's care soon." The origin of the superstition is this. It is a heathenish belief that evil spirits are always hovering in the air. These evil spirits hear the boaster's exclamation and determine to punish him by bringing on him the very calamity from which he thinks himself exempt. The three knocks on wood are an invocation to the Trinity to avert the calamity determined upon by the evil spirits.

One of those who had hoped to draw a prize from the Legislature was a colored constituent of a Mercer county Assemblyman. Approaching the Assemblyman some weeks ago, the voter said:

"Boss, I'se been a ha'd worker in de wa'd foh nigh on to twenty yeahs, and I'se nebber got nuffin' yit."

"Well, what do you want?" asked the Assemblyman.

"I'd laik foh to be do'-keepa', boss; 'deed I would, an' I think dat I'se 'titled to it."

"I'll see what I can do for you," promised the Assemblyman, and he did manage to get the old man a place as helper around the State House.

The Legislature had adjourned and nearly everybody had left when the Mercer man ran across his constituent busy over a pile of cuspidors.

"See yeah, boss," cried the old man quickly, "I to't I was to get a job as do'keepa?"

"Well, how do you like it?"

"What foh yo' mean? Dis ain't no do'keepa. Dis is cleanin' spit boxes, an' I'se gwine git only $50. I wants foh to be do'keepa."

"So you are; so you are, uncle. You are the cuspidor-keeper."

"Oh, is dat it? I spec' it am all right den," and the officeholder went about his work with renewed energy.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 26.—Charles Boice, Jr., private secretary to one of the officers of the Standard Oil Company, left yesterday for Palm Beach, Florida, in the interest of the company by whom he is employed.

The recent January thaw appears not to have injured the ice on the New Market pond sufficiently to spoil the skating, which is still being enjoyed by the youth of New Market and this place.

A son was born to Rev. and Mrs. Martin Sindall, of New Market, last week. The infant has been named Seymour Colwell, in honor of two professors in the Alfred University.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 16—Rev. Mr. Shott told his congregation Sunday evening, during a short prelude upon "The Key to the Whole Situation," that the hardest thing a pastor had to contend with in a crusade such as was being waged now was the rum seller, the politician and the members of the church who would straddle the fence—afraid to take a stand for the right.

Clarence Lambert has filled his large ice house near the back pond and will begin cutting on Willow Grove lake in a few days.

Miss Kizzie Naegle, who has been her cousin, Miss Helen Whitenack, has returned to her home in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs W. S. Terry, of Netherwood, have been the guests of Mrs. Terry's mother, Mrs. James Buckley.

In Memory of Helen M. Row, Who Died Jan. 1st, 1900, Aged 5 Years.

God sent this little child to earth.
A mission to fulfill;
It needed but a few short years
To carry out His will.

In Sunday-school her baby voice,
"Yes, Jesus loves me," sang;
And through the house from morn till night
Her childish prattle rang.

She was always glad and willing
To speak her pieces too.
Always so pleased and happy
To greet the friends she drew.

She was her papa's only pet,
Her mamma's "sweetheart" dear;
The joy and comfort of their home,
That now seems, oh! so drear.

For yonder stands a vacant chair
To tell them of their grief;
One little bed unused by night
Teaches that life is brief.

For God, who knoweth what is best,
In His Almighty love,
Hath sent Death's angel in our midst

Too frail was she to tarry long
Upon life's thorny way;
So Jesus took the darling home
To live with Him for aye.

Just as the happy New Year's Day
Dawned on this wintry earth,
The pearly gates were opened wide,
She had celestial birth.

Poor mother, dry those tearful eyes;
"Oh, mamma, don't you cry!"
And father, cease to grieve for her,
She lives beyond the sky.

"Yes, Jesus loves me," now she sings
In that bright, happy land,
As at the throne of Christ, our King,
She joins the angel band.

Oh! mourning parents, won't you trust
A loving Father's hand,
And let Him lead you gently on
Into the promised land?

Then when life's journey here is run,
At Heaven's wide-open door,
Dear little Helen shall welcome you
Where partings are no more. G.G.C.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"The Turtle," the only specimen of its kind, and without question the greatest success of the day, is announced for next Friday evening at Music Hall. "The Turtle" is so genuinely funny and is interpreted with such an artistic touch by players of distinction, that it stands quite alone among the farcical frivolities of the period. It is essentially Parisian and is interpreted with true French adroitness and touch and vivacity by Sylvia Alice Lynden, Ada Zell, Frances Brooke, Jessie Lansing, Ada Korton, John Terriss, Wm. McCreedy, J E. MacGregor, Clement St. Martin and Harry Gibbs. "The Turtle" is curiously discussed in remote centres of civilization, like Chicago and St. Louis, and pretty much every stranger visiting New York during its run made a bee line for the Manhattan. This word of mouth advertisement that "The Turtle" obtains is considered about the most valuable that could be devised. Local theatre parties are already being arranged.

* * * * * *

The romantic play of the Tennessee Mountains "At Piney Ridge," will be the attraction at Music Hall, Saturday night. The title suggests a military play and in this respect it is both true and misleading at the same time. The play is not a war drama in the ordinary sense, it deals with the rebellion in a reminiscent fashion, in that it portrays some of the dire results and cruelties of war, and appeals also to the highest motives of patriotism but, in its most effective side, it is a play of peace, a story of the fireside. It is free from rant and cheap heroics and tells its plain simple story in plain, yet, poetic fashion; poetic because it is plain and plainly told. Without flourish, Mr. Higgins has given us in this play a drama, the rush of whose events knows no stop from the first to the final fall of the curtain. Without hurry or ill considered scenes, for all the details of the play are vital to the main thread of the plot, it absorbs the attention from the beginning and unfolds it to the end.

ARE YOU SICK?
A sure cure for Bronchitis, Croup, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, Consumption or any disease of the lungs or throat. Medicine taken into the stomach will not cure these diseases, because it is impossible to reach the affected part through the stomach. Doctors know this.
These diseases are cured by DOWNING'S CHLORIDES.
Why? Because it cures by inhalation and reaches the affected parts. Ten to thirty drops poured on a plate and allowed to evaporate gives you immediate relief, and every breath helps to cure. The cure is positive and quick. Downing's Chlorides are breathed naturally into the lungs and throat, and is a germicide which kills all microbes, the cause of all troubles of the lungs and throat. This cure is so simple as to be perfectly safe for the youngest infant or for the aged person. There is no apparatus, smoke or danger. Unlike medicine, it cannot upset the stomach and nerves. If you have any form of lung or throat trouble, we guarantee to cure you. It is recognized and recommended by eminent specialists as the proper treatment for lung and throat troubles.
A free trial will be given by applying to the regular physician in charge of the office at 583 West 51st St., New York City. Descriptive booklet will be mailed free.

Thüringische Staaten.

Jena. In dem nur durch die Saale von unserer Stadt getrennten Nachbarorte Wenigenjena ist nun der Umbau des Gasthofes „Zur grünen Tanne" vollendet. Obwohl eine Anzahl Fremdenzimmer neu eingerichtet worden sind, sind die alten Räume des Hauses, in welchem Goethe 1816 wohnte und den „Erlenkönig" schuf, und wo 1815 am 12. Juli die Gründung der deutschen Burschenschaft stattfand, vom Umbau verschont geblieben. Unsere Stadt besuchenden Fremden ist deshalb noch immer Gelegenheit gegeben, diese Räume zu besichtigen.

Sie that das aus dem Grunde, um allen etwaigen Umständen und Wirrnissen für die anderen Theile ihrer Ladung zu entgehen.

Bremen. Dieser Tage fand auf der Werft von Joh. C. LADY. I gave a handful of Ripans Tabules to an old gentleman of Brooklyn, and he said their effect upon him has been most remarkable.

FRIEND. What was the matter with him, anyway?

L. He is a weigher, and works about the wharves and warehouses. He said that always after eating he would be troubled with gases, and there would be a sensation as of a load on the pit of his stomach which made him very uncomfortable.

F. Well, what good did the Ripans do him?

L. I don't know how they did it, but he says they were effective from the start, and he was surprised to see how quickly one would give him relief. I think it is quite remarkable, for he is a confirmed dyspeptic and he positively sneered when I gave him the Ripans. He didn't seem to think anything could reach his case.

OUT OF DOOR STYLES.

Winter Fashions In Coats and Millinery.

The little coat, half jacket, half bodice, is this winter's first favorite in Paris, and for a youthful figure nothing can be smarter.

Gauze, tulle and lace are the preferred trimmings for lace, velvet and fur hats, odd as it seems. There is no longer any hesitation about combining summery textures with those once considered sacred to winter. A new model of a toque, for example, is of rare pink tulle, and it is trimmed with ermine tails, which nestle in the tulle as if they belonged there. Sable, mink and other furs are also seen on tulle hats.

Felt sailor hats, trimmed with choux of ribbon and quills, are used for morning wear and to accompany tailor made gowns.

Draped toques of felt, velvet, fur or thin, transparent fabrics are a feature of the season. The heavier ones are for the street, the more delicate ones to accompany elegant visiting gowns or for the theater.

Muffs usually match the costume with which they are worn. An attempt is being made to revive the enormous muff of olden time, but it shows no sign of succeeding, the universal verdict being in favor of the small, ornamental kind.

The cut depicts a long redingote of garnet cloth, ornamented with applications of black velvet and closed at the left side by three large pearl buttons. The round collar and the revers are in one and terminate at the left side under a bow of black velvet. The sleeves are fitted at the top by stitched darts and are bordered by black velvet at the wrists. The lining is of broche silk.

ACCESSORIES.

Attractive Details of the Fashionable Toilet.

The latest thing in theater bonnets is an immense pansy, six inches across, with ruffled petals. From this rises a tuft of horse hairs tipped with crystal.

Soft, turned down collars of lawn, lace and embroidery are much worn. They are very narrow and are folded over the high collar of the gown. Some are plainly hemstitched; others form a series of points or square tabs.

Draperies of butter colored lace are much used on winter hats, both of tulle and fur.

Lace, gauze and net ties are in great demand. They are to be had in all degrees of elaboration, from the simple scarf of dotted net with tucks or a plait-ing across the end to bands of finest mousseline de soie enriched with applications of real lace.

A new design in fancy handkerchiefs has a deep border of blue, pink or lavender, embroidered with white flower-de-luce. Above the border, on the white part of the handkerchief, are embroidered flowers-de-luce matching the color of the edge.

The hat illustrated is of gray felt. It is tilted at the left side by a torsade of red velvet placed next the hair. The crown is encircled by two folds of black moire and a band of gray velvet passing through a steel buckle in front. At the side is a cluster of black ostrich tips rising from coques and ends of gray velvet and black moire. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A RAGE FOR VELVET.

Many Stylish Gowns Now Made of This Rich, Heavy Fabric.

Velvet has taken hold of feminine hearts with a vengeance after long neglect, and now very many rich and festive gowns are of that superb fabric. Even the young want velvet gowns, however unsuitable they are for their age. Velutina, both ribbed and plain, however, is suitable for young ladies for full suits and for skating costumes. Velutina is also much used for handsome tea gowns for winter, and I can hardly think of anything richer or more pleasing to the eyes than to see a lady in a rich red tea gown on a cold winter day.

There was a royal blue velvet gown worn for a swell theater party by one lady who does not care to wear low cut dresses even to the opera. This had the waist of silvery white satin overlaid with black silk guipure lace. The sleeves were of velvet, and so was a little figaro. Around the bottom there was a facing of the white satin covered with lace and edged with a narrow jet trimming.

Skating suits made of cloth, cheviot or the ribbed velutina are trimmed appropriately with fur. Those where there is no fur, Eton or other jacket are lined with chamois skin or worn with an under jersey made of eider down flannel. They are light, flexible and porous and very warm and comfortable. All skating suits are made to fit closely, as any skirt or jacket flying in the wind not only impedes progress, but is unsafe.

The moment the holidays are over all the fancy things intended to beguile people into spending more money than they can afford are laid aside or maybe are sold; I do not know for certain, but this I do know—that whole blocks of stores have suddenly blossomed out into white.

There are thousands and thousands of white garments, skirts, nightrobes, drawers and corset covers and all frilled and ruffled with lace and this in turn set off with light and dainty ribbons, pink or blue. This season valenciennes and lierre are the favorite laces, and nearly all the nightrobes and chemises and also the corset covers are V shaped in front. That would seem to indicate that dresses may have lower collars in spite of shirt waists.

Shirt waists of cotton and other washable stuff are now ready for the spring trade. There is a marked leaning toward polka dotted designs in all sorts of material, surah, taffeta, percale, pique and lawn, as well as some soft, light wools. These are very strong and semitransparent.

The form of the shirt waists differs very slightly from those of last season, the principal change being in the front, where there is scarcely any bagginess at all. The backs have yokes and plaits or gathers all converging to a narrow place in the center at the waist and spread on the shoulders.

The silk shirt waists are made with cording and featherbone piping, and some have insets of lace run with ribbon. There are so many different styles that it is useless to mention more than the salient points. I might add that the silk waists and some of the finest of the others have dress sleeves with chatelaine cuffs instead of the shirt sleeves fashionable so long.

As to the white underskirts one can only say that they are marvels of daintiness to look at, but how much they would cost in laundry bills before the season is over I cannot tell. Silk, cotton, sateen and the whole line of oriental silks—which are really cotton, though simulating silk so closely that it is not easy to tell the difference—are used in the skirts for out of doors. Few ladies wear white skirts in the street, but for dancing and for dressy home and visiting purposes the delicate lace trimmed skirts are prettiest, and, in fact, any other kind of skirt would be very much out of place.

A favorite way of using lace upon a skirt is to have two ruffles outside and one on the underside of the hem and then a deep ruffle of batiste with festoons of lace frills set upon this, each apex having a tiny rosette of pink or blue baby ribbon.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

The youngest preacher in the world is Miss Melesin K. Sowles of Honey Creek, Wis. She is 16 years of age and still attends the public school. Her sermons have attracted much attention, and she will be sent to a theological seminary.

THE CHURCHMAN.

The old "Second Church" in Boston celebrated its 250th anniversary recently.

The oldest Presbyterian congregation in America is located at Snow Hill, Maryland.

The New Epiphany Chapel (Episcopal) in New York has adopted the "never close" policy.

At Mount Olivet Baptist Church, New York, seventy-six converts were baptized at one time recently.

The Rev. John G. Paton, the oldest missionary to the New Hebrides, is lecturing in the Eastern States to the churches.

A large Mormon temple will be built at Louisville, Ky., at a central point from which missionaries will be sent throughout the South.

Leading denominational publications express the belief that Professor McGiffert's case must surely be tried before the next Presbyterian General Assembly.

The new plant of the Union Settlement, for philanthropic work, which has just been opened in Harlem, is one of the finest in New York, and cost over $40,000.

New York Methodist ministers may decide to hold their Monday meetings behind closed doors, because of undue publicity given to matters personal to the church.

The tenor of the letters in British religious journals from Presbyterian, Methodist, and Congregational clergymen in South Africa is decidedly adverse to the Boers.

Sixty delegates, representing missions at ports all the way from Montreal to New Orleans, met in Boston recently in the first convention ever held to discuss work among seamen.

An English authority has estimated that if all the inhabitants of the British Isles should decide to attend church on a given Sunday 25,000,000 would be crowded out for lack of seating room in the churches.

The synod of Missouri has nominated the Rev. John H. Miller for the position of permanent clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly, a post made vacant by the death of the Rev. Dr. W. E. Moore.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Virgin, for nearly thirty years pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, Brooklyn, has resigned because he thinks a younger man could subserve better the interests of the church.

For the Bishopric of Liverpool, to be vacant next year, the Dean of Norwich is a leading candidate, with the Bishop of Sodor and Man, Archdeacon Sinclair, and the Rev. G. F. Head following closely in popularity.

The Rev. James Gibson Johnson, a former pastor of New England Congregational Church, Chicago, has been installed as pastor of the Congregational Church at Farmington, Mass., one of the historic churches of New England.

According to the Baptist Standard there is not a State in the West where the additions to Baptist churches during the last year have been in any degree adequate to the resources employed, or even the average normal rate of increase.

The Rev. Nacy McGee Waters, formerly of Evanston, Ill., at the examination incident to his installation at the First Congregational Church, Binghamton, N. Y., read a statement of his religious faith written mainly in poetic form.

New York has a new evening theological school, undenominational, to fit young men and women for more efficient work in their respective churches, to prepare students for the ministry, to make more proficient Sunday school teachers, to train deaconesses, to give instruction about missions, and to cultivate a Christian spirit among the denominations.

The Western Christian Advocate takes strong ground against full-dress Methodist social unions. It says: "Methodism has comparatively few dress coats and evening costumes. Her ranks are recruited largely from the middle class and the common people, with here and there a representative of Caesar's household. Her members are one family in the Lord, and the church, as such, cannot afford to patronize an entertainment from which any member is virtually excluded."

THE EYE STUDENT.

Wide open eyes are indicative of rashness.

Side-glancing eyes are always to be distrusted.

Small eyes are commonly supposed to indicate cunning.

The downcast eye has in all ages been typical of modesty.

The proper distance between the eyes is the width of one eye.

People of melancholy temperament rarely have clear blue eyes.

Eyes in rapid and constant motion betoken anxiety, fear or care.

Eyes with long, sharp corners indicate great discernment and penetration.

The white of the eye showing beneath the iris is indicative of nobility of character.

When the upper lid covers half or more of the pupil the indication is of cool deliberation.

An eye the upper lid of which passes horizontally across the pupil indicates mental ability.

It is said that the prevailing colors of eyes among patients of lunatic asylums are brown or black.

Eyes that are wide apart are said by physiognomists to indicate great intelligence and tenacious memory.

Eyes of which the whole of the iris is visible belong to erratic persons, often with a tendency towards insanity.

Wide open, staring eyes in weak countenances indicate jealousy, bigotry, intolerance and pertinacity, without firmness.

Eyes placed close together in the head are said to indicate pettiness of disposition, jealousy and a turn for fault finding.

THE GLEANER.

During nine months of this year 2,700 miles of new railroad were laid in this country.

The Post Office building in Virginia, San Diego County, Cal., is made of an old piano box.

Rain has never been known to fall in that part of Egypt between the two lower falls of the Nile.

It is no unusual thing for a vessel plying between Japan and London to carry 1,000,000 fans as a single item of cargo.

WORLD OF SCIENCE.

Interesting Phenomena Accompanying a Solar Eclipse.

Multiphone Attachment for Telephones—Heat as a Curative Agent—Pope to Be Treated with Chicago Goat Lymph.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

THE Leonids seem, for the time being, to have had their day, and, while all are disappointed at the somewhat meager display, the star-gazing public is already beginning to look forward to the total eclipse of the sun to be visible in the southern states May 28, 1900.

Mary Proctor has given a very entertaining description of the phenomena that may be expected to be visible at that time. The eclipse will be 55 miles wide and will extend from near New Orleans to Raleigh, traveling southeasterly over the Atlantic ocean, across Portugal, Spain and northern Africa.

ECLIPSE OF SUN EXPLAINED.

Its duration will vary from one minute, fifteen seconds in Louisiana to one minute, forty-five seconds in North Carolina.

The eclipse of the sun is total when the moon passes directly between the earth and the sun and wherever its shadow travels darkness exists. The shadow appears like a long, narrow cone stretching away into space. Its tip travels eastward on the earth's surface at the rate of about 1,000 miles per hour, which is the difference in velocity between the earth's rotation (1,000 miles) and the rate at which the shadow glides through space at 2,000 miles per hour in the same direction. An observer seems to see the shadow advancing with lightning-like rapidity, sometimes in wavy bands. The portion of the shadow where the eclipse is total is called the umbra, and is seldom over 160 miles in width. The portions on each side where there is less density are called penumbra. It is said that the shadows cast by leaves are sickle-shaped just before the sun's light is totally eclipsed.

The swift approach of the peculiar darkness from the west is very impressive. The sun's light is first dimmed and then the sky seems ashen in hue. The air is chilly. The petals of flowers close as at night, and the birds seek their nests in the trees.

The returning light is gladly welcomed. Light and heat are the great life sustaining properties. It is now a generally accepted fact that heat is a very important factor in curing the pains of rheumatism, as well as, in many cases, conquering the disease itself. Hence the many inventions recently devised for obtaining the best results from this remedy. In many of the machines which have so far been most successfully used the whole body except the head is inclosed in the apparatus and intense dry heat applied. But these are expensive and there is always the feeling of anxiety lest one should receive too much of a good thing, owing to error in judgment of attendant. There has seemed a need for an invention that could be manipulated by the sufferer himself without a chance of danger from boiling or roasting.

This requirement claims to have been met by Ferdinand Holbery, of Macon, Miss.

One end of the apparatus consists of a flexible bag-like affair which is fasten around the portion of the body to be treated, is kept in the heat. To this is attached a large metal cylinder terminating in a trumpet-like mouth. The patient's limb rests outside the cylinder on a flexible support. The open mouth is placed near a hot stove or open grate. The whole reclines on an adjustable framework that it may be lowered or raised at will.

Of great value also is the invention of the multiphone, a device for magnifying the sound from a telephone or phonograph. A small resonance chamber connects directly with the vibrating diaphragm of the telephone and opens on the other side into an ordinary speaking trumpet. This greatly increases a sound passing through the instrument. Many persons who are slightly deaf are unable to use a telephone. This invention will enable them to do so with ease. M. Dussand, its French inventor, believes they can be installed in theaters and connected with the atrophones, thus enabling deaf persons to follow the play without difficulty.

The reports of the cure, by treatment with goat lymph, of Mr. Bush, a prominent citizen of Joliet, Ill., who, although only 30 years old, had been pronounced a confirmed paranoiac, have traveled through medical circles all over the world. The inventor of the method, Dr. Roberts, a Missouri physician, some months ago started on a tour through some of the principal European cities at the urgent request of some of the greatest specialists abroad and always found that the fame of the results of his discovery had preceded him.

Drs. Pasteur, Koch, Brown-Sequard, Hammond and others have been experimenting with the same agent for years, but never with any degree of satisfaction.

Goat lymph has long been known as a great revitalizer, but as no means had been discovered for keeping the cells in active condition no great use could be made of it. Dr. Roberts has been able to do away with this defect in the remedy and great hopes are entertained in reference to it. Some of the leading physicians of New York, Boston, Chicago and other American cities are enthusiastic concerning the results they have been able to achieve by means of it. It has been found a great aid in treating cases of epilepsy, apoplexy, locomotor ataxia, atrophy, paralysis, nervous prostration and consumption in its early stages.

It is said to cure rheumatism and has been found very useful in the case of children whose mental growth has been retarded from various causes.

According to the disease to be treated, it is injected in doses of from four to fourteen drops one or more times daily from two to three months. It has only been found dangerous when administered by persons uninstructed as to proper manner of applying it or who have been unable to make a correct diagnosis of the malady affecting their patients. Some of the most prominent medical men in the world have welcomed Dr. Roberts most courteously and every facility has been afforded him for demonstrating the efficacy of his remedy. He has introduced it into some of the insane asylums, hospitals and medical schools of world-wide fame of Vienna and other cities.

Senility is one of the diseases due to cell degeneracy and in all such the introduction of goat lymph is said to induce remarkable improvement. Requests have come from Rome to the laboratory in Chicago, where the lymph is manufactured, that some of the preparation be forwarded there, and a gentleman has gone to the Eternal City with some of the precious life-restoring liquid.

And now come rumors that this is to be used by members of the medical staff at the Vatican in experiments which, if found satisfactory, will open the way to administering it to Pope Leo XIII. The reverend gentleman is said to be suffering from senility and great hopes are entertained for a renewal of his youth. Dr. Roberts, while in Rome, has been the guest of Dr. Baldwin, whose advice is said to carry great weight with the physicians of the pope and of the royal family.

Some time since Dr. Roberts wrote to his friends regarding Dr. Baldwin's enthusiasm over the great lymph cure, and his desire to have it introduced into Roman medical practice. Hence the consignment by special messenger from Chicago. The physician in charge of the laboratory where it is manufactured in that city expresses much surprise that the matter has reached the public ear, and, while he admits that Dr. Roberts wrote of Dr. Baldwin's interest, also that the consignment had been made, will make no definite statement as to whether it will be used in treatment of Pope Leo.

If it is true that the latter is suffering from senility, doubtless the use of the lymph would be of incalculable value. But the case would require great circumspection. In many instances of this kind the results have been almost miraculous. A patient soon begins to look, feel and act younger. The ambitions of youth return. There have been so many well authenticated accounts to this effect that the statement may be made without fear of contradiction. Although the wheels of time will not turn backward, who knows what grand discoveries in methods of preserving life in its full usefulness may lie before us? While one is not at all sure that it is desirable that the number of man's days on earth be lengthened, there is no question as to how gladly all would receive the news of a probability of continued vigor until the end. Old age would be robbed of all its terrors. EDWARD JULIAN.

Two Answers.

Not long ago a Boston clergyman received an evening call from an elderly man and woman, who expressed a wish to be joined in the bonds of matrimony then and there.

"Have you ever been married before?" asked the clergyman of the man, an honest-eyed, weather-beaten person of seafaring aspect.

"Never, and never wanted to before," was the prompt reply.

"And have you ever been married before?" the question came to the woman.

"No, sir," she replied, with equal promptness; and with a touch of humor that appealed to the clergyman at once, she added: "I never had a chance!"

The marriage ceremony was speedily performed and the clergyman refused to take any fee, telling the bride, with a twinkle in his eye, that it had been a privilege to officiate, which he would have been sorry to miss.—Youth's Companion.

"Kind Lady and No Dog."

The surveyors who were employed in laying out the line of the proposed Ogden avenue extension left behind them at certain intervals certain peculiar marks to indicate points which they had fixed. One elderly housekeeper who lives along the line has, through sad experience with strangers, become quite wary. She had read a newspaper article not long since telling of the marks which tramps and beggars put on the premises of what they term "easy people." So when she came to her front door and saw the surveyor's mysterious signs, she studied them intently, and, saying softly to herself: "Kind lady and no dog, hey?" went back into the house with a smile. When she reappeared she was armed with a scrubbing brush and some cleaning brick She at once proceeded to remove every mark left by the surveyors.—Chicago Evening News.

Mary Knew.

A few days ago a boy was missing from a schoolroom in one of the uptown public school buildings. The teacher looked around and failed to see the familiar face.

"Does any pupil know why Tommy McGregor isn't in school to-day?" she inquired.

There was no reply.

The teacher repeated the query.

Then a little girl slowly lifted her hand.

"Please, ma'am," she said, "I know."

"And why does he stay away, Mary?"

"Please, ma'am, it's 'cause he's got 'measles inside.'"

Mary had read the contagious disease card that was tacked on front of the house.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What Joseph Was.

The Sabbath school teacher had been telling the class about Joseph, particularly with reference to his coat of many colors, and how his father rewarded him for being a good boy, for Joseph, she said, told his father whenever he caught any of his brothers in the act of doing wrong.

"Can any little boy or girl tell me what Joseph was?" the teacher asked, hoping that some of them had caught the idea that he was Jacob's favorite.

"I know," one of the little girls said, holding up her hand.

"What was he?"

"A tattle-tale!" was the reply.—Baltimore News.

Peculiarity of Snakes.

A snake tamer who had trained a serpent to follow him around the house, and even out of doors, happened one day to take it with him to a strange place. The snake, unused to the locality, suddenly seemed to forget all his training, and, escaping into the bushes, resisted capture with bites and every indication of wildness. When caught it at once resumed its tame habits. The tendency to become wild immediately upon obtaining freedom, and to again become tame when caught, is said to be a peculiarity of snakes.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Poor Hero.

"How did the hero of the story come out?" he asked of the lad who had just rolled up a novel and got up to stretch himself.

"He was a chump!" was the reply, in tones of disgust. "He had two guns, a knife, a bronco, a lasso and a bottle of pizen, and yit he let de villain punch de breath out of him and git away wid de heroine and a million dollars in cash."—N. Y. Sun.

Uncle Has It.

Miss Roxy—Where's the umbrella I gave you?

Gayboy (her fiance)—That is it.

The Lumberman.

For all the lumberman's rough jocularity, his heart is right. Once the forest harbored fugitives from justice; but the railroad brought the sheriff, the sheriff brought the law, and law brings decency. Besides, as at sea and on the plains, the open air breathes a spirit of chivalry. Suppose a man affronts a waitress, 20 defenders leap to their feet. Suppose a poor fellow is hurt, round goes the hat. What is more, two comrades will drop their work and take him 60 miles to the doctor. And, sad to tell, there is need enough for that sort of sympathy. "Woodman," says Helen, who, in spite of my earnest remonstrance, never verifies her quotations, "Woodman, spare that toe!" A fine hero, no doubt, is this man of the forest, a brave and generous soul; but, nevertheless, as in the case of Mr. Burgess' impurpled heifer, "I'd rather see than be one." For, roundly outdoing that sly humorist's confessed preference for "fingers rather than toes," the lumberman does his best to dispense with both. What are left by the woods are claimed by the mill.—R. L. Hartt, in Atlantic.

Tante Kruger.

Mrs. Paul Kruger is said to have accepted her husband's offer of marriage with the words: "I can bake, I can cook, I can sew, I can clean, I can scrub." Whether or not this is the customary Boer formula is not explained, but it is true that the wife of the president of the Transvaal has lived up to her words. Oom Paul is said to be worth several millions. Much of this accumulation is said to be attributed to the thrift and economy of his wife, who was not only able to do the things that could help to make a man rich, but was not ashamed to. She is still a gentle-mannered, blue-eyed woman, who has not changed her method of life because the husband she married as a poor man has come to have riches and power. She still attends to the duties of which she told her husband she was capable.—Boston Globe.

A Fulfilled Prophecy.

"By the way," said Carter, "you were in trouble over a love affair the last time I saw you. Some girl had declined to be your wife, I believe."

"Yes," replied Gaston, "and do you remember the encouragement you gave me? You told me not to care; that inside of six months I would meet plenty of other girls I would think were far superior to her."

"I have a faint recollection of saying something like that."

"Well, you were right. It happened just as you said it would. She changed her mind, and we got married after all."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Astronomical Necessities.

In recent years American readers have become so much accustomed to reports of large telescopes that the impression seems to prevail widely that such instruments are the only conditions necessary for great discoveries. Need I point out to any thoughtful person that this strange impression is not justified? Is it not equally important that the telescope should be located in an atmosphere which is quiescent and steady as well as free from clouds and fog? In addition to good instruments and favorable climate, there must be an astronomer at the little end of the telescope capable of obtaining the best results which his instruments and conditions afford.—T. "Haven't I?" contended the modest man. "Haven't I? Well, I married her, and I've been living with her ever since."—Detroit Free Press.

GREAT INVENTIONS.

All Kinds Have Always Had Several Applicants for Patents.

"A man in my line of business," said a local attorney who makes a specialty of patents, "has an exceptional opportunity for finding out that great minds run in the same direction. It is a remarkable fact that fully seven eighths of the important mechanical appliances of the past 50 years have been the subject of litigation on the ground of priority of invention. In almost every instance it was clearly shown that different people, sometimes as many as five or six, were at work on the same idea at the same time, each unknown to the other. A somewhat plausible explanation has been advanced for these remarkable coincidences," continued the lawyer. "It is, in brief, that certain universal needs suggest similar trains of thought to active minds, and, in searching for the best remedy, they fall insensibly into the same channel.

This is only another way of saying that necessity is the mother of invention, but it is hard to apply the theory to scores of devices that were certainly not the subect of any specific demand. Take the telephone, for instance. At the time Prof. Bell was perfecting his instrument at least three other inventors were developing the same thing, and he beat them to the Patent Office by a mere scratch. Everybody remembers the long and bitter contest that ensued, and I believe, personally, that each of the parties to it was in entire good faith, although it is almost impossible to convince an inventor, under such circumstances, that there has been no fraud. Every man believes firmly that the other fellows have stolen his idea. The arc light, the incandescent light, the X-ray apparatus, the typewriter and the gas engine are a few of the big things I call to mind at random in which there was the same coincidence of thought. Two of the latest and most remarkable instances in point are wireless telegraphy and liquid air. The fundamental principles of both were old and had been experimented with and discarded as impractical. Then suddenly, after the lapse of years, two groups of inventors began the task of development. In wireless telegraphy Marconi had three rivals, one an American, but he was fortunate enough to get out his patents ahead of the others. Who built the first successful liquid air apparatus is at present in dispute, and two companies, each headed by a claimant, are now in full blast in New York. If ever you have an extra good idea you would do well to secure the protection of a patent without delay. It is 50 to 1 that some other chap is pegging away at exactly the same thing."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

TRANSFERS CUT OFF FROM SCOTCH PLAINS

New Order Issued by Street Railway Company.

TOWNSHIP MAY RETALIATE.

FIVE CENTS ONLY PAYS FOR RIDE TO WATCHUNG AVENUE SWITCH.

Heretofore Transfers Were Given to the Other Liner, But the New Order Prevents That—Scotch Plains People Up in Arms Over the Matter, and Officials Are to Take a Hand Now.

The residents of Scotch Plains are up in arms against the new order of the Westfield and Elizabeth street Railway, which went into effect Sunday. The cause of the disturbance is that the trolley company is not satisfied with rubbing it into the patrons of the road by the poor service given, but have issued a new order that no transfers will be given over other branches of the Plainfield Street Railway.

The company's franchise reads from any point in Fanwood township to Watchung avenue, Plainfield, for one fare of 5 cents. But when the franchise was granted the public was given to understand that transfers would be given over any of the branches of the Plainfield line and even to Dunellen for the one fare.

The company lived up to this mutual understanding during the time the extension was first opened as far as Scotch Plains and even after the line was thrown open as far as Cranford, and those who are working in Plainfield factories found the trolley very convenient and a cheap mode of travel. During the past week the trolley magnates have met and made the change and it was sprung as a surprise Sunday. Owing to the stormy day very little traveling was done, but Monday and Tuesday the residents of the village began to feel the imposition—as they call it—which had thrust upon them, and their wrath has slowly risen to the boiling point.

The Township committee will probably be appealed to for some sort of redress and then the company will find that things are not all one sided. When the franchise was guaranteed a clause was inserted which reads that the trolley company shall pay to Fanwood township the sum of $100 per annum per every mile of track laid in the township, payment to start Jan. 1 1899. There is nearly 2½ miles of track laid which means a tax of $243 per annum.

The township committe were lenient with the company and overlooked the collection of this tax when it was due on Jan. 1st. The township committee did not insist on immediate payment. The committee will probably press all claims against a company who seems to be in business to take all advantages offered. The outcome of the clash will be watched with interest by the whole village.

WEDDING IN DUNELLEN.

Zielenbach-Cooper Nuptials Celebrated in St. John's R. C. Church This Afternoon.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock occurred the marriage of William Zielenbach, of New York, and Mary Agnes Cooper, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, of Dunellen. The ceremony was performed at St. John's Roman Catholic church by the pastor, Rev. Father Bogaard.

The cosy little church was filled to its limit by the many friends of the bride who is held in the high esteem by a large number of people.

Miss Margaret Roache, a cousin of the bride, of Bound Brook, was the bridemaid and George Zeilenbach, brother of the groom, of Schenectady, was best man. James Roache, of Bound Brook, and Martin Boyle, of Dunellen, filled the important part of ushers.

The bride looked pretty in a white silk out entrain with vail. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Roache, the bridemaid, wore a costume of white organdie over blue silk and carried carnations. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 304 Madison avenue, where a wedding dinner was served. There were many guests from nearby towns present to offer congratulations. The bride received many handsome presents. Mr. and Mrs. Zeilenbach left on a short wedding tour. They will reside for the present at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Zeilenbach holds a lucrative position with the Pennsylvania Railroad. For some months he has made his home at the Park Hotel, where he is a general favorite.

HONEST HELP OF POOR.

METHODS AND AIMS OF ORGANIZED CHARITY.

The Subject Discussed Before Branch Alliance of Unitarian Women by Those Who Have Given it Careful Consideration

The Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and other Liberal Christian Women held its first meeting yesterday afternoon for the year in All Souls church, Park avenue, when the subject "Methods and Aims of Organized Charity," was taken up and discussed at some length. There was a good sized audience present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, the vice-president, Mrs. A. D. Conklin, presided. Previous to the public meeting a short business session was held, and at 3:30 o'clock the meeting was opened to the public.

The subject under discussion was opened by Mrs. Henry Opdyke, of this city, who for many years has been identified with charitable enterprises. She spoke of helping the poor through the Organized Aid Association so that they would soon learn to do for themselves, but not in any sense that would make these people feel as though they were paupers. She brought out the point that one ought to love their neighbor as themselves and do all that is possible to help them and make better people of them. She dwelt on the point of these people being assisted to that degree of having supporting ability. She then introduced a scheme that has been uppermost in her mind for years, that of establishing on the outskirts a farm, where poor people could raise various fruits, vegetables, etc., and exchange them in the city for clothing, hats, shoes, etc., things that they could not otherwise buy through lack of money. She spoke of this plan at some length and said that she hoped some day to see such a scheme in working order.

Mrs. Opdyke was followed by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of the church, who followed up the line of thought brought out by the preceding speaker. He said that he wished the Organized Aid could be instrumental in persuading people to desist in giving alms at the door, and thus continue the idea of so prevalent, that of pauperizing poor people. He desired that people might be induced to put their kindly emotions in this respect in the right channel, that of the Aid Association, and this would make the poor people feel less dependent, and give them more respect for themselves. In this way they could do something for that which they receive. He said that he wished the people of the city would conspire together and contribute to the Aid Association and then better results would be securred. He said that if the people of Plainfield would give ten cents twenty times a year to the association it would give that body ample funds with which to work and care for the needy. Each person would then pay an annual membership fee. A person often gives more than that every year and thinks nothing of it. He spoke of the great good that is being accomplished by the Aid through people of means. If it were not for this support the project would fail no doubt.

After the addresses a general discussion followed which was of a great benefit to all and brought out many points of interest. Then followed a tea which was presided over by Miss Caroline Hall and Miss Kelly. Many remained and enjoyed the tea and a social chat.

AGAINST BARD COMPANY.

Eastman Kodak Company Given a Judgement of $400 by Judge VanSyckel.

The Bard Company's affairs were again the subject of judicial attention yesterday when Judge Van Syckel in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth heard the case of the Eastman Kodak Company against the Bard Company. A motion was made that the defendant be required to furnish a bond for the costs according to the statute.

Counsellor Angleman appeared for the Eastman Kodak Company, and resisted the motion on the ground that the defendant was not entitled to a bond and that even if the defendant was so entitled counsel had waived it. Judge Van Syckel denied the motion, and at once proceeded to hear the case.

On the conclusion of the testimony, he gave judgment for the Eastman Kodak Company and against the Bard Company for $400.08, the full amount asked. Murphy & Blatz appeared for the defendant.

TRANSVAAL WAR IS THE GREATEST TOPIC.

Impressions Secured Abroad by Former Mayor Saunders.

SYMPATHY WITH THE BOERS

BTITISH PEOPLE DO NOT EVIDENCE GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

In Every Continental Country, Mr. Saunders Says, the People Seem to be Hoping for the Success of the Dutch Republic—He Finds High Regard for the Opinion of the United States.

After an absence of five months abroad, former Mayor William L. Saunders, of Washington Park, returned to his home Monday, having arrived in New York Sunday on the steamer Eutrula, of the Cunard Line. He says that he feels better than ever, having fully recovered from his illness of a few months ago.

The trip that Mr. Saunders took was chiefly one for pleasure, although he went partially in the interest of his company, the Sergeant-Ingersoll Drill Company, which has large interests in almost every foreign country. He was accompanied by Mrs. Saunders a portion of the trip, but she returned after a few months of travel.

When questioned as to his trip, Mr. Saunders began talking about the South African war, this being the chief topic of interest to foreigners, and of special interest to Americans. Mr. Saunders was in this country when the Spanish-American war broke out and he knew of the great display of enthusiasm on every hand. He was also in England when the South African war was commenced.

In speaking of the latter war he said that he was astounded at the display of confidence on the part of the English people that the war would be completed by January 1st of this year. He heard various ones say that when Gen. Buller arrived on the scene with his army it would only be a question of a short time when the Boers would be defeated. All of this seemed like idle talk to Mr. Saunders, for his company has representatives in South Africa, and from what he could learn he know the proposition was a tough one

Soon after the war broke out Mr. Saunders commenced traveling on the continent, and visited all of the principal countries, Germany, Russia, etc. In everyone he quickly learned that the sympathy of the people were with the Boers. As an instance of this he related to the reporter an incident that occurred in one of the interior towns in Russia. Some of the people were arranging for an entertainment, and Mr. Saunders, always interested in charitable enterprises, made inquiries about it. He soon learned that the entertainment was to be given for the purpose of raising money to help the Boers. In the high and lowly walks of life he was told that the people were for the Boers.

In speaking of the lack of British enthusiasm, Mr. Saunders said that in the theatres, where every attempt is being made to cause enthusiasm, there is a woeful lack of it. On one occasion he saw Mrs. James Brown Potter on the stage, and witnessed her tie the American and English flags together. There was applause, but no great enthusiasm such as was witnessed in the theatres in this country when the Spanish War was on. The English take everything in a matter-of-fact way, and believe that America is the only country that is friendly to her.

Mr. Saunders was asked if the war had had any effect on the business of England, and he replied that he could not say it had; in fact business seems to be booming in every country abroad, with Germany in the lead. He was pleased to say that American influence was a great factor abroad and was admired by everyone.

So far as business is concerned Mr. Saunders' trip was a success and he accomplished fully the purpose for went from that point of view, and his health being so much better, he feels as though the journey was one of great success from every standpoint, but still is glad to be back in New Jersey among his old friends once again.

DEATH STRUCK HIM DOWM AT FUNERAL

Sad and Sudden Ending of Joseph W. Sandford, Sr.

HAPPENED AT CRANFORD.

MR. SANDFORD HAD BEEN IN FEEBLE HEALTH FOR SOMETIME.

Had Been Stopping in New York With Son-in-Law, But Went to Cranford Yesterday to Attend Funeral of Relatives Child—Fatal Illness Overcame Him Soon After His Arrival There.

Joseph W. Sandford, Sr., a well-known citizen of this city, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at Cranford where he had gone to attend the funeral of an infant child of Fredric Martin, Jr., who is a son of Mrs Sandford's sister.

Since the family closed their house at 530 West Seventh street in this city Mr. and Mrs. Sandford have been making their home in New York with their son in-law, Henry D. Brewster, at 41 West Seventy first street. Mr. Sandford left New York early yesterday afternoon for Cranford. Mrs. Sandford decided not to accompany him.

When Mr. Sandford reached Cranford he walked from the station to the home of Mr. Martin. Shortly afterward he complained of not feeling well. The family knowing that his health has not been satisfactory of late, became somewhat alarmed. Later, however, Mr. Sandford appeared to feel somewhat better and started to go up stairs. He had ascended but a few steps when he said he felt faint and experienced a fluttering of the heart. He was at once assisted to the hall where pillows were placed under his head. Two physicians were quickly summoned and administered to his wants, but Mr. Sandford sank rapidly and soon became unconscious, in which condition he remained until death resulted at about 4 o'clock.

The family and relatives in New York were immediately notified of his death, and his son, Joseph W. Sandford, Jr., had the body removed last night to his home, 536 West Seventh street, this city.

Joseph Webster Sandford was born in New York city May 15th, 1831. His early life was devoted to mercantile pursuits and for several years he conducted very successfully a house furnishing business at Broadway and Twenty sixth street, the site in after years occupied by Delmonico. Soon after retiring from business Mr. Sandford moved to Plainfield, where he has resided for nearly 25 years in a handsome residence at 530 West Seventh street. In late years Mr. Sandford has suffered from illness, his health having been greatly impaired by an attack of the grip experienced a few years ago. His death is believed to be without doubt the result of heart failure.

Mr. Sandford was of a domestic disposition and very fond of his home and devoted to his family. He never took active interest in politics or public affairs and is believed not to have held office. He was an attendant, though not a member of the Crescent Avenue church.

The deceased is survived by a wife, one son and two daughters. The daughters are Mrs. Henry D. Brewster and Mrs. William J. Roome, of New York. The son, Joseph W. Sandford, lives at 506 West Seventh street this city.

TALENTED FILIPINO TELLS OF COUNTRY.

Interesting Lecture by Ramon Reyes Lala, of Manila.

AT MUSIC HALL LAST NIGHT.

GRAPHICALLY PICTURED LIFE IN OUR NEW POSSESSIONS.

Lecture Was Illustrated With a Number of Fine Views—Told of Old and New Manila, Its Buildings, People, Industries and Sports—Was a Fine Specimen of His Race—A Small Audience.

Briefly, but graphically, life in Manila and the surrounding parts of the Philippine Islands was pictured to a small but interested audience in Music Hall last evening by Ramon Reyes Lala, a native of Manila, but a naturalized citizen of the United States. The interesting discourse was rendered more effective by many handsome views of the scenes and people described.

Ramon Reyes Lula was the first native of the Philippines to step foot in Plainfield and considerable interest was expressed in him. He was above the usual stature of the natives of that country, well proportioned and good-looking. His complexion was dark and it was rendered particularly apparent by the white linen suit, the usual costume of the upper classes in Manila, that he wore. He was a pleasant speaker and showed a remarkable command of English, with frequent touches of humor. His voice was clear, but unusually high pitched, and when he sang a Filipino song during the evening it sounded almost like falsetto.

Before beginning the lecture Mr. Lala spoke a few words on the present situation at the Philippines from the standpoint of a native and as an American citizen. He declared that the people of the islands were not yet ready to govern themselves and he favored an American protectorate. The Americans would not find it a difficult work, he believed, and expressed his opinion that both this nation and the Philippines would derive much advantage from the new policy.

He had something to say about the people and their manner of living. The great importance of the buffalo in the household was noted, and he remarked that a far more likely question at a casual meeting of friends in Manila rather than an inquiry after the health of the wife and children, was:

"How's the buffalo and the little bufs?"

He had much to say on the women of Manila and incidentally remarked that they could flirt like water-nymphs. A series of views pictured something of the industries common to the land. The average laborer lived in comfort there and supported a wife, five or six children, a buffalo and a fighting cock on $5 a month.

Aguinaldo and other of the revolutionary leaders were referred to and Mr. Lala said that they were patriots at heart but were fighting under a mistaken apprehension. Other types of natives were shown with their sports and homes.

Mr. Lala then sang in Spanish a favorite song of his country and showed himself a talented pianist. The remainder of the time was devoted to picturing briefly the volcanoes and other natural wonders of the islands with a little glimpse of Iloilo and other principal cities.

FOR BENEFIT OF STUDENTS.

Adult Pupils Permitted to Keep Certain Books for Eight Weeks.

A new rule for the benefit of adult students has just gone into effect at the Plainfield Public Library. This rule allows any student in college, correspondence school, or carrying on a special line of study, to receive an additional library card, which will entitle him to six books, which may be kept for eight weeks without renewal. This rule will not apply to students in the Plainfield schools, and books of great general interest will not be given out in this way.

Futile Effort to Hold a Meeting.

The Plainfield Advancement Association made another attempt last evening to hold a meeting. It was a futile effort. There were present but three members—Messrs. J. B Coward, Charles H. Hand and Francis E. Whiteside. It was also expected that the committee appointed at Monday evening's meeting of the Board of Trade would be on hand to meet with a similar committee to be appointed by the Plainfield Advancement Association with reference to the new railroad station, but the gentleman did not put in an appearance.

TO AID SUNDAY-SCHOOLS

PLAINFIELD SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION IS ORGANIZED.

To Secure the Attendance of Those Children Who Do Not Now Receive Instruction From Study of Scriptures.

Last evening in the lecture room of the Trinity Reformed church there was a meeting called for the purpose of forming a local Sunday-school association to look after the interests of the work in the city. It has been learned that there is about 500 children in Plainfield who do not attend Sunday-school, and it is the purpose of the new organization, which will be known as the Plainfield Sunday-school Union, to institute a canvass of the city from house to house and interest the parents to such an extent that their children will be induced to attend some school of their choice. The Union will also take in the vicinity nearby. Occasional meetings will be held to arouse enthusiasm, and it is hoped to bring to Plainfield famous speakers, and if possible John Wanamaker will be secured as one of the first speakers.

Most of the church Sunday-schools were represented last evening as follows: Park Avenue Baptist, Rev. J. W. Richardson, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; Seventh-Day Baptist, Rev. Dr. A. E. Main, Mrs. J. P. Mosher; Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, W. D. Murray; First Baptist, Mrs. J. A. Powlison, Robert Love; First M. E., A. Miller; Trinity Reformed, F. E. Smith; Congregational, Joseph Robinson; Church of the Heavenly Rest, W. W. Moore; East Third Street mission, Uzal B. Crane; Mt. Olive Baptist, M. C. Dobbins; Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Miss Nettie Beeching.

The organization is the work of Dr. Main, who has been forming plans for some time past. He was elected president at the meeting. M. N. Miller was elected vice-president; J. A. Robinson secretary and treasurer, and the executive committee elected was W. D. Murray, Rev. Floyd Appleton, G. E. Hall and F. E. Smith. When the meeting adjourned it did so at the call of the president.

OIL STOVE AGAIN.

Started an Early Morning Fire at Residence of Fred M. Letson, of LaGrande Avenue—Loss Was $125.

There wasn't the slightest excuse for it. The oil stove suddenly blazed up and threatened the household of Fred M. Letson, of 535 LaGrande avenue, with a serious conflagration early this morning. The fire department was notified.

The alarm came to fire department headquarters over the telephone from John E. Keely's stable at 7:50 o'clock. Assistant Chief Jennings with the chemical engine and No. 2 hose wagan responded. Chief Doane arrived soon after from his home. The oil stove had apparently overflowed and set fire to the floor and part of the furniture in the parlor and dining room. The fire was nearly out when the department arrived. The damage will amount to about $125. Both house and furniture were insured. The house was owned by Daniel Ducan.

Seen in Time.

A passerby noticed Monday evening that the stove in Woolston & Buckle's paint store on North avenue was red hot. The fire department headquarters was notified. Assistant Jennings investigated and then notified Councilman J. T. Buckle. A key for the store was secured and the fire set back. Although the stove was red hot, the floor and surrounding counters did not catch fire.

Married a Bound Brook Man.

The marriage Miss Alma Christina Olson, of 133 Johnson avenue, to John Hocker, of Bound Brook, took place night at the home of the bride. Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, performed the ceremony. The couple will reside in Bound Brook, where the groom is a cigar manufacturer.

Charged With Stealing Coal.

Josephus Scamoro, Michael Corort and Antonia Eathe were arranged before City Judge Runyon this morning. Detective Hill, of the Jersey Central Railroad, said he found them stealing coal near the Netherwood station and locked them up at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The Judge fined them $3 each.

The Chance to be Heard.

Property-owners along Somerset street are reminded and urged to attend the special meeting of Mayor Smalley and the Borough Council tomorrow evening when the widening Somerset street will be discussed. A full attendance is desired on the part of all interested.

—Union Gospel meeting in W. C. T. U. room as usual tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

UNCLE BILLY AYERS DIED VERY SUDDENLY

The End Came at His Home Early This Morning.

ALMOST 91 YEARS OF AGE.

WAS A PROMINENT MAN IN HIS DAY IN THIS CITY.

Born in North Plainfield, and With the Exception of One Year, Always Lived in Plainfield—Was an Extensive Contractor—Served on Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

In the sudden death of Wm. C. Ayers, of 203 West Second street, which occurred this morning at his home soon after 6:30 o'clock, Plainfield has sustained a loss of one of her oldest citizens. The community was deeply shocked to learn of his death, for he was in his usual good health up to within a very short time of his passing away. He was at dinner last evening and talked to the members of the household in his customary happy manner. Throughout the day he was in a very reminiscent mood, which was a frequent occurrence, and in talking with George Dufford, a member of the household, he related many things that happened fifty and sixty years ago.

After dinner he sat up for a while, and then retired at his usual time. He felt as good as usual, save for a slight affection of the stomach, which caused him to rise once or twice during the night. He awoke very early, as was his custom, and after dressing went to the sitting room, adjoining his bedroom. While there he attended the fire in the stove, and after shaking it remarked that he had a little distress in his chest, and he thought he would lie down on his bed a few minutes. It was scarcely two minutes after he laid down before he passed away. He died very quietly and easy. His wife was with him when he died. A physician was called, but nothing could be done.

William C. Ayers was born February 12th, 1809, just back of North Plainfield, at a place near Union Village. He was distinguised for the fact that he was born the same day that Abraham Lincoln was, and had he lived till February 12th next he would have been 91 years of age. Early in life he became an apprentice to the carpenter trade, which business he followed through life. When comparatively a young he moved to this city, and for sixty-four years he lived in the house where he died, except for one year spent in Trenton. During the early days he was the carpenter and contractor of the city, and among the buildings that now stand to his credit are the First Baptist church, Trinity Reformed church, First M. E. and Holy Cross churches, North Avenue Station, and the building owned by Dr. Taylor which stands at the corner of North and Park avenues. This latter building was the first three-story one erected in this city. There are many other buildings he erected of smaller size. He was considered a master of his trade.

For many years and up to five years ago he was the agent in this vicinity for the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company, and looked after the company's property between Jersey City and Phillipsburg. For fourteen years he was an active member of the Union County Board of Freeholders, and for many years he was a member of the Asbestos Club. He was a faithful, earnest Christian and was a member of the First Baptist church, where he attended regularly the services. Up to his death he was the only member left of the original Harmony Fire Company, and was the oldest member of the Exempt Firemen. Later on he, together with the other members of the Harmony Company, formed what was known as the Gazelle Engine Company. Up to the very last he was active.

He was married twice. There are four children out of nine by his first marriage living. They are Mrs. L. M. Atkinson, of New York, and Dr. Samuel C. Ayers, the latter superintendent of the New York High School; David Ayers, of Kansas City, and Mrs. Sarah Robinson, of Watchung avenue. He is survived by one brother, Daniel Ayers, aged 87 years, of Philadelphia. His second marriage was to Mrs. Baynon, of this city, which occurred about twenty four years ago. She has a son, Frank Baynon, living at Orange. Mr. Ayers also leaves a grandson, Sandford Robinson.

Arrangements for the funeral will be made today sometime.

THE WAR IN AFRICA.

London Gets No Light on the Situation.

WAR OFFICE ORDERS MORE BATTERIES

Boers Repulsed In Attack Upon the British With Heavy Loss—Methuen's Terrible Blunder at Magersfontein Confirmed.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Even rumors are no longer telegraphed from Natal. The conclusion deduced from this silence of the military experts generally is that no decisive blow has been struck either way, as in such an event there would be no necessity for silence.

The war office has issued orders for the formation of five new batteries. Some idea of the extent of the artillery resources to be drawn upon may be gained from the fact, according to the statement of a military expert this morning, that an old practice howitzer at Lydd, in Kent, with which it is impossible to do accurate shooting, but which for some time has been solely used to test shells, has been laid under requisition for the front. Orders have been received at Lydd to pack this venerable relic with as much dispatch as possible for embarkation.

Seventeen more militia battalions will be embodied in the course of a fortnight. All the regulars are now out of the country except 14 infantry battalions and 11 cavalry battalions. The war office has placed an order for 32,000,000 cartridges in cases.

The yeomanry committee announces that it has accepted 3,000 out of the 10,000 which it wishes to raise and still has 20,000 applicants to be examined. The Daily Chronicle asserts that the committee was goaded into this statement by the reports that there was no hope of getting the full number.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Pietermaritzburg, dated Tuesday, says:

"There was very heavy firing to the north yesterday. I believe the Boers are contesting General Buller's passage of the Tugela. Howitzers were evidently busy, as the firing is described as the heaviest yet heard in Natal."

The Exchange and Telegraph company has received the following dispatch, dated Tuesday, Jan. 16, from Pietermaritzburg:

"There is no news from the front, but heavy firing was heard today in the direction of Frere. It is probable that General Buller is engaging the enemy.

"A rumor is current here that a portion of the British force is near Ladysmith."

A dispatch from Rensburg, Cape Colony, dated Jan. 15, says:

"The Boers, this morning, attempted to rush a hill held by a company of the Yorkshires and the New Zealanders, but they were repulsed at the point of the bayonet. The Boers had 21 men killed and about 50 wounded."

The hill commands a tract of country east of the main position of the Boers, and they had determined to make an attempt to seize the heights.

They advanced cautiously, directing their fire at a small wall held by the Yorkshires and compelling the latter to keep close under cover. When the Boers rushed the wall, the Yorkshires fixed bayonets and charged. Just at that moment Captain Maddocks, with a small party of New Zealanders, came up, and the combined forced leaped over the wall and charged straight for the enemy, who fled, followed by a withering fire at close range.

The Boers literally tumbled over each other in their hurry to escape, but the persistent fire of the British inflicted a heavy loss.

A dispatch from Pretoria, dated Jan. 13, says:

"As a result of the bombardment of Mafeking yesterday the British fort eastward was demolished and the British retired. One Boer was wounded. Advices from the head langer at Ladysmith report that the attack on that place, Jan. 6, was disastrous to the British and that Ladysmith appears to be in sore straits."

Evidence accumulates that General Methuen's so designated gigantic blunder at Magersfontein has lost him the confidence of his entire force to such an extent that, it is declared, it is doubtful if the troops would follow him in another attack on the Boers.

The war office is understood to be in possession of a letter written by General Wauchope the night before the battle saying that would be the last letter he would ever write, as he had been asked to perform an impossible task, and he had either to obey or surrender his sword. An immediate change in the command of the force may therefore be expected. It is anticipated in some quarters that Lieutenant General Tucker will succeed General Methuen.

An Exchange of Shells.

MODDER RIVER, Jan. 17.—There was a brisk exchange of shells yesterday morning, the Boers returning our fire for the first time in several days. The British intrenchments are being continually strengthened and extended. The permanent railway bridge is almost completed. Heavy rains have fallen in the hills recently, and the fords of Reit river are all impassable. It is reported that it will be necessary to relay the rails over almost the entire distance from Modder River to Kimberley, the Boers having used the rails and sleepers in building their fortifications. Stories still reach camp that the Free Staters desire to end the war. The latest report is that a council was held recently at Bloemfontein, at which President Steyn and General Cronje were present.

KILLED IN KENTUCKY.

Ex-Congressman Colson Shoots Five Persons, Three of Whom Are Dead.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 17.—A shocking tragedy in which the lives of three prominent men were sacrificed and that of a fourth hangs by a slender thread, while others miraculously escaped with painful injuries, occurred here at 1 o'clock yesterday. The principals in the tragedy were ex-Congressman David G. Colson of Middlesboro and Lieutenant Ethelbert Scott of Somerset. Scott was shot six times by Colson and almost instantly killed.

Luther W. Demarre, assistant postmaster at Shelbyville, an innocent bystander, was shot three times and died instantly. Charles Julian, another bystander, was shot and died a half hour later, and Captain B. B. Golden of Barboursville, commonwealth's attorney of the Twenty-seventh judicial district, was shot in the back and is not expected to survive the night. Colonel Colson himself was shot twice in the arm. Harry McEwing of Louisville was shot in the foot, and W. O. Ridpath of Chicago sustained a broken leg by the lifeless form of Scott falling against him as it rolled down the stairway. The tragedy is one of the most sensational in the history of the "dark and bloody ground."

The killing occurred in the lobby of the Capitol hotel, the principal hostelry of the state capital, the room being well filled at the time with politicians and others who are here attending the contests for state offices before the legislature.

Examination of Scott's body shows that he was shot at least six times. The fact that a part of the bullets were of 38 and part of 44 caliber indicates that he was shot by somebody besides Colson or that Colson had two revolvers. Witnesses to the killing say that Demaree was directly between Scott and Colson when the shooting began and that he was killed by the first shot fired. Colson lives at Middlesboro and represented the Eleventh district in congress for two terms. Scott was a young lawyer living at Mount Sterling and was a lieutenant in Colson's regiment in the Spanish war. When the killing occurred, the city was thrown into a state of the greatest excitement, it being supposed at first that it was the result of a clash growing out of the political contests or trial in the legislature. Captain B. B. Golden, who is thought to be fatally wounded, is a lawyer who lived at Barboursville and was captain of the Kentucky cavalry troop during the Spanish-American war.

Captain Golden made a statement, in which he said no words passed between Scott and Colson before the shooting and that Colson fired first. Golden and Colson had had trouble before, and Colson's friends charge that Golden was engaged in the shooting yesterday.

One Point Against Taylor.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 17.—The court of appeals has rendered a decision nullifying Governor Taylor's appointments of W. H. Mackey and A. M. C. Cochran as election commissioners and enjoining them from acting, thus sustaining the Democratic commissioners, Poynts, Fulton and Yontz. These commissioners will try the contests in the cases of minor state officers. The decision was made on a strictly party vote, Judges Guffy, Burnam and Durille dissenting.

Committeeman Cummings Ousted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Representative A. J. Cummings, who has been for several years the member of the Democratic congressional committee from New York, will be succeeded by Representative Jacob Ruppert, Jr., upon the nomination of ten members out of 18. Mr. Cummings is deeply chagrined at the method adopted by those opposed to him in getting him out of the place he has held so long and which he expected to retain.

Ice Harvesters Disheartened.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 17.—This warm spell of weather has disheartened the hundreds of men and boys who expected to cut ice on Rockland lake for the Consolidated Ice company of New York. From 1,200 to 2,000 men and boys, coming from different parts of Rockland county, are employed on the lake during the harvesting of ice, and the money they earn is the main support of many families in winter.

Senator Gear Re-elected.

DES MOINES, Jan. 17.—United States Senator James H. Gear was formally elected in the legislature yesterday to succeed himself in the United States senate. The house vote stood 78 and the senate 33 for Gear, while Fred White (Dem.) received 14 votes in the senate and 18 in the house.

Burmese Rice Crop Large.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Calcutta correspondent of The Times says: "The Burmese rice crop has broken the record. Over 2,020,000 tons will be available for export to foreign countries. Burma is also able to supply a practically unlimited quantity to the Indian famine districts."

The Butterfly's Pocket.

The male butterflies have the proud privilege of a pocket, but the pocket of a butterfly is wonderfully made. It is really an extension of the under wing folded back on the upper side, but it is exquisitely colored and marked like the upper side so that it is very hard to detect, and no one has yet discovered just how it is opened, although undoubtedly the butterfly can throw it open while he is flying. At first glance there seems to be only white or amber-colored silk floss within, but examine this with a microscope and you will find twisted ribbons, slender rods shaped like a shepherd's crook, others jointed bamboo-like, and flexible rods and tiny scales of various sorts and patterns. It is known that insects have a marvelously keen scent, and it is believed that all these odd little objects are perfume boxes, and that the fragrance so thrown abroad is a signal call to the female butterfly which may be wandering about in the air. It is, to say the least, a very interesting guess, and there is evidence to prove that butterflies and moths are summoned from distances by odors that we would hardly notice.—Philadelphia Times.

Cordovan Leather Boots.

At the court of Elizabeth the wide-topped Spanish boot—handsome, and, to our eyes, theatrical—became popular among the rival courtiers, each endeavoring to outvie the other in the queen's eyes. The most handsome and admired of all were made of white Cordova leather edged with costly lace and having gold spurs. Sometimes buff and red and much more rarely the now prevalent black leather was the material. Shoes for men seem to have gone out of fashion during the Stuart era, so far as the upper classes went. Your plain citizen always adhered to a more or less substantial shoe when at home, and seldom drew on boots save when on a journey—a terrible expedition, however short the distance, up to the middle of the last century. Thus, in Charles II.'s day Cowley, writing to Dr. Thomas Sprat from so near a place to London as Chertsey, says that he might very conveniently come thither "the way of Hampton town—lying there one night."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Her Mistake.

The conductor said there was room for a few more inside.

At the Elephant and Castle, when the train turned west, the customary contingent of shoppers got in, and there was an uncomfortable jam.

But the little man kept his eyes on his paper. He also kept his seat.

"Pardon me, madam," said a polite man hanging on to a strap to a lady standing beside him with an armful of paper parcels, "you are standing on my foot."

"I'm so sorry," said she. "I thought it belonged to the man sitting down."

And then the little man's eyes were lifted from his paper, and she got the seat.—Pearson's.

His Regiments.

At an entertainment in Edinburgh, just as the Boer war broke out, the audience stopped the performance to sing the national anthem. So far this was all right, but more followed. A few hotheaded spirits caught sight of a uniform, and the wearer, despite his protests, was carried, shoulder high, around the building. When he regained terra firma some one asked him for the name of his regiment, his uniform not being familiar.

"Regiment!" was the surprised reply. "Man, I'm the doorkeeper. What's gaun wrang wi' ye a'?"—Spare Moments.

TOO MUCH LIBERTY.

Justice Brown Denounces Sensational Journalism.

ADDRESS BEFORE NEW YORK BAR.

The Mind of Man Conceives Nothing Worse Than Sunday Issues—Press Holds Reputations at Its Mercy. Private Character Assailed.

ALBANY, Jan. 17.—The principal address before the State Bar association at its meeting in the assembly chamber last night was by Mr. Justice Brown of the United States supreme court upon "The Liberty of the Press," in which he severely denounced what he termed sensational journalism. In opening his address Justice Brown admitted that too much could not be said in praise of the daily press as newsgatherers. Their enterprise in that direction is superior to every obstacle. No quarter of the globe is too remote, no expense too great. Their news columns are a refreshing contrast to the deadly dullness of the continental papers. All this, however, does not blind us to the fact that many of these papers are guilty of a grave abuse of their privileges.

"Ugly stories are told," he said, "of the methods resorted to to create a sensation or to advertise a paper, of correspondents sent to Washington with instructions to blacken the character of particular men regardless of facts, of editorial space sold for so much a line, of spies put upon houses to unearth domestic scandals or upon the steps of public men to ferret out political secrets, of respectable women detailed to walk the streets at night, get themselves arrested as disreputable and spend a night in prison for the sake of a startling article upon the infamous persecution of working women and of various other contrivances by which reporters are sent not to investigate facts, but to make a case by hook or crook against some prominent official. For the credit of humanity, not to say for the honor of a great profession, let us hope that these stories are untrue.

"The next step in their downward career was the illustrations, and such illustrations! Pictures of current events, of battles, of murders and sudden deaths, sometimes copied from photographs, oftener drawn from imagination.

"All of these extravagances culminate in the weekly Sunday morning editions. If there be another worse than these the mind of man hath not hitherto conceived them. Probably no law could be framed which could cover such cases, since matters of taste are beyond the pulse of the law, but it is to be regretted that the great mass of the American people are so imperfectly educated as to take pleasure in these abortions of the engraver's art.

"But it is in its assaults upon private character that the press is guilty of its greater cruelties, for no other word in the English language will adequately express the nature of these attacks.

"With regard to officials and candidates for public office a different rule applies from that which holds good as to private individuals. The public has the right to know not only the qualifications but the private character of candidates for their suffrages, and as in a great majority of cases they cannot possibly know them by acquaintance or by private inquiry, they must necessarily rely upon the press for information. The law is justly liberal in this regard."

Justice Brown then recited the provisions of the law of libel and asked who should say that the citizen has any adequate protection. Does not the press hold our reputations completely at its mercy?

"In this inefficacy of the law," he continued, "as it stands at present and the impracticability of further legislation we are confronted by the fact that in this free country there has grown up a despotic, irresponsible power which holds our reputations completely at its mercy. No man occupies a political position by executive appointment and few by election who cannot be driven from it by a combined attack of two or three influential journals whose cue the minor papers are only too ready to take up."

Disastrous Fire In Dawson.

SEATTLE, Jan. 17.—The steamer Danube, at Victoria from Skaguay, brings news that a large part of the business portion of Dawson was wiped out by fire on the night of Wednesday last. A dispatch was received at Skaguay on the same night. The loss will exceed $500,000. There are no names of the buildings or losses. The Skaguay operator says that great suffering will undoubtedly follow the fire, as the temperature at Dawson was 40 degrees below zero, with the wind blowing. The city is without the regulation water supply.

Dynamite Factory Explodes.

TURIN, Jan. 17.—A dynamite factory at Avigliano, 14 miles from here, exploded yesterday with the result that five buildings were reduced to ruins, the whole surrounding district was shaken and many houses were badly damaged. Ten bodies have been recovered from beneath the ruins. In addition several persons were injured and taken to the hospital. The detonations were heard as far as this city, whence surgeons were dispatched to the scene of the disaster.

Swindled a Widow.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Margaret Hopper, a widow of this place, who runs a small cigar, tobacco and novelty store, was swindled out of $27. A well dressed man of light complexion entered the store and claimed to represent a cigar firm with which she dealt. He took her order for some cigars and collected $27 on an old bill. When Mrs. Hopper called the firm up by telephone later, she was informed that the man was not employed by them.

Labor Troubles In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—Preparations for trouble are being made at the Baackes mills of the American Steel and Wire company. Cots and supplies have been taken into the mill. One of the officials of the rod mill workers' union received word yesterday that another mill of the company at Newcastle, Pa., had been closed by reason of the strike and that one at Rankin, Pa., would probably be closed today.

Spanish Prisoners Reach Home.

BARCELONA, Jan. 17.—The Spanish transatlantic steamer Leon XIII has arrived here from the Philippine Islands with former Spanish prisoners and their families. A majority of them are in a lamentable plight. The town authorities and Red Cross agents met them and gave assistance to the sufferers.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Senate Still Discussing the Philippine Question.

PETTIGREW'S AMENDMENT REJECTED

The House Minority Leader Attacks Secretary Gage—Accuses Him of Unfair Dealing—Hopkins Defends That Official's Action.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The senate is still in the throes of discussion of the Philippine question, and apparently there is no near approach to a deliverance upon the subject. Mr. Vest of Missouri yesterday voiced the opinion of many senators when he said that such discussion as was now in progress was of no consequence, as the country was confronted by a state of facts that could not be changed by talk.

Mr. Pettigrew's resolution of inquiry and Mr. Lodge's substitute for it were laid on the table, and Mr. Hoar's general resolution of inquiry as to the facts of the Philippine war was taken up. An effort of Mr. Pettigrew to amend it so as to call for the president's instructions to the Paris peace commissioners led to a prolonged debate. After the senate had considered the matter behind closed doors the amendment was rejected by a vote of 41 to 20.

The debate for the day was concluded by Mr. Vest, who made a notable speech in opposition to the assumption in some quarters that every man who does not agree with the policy of the administration is a traitor to his country. Mr. Vest threw into his utterances all the nervous force and energy and the accomplished oratorical ability for which he is famed and commanded the attention of the senate throughout.

Mr. McLaurin (Dem., S. C.) addressed the senate on the financial question, making an argument in favor of his proposition to confer authority upon state banks to issue circulating notes.

The senate committee on interoceanic canals agreed unanimously to report a bill for the construction of the Nicaragua canal. The bill is the same as that reported favorably in the house by the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, with a few verbal amendments.

The urgent deficiency appropriation bill was taken up in the house under an agreement which limited the general debate to that day. It was the general expectation that it would open up a stormy debate upon the question of expansion in view of the large army and navy items it contains, but the members early became very much engrossed in a discussion of an item of $150,000 for rural free delivery, in which all are personally interested, and the subject of expansion was barely touched upon.

The last hour of the debate was enlivened with an attack by Mr. Richardson, the minority leader, upon the secretary of the treasury for his course in connection with the sale of the New York custom house. He rehearsed the charges that Secretary Gage had been guilty technically of embezzlement in connection with the sale of the custom house in depositing the proceeds in a national bank which was a government depository instead of the treasury of the United States, but declared that this charge would not hold. His purpose, he said, was to show that the National City bank had been favored on account of the contributions of its directors to the Republican campaign fund of 1896 and to show that the course of the secretary in allowing the purchase price to remain in the bank while at the same time paying rent for the property and keeping it exempt from taxation was not dealing fairly with the trust funds of the government.

Mr. Hopkins of Illinois championed the course of the secretary, declaring that his reply to the house resolution answered every charge brought against him and displayed business ability that must meet the approval of all fair minded people.

Plural Marriages Abandoned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Senator Rawlins presented to the senate a brief memorial from President Lorenzo Snow of the Mormon church on the question of polygamy. Mr. Snow says he is persuaded that there is much misunderstanding upon this question. He says that in accordance with the manifesto of President Woodruff of 1890 "the church has positively abandoned the practice of polygamy or the solemnization of plural marriages in this (Utah) and every other state and that no member or officer thereof has any authority whatever to perform a plural marriage or to enter into such a relation. Nor," he continues, "does the church advise or encourage unlawful cohabitation on the part of any of its members. If, therefore, any member disobeys the law either as to polygamy or unlawful cohabitation he must bear his own burden, or in other words be answerable to the tribunals of the land for his action pertaining thereto."

Samoan Treaty Ratified.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The senate has ratified the Samoan treaty without division. The ratification occurred in executive session and after two hours of debate, which was participated in by a number of senators. Messrs. Davis, Foraker and Spooner advocated and Senators Bacon, Money and Tillman opposed ratification. Senator Bacon made the leading speech in opposition. He based his objection upon the general ground that it was contrary to the spirit of our institutions to attempt to govern any people in opposition to their wishes.

Queen Sophia Receives.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 17.—Queen Sophia held a drawing room yesterday, and Mrs. W. W. Thomas, wife of the United States minister, presented Mrs. W. R. Livermore, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Livermore, military attache of the United States legation; Mrs. C. S. Winslow of Chicago and Miss Maud Duryea of the same city. All the American ladies wore court dresses—black, with long train, and black and white puff sleeves and black gloves.

Funeral of General Sharpe.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The funeral of General George H. Sharpe was held from his late residence on Albany avenue yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services were largely attended both by friends in this city and men who had been associated with General Sharpe in public and private life.

Dewey Makes an Engagement.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 17.—Admiral Dewey has accepted an invitation to visit the Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Jacksonville, Ills., on May 2 or 3.

WHEELER'S RETURN.

Ready to Start From Manila—Will Call at Guam.

MANILA, Jan. 17.—Three additional cases of the bubonic plague have been reported here.

General Wheeler will return to the United States this week, stopping at Guam on his way home.

War Department Reticent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The officials at the war department had very little to say in explanation of the return to the United States of General Wheeler. The correctness of the report was admitted, and it was said that the order had been given some time ago, but whether or not it was the result of an application by General Wheeler himself could not be recalled. It was gathered from preceding statements that General Otis had not been able to find a place in the field satisfactory to General Wheeler, and the latter, having no mind for service in Manila, was willing to return to the United States.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Lawton fund is now $90,909.

The Duke of Argyll is seriously ill at Inverary, Scotland.

H. C. Wainwright & Co., Boston bankers and brokers, made an assignment.

The wages of 1,800 employees of the Lehigh Valley Coal company at Hazleton, Pa., were raised.

The condition of Congressman Bourelle, who is ill in Boston, was reported critical in the extreme.

The schooner Muriel sailed from one Japanese port for another, but was driven by gales to Puget sound.

The New Jersey assembly passed a resolution to appoint a committee to arrange for paying tribute to the memory of the late Vice President Hobart.

Lake Carriers Meet.

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—Prominent vessel men from all the ports on the lakes are in this city attending a convention of the Lake Carriers' association. The important question to be decided is the awarding of the contract for the handling of grain at Buffalo next year, which involves a threatened clash between labor and capital. The Longshoremen's union is preparing to make a strong fight against awarding the contract to W. J Connors, who has had it for several years. The union's executive committee will confer with the lake carriers on the matter and will practically deliver an ultimatum to the effect that if Connors is given the contract again the union will declare a strike of longshoremen at all ports, thereby tying up the carrying trade of the lakes.

Peters Not Dead.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—A special from Sioux City, Ia., says: "Information has been received by the authorities here that Henry Peters, a hackman, supposed to have been murdered ten years ago and burned in a brewery, is living in Oklahoma. Peters' disappearance was one of the mysteries connected with the famous Haddock murder case in the late eighties. Haddock was the Methodist preacher murdered here for his relentless war on saloons. One of the principal witnesses desired by the prosecution was Henry Peters, a hackman, known to have driven the party of liquor dealers about the city a short time before Haddock was killed."

A Costly Pile of Dirt.

BUFFALO, Jan. 17.—Harriet F. Parsons, wife of R. Grove Parsons, secretary of the board of public works, has been granted a verdict of $15,000 in her suit to recover $20,000 for personal injuries from the Terminal railroad of Buffalo. Mrs. Parsons was one of a party returning in a tallyho from the Hamburg fair in September, 1897. The vehicle was overturned by a pile of dirt in the middle of the road. Mrs. Peter C. Deming, one of the party, recovered a verdict of $8,000 in a damage suit last year.

Cashier Kills Bookkeeper.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 17.—Captain John W. Murphey, cashier of the Third National bank of Columbus and one of the best known politicians of Georgia, yesterday shot and killed with a revolver the chief bookkeeper of his bank, P. T. Shutze. Placing the smoking revolver in his mouth Captain Murphey then killed himself. The tragedy occurred in Captain Murphey's private office. He had been suffering from Bright's disease for some time, and this finally unbalanced his mind.

WRECK IDENTIFIED.

Thought to Have Been the Helgoland, an Oil Steamer.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 17.—Everything goes to show that the wrecked steamer is the Helgoland, the property of the Deutsche-American Petroleum company. Among a number of flags picked up near Holyrood was one with the colors blue, white and red, with the letter "R" in the center. This is the house flag of that company. Taken with the finding of the boat off Cape Pine, it seems to leave no doubt as to the identity of the vessel. A life buoy was also picked up with the name of the steamer painted on it, but the lettering was partly illegible from fire and water.

Other flags found were a German ensign and a dark red flag with a yellow cross and the letter "R."

The Helgoland, Captain Von Ritters, which sailed from Philadelphia Jan. 5 for Bergen, Norway, was built at Newcastle, England, in 1890 and registered 1,563 tons. She was owned by the Deutsche-American Petroleum company.

Ship Agents In Doubt.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—The agents of the tank steamship Helgoland in this city say the fact that a portion of a ship's boat marked "Helgoland" was picked up off Cape Pine, Newfoundland, is not convincing proof that the ship wrecked last Thursday is really the Helgoland. The wrecked steamship is described as having two masts and her funnel amidships, whereas the Helgoland carried three masts, and her funnel is aft. The Helgoland has a cargo of 1,100,000 gallons of refined petroleum, valued at $75,000. Her crew all told consists of 35 men, all of whom are Germans.

TO TAX MORTGAGES.

Bill For New York Legislature to Relieve Real Estate.

ALBANY, Jan. 17.—Mr. John L. Smith has introduced a bill in the assembly that is designed to make the holder of a mortgage pay his share of the taxes on the mortgaged property. It provides:

"If at the time of the payment of any such tax any piece, parcel or lot of land upon which said tax was paid was subject to a mortgage, then being a lien upon and against such land, the tax so paid shall be deemed a payment upon the mortgage in the proportion that the unpaid principal of any such mortgage bears to the assessed valuation of the land subject to such mortgage at the time of payment and shall in all things operate and have the effect of a cash payment on such mortgage, and the tax collector's receipt shall be a full, complete and sufficient voucher for such payment."

The bill is to take effect June 1, 1900.

What Miners Will Demand.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—The sessions and executive conferences of the miners here show that the demands will include a general eight-hour day, check weighmen at all mines, the abolition of "pluck me" stores, more liberality in the use of "script" in payment of wages, enforcement of weekly pay days in states that have laws to this effect, an extension of the national order in Pennsylvania and several other states, a permanent strike fund secured by levying per capita tax on members of all local unions, the continuance of the strike in Arkansas, Kansas and Indian Territory, war on the coal companies in those states operated by the Gould railroad companies, concentrated efforts in congress to prevent "government by injunction" through federal judges and the enactment of a law providing that labor leaders cited for contempt of the United States court shall be entitled to trial by a jury of 12 men and a general advance in wages after April 1 of from 10 to 20 cents per ton.

The Plague In Honolulu.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Surgeon General Sternberg has received the following letter from Major Blair D. Taylor, surgeon, U. S. A., dated Honolulu, Dec. 29, 1899: "Since my last report there have been five deaths in the Chinese quarter of Honolulu from bubonic plague, two yesterday. Guards have been placed around the infected district, and every precaution possible has been taken to prevent the introduction of the disease among the troops. In my opinion Chinatown will have to be burned and rebuilt on a sanitary basis before the plague can be stamped out. Such a course, I understand, is now being contemplated by the authorities."

Trolley Transfers.

Having granted to Westfield the concession of one fare for the through trip between that place and Plainfield, the Riker-Hine trolley syndicate is evidently trying to even things up by cutting off the right of transfers issued for all its lines in this city to passengers coming from Scotch Plains. As noted in the news columns of today's Press, the syndicate has issued orders that hereafter passengers will be carried from Scotch Plains to the switch at North and Watchung avenues only for one fare. Heretofore passengers from Scotch Plains have been able to ride to any part of the city for five cents.

Perhaps by straining the technical construction of the ordinance granted to Fanwood township, the company can find a reason for this latest edict. But if it is regarded in the light of the representation that was made and the understanding that was had when application was made for the ordinance, then the order implies that the company was jockeying with the people, and at the first pretext has violated the practical understanding of the terms under which it were granted valuable privileges.

When the company was granted the franchise for the Scotch Plains extension by the Common Council it was expressly understood that the fare should be 5 cents from Scotch Plains to any part of the city, and vice versa. This latest order is not only unpopular and disadvantageous for the people of Scotch Plains, but it is a direct blow to the best interests of this city.

A Friend in the Family.

In the olden times when the patronage of a potentate was desired a friend at court was of the utmost necessity to the aspirant, says the Philadelphia Record. In these days when the patronage of the public is desired by the merchant a friend in the home is indispensable. That friend is the advertisement. It is a tireless advocate whose arguments are irresistible, and the success of whose pleading is assured.

Director Merriam, of the Census Office, suggests that the agriculturists of the country use some of their spare time between now and next June in preparing themselves to answer promptly and accurately the questions relative to the acreage, quantity and value of crops, farm products, the cost of fertilizers and farm labor and all the items of farm operations for the year 1899 which the census enumerators are by law compelled to ascertain. Director Merriam says this will result in a full and accurate census.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

It is not generally known that the late Job Male, in his will, left $500 for a soldiers' monument to be erected in this city. This money is ready to be paid over to the proper authorities when such a project seems feasible. It is also understood that there are several hundred dollars subscribed to the project which can be had through the proper channels. This information was learned yesterday, but for some reason never became public before. This news may have a tendency to enthuse the members of the committee having in charge the matter of erecting a monument. There is a certain philanthropic Plainfielder who has agreed to give one hundred dollars toward the project. These several amounts would make quite a showing if collected and would no doubt prove an incentive to others to give.

* * * * *

Wilbert Benjamin Franklin Priscilla Augustoria Randolph, the talented tonsorial artist on Park avenue, has a faculty of identifying with his establishment young colored men of considerable ability. John Step, who formerly presided over the bootblack's chair, was a vocalist of no mean ability. Mr. Step has now gone west to seek fame and fortune while his place is filled by William Wilson, often called "Skinny" Wilson. He is one of the cleverest buck and wing dancers to be found in the State and made his debut on the stage several years when he appeared at Miner's Theatre and the old Worth Museum where he did a turn. He is also a good singer. That kind of a career is not everything, however, and Wilson looks after his customer's shoes with as much skill as he showed on the stage.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"The Turtle," unquestionably the greatest and most widely discussed of funny, risque, frisky French farces, is announced for Friday evening at Music Hall. That this most notable engagement will be looked forward to with both anticipation and pleasure goes without saying. No play in recent years has been so widely discussed and attracted greater attention. It was the talk of all New York, and the nightly scenes of enthusiasm and columns of praise which was bestowed upon the company, to some extent must attest to the merits of the farce. "The Turtle" scintillates with wit, bristles with screaming farcical situations and is purely Parisian in its piquancy. It is acted by American players of distinction, with French finesse. It is both artistic and audacious. It is deft but daring, and in no manner, shape or form offends the most exacting. The advance sale already gives every indication of good house applications for seats being by no means confined to this city, but from all the surrounding towns. The management wish our readers to know that the production will be identical to that seen in New York, while the cast will be one of renown.

* * * * *

"At Piney Ridge," written and produced by David Higgins, supported by Miss Georgia Waldron and a powerful company, will be the attraction at Music Hall Saturday night. This is the second time this play has come to our city, and the good impression it left on its first visit bids fair to be given again with renewed vigor. David Higgins, the author of the play, will be seen again in his capital characterization of Jack Rose the stellar role, supported as last year by Miss Georgia Waldron and a fine company, including many of the old members of that company and some new and equally capable artists. The story of this strong play is familiar to our theatre goers and Mr. Higgins' work as the humorous, whole-souled hero, Jack Rose, needs no more than a passing reference. This sterling romantic drama is one of the really few creditable works that show the gratifying results of hard and conscientious labor in a field where all that is meritorious should meet with prompt and adequate acknowledgments. The company supporting Mr. Higgins is substantially the same as when the play last appeared here.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 17.—William Dunham, of Washington avenue, is confined to his home with a sore foot which he believes has been touched by the frost. About a week ago Mr. Dunham was cutting some bushes. The weather was quite cold and he became chilled. At first he paid little attention to his injuries. But later when he experienced some pain and his foot began to swell, it was noticed that his left heel was cracked. He called in Dr Brakeley to attend him and the physician was of the opinion that he had suffered from being frost bitten. Although his foot is quite sore, it is not believed any serious results will follow.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the ball to be given this evening at Apgar hall by the young men connected with St. John's Roman Catholic church. Father Bogard, the pastor, is expected to be present.

Chances Are Good for Fountain.

It is to be regretted that the soldiers' monument committee have relinquished their efforts for a monument, but not so with the fountain committee for a fountain. 'Tis true they feel the same lack of financial support, but it is safe to say that the fountain will be placed on North avenue the coming season. If not the one the most to be desired, the one the Plainfield public will help to pay for. The sum of $110 is at interest in the bank, the Water Company has promised $50, the matter of an appropriation from the city is before the Council, after which several prominent citizens will make their promised contributions.

Will Be Postponed.

The progressive patchwork party of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church, which was announced for Friday evening of this week, will be postponed until Friday, January 26th.

THE LATEST IN DINNERS.

Westfield Smart Set Partake With as Many Hosts as There Were Courses to the Meal.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 17.—The latest thing in the entertainment line with the society people of this town is a progressive dinner, one having been served recently by the wives of seven New York business men who have their homes on Kimball avenue, the fashionable residental section of Westfield.

The soup was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Porter, after which the guests proceeded to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Floyd where they enjoyed the fish. The next place was with Mr. and Mrs. E. Harmon Faulkner where they partook of tempting entree. Wines were served at the home of E. S. Robinson and a side dish at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dohrman. Roasts were partaken of with Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Worth and then the party adjourned to the handsome home of Robert A. Fairbairn, the millionare stock broker, to have their desert.

The evening was then spent in dancing to the music of a string orchestra. The progressive dinner proved a decided success and many will, no doubt, follow among the smart set of Westfield.

Großgerau. Die Firma „Maschinenbau-Aktien-Gesellschaft Nürnberg, Filiale Gustavsburg," die für ihre Arbeiter bereits ein ganzes Dorf angelegt hat, wird im kommenden Frühjahre passende Wohnungen für ihre ledigen Arbeiter einrichten. Es ist die Erbauung mehrerer Häuser für je 36 ledige Arbeiter geplant.

Mainz. Der 22jährige Maurer Johann Heinrich von hier stahl seinen Eltern, als diese sich in der Kirche befanden, 1200 Mark, mit denen er flüchtig ging. Vor zwei Jahren hatte der ungetreue Sohn seinen Eltern 2300 Mark entwendet, wovon er damals 700 Mark in Frankfurt verjubelte.

Worms. Die vereinigten Ausschüsse der Stadtverordneten-Versammlung beschlossen, auf städtische Kosten ein Elektrizitätswerk zu errichten und eine Straßenbahn nach den Vororten zu betreiben.

Bayern.

München. Auch in Bayern soll demnächst der Doktortitel für Techniker eingeführt werden.—Die bayerische Artillerie ist jetzt nach preußischem Muster umgewandelt worden. Die rothen Helmbüsche und Hosenstreifen sind fortgefallen.—Das Hofmarschallamt hat angekündigt, daß Hofballkarten von jetzt an nur dann Giltigkeit haben, wenn sie auf den Namen ausgestellt sind, weil es in früheren Jahren leider vorgekommen sei, daß Hofballkarten an Insassinnen von „Damen-Kafes" und ähnlichen Etablissements verschenkt oder verkauft worden seien, und daß in Folge dessen die Gesellschaft auf den letztjährigen Hofbällen häufig etwas „gemischter Art" gewesen sei.

Aich. Der verheirathete, 30 Jahre alte Remia Heule wurde beim Abladen von Baumstämmen von einem vorzeitig in's Rollen gerathenen Stamm erfaßt und zerdrückt. Der Tod trat sofort ein.

Aichach. Bei der jüngsten Wahl wurde der bisherige Bürgermeister, Kaufmann Koppold, wiedergewählt.

Alzenau. In den Gemarkungen Hüchelheim, Schöllkrippen und im Staatswalde bei Geiselbach läßt die Gewerkschaft „Rahlthal" Bohrversuche auf Kupfer- und Eisenerze vornehmen; die Resultate sollen sehr günstig sein.

Ansbach. Vier Monate Gefängniß erhielt der Schäfer Georg Adam Deißler von Uffenheim wegen Gefährdung eines Eisenbahntransportes. Er hatte aus Dummheit auf der Strecke zwischen Uffenheim und Neusch zwei große Steine auf die Schienen gelegt, um einen Personenzug zur Entgleisung zu bringen; durch den Bahnwärter wurde aber ein Unglück verhütet.

Augsburg. Seit langer Zeit führte ein in der Augsburger Buntweberei vormals L. A. Ridinger beschäftigter Arbeiter aus Kriegshaber einen lebhaften Handel mit Waaren, die er in der Weberei gestohlen hatte. Durch eine Kundin, die sich benachtheiligt fühlte, erhielt die Fabrikleitung Kenntniß von der angeblichen Verkaufsstelle. Eine Untersuchung förderte ein richtiges Waarenlager zu Tage, das einen Werth von etwa 4000 Mark besaß. Der Dieb sowie seine Helfershelfer wurden verhaftet.

Binsfeld. Bei der kürzlich in Binsfeld-Halsheim abgehaltenen Treibjagd wurde einem Jäger ein seltenes Glück zu Theil; er fiel, das Gewehr entlud sich und die volle Ladung traf ein eben vorbeilaufendes Reh, das todt zusammenstürzte.

In seinem Besitze fanden sich noch 140 Mark vor.

Meitheim. Hier verunglückte die 73jährige Privatiere Käthi Digler, indem sie in einem unbewachten Augenblicke vom Krankenlager aufsprang, die Nachtlampe umstieß und dabei verbrannte. Ihre 68jährige Dienerin starb bei diesem Anblicke sofort durch Schlagfluß.

Ludwigshafen. Kommerzienrath Dr. Brunck, Direktor der Badischen Anilin- und Sodafabrik, der dem Stadtrath seit nahezu 20 Jahren angehörte, hat es abgelehnt, in das neu gewählte Kollegium einzutreten. Die Gründe des Rücktritts dürften darin zu suchen sein, daß die neue Gemeindevertretung vorwiegend aus Anhängern der sozialdemokratischen und Centrumspartei besteht.

GIRLS' CLOTHING.

Difficulties of the Wardrobe at the Awkward Age.

The problem of becomingly dressing half grown girls is difficult. They have lost the roundness of childhood and have not gained the shapeliness of maturity, and the task of gracefully concealing angles and meager proportions is one which requires much thought.

Simple materials, but serviceable, such as cheviot, serge, cashmere and other goods of that class, are adapted for most gowns. Plaids and small checks or very fine stripes are suitable, but fancy woven woolens are usually too mature in effect. As for modes of making, the skirt may be plain or plaided, but has a little fullness at the back and is not made quite so clinging as are the skirts of women. The bodice nearly always has some sort of fall trimming in front and a bertha or wide collar, which serves to increase the apparent width of the shoulders. The sleeves also are left a little loose above the elbow to conceal the thinness of the arms. The bodice should not be arranged with an open front—that is, if it is a separate jacket or bolero, as such garments do not look well unless held rigidly in place by pins or hooks, and no half grown girl will be quiet enough to let such fastenings remain firm.

The cut shows a girl's costume of dark blue cloth. The skirt is trimmed in tunic style by two bands of mink. The bodice, fitted at the back and full in front, has a yoke and plastron of white satin plaited crosswise. A double bertha follows the line of the top of the bodice and is bordered, like the fronts, by a band of mink, and the wrists of the tight sleeves are also edged with fur. The collar and the belt, which has sash ends at the back, are of black faille. The hat of blue felt is trimmed with black velvet and a blue plume.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

INDOOR GOWNS.

They Are as Light and Dainty as Those For Summer Use.

Cold weather, while it has a great effect upon out of door costumes, has none whatever upon those intended for indoor wear. The thinnest and most delicate of materials are chosen and the brightest and tenderest colors adopted. Crepe de chine, mousseline de soie, tulle, lace and liberty fabrics compose dainty gowns full of puffings, plaitings and other furbelows. The extremely tight, plain style employed for the street is much modified for the house, as transparent fabrics look better when they are draped and left to fall in soft folds. These house gowns are most often made on a plain princess lining, which serves as a foundation for the elaborate arrangements of the tissue. Sometimes a thick and a thin material are combined with happy effect, the heavy goods being used plainly, the light being draped.

The picture given today shows a costume of rare taffeta. The lower skirt, which has a train, is trimmed with several tiny ruches of rose mousseline de soie placed far apart. The tunic, which has a deep point back and front, is heavily embroidered with pink spangles and white beads and bordered with a deep fringe of rose silk. The tight bolero is of jacqueminot velvet, embroidered and spangled, and the plastron is of taffeta laid in narrow horizontal plaits. A frill of white lace finishes the front of the decolletage, and the half length sleeves are also of white lace, with a lace ruffle at the elbow. Bands of rose taffeta ornament the sleeves, and at the left side of the bodice is a large bow of jacqueminot velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY NOTES.

Something About Winter Hats—A Silk Waist.

One enormous flower often serves as almost the entire trimming for a hat. Immense roses or orchids of velvet are thus used; also monstrous pansies.

Blue, violet and red are less dominant among millinery products than they were. Yellow is, on the contrary, coming forward and is used in shades ranging from lemon to deep orange; also in duller modifications of those shades. The deeper tones are particularly becoming to brunettes, but it is a mistake to suppose that greenish, delicate lemon and primrose shades are suited to a brunette skin. On the contrary, instead of clearing and enriching it, as do the orange tones, they make it appear dull and muddy in contrast to their own extreme delicacy, and only a fair, pure complexion can stand their close contiguity.

Draped bolero toques of velvet are much worn and are trimmed with fur, choux of mousseline de soie, wings of lace, metal ornaments or lace flowers.

A picture is given which shows a bodice of French blue peau de soie. A bertha of lace descends to the waist in front, following the line of the revers, which are of blue velvet and are ornamented with jeweled buttons. The yoke and plastron of turquoise blue taffeta, tucked horizontally, and the collar and cravat are likewise of turquoise taffeta, as are the belt and chou. The sleeves have pointed wrists, finished with a lace frill.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PREVAILING STYLES.

Gowns Are Closely Molded to the Figure and Are Plain.

To supply exactly the material needed for the prevailing clinging, closely molded style of gown the most exquisitely thin, soft and yet substantial cloths have been manufactured. These are to be obtained in various grades and compose gowns of differing degrees of elegance, from the plain tailor made costume to that intended for occasions of great ceremony and magnificence.

Usually the bodice is neither draped nor plaited, but is fitted with great accuracy. Either the princess style is adopted or else there is a point at the back and front which adds apparent length to the waist and gives a slender aspect. The edge is simply corded. If trimming is used it takes the form of arabesques or large motifs, perfectly flat, or applications of velvet, silk or lace. Cuirasses of guipure embroidered with jet, spangles or chenille are a favorite form of application for cloth gowns and although a little stiff in effect are considered very smart.

The picture shows a walking costume. The skirt is of gray cloth and has near the foot two rows of black fringe arranged to form scallops. The tunic, which closes at the side with small steel buttons, is bordered with a wide, stitched band of cloth. The black astrakhan jacket has a short, round basque, longer in front and fastened at the side with three large steel buttons. The valois collar is lined with chinchilla, and the full revers and the cuffs are also of chinchilla. The hat of gray felt has a soft crown of black velvet and is trimmed with black velvet choux, a steel ornament and gray quills.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Division of Time.

It is probable that time was first divided into the year by observation of the movements of the sun among the other heavenly bodies; that the revolution of the moon about the earth decided the length of the month, and the rising and setting of the sun marked the duration of the day.

The Fashion Editor:

The latest string ties are of stitched taffeta with fringed ends caught in a sort of tassel effect. The very dainty girl puts a little sachet powder of her favorite perfume in the ends of her ties.

The new velvet collars are cut high under the ears and embroidered in a pattern with steel beads. A two or three inch fringe of the beads fall about the neck from the foot of the collar.

Another novelty in stock collars, and a very dainty one, is the butterfly bow—not a butterfly bow as it has always been known, but a genuine silk butterfly with body and wings embroidered or spangled. The butterfly is fastened on the silk stock directly under the chin, and is susceptible of wide variety in color combination and decorative needlework.

Have you seen the little umbrella purse? It is a very convenient novelty, of leather, round in shape and fastening securely with a clasp. Fastened by a short chain to the umbrella handle, it is easily got at on a rainy day, and is just large enough to hold carfare, pennies for "extras," or a chrysanthemum for your buttonhole.

The craze for lace this season has reached a very expensive phase in the new and elegant Renaissance lace capes, woven in a single piece, for evening wear.

Recent Paris importations in lingerie show corset covers which are a mass of tucks, puffs and insertion run through with ribbons. Some are terminated at the waist-line with inch-wide insertion, through which a drawing string of ribbon is run. This style was brought about by the close-fitting skirts, as with them all superfluous frills below the waist line are left off.

Coin belts are coming in again. They are usually fastened with a small clasp, leaving several of the coin links pendant. A very rich and unique girdle is of red enamel links, bearing a gold medallion, alternating with gold links, on which are set flat, ruby-like stones.

Some of the new fall street gowns have short sashes. One just imported is of dark brown broadcloth, the waist cut in bolero style, with several jacket like layers. Around the waist is worn a quaint red velvet sash, with two chenille-fringed ends hanging at the left side in the back.

The Gossip:

Addison Cammack, the Wall street bear, is a born lightning calculator and amuses himself and his friends by the use of his talent.

Paul Kupper, the sculptor, is at work on a bust of ex-President Dwight of Yale, to be cast in bronze and presented to the college by a committee of students.

President Eliot of Harvard is credited with being opposed to the recent order of the Harvard law school's faculty which admits women graduates to the law courses, provided they are graduates of Radcliffe.

Maj. William P. Biddle, a Philadelphian who has been decorated with one of the Dewey medals, is one of the illustrious Biddles of the Quaker city. He is a son of Capt. John Biddle, who served with distinction in the Civil War.

Mdlle. Lucie Faure has addressed a circular to the twenty French departmental committees of the League of Children, of which she is founder as well as president, announcing that the league has secured a place in the Paris exposition, and inviting children to send exhibits of their work.

Daniel Frohman, the theatrical manager, was a newspaper man when in 1871 he was employed to manage a walking match. The receipts from this undertaking were more than $10,000 and this success started Mr. Frohman in theatricals. Mr. Frohman has amassed a fortune since then.

President H. G. Burt of the Union Pacific system, whose recent incognito ride in a baggage car was noted in the papers, frequently uses this method of travel. He believes in "'getting down among the men," and not long ago appointed himself a member of a wrecking crew, doing good work in several minor smashups.

John Conquest, chief inspector of the criminal investigation department of the metropolitan police at New Scotland Yard, London, is to retire from the force. Mr. Conquest is well kwown to the greater number of the prominent men of England. He was the detective attached to Mr. Gladstone during that statesman's second premiership. In that capacity he went everywhere with the prime minister.

The Clergyman:

There are 1,298 more scholars on the rolls of the Sunday school of Ireland than last year.

The Lutheran Church in Iceland has about 72,000 members, or about the entire population.

Three hundred delegates will represent different branches of Methodism at the ecumenical Methodist conference to be held in London in the fall of 1901.

The Objector:

Don't try to say things when you have nothing to say.

Don't borrow trouble for the purpose of lending it to others.

Don't be impetuous enough to warm your hands by burning your fingers.

Don't blame a critic if he abuses your book. Perhaps he actually read it.

The Reporter:

The fruit business of Omaha, Neb., is valued at $1,500,000 annually.

To maintain the charities department in Boston last year cost $114,843.

An examination made in Rochester of the eyes of 1,005 school children showed that 252 had defective vision.

The wool on the back of a sheep is the shepherd's barometer. The curlier the wool the finer will be the weather.

Scotland has 146 parishes without paupers, poor rates or public houses, the absence of the last, perhaps accounting for that of the first two.

English collectors complain that the prices of rare books on musical topics are going up rapidly, largely on account of the increasing demand for the libraries of rich Americans.

A plan has been adopted in England for political purposes, in which in every constituency a protestant hundred is organized to promote the return of protestant members to parliament.

The consumption of rubber in the United States has attained enormous proportions, and is still rapidly increasing. In 1896 we used 34,000,000 pounds, in 1897 over 42,000,000, and in 1898 44,256,026.

The Chicago Tribune, having kept a record of crime for ten years, declares that the saloon business in the United States is directly chargeable with a total of 53,436 murders during that time.

An expert has risen to explain that stage fright really comes from a disordered stomach. He argues from this that persons mediating public appearances should be careful in their habits and adhere to regular habits.

A certain Nauvoo woman assured her husband that she never told him a lie and never would. He told her that he did not doubt it, but would hereafter cut a notch in the piano when he knew she had deceived him. "No you won't," she screamed, "I'm not going to have my piano ruined."

Firemen of Macon, Ga., are superstitious over the fatality of a bed in the truck house. Four men have died soon after occupying it. A fireman who occupied it a few nights ago says that one of the former occupants of the bed named Smith appeared to him in his sleep and he believes he is going to die. The bed will not be occupied again.

A divorced man's club has been organized in Alameda county, California, for the purpose of sending out scouts and missionaries, men who have found marriage a failure and whose object it is to impress upon mankind the dangers of matrimony and give those inclined that way an opportunity to profit by their sad and harrowing experiences.

Berlin has added sign painters to the daily increasing list of women who work at men's trades. These women have served a regular apprenticeship, including gymnastic training, so that they will not lose their nerve while working on scaffolds or ladders. They wear the gray linen frock and cap that are the house painter's badge, as well as his shield from paint.

Thousands of little apple trees, some already five inches high, have been found growing on the western shores of the islands of Mull and Iona, on the Scottish west coast, just above high water mark, and the crofters are transplanting them to their gardens. The seedlings have grown from the apples cast ashore from the Dominion line steamer Labrador, wrecked last fall.

Iced chloroform has been used as an anesthetic in Prof. Shorburg's clinic in the Jules Hospital at Wurzburg, Bavaria, in over 14,000 cases without a single unpleasant result. The advantage claimed for this preparation of chloroform are the quickness of its action, its comparative freedom from danger and the absence of nausea and depression so common with other anaesthetics.

At least five direct descendants of signers of the declaration of independence are prominent in our politics today, namely: Governor Wolcott, of Massachusetts, a descendant of Oliver Wolcott; Senator Hoar, of Roger Sherman; Robert Treat Paine, of Robert Treat Paine, his namesake; Charles Francis Adams, of John Adams, and T. Jefferson Coolidge, of Thomas Jefferson.

The Preacher:

When a rich Quaker was asked the secret of his success in life, he answered, "Civility, friend, civility."

A moment's work on clay tells more than an hour's labor on brick. So work should be done on children's hearts before they harden.

The Bachelor:

Love with women is like poker with a man—he does most of his winning while he is learning it.

Women know more about love than they do about loving; men know more about loving than they do about love.

Married men are rare whose pride is so strong that they can't bear to think they might have been refused when they proposed.

Every other woman you meet has either a missionary scheme that she is interested in or else a kitten that she wants you to take care of.

As Congress Makes the Laws for the District of Columbia All Citizens Are Interested in This Matter.

(Special Washington Letter.)

YOU have often been told of the splendid educational advantages which are afforded to young men and young women in this national capital, but there is another story to be told on that subject.

Higher education is desirable only for those who aspire to high places in public affairs and in social life. Common school education is desirable for the masses. Every child should have a common school education, and it were better far that every child should learn to read and write and cipher than that a chosen few should have collegiate and university advantages.

The common schools of this city are not worthy of the national capital, because they are not conducted on common sense principles. Consequently the children receive educations which are impractical, because they do not fit the boys and girls for practical contact with the world.

In the first place, surprising as it may seem, grammar is not taught in our common schools, nor in our high schools. One of the young lady graduates of the high school, a near relative of the narrator, this evening said: "I am now going to college and am studying Latin and Greek. It is absolutely necessary to study grammar in order to learn the first principles of those languages, and hence I am studying grammar. I never studied grammar while I was in the public schools here, nor in the high school. What I know of English grammar was learned by absorption, by the lessons learned at home, when my speech was corrected by my father and mother. So far as the public schools are concerned, I might have been graduated in complete ignorance of the correct methods of speaking or writing my mother tongue.

"Moreover," she continued, "they did not teach spelling in the public schools, and very few of the high school graduates know how to spell correctly. In Latin and Greek I find that it is absolutely necessary to know how to spell every word, in order to be able to use the dictionary intelligently, when attempting to translate sentences and paragraphs into English. Hence I am beginning, although a high school graduate, to turn my attention to the correct spelling of the English language. Of course, I am not a poor speller, but I am not a good speller because spelling was never taught me in the public schools."

This statement is so surprising that it would not be deemed worthy of quotation or belief, but for the fact that the writer has personal knowledge of its truthfulness. High school graduates have attempted to write shorthand and transcribe their notes on the typewriter, and have demonstrated their utter inability to do even that kind of work, because they do not know how to spell.

For example, graduates of the Washington high schools acting as stenographers for years for your correspondent have written out the word "alright," supposing that the words "all right," so commonly used, constitute but one word spelled as above. Scores of them use the word "anythink" for anything. Hundreds of them say: "I taken" or "he taken" for "I took" or "he took."

The young men and young women who speak and spell in that manner are graduates of the Washington high schools. There is not a common school in the Ohio, Mississippi or Missouri valleys, or in the lake region, where the first principles of practical education are so neglected. There is probably not a teacher on the prairies who would not be ashamed to graduate pupils in such ignorance of spelling and grammar.

Elocution is something of which the pupils in our schools know nothing. The teachers are graduates of our high schools. They were never taught spelling, grammar or elocution, and hence they cannot teach what they do not know. Therefore it is that our boys and girls do not know how to read well. If asked to read a column or a paragraph from a newspaper they stammer and stumble over it like children in the infant classes.

Instead of teaching arithmetic as it should be taught, the children are given lessons which they may learn or not, according to their home influences, and when they have been graduated they are unfit for any business requiring computation. Hundreds of them do not know the multiplication tables, and yet they have diplomas setting forth that they have completed their educations.

It is all right for such young men as Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln or James A. Garfield to carve out educations for themselves and attain the highest scholastic excellence by their own exertions, and it is equally all right for the sons of wealthy men to be carried through the schools and colleges. But the sons of rich men seldom amount to much, and the Clays, Lincolns and Garfields are but few and far between. The common schools and high schools should be conducted for the purpose of giving practical education to the millions who will soon be men and women, bearing upon their shoulders, minds and hearts the burdens of the republic, and they should be well grounded in the first principles of education.

In all of the grades of our public schools the teachers are required, willingly or otherwise, to make excursions into the hills and woods surrounding this city, taking the children with them with the alleged purpose of studying botany and geology. The days thus spent are picnic days, and they come quite often. The children are obliged to pay their own car fare, no matter how poor their parents may be. This is as unfair as it is unwise. The children do not need botany or geology, nor will they ever have need of knowledge of those branches in after life. But all of them will have need of knowledge of reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic. And those studies are not taught them.

Business men need not less than 2,000 words with which to express their ideas fluently and freely. The average high school graduate in this city does not know more than 1,000 words, and does not know how to spell more than half of those words accurately. And when they come to work for men in journalism, or other literary pursuits, these high school graduates are helpless, because they do not understand the words spoken to them, any more than they would understand the words of a foreign language. These extreme statements are made as a result of personal experience in dealing with the graduates of these schools.

Inasmuch as the boys and girls are not taught to be accurate in their spelling, they carry through life with them slovenly intellectual habits. Some of them study law and medicine, but they do not know how to spell the technical terms used in their professions. One of them, now a practicing physician, recently gave a receipt to a patient, for "fourty-nin dolls." Another, a young lawyer, wrote to a client: "Pleas cal son as possble."

Young men so educated cannot rise. Scholarly men know exactly where to place half-educated men. But the men of limited or slovenly education never can understand the completely educated men about them. Hence the high school graduates of this city seldom know how to choose a profession, or how to succeed in one. It is an uncontroverted truth that no man ever made an ill figure who understood his own talents, nor a good one who mistook them.

The highways and byways of history are strewn with the wrecks of the lives of men who mistook their callings, or who were not well equipped educationally for any calling. Many a youth who would have been a first-rate mechanic is forced into a learned profession, and "with all his blushing honors thick upon his vacant head" settles down to kill people scientifically, pouring drugs, of which he knows little, into bodies of which he knows less.

"Tompkins forsakes his last and awl
For literary squabbles;
Styles himself poet; but his trade
Remains the same—he cobbles."

Thus it appears that scores, if not hundreds, of men and women become teachers in the public schools, who might better be in trade of some kind. Thus it appears that there are superintendents or members of school boards who know little about teaching, but have power to employ teachers who know less. Consequently our public schools are in need of competent supervision, which will result in complete reformation of method and of means for giving practical education to our young people.

Upon whom to fix the responsibility for the deplorable condition of our public schools the writer does not know. It is enough for the present to state the facts. The congress is the lawmaking body of this city, and the facts herein presented will be laid before the congress by a body of leading citizens, and legislation will be asked requiring the public schools of the District of Columbia to teach reading, spelling, writing and arithmetic in the first, second and third grades. After that, if children require higher education, they may be taught something of the sciences, and maybe of the dead languages. But reform must be wrought in our public school system.

A Baltimore cat gave birth to a litter of four kittens, two of which have only two legs apiece, and these only the fore legs. They have no hind legs. Another kitten has only three legs, and not even a hint of a fourth leg where the leg should be. The fourth kitten has four legs but its two back feet, instead of having their soles face toward the ground, unaccountably are turned downward.

There is no man so friendless but that he can find a friend sincere enough to tell him disagreeable truths.—Bulwer Lytton.

Life is to be fortified by many friendships. To love and to be loved is the greatest happiness of existence.—Sydney Smith.

No man knows any one except himself, whom he judges fit to be set free from the coercion of laws, and to be abandoned entirely to his own choice. By this consideration have all civilized nations been induced to the enaction of penal laws; laws by which every man's danger becomes every man's safety, and by which, though all are restrained, yet all are benefited.—Johnson.

The receipt to make a speaker, and an applauded one, too, is short and easy. Take common sense, quantum sufficit; add a little application to the rules and orders of the House (of Commons), throw obvious thoughts in a new light, and make up the whole with a large quantity of purity, correctness and elegancy of style. Take it for granted that by far the greatest part of mankind neither analyze nor search to the bottom; they are incapable of penetrating deeper than the surface.—Chesterfield.

A BAD SLIP.

Mrs. Brady Suffered Painful Injuries in a Fall.

Mrs. Brady, of Grove street, mother of Lawyer Irving L Brady, is detained at her home the result of a serious accident she had Monday evening. She went to the rear yard to take some clothing off of the line. The boardwalk was slippery and in reaching for the clothes she slipped and fell heavily on her right side, fracturing the hip joint and right wrist. Dr. Zaglio is the attending physician, and he believes his patient will come through all right. She suffers a great deal of pain. Last evening the physician set the fractured bone, and today Mrs. Brady is doing quite well.

Very Sick.

Charles Willis, of Johnston's Drive, who has been quite ill, and was thought to be getting well, has had a relapse, and his condition is now quite serious. He had almost recovered from his illness, but being anxious to get about contracted a severe cold. A physician was hastily summoned last evening as it was feared that his illness might terminate seriously.

Three Would Become Members.

Three applications were received and acted upon at last evening's meeting of the Heptasophs. After the business meeting there was a smoker held and games of quoits played. The most interesting game was that between Messrs Laing and Boss who were pitted against Messrs. Nash and Webber. The latter team won.

Pleasant Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Garretson, of Vine street, last evening. It was arranged by Miss Nellie Fenner and Mrs. Bertha Richards and proved to be a delightful affair, giving the young couple a very pleasant surprise. There were thirty-five present. Dancing and games made the time pass quickly.

Quickly Settled.

D. W. Littell, Treasurer of Plainfield Council, 711 Royal Arcanum, has received a check from E. A. Skinner, supreme treasurer, for $3,000 to pay the death claims of their late brother, Arthur D. Pearson. Just eight days elapsed from the time of mailing the proof of death before the check was received in full payment.

Experiences in Germany.

On Tuesday, February 20th, Mrs. Charles L. Sykes, of Fanwood, who has recently returned from a sojourn of several years in Europe, will speak before the members of the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and other Liberal Christian Women. She will speak of "Experiences in Germany."

Gift From Mrs. Gould.

Miss Helen Gould has given $50,000 to aid the new home for the naval branch of the Y. M. C. A., in Brooklyn, thus ensuring the success of the enterprise. It will be remembered that Mr. Smith, of Brooklyn, spoke in Trinity Reformed church last summer in an appeal for aid for this week.

Wants Pay for Painting a Sign.

The action of Jeremiah Van Winkle against W. H. Abbott to recover $3 for painting a sign for the defendant, is on trial this afternoon before Justice Nash. Law student V. W. Nash, Jr., represents the plaintiff and law student William Sweeney the defendant.

TO WITHDRAW APPLICATION.

Rev. G. M. Shott and Citizens' League Win a Victory in Contest of Carroll License.

Rev. G. M. Shott and the Scotch Plains Citizens' League, which has been opposing the application of H. P. Carroll for a license for the road house formerly run by George Thatcher, in Fanwood township just beyond the city line, has been victorious. Irving P. Brady, counsel for the league, was notified this morning by County Attorney W. R. Codington, counsel for Carroll, that he had decided to withdraw the application. It is understood that Carroll was unable to make his application conform with the law.

Square Tip to Billiard Cues.

A billiard cue with a square tip instead of a round one is an innovation that may shortly be put to a practical test. Of course, the experts will smile in derision at this statement and say a square tip would be impracticable, but that is because they have never tried it. A well-known amateur of this city, who is of an experimental and inventive turn of mind, conceived the idea and had a special cue made with a square tip. He says it answers every purpose to which the ordinary cue is put, in addition to which it has a number of advantages over the round tip. For one thing, it is impossible to make a miscue. The full force of the cue strikes the ball and gives it more purchase. The point of contact between the rounded tip and the ball is, perhaps, one-tenth less than that of the square tip and the ball, and where "English" is used the latter tip assures a much greater control. The inventor of the square tip has applied for a patent and hopes to introduce it through the medium of several well-known professional players.—Philadelphia Record.

Corduroy Roads.

What a pleasant ride together through Alpena county! — pleasant save for the corduroy roads, which set us both aquiver, as with the old-time ague, recalling the days when they rang the church bells every half hour in Alpena to remind the settlers to take their quinine, and when sawmills (so runs the tale) were operated solely by fever and ague power. Curious sights met our unaccustomed eastern eyes as we rode—log homesteads chinked with plaster, root houses half buried in the earth, sheds thatched with straw, "stump-pullers" (immense portable derricks) at work "clearing up," frequent "dreens," huge mounds of cobblestones newly plucked out of the fields, wagons loaded with cedar ties moving cityward, splendid crops on every hand; so, bless you! who minded the corduroy?—R. L. Hartt, in Atlantic.

Where Time Begins Its Flight.

If one could have truly rapid transit, and be able to pass along the meridian of 180 degrees from the north pole to the equator in a moment, he would have a strange experience if the time selected for the journey were a few moments after midnight on the morning of Tuesday, January 1, 1901, the first day of the twentieth century. Near the pole it would be the twentieth century, Tuesday morning, at 60 degrees north latitude it would be Monday morning that was beginning, the last day of the nineteenth century, for here it is that the western sweep of the date line includes the Aleutian islands in the American day. At 35 degrees north latitude it would be again Tuesday in the new century. —John Ritchie, Jr., in Ladies' Home Journal.

Obeyed Orders.

Several members of the Scottish reserve, before leaving for the Cape, were entertained at a farewell supper by their fellow workers in Dundee. "Now, boys," said the chairman after an appropriate speech, "treat what is on the table as you would the Boers." As the feast ended one of the reservists was observed stowing away a bottle of whisky in his pocket. "What's that ye're duein', Tam?" shouted the chairman, good-humoredly. "Oh," replied Tam, "I'm only obeyin' orders. Ye telt us to treat the supper as we would the Boers and, ye ken, what we dinna kill we tak' prisoners."—Tit-Bits.

What He Went For.

A dyspeptic suburbanite reached his home a couple of evenings ago with an ample bandage around his jaw, and his wife, meeting him at the door, was shocked by his appearance.

"Where have you been, Harry?" she exclaimed.

"Dentist's," was the laconic reply, accompanied by a groan.

"Did you get your tooth pulled?"

The suffering husband gazed at his better half with murder in his eye, and at last replied:

"Oh, no! I went to get my shoes polished."—Memphis Scimitar.

Teahouse Named "America."

The queen, says a gossip, intends to add one more to the list of teahouses on the Balmoral estate. Each of these retreats is decorated to represent some particular country. For instance, there is "India," which is furnished with bamboo and Indian matting; while "China" is decorated with the Celestial emblems in beautiful colorings. The new teahouse is to be "America," and will be put up in readiness for next year.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Bronco Bill—Ya-as; it was funny that Hurricane Dan should die that way! He got shot by a tenderfoot while hunting!

Grizzly Pete—Gosh! What was he hunting for?

"Why, that was the funny part of it! He was hunting fer fight, and the tenderfoot thought he meant it!"—Puck.

WANT THE TERNS KILLED.

Why Women Prefer Their Plumage for the Decoration of Their Headgear.

As a result of causes too mysterious for the mind of man to comprehend, fashion claimed the terns for her own, says Bird Lore.

Up and down the coast word went forth that sea swallows, or "summer gulls," were worth ten cents each, and the milliner's agent was there to confirm the report.

It was in June when the baymen were idle and, unrestrained by law, they hastened to the beaches in keen competition to destroy the birds which were nesting there.

Never, in this country, at least, has there been such a slaughter of birds. A Cobb's island (Va.) bayman, whose conscience, even at this late date, urged him to a confession of shame for his part in the proceedings, told me recently that in a single day of that memorable season 1,400 terns were killed on Cobb's island alone, and 40,000 are said to have been there shot during the summer. The destruction at other favorable places was proportionately great.

Two seasons of this work were sufficient to sweep the terns from all their more accessible resorts, the only survivors being residents of a few uninhabited islands.

What will be the result? Is there no appeal from fashion's decree. Woman alone can answer these questions, and the case is so clear she cannot shirk the responsibility of replying.

Aigrettes are decorative, quills difficult to identify, neither bespeak death, and ignorance may lead the most humane woman into wearing either. But with the tern no such excuse exists, and the woman who places its always disgustingly mutilated body on her bonnet does so in deliberate defiance of the laws of humanity and good taste.

DISPATCH RIDER'S COOLNESS.

Captured by the Boers, He Saves His Precious Papers by a Shrewd Trick.

One of the most remarkable instances of self-possession on record is accredited to a gentleman who arrived here so late as October 29, writes a Transvaal correspondent of the London News. He rode a bicycle, and his dispatches were made up in a brown paper parcel, which he carried in his coat pocket, so that if he saw trouble ahead he could commend the safety of his parcel to the open veldt. He was riding swiftly, and on turning a treacherous corner found himself face to face with a party of about 20 Boers, who had been looting, or, in their more charitable phraseology, commandeering. He at once dismounted and said "good day," and as his "get up" was excellent one of the Boers shook hands with him.

This gave a little respite, and enabled him to collect himself. Yes, he said, he was coming from Kimberley, and was looking for work. He preferred looking for work to taking up arms. Before the Boers sought to search him he brought out two hard boiled eggs, which he offered them. They refused, and then he produced his brown paper packet of dispatches, and said he had two sandwiches which they could have. His seeming kindness was his salvation, and the Boers were satisfied. They gave him plenty of advice, and told him to keep his sandwiches as they had a sufficiency of biltong.

VOTING PLACES IN PRUSSIA.

Beer Halls Are Generally Chosen for the Purpose of Holding Elections.

The practice in Prussian cities regarding the selection of voting places is in direct contradiction to American usage, says Municipal Affairs. Instead of closing all places where intoxicants are sold on election day, it is precisely the best-known and most popular beer lokals that are chosen for the purpose of holding elections. The halls which are commonly maintained in such places to be used for all sorts of social gatherings are seldom occupied during the day, and as they are well known in the neighborhood they form ideal places for holding an election.

Liquors are not sold in the room in which the voting takes place, but may be freely drunk there. Indeed, it is a very exceptional election judge who does not have a capacious krug on the table before him, from which he occasionally quenches his thirst while the tedious process of balloting is going on. A very considerable economy is effected by holding elections in such places, as rent is either not charged at all or else is fixed at a nominal sum by the proprietor, who expects to be reimbursed through the purchases of those who visit the polls. Any unusual amount of drunkenness on election days, or at least during city elections, which are seldom attended by excitement of any sort, is unknown.

No Gentleman Would Take It.

A member of one of the great political clubs of London recently lost his umbrella and put up a notice in the hall requesting "the nobleman" who had taken it to return it when he had done with it. The committee, in due course, desired to be informed why he had ascribed its possession to a peer. The member blandly referred them to the rule which said that the club was composed of "noblemen and gentlemen," and added that no gentleman would have taken his umbrella.

Water Cycles.

A Canadian has designed a water cycle which offers little resistance to the water, the floats which support the propelling mechanism being composed of two long cylinders of small diameter, with the ends brought to a point to decrease the resistance.

A LEAPING SWORD.

Clever Trick Performed by a Spaniard with One of the Famous Toledo Blades.

"Of all the cities I have visited in Europe," said R. A. Stinson, of Boston, recently, reports the New York Tribune, "I found Madrid one of the most interesting. It has a number of out-of-the-way features that appeal to one.

"While I was in Madrid I tried to purchase one of the famous Toledo blades. The old-fashioned two-handled sword was what I wanted to get, one of those that were built to cut through armor and which fulfilled their mission completely, as many a bloody battlefield in ye ancient days bore testimony. I had to give it up on account of the expense. They cost from $150 up, but while I was looking for one a shopkeeper showed me a most scientific trick. His store was very lofty, running up two or three stories, and he was descanting on the beauties of this particular sword, when, in order to prove the perfect temper of the metal, he drove the point into the floor and bent the blade until hilt and point met. He then suddenly released the hilt, and that six feet of gleaming sword sprang up into the air like a thing alive. Up and up it went, almost to the lofty ceiling itself, when it lost its impetus and began its descent hilt first. It returned almost to the place whence it started, the shopkeeper catching it by the hilt with practiced ease and returning it to its case. I was crazy to try it myself, but the owner refused to allow me, as he said I would probably not only wreck the store, but perhaps injure myself as well. He told me that if I wanted to learn the trick I had better practice it in a large open lot, and that a suit of armor wouldn't be a bad thing to wear until I got the hang of it."

CHARGE OF TWELVE MEN.

Brave Feat of American Scouts Under Gen. Lawton in the Philippines.

A medal of honor—the highest compliment which can be given to an American soldier—has been recommended for presentation to each of the ten surviving members of a band of 12 scouts who performed a brave feat near San Miguel de Mayume Ori, in the Philippines, on May 13, 1899, says Youth's Companion.

These scouts were under the lead of William H. Young, a civilian who had been a famous scout on the western plains in America, and whom Gen. Lawton made his chief of scouts in the San Ysidro campaign this year.

On the day mentioned, Gen. Lawton was advancing on San Miguel. A small body of Oregon volunteers came suddenly upon the enemy, drawn up in an advantageous position in front of San Miguel, the right flank resting on a stream, the left on an elevation made secure by a dense thicket.

It was afterward ascertained that the Filipino force in this position numbered about 600 men.

Without waiting for the reenforcing battalion to support them, or to be in a position to do so, this squad of ten scouts, led by Mr. Young and by Private James Harrington, of the Oregons, an old frontiersman—12 men in all—charged the enemy's line, about 150 yards distant.

The line fired, then wavered, and then completely gave way, to be followed up by the reenforcing battalion, and driven from the city and environs of San Miguel, a place of great importance.

Young and Harrington, while shouting and cheering and leading the men up, were shot and killed.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM.

Golden Flower Was Thought Worthy of a Show All to Itself in 1830.

The National Chrysanthemum society was instituted just 53 years since, in 1846, says the Saturday Review. The flower which it has taken under its patronage, upon whose aggrandizement it has bestowed so successfully such patient and ingenious care, has been established among us only a little over a century. The first time it was thought worthy of a "show" all to itself was in 1830. Fancy if one of those early patrons could have dropped in at the exhibition last week and seen what his favorites had attained to! Surely he would have thought himself translated. The very generic name of the plant, the "golden flower," at first so pertinent, has lost its distinctiveness. There are golden chrysanthemums still, it is true; yellow blossoms incomparable for purity and brilliance, but what of all these other colors not less brilliant and pure, these rich damasks, royal purples, flushed pinks, this dazzling white that puts a snowdrift to shame, at last actually a bloom that is just sea green?

Color size, form, growth, all have undergone a change that half a century ago it entered into no man's heart to conceive. And the end is not yet, it may be; the last wonder has not yet been revealed for us; so limitless in its possibilities and potency is that "affectation of Men to gratifie the Pleasure of their Eyes, inciting them to push on things to more and more Perfection."

Paper That Will Not Burn.

It has been found possible to make a thin, smooth and strong paper of asbestos, which can be employed in the manufacture of paper lanterns and other articles which need to be at the same time light and fireproof. The asbestos paper can also be made waterproof. It is prepared with the same machinery used for making ordinary paper.

Partly Correct.

Most of the stores in the remote business sections of the city are constantly annoyed by children of the neighborhood coming to the door and asking for cards, empty boxes and similar articles. The clerks are, of course, down on the youngsters, and the warfare never ends. The other day a small boy poked his head in the door of a West side store and called out:

"Say, mister, got any empty boxes?"

"No," said the clerk, not very politely.

"Got any cards?"

"No."

"Got any almanacs?"

"No."

"Got any empty bottles?"

"No."

"Got any sense?"

"No—yes—no—yes—you miserable little wretch," and the clerk flew at his tormentor, but the latter had fled.—Ohio State Journal.

River Is Forever Singing.

"There is something peculiar about the Yukon river that I have never heard of in connection with any other stream," said Capt. Gray, who has recently been running boats on the big Alaska artery. "From the mouth of the Yukon up as far as there is any navigable water the stream is constantly singing. No matter where you are, there is a sound like that made by escaping steam. At first I used to think that maybe it came from the boiler or engines. But when we were tied up at night, with everything cold, the sound was the same. I have puzzled my brain to find an explanation of the phenomenon, but without avail. The singing goes on day and night. When you get upstream some distance you can also hear the rocks rolling over the bed of the river, and this produces a most peculiar sound."—Portland (Ore.) Telegram.

His Pa Was Right.

All the seats in the car were taken. He stood up near the middle and read a paper, paying no heed to what was going on around him. He was the only passenger for whom there was no place to sit. He started to turn the pages of his paper. Suddenly the motorman saw an obstruction on the track ahead and reversed the current.

After the passenger who had been standing succeeded in getting upon his feet again an old man who seemed to know him said:

"Well, John, your pa was right."

John looked dazed, and the old man continued:

"He always said you was a-goin' to the front in a hurry some day if you only kept your health." — Chicago Times-Herald.

Valuable Pebbles.

Between the northern point of Long Island and Watch Hill lies a row of little islands, two of which, Plum island and Goose island, possess a peculiar form of mineral wealth. It consists in heaps of richly-colored quartz pebbles, showing red, yellow, purple and other lines which are locally called agates. They are used in making stained-glass windows, and there is a sufficient demand for them in New York to keep the owners of one or two shops employed in gathering them from the beaches, where the waves continually roll and polish them, bringing out the beauty of their colors.—Youth's Companion.

He Stayed Out Nights.

A young wife went to her mother-in-law with a heart-broken expression and threw herself on the floor in the abandonment of grief.

"Oh, mother! He's taken to staying out nights!" wailed the unhappy young woman.

"How long has this been going on, my dear? It doesn't seem possible! How late does he stay away?"

"You know he usually leaves the office at five o'clock, mother. The night before last he never got home until six, and last night he didn't set foot in the house until 20 minutes after six. Oh! What shall I do?"—N. Y. World.

Not Complimentary.

Queer Breed of Foxes.

Gilbertsville, Pa., can boast of either the boldest liar in the country or a breed of foxes hitherto unknown to natural history. A hunt club started a fox in that vicinity the other day and reported that after a chase of seven hours the fox, being hard pressed, took refuge in a tree, from which the hunters took him alive.—Chicago Chronicle.

SCHENCK OR GASTON TO GET JUDGESHIP.

That Is The General Opinion Among Somerset Republicans.

BARTINE'S BOOM WEAKENS.

SENATOR REED IS SAID TO HAVE NO PERSONAL CHOICE.

The Reappointment of a Democratic Judge, It Is Said, Would be Offensive to the Republican Leaders — Senator Reed is Not Saying Anything, but a Word From Will Fix It.

According to the New York Tribune the persistency with which the friends of Judge John D. Bartine have been urging his reappointment as County Judge of Somerset county seems to have relaxed within a few days. The report has been circulated recently, whether authoritatively or not is a matter of conjecture, although it appears to rest on a basis of something more than rumor, that Governor Voorhees would positively decline to nominate Mr. Bartine as often as he was urged to do so. The fact has been conveyed to the Governor that the reappointment of Judge Bartine would be offensive to the Republicans of Somerset County to such an extent as to cause an appeal to the Senate against the confirmation of the nomination, in case it should be made. The probability is, from what seems to be well understood among the better informed Republicans, that the Governor from the first has not had the remotest idea of sending the nomination of Judge Bartine to the Senate.

No objection is made to the conduct of the Judge on the bench; in fact, even the most earnest opponents of his re-appointment admit that he has made a good judicial record; but they contend that all his associations and affiliations in politics when his party has called upon him for aid have been with the Democrats, and that he is much better known as a politician than he is as a judge. The Republicans contend, moreover, that there is just as good Republican material in the country for a judge as Mr. Bartine, and that the party is entitled to the appointment upon both judicial and political grounds.

There is, however, a somewhat divided opinion among the Republicans upon the candidates. From such public sentiment as has been gathered, however, it would appear that Lewis Schenck has the majority of the Republican support behind him. Whether this is because Hugh Gaston is ill and is abroad seeking restoration of his health, as is by his friends asserted, is an open question. A rumor is current in some parts of the county that Senator Reed, who is really the dominant factor in the matter of selection, is disposed to favor the appointment of Mr. Schenck, not because he is his personal choice, for it is said that he has repeatedly declared that he has none, but for the reason that the sentiment of the majority of the Republicans is drifting that way, and also because it would not be a mistake, judicially or politically, to appoint either Mr. Schenck or Mr. Gaston.

"That, as I understand it, is about where the matter stands," said a well-known Somerset county Republican yesterday, "and I do not think that the result will show any change in the situation. As to the appointment of a Prosecutor to succeed Mr. Dungan, I can only say that I have been told quite frequently within the last few days that Senator Reed appears to be inclined to support Mr. Griggs, of Somerville, although Mr. Suydam, of Bound Brook, has a strong following. As it is in the matter of the judgeship, so it is, as I see it, in the matter of the Prosecutor; either Griggs or Suydam would be acceptable to the Republicans, and I believe so soon as he is able to get a clear idea of which of these two candidates has the greater Republican support, that Senator Reed will ask the Governor to make the appointment."

HIRED BY THE WEEK.

That Was the Excuse That Hackman Berry Had for Approaching J. M. Middiedith.

Hackman Charles Berry appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning. He was ordered to appear yesterday afternoon by Roundsman Flynn for alleged violations of the hack ordinance. Berry alleges that the officer used language in addressing him that was not seemly for a policeman or anyone else to use.

The trouble yesterday afternoon was caused by the fact that Berry left his horse at the curb and went up to J. M. Middiedith, of Mercer avenue, who wanted a hack. Berry claimed that he was hired by the week while the officer is said to have denied that such was the case. Berry had a letter this morning from Mr. Middiedith saying that he employed Berry by the week. As the Roundsman did not appear against Berry, the Judge took no action.

Berry claims that he is going to bring the language of the officer to the attention of the Police Board. He says that Flynn owes him a grudge.

WINTER BUILDING LIVELY THIS YEAR.

Several New Residences Were Started Last Month.

TWELVE BUILDING PERMITS.

MOST IMPORTANT IS FOR MRS. ANNA B. POND'S NEW HOUSE.

Other New Homes Commenced in Various Parts of City—The Year Just Closed Saw a Decided Increase in the Building Operations Throughout the City and They Are Still Going On.

It was but natural that the month of December should have seen very few new buildings started. There were, however, twelve permits issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane last month, of which four were for new houses. One of these houses is to be considerably more elaborate than the usual run.

The most important of the permits issued was for Mrs. Anna B. Pond's new residence on Evergreen avenue. It will cost $7,000 before it is completed. A. L. C. Marsh is the architect. William Tallamy is to do the mason work while the contract for the carpenter work has been awarded to John Abbott.

J. A. Hubbard is the owner of a frame dwelling that is being erected at 111 West Fifth street, next to his present residence. The house will cost $3,200. It will be built after Mr. Hubbard's own plans by John Hubbard, mason, and Titsworth and Luckhurst, carpenters.

Benjamin F. Ruckman is building a cottage for himself at 204 Plainfield avenue, which will, when completed, be valued at $1,200. Another cottage, designed by F. L. Lancaster, is being erected for Thomas J. Banks on West Third street near Spooner avenue. William Thompson is the mason and McNally and Huffman the carpenters. It will cost $1,600.

During the month, J. D. Loizeaux put up the sheds for his lumber yard on North avenue, near Berckman street. Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk is making quite extensive improvements to the stable in the rear of his residence on West Seventh street.

An addition was also made to the factory on South avenue, corner of Berckman street, now occupied by the Aluminum Plate and Press Company, by the owner of the property, Charles Leonard. The foundry was enlarged and a storehouse was built.

The year 1899, as compared with 1898, showed an increase in building operations. There were issued 176 building permits during the year as against 152 in 1898 During 1899 ninety-nine new frame buildings were started and completed, also one brick dwelling, a store and brick dwelling, a brick store and dwelling and two brick factories.

STRUCK ON HIS HEAD.

Albert Pruden Fell Into a Pit and was Hurt so That He Became Delirious.

Albert Pruden, of 152 East Second street, who is employed by his brother in the oil business, met with a serious accident this forenoon while working in the storage house on East Fourth street near the railroad. He slipped and fell a considerable distance into a pit inside the house. He landed on his head and fractured his skull. He became delirious and for a time nothing could be done with him. The ambulance was hastily summoned and Mr. Pruden was taken to the hospital where he is now being treated. His condition is considered serious.

A Lively Run.

A horse belonging to one of the local grocerymen ran away on East Ninth street yesterday afternoon, and in front of Mrs. Morgan's place of residence the rig collided with an iron post. This did not stop the horse, for he broke away from the harness and wagon and continued his journey at a lively gait. He was caught some time later at the northeast end of the city. The wagon was not damaged. The animal ran away while the driver was delivering groceries.

SOOT WAS ON FIRE.

It Made Clouds of Smoke and a Crowd of People Thought the City Hotel Was on Fire.

Quite a crowd assembled in front of the City Hotel, corner of Park avenue and East Second street, last evening and watched the great clouds of white smoke that rolled out of the chimney. At last Foreman R. B. Rogers notified the fire department headquarters and Chief Doane with the No. 2 hose wagon went to investigate.

The soot in the smoke pipe that ran from the kitchen range to the main chimney in the dining room, twenty feet long, had caught fire and had heated the sheet iron pipe red hot. The pipe was eight inches in diameter.

When the firemen arrived, the staff of the culinary department of the hotel were busily engaged in trying to take down the pipe. The firemen used two small extinguishers on the inside of the pipe and the fire was speedily quelled. No damage was done.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, January 18.—Train No. 510, east bound on the Central Railroad, struck and killed a man at the crossing in this place about 11 o'clock this morning. PLAINFIELD PRESSES ARE FOR USE IN JAPAN.

Plenty of Business at Aluminum Plate an Press Works.

SKILLED WORK CONE THERE.

SUPERINTENDENT LEARY A MECHANIC OF FINE ABILITY.

At Present the Factory is Giving Employment to 115 Men, But it Will Not be Long Before the Plant Will Have to be Enlarged to Meet the Demands for the Lithograph Presses.

Though the factory of the Aluminum Plate and Press Company has been in operation but two years it is now one of the most prosperous and substantial industrial plants in this city. The superiority of the lithographic press manufactured by the company gives it a strong advantage over competitors, and judging by the record and name already made for itself the company will in a few years give employment to several hundred skilled mechanics and distribute thousands of dollars weekly to be expended among the tradesmen of the city.

At the present time the factory gives work to 115 men, nearly all of whom are skilled mechanics. Under the supervision of Jerome M. Leary, the wages paid and the treatment extended to the workmen has won for the shops the significant subriquet the "Klondike."

Positions with the company are highly prized by the local mechanics, and to the credit of the concern it can be said that residents of Plainfield are given the preference when jobs are given out. Mr. Leary, the superintendent, knows every detail of mechanicism, and is a man of exceptional executive ability. Previous to his coming to this city he was superintendent of motive power on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad system, where he had 1,500 men under his direction and millions of dollars in rolling stock in his care.

Through the courtesy of Superintendent Leary, a Press representative visited the factory and was shown about the various departments. The raw material in the shape of pig iron from the Pennsylvania iron furnaces is received at the plant and then, by the various processes, worked into the finished product, which is the lithographic press consisting of over 725 separate parts, and working together with a precision that turns out sheets printed in a dozen different colors faster than the eye is able to count.

Superintendent Leary is now boxing up and shipping three presses for use in Japan. They were built for the Oriental Industrial and Trading Company, of Kyoto, Japan, which will manufacture lithograph boxes of assorted sizes for the Japan trade. The total weight of three presses is thirty eight tons, and the various parts are packed in 120 boxes. They will be delivered F. O. B. on the docks in New York and from there shipped by steamer to Kobe, Japan. In the middle of March Mr. Leary will dispatch one of his expert workmen to Japan to set up the presses.

The company has orders for presses which it will take several weeks to build, but at the present time, owing to the size of the shops at Berckman street and North avenue, it is impossible to increase the force of employes. A large plant must of necessity be built at a not far distant day.

RECEPTION AND TEA.

Pleasant Affair Arranged by First Baptist Church Women for Mrs. M. S. Sims.

A pleasant reception and tea was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mahala S. Sims, of 417 West Fourth street. It was given by the women of the First Baptist church, where Mrs. Sims is an attendant and member. The whole affair was a great surprise, as Mrs. Sims was not apprised of it in the slightest degree. There was a very large attendance. During the afternoon a handsome purse of money was presented to the surprised, which was gratefully accepted.

In the dining room Mrs. Hannah Flanders poured tea. She was assisted by her daughter, Miss Flanders, and Miss Runyon. There were many who just stopped for a few minutes to congratulate Mrs. Sims and wish her well, while others found it more convenient to remain awhile longer and enjoy a social chat. Mrs. Sims, who has been living at the corner, of West Fourth and New streets for many years, will soon give up that place and take up her residence with her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Runyon, who lives nearby.

THE MERCHANTS PROTEST.

Annual Convention at New Brunswick Denounces Bull Butter and Proposed Postal Law.

Bull butter and the proposed extension of the postal laws, which will admit packages of large size, were freely denounced at New Brunswick yesterday by the retail merchants of the State, who attended the twenty-fifth annual convention. Besides New Brunswick, Plainfield, Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Passaic and a dozen other cities were represented.

All the merchants present agreed to look out for bull butter men and begin a fight at once. In regard to the proposed postal law admitting packages of goods, the merchants say this allows the big department stores in New York and Philadelphia to ship goods at lower than a nominal cost by mail into every city, causing the merchants to lose patronge. It was decided to protest against the passage of the bill.

The officers elected for the year were: President, William H. Everett, Newark; first vice president, James A. Smith, Plainfield; second vice-president, J. W. Beach, Jersey City; secretary, John C. Hendrie, Paterson; treasurer, Peter S. Atkinson, New Brunswick.

The evening was spent talking over what had been done in the department and the present situation there with a little glimpse in the future. All the details of the department were explained for the benefit of the new members of the committee.

Dr. Hedges Was Host.

Last Monday evening the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church were delightfully entertained by the chairman of the social committee, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, at his home. COL. BRYAN EXPECTS TO VISIT THIS CITY.

"Farmer Orator" Martine Assured So This Morning.

TO COME JAN. 24th OR 25th.

OCCASION IS TO BE MADE A BIG TIME FOR THE DEMOCRATS.

Congressman Daly Writes That the Nebraska Man Will Undoubtedly be Able to Come to Plainfield—Music Hall to be Secured for the Colonel in Which to Deliver a Speech.

"Farmer Orator" James E. Martine received a letter this morning from Congressman W. D. Daly, at Washington, in which the latter gave assurances that Col. Wm. J. Bryan would be able to visit Mr. Martine either Jan. 24th or 25th, and make a speech in Music Hall in this city. Mr. Martine at once commenced making arrangements for the visit of the noted Nebraskan.

Mr. Martine has been one of the most devoted followers of Bryan in New Jersey, and no matter when or where, or how many were opposed to him, he has steadfastly advocated the same political principles as Col. Bryan. The "Farmer Orator" will strive to make the visit of Col. Bryan the greatest day for local Democracy that has ever been experienced here. Since the fact was published that he expected to entertain Col. Bryan Mr. Martine has received scores of letters from Democrats for fifty miles around who are anxious to know the details so that they can get up delegations to visit Plainfield on the occasion of the visit of the probable nominee of the Democrats in 1900.

Mr. Martine will probably go to Washington today to see Congressman Daly and Mr. Bryan.

A Washington dispatch says:

Hon. William Jennings Bryan will reach this city from the west Friday. He will be given a reception here by the District Democrats. A committee, headed by Mr. Duling, editor of the Assayer, of Burlington, N. J., and Representatives Daly and Salmon will meet Mr. Bryan Friday. The object of the delegation is to make several dates with him for speeches in New Jersey. In response to a telegram sent today to Mr. Bryan by Representative Daly and Mr. Duling, Colonel Bryan wired that he could make speeches in Burlington and Camden and probably Trenton and Jersey City. He will not speak on trusts in New Jersey, but the date of his speeches will not be fixed until he reaches Washington at least. There is already here a New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland delegation of Democrats waiting to meet Mr. Bryan to make arrangements for speeches by him in those States.

DOES NOT SUPPORT WIFE.

Red Bank Man Arrested Here and Taken to That Place.

Frank Schultz, of Red Bank, was arrested in this city yesterday on complaint of his wife who charged him with non-support and desertion. Later George Moody from Red Bank secured a writ of attachment from Justice Nash and levied upon some horses, wagons and other property belonging to Schultz that had been stored with Hand & Son on East Second street. The levy was made by Constable Vanderhoef.

Later a second attachmeet was issued by Justice Moffett against Frank A. Schultz in favor of Lewis T. Jones, also of Red Bank, for $94. Previous to the attachment being served Schultz tried to take away the property from Hand & Son's stable.

ROBERTS CANNOT SIT

The Committee Unanimously Against Mormon.

MINORITY IN FAVOR OF EXPULSION

The Facts Concerning His Various Wives Known In Utah—Charged Against Him Before Election and Not Denied.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The special committee of the house of representatives to investigate the case of Brigham H. Roberts of Utah today reached a final conclusion. On the polygamous status of Mr. Roberts the committee was unanimous and agreed upon a formal statement of facts. On the question of procedure to be adopted the committee was divided. The majority, consisting of all the members except Littlefield (Me.) and De Armond (Mo.), favored exclusion at the outset. Messrs. Littlefield and De Armond will make a minority report favorable to seating Roberts on his prima facie rights and then expelling him.

The statement of facts found by the committee is as follows:

"We find that B. H. Roberts was elected as a representative to the Fifty-sixth congress from the state of Utah and was at the date of his election above the age of 25 years; that he had been for more than seven years a naturalized citizen of the United States and was an inhabitant of the state of Utah.

"We further find that about 1878 he married Louisa Smith, his first and lawful wife, with whom he has ever since lived as such and who, since their marriage, has borne him six children.

"That about 1885 he married as his plural wife Celia Dibble, with whom he has ever since lived as such and who, since such marriage, has borne him six children, of whom the last were twins, born Aug. 11, 1897.

"That some years after his said marriage to Celia Dibble he contracted another plural marriage with Margaret C. Shipp, with whom he has ever since lived in the habit and repute of marriage. Your committee is unable to fix the exact date of this marriage. It does not appear that he held her out as his wife before January, 1897, or that before that date she held him out as her husband, or that before that date they were reputed to be husband and wife.

"That these facts were generally known in Utah, publicly charged against him during his campaign for election and were not denied by him.

"That the testimony bearing on these facts was taken in the presence of Mr. Roberts and that he fully cross examined the witnesses, but declined to place himself on the witness stand."

Chairman Tayler was authorized to prepare the majority report. It will be ready in a few days, and the prospects are that the subject will be brought before the house early next week.

GENERAL WHEELER'S RETURN.

Dangerous to Remain In Philippines Because of Ill Health.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—It is said at the war department that there is no special significance in the fact that General Wheeler has been relieved from further military duty in the Philippines and ordered home. Although he made no complaint, it is understood that active duty in the field has undermined General Wheeler's health and that it was dangerous for him to remain in the tropical climate of the Philippines much longer.

While it is not officially admitted that General Wheeler has resigned his commission, it is stated positively that if he has taken such a step the president will suspend action until he has had an opportunity to confer with him on the subject with a view to dissuading him from such a course. He is nearly 64 years of age, the statutory limit of active service in the army, and but for that fact would have been appointed a brigadier general in the regular army. The president is said to favor legislation which will authorize the appointment of Generals Wheeler and Lee and perhaps one or two others to be brigadier generals on the retired list in acknowledgment of their faithful services to the country during and since the Spanish war. It is said that is one of the reasons why General Wheeler is summoned home at this time. His orders, which were issued several days ago, require him to come to Washington by way of San Francisco for consultation with the secretary of war.

PRAISE FOR WOOD.

New Governor General's Methods Please Cubans.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—The newspapers comment favorably upon the fact that General Wood has subscribed for each and given instructions that the bills for the same shall be presented to him each month personally. The Diario de la Marina says:

"It is the first time in the history of the island when a governor general has either paid or offered to pay a newspaper subscription. Hitherto it has been the custom of governors general to order not one copy of each issue, as General Wood has done, but several copies. This departure from the precedents gives General Wood a unique distinction. Native officials of minor rank holding office in the city might with propriety do likewise."

General Wood has gone to the province of Pinar del Rio, accompanied by Generals Lee and Chaffee, with their aids. His object is to inspect conditions in that part of the island, and he will visit a number of the smaller towns and make a close personal examination, so far as the time limit of the journey will permit.

Last year 22,301 Americans, 16,260 Spaniards and 7,521 persons of other nationalities landed in Havana, while 21,158 Americans, 12,352 Spaniards and 3,784 persons of other nationalities sailed from Havana.

Shot His Wife's Paramour.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Jan. 18.—The persistent attention of John O'Neil to the wife of Charles Robinson of Spruce Creek has resulted in his death at the hands of the wronged husband. Suspecting the infidelity of his wife and having knowledge that O'Neil would call at the house yesterday, Robinson procured a 38 caliber revolver and came upon the couple in his house unawares. Without saying a word Robinson commenced firing at O'Neil, and when the weapon was emptied seven bullets were in O'Neil's body. Two of the bullets entered the left temple and one took effect in the neck. O'Neil died without a murmur. Robinson then in an indifferent manner picked up O'Neil's body and threw it into the street.

Lake Shore Carriers.

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—The disposition of the annual contract given by the Lake Carriers' association for the handling of grain at Buffalo is in the hands of a special committee which is receiving bids and considering the showing of the longshoremen's union, which is fighting to prevent W. J. Connors of Buffalo or any of his agents from securing it. The committee is composed of 11 members of the association, and after hearing all the bids and the representatives of the union it will report its recommendations to an executive session of the association. W. C. Farrington of Buffalo was elected president of the association for the year and Captain J. C. Keith of Chicago vice president.

Heir to Millions.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Patrick O'Donnell, a window washer and houseman at the Hotel Grace, Jackson boulevard and Clark street, has received positive assurance from Philadelphia that his claim to being one of the principal heirs of the $6,000,000 Ball estate of that city had been recognized and that within a few days his share of the estate, estimated at $2,500,000, will be turned over to him under an order of the probate court. The estate has been under court management for eight years.

Dolphin Ordered Home.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Dolphin, which has been engaged for some months in making a survey of the bar at the mouth of the Orinoco, has been ordered to return to the United States. Captain Southerland has made 345 miles of sounding, and the weather does not admit of the prosecution of the work now. The Dolphin should arrive at Norfolk in about seven days.

Chicago Drainage Dam Opened.

LOCKPORT, Ills., Jan. 18.—The bear trap dam separating the drainage canal from the Des Plaines river was lowered by the sanitary district trustees with the consent of the canal commissioners and Governor Tanner at 11:16 o'clock yesterday, and 200,000 cubic feet of water per minute rushed with a roar into the Des Plaines river on its way to the gulf of Mexico.

The Governor's Reception.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt last night held their annual reception to state officers, judges of the court of appeals and supreme court, members of the legislature and their wives. The executive mansion was the scene of a large and representative gathering. Mrs. Roosevelt was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Timothy L. Woodruff.

Murder In Second Degree.

WOODSTOCK, Vt., Jan. 18.—Selim M. Bugbee, whose trial on the charge of killing Robert Emerton at Norwich on Nov. 18 last has occupied the attention of the court for this county during the past eight days, has been found guilty of murder in the second degree.

Backache pains come from sick kidneys

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure it.

Plainfield people endorse this.

Mrs. I. L. Holmes of 442 West Second street, says:—"I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than from anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp, acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Never for one moment forget that your constant duty to yourself, to your business, to your family, is a constant watch on your kidneys. As the careful engineer watches each pulsation of his faithful tended engine, so should you give the closest scrutiny to your kidneys, for are they not the great engineers of human life? The kidneys filter the blood, all its impurities are left in the kidneys, to be, in turn, passed to the bladder and so find escape from the human system. Can you not readily see how with improperly working kidney the blood scatters its poison, and before you know it you are in the clutch of Bright's Disease and death is upon you.

Hundreds of the sudden deaths you hear and read about are due to neglect of the signals nature gives, such as weak back and pains across the small of the back. If you ever have backache, don't hesitate, but seek the best and surest and quickest acting remedy at once

There is a city magistrate living uptown who is possibly raising a mathematical prodigy in the person of his three or four-year-old daughter. Buller's Force Surprises the Boers Near Colenso.

THE OTHER GENERALS ALSO ACTIVE

Colonel Plumer Starts to Relieve Mafeking, Which Is Said to Be In a Pinched Condition.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—General Buller completely surprised the Boers and occupied the hills beyond Potgieter's drift, 15 miles west of Colenso, on Wednesday, Jan. 10. This intelligence is contained in an exclusive dispatch to The Times, dated yesterday. He followed up the movement by shelling the Boer trenches.

This news completely disposes of the statement that Sir Charles Warren's force went in the direction of Weenen, and it tends greatly to restore confidence in General Buller's tactics. The supposition that he had divided his forces into three columns had given cause for anxiety. It is now seen that such a view was erroneous, as General Buller's forces are concentrated.

In Cape Colony General Methuen has made a demonstration in force, shelling the Boer works. General Gatacre is skirmishing around Molteno, and General French has been throwing a few shells at the Boers at Rensberg. Colonel Plumer is moving to the relief of Mafeking from Bechuanaland. He is now in command of less than 2,000 men. Mafeking is in a bad way. The siege is being pressed with determination, and the Kaffirs are deserting because of pinched rations and the necessity of eating horse meat.

The Times publishes the following dispatch from Spearman's farm, dated Jan. 17, 9:20 p. m.:

"The force marched westward on Jan. 10. Lord Dundonald, by a dashing movement, occupied the hills above Potgieter's drift, 15 miles west of Colenso, taking the Boers completely by surprise.

"The same evening the infantry followed. General Lyttleton's brigade crossed the river yesterday and today shelled the Boer trenches beyond with howitzers.

"General Warren's force is now crossing Trichardt's drift, five miles above. He is not opposed."

The following dispatch has been received from Mafeking, under date of Jan. 3:

"The enemy began a renewed and vigorous bombardment Jan. 1 and deliberately fired six 9 pounder shells into the women's laager, killing a little girl and wounding two children. The strategical position is unchanged.

"Colonel Baden-Powell sent a strong protest to Commandant Snyman against shelling the women's laager.

"Two mules killed by a shell were eaten by the Kaffirs."

The war office announced at midnight that no further news had been received. A large crowd of inquirers, including the Duke of Norfolk, left disappointed.

A dispatch from Lourenco Marques, by way of Beira, dated Thursday, Jan. 11, announces that Colonel Plumer has arrived near Mochudi, about 100 miles north of Mafeking, with a portion of his forces from Tuli.

The Daily Mail has the following, dated yesterday, from Pietermaritzburg:

"News has been received that General Buller is making satisfactory progress."

A correspondent of The Daily Mail at Lourenco Marques says:

"Numerous foreigners arrive here in French vessels. They entrain at a station outside the town and leave at a station before the Transvaal is reached. Then they walk across the border and rejoin the train. Hundreds have passed through that way since the outbreak of the war."

Women Warned.

STERKSTROOP, Jan. 18.—General Gatacre has warned the Boer commandant that if the women are not removed they must take their chance of being shot in the event of an attack. All is quiet here.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A bank at Philippi, W. Va., was robbed of $100,000 by cracksmen.

Nineteen men were killed and 68 injured in the collapse of a church in Russia.

The condition of the Dowager Duchess of Sleswick-Holstein, who is very ill at Dresden, was worse.

The Paris foreign office has been informed that the trouble with Santo Domingo has been settled in a manner completely satisfactory to France.

A Caracas dispatch published in Paris said that anarchy prevailed in Venezuela. Bank directors, including foreigners, have been imprisoned for refusing to lend the government money.

A large increase is shown in the sales of postage stamps and stamped envelopes during the three months ended Dec. 31, 1899, as compared with a similar period of the preceding year.

The Clark Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—William J. Cook and William F. Recter were before the senate committee on privileges and elections in the Clark investigation yesterday. Mr. Cook is an official connected with the Thomas Cruse Savings bank of Helena, and his testimony related solely to the deposit of money in the bank by persons who were regarded as representatives of Mr. Clark in his contest for the senate. Mr. Rector proved to be somewhat an irrepressible witness, volunteering more information than he was asked for. He thus brought the Lewis and Clark county grand jury investigation into the committee inquiry, contrary to the intentions of the committee, which were not to take it up at all. The intrusion of the matter caused the defense to raise the point as to whether the charges in connection with the grand jury should be entered upon, and the committee adjourned until Friday next without deciding it. To take up that phase of the question would naturally extend the inquiry.

Forging One's Own Name.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—By the finding of a jury in Judge Hutchinson's court yesterday the precedent has been established that a man may forge his own name. The case was that of James H. Bird, who was charged with having signed and received the money on a check for $1,900 due on some board of trade dealings to another man of the same name living in New York. Later the real owner of the money turned up, and Bird, who had received the notice that the money was due him, admitted that he had received the money, but that he had not forged either the receipt or the indorsement on the check, as his name was also James H. Bird. The jury, however, found him guilty, and Bird was sentenced to an indefinite term in the penitentiary.

Gale's Public Bequests.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 18.—The foreign will of Napoleon B. Gale, late of Laconia, N. H., has been probated by Judge Long. Mr. Gale left a large estate, and among the public bequests are the following: Town of Belmont, N. H., $10,000, to be used in reducing the town debt; town of Laconia, $10,000, for the erection of a new town hall, $10,000 for a new public library, $1,000 for books for said library and $5,000 for a public park; Home For the Aged at Concord, N. H., $1,000; Orphans' home at Franklin, N. H., $500; Union Cemetery association of Laconia, $1,000 for concreting two avenues. The income of the residue of the estate also goes for public improvements in the town of Laconia.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The navy department is informed that the gunboat Machias has left Santo Domingo for San Juan, a settlement of the French and Santo Domingan differences having made her presence at the island no longer necessary. The cruiser Baltimore and the Wheeling have arrived at Hongkong, and the hospital ship Solace has left the same point for Manila. The Alliance left Newport Tuesday for Barbados, and the Potomac arrived at the League Island navy yard with the Dorothea in tow. The collier Marcellus has been commissioned.

"Puts" and "Calls" Barred.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Trading in "puts" and "calls" on the board of trade has been finally and absolutely prohibited by the directors of the board, and the rule to that effect passed Tuesday by the directors was read from the gallery by Secretary Stone. At a meeting of the directors so called privilege trading was defined as dishonorable conduct.

The Explosion Was Deadly.

TURIN, Jan. 18.—It is now announced that 13 persons altogether were killed and 40 others were wounded by the explosion Tuesday of the dynamite factory at Avigliano, 14 miles from here. The Count of Turin and the Duke of Aosta have visited the injured in the hospital.

Captain Sigsbee Promoted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Orders have been issued formally detaching Captain Sigsbee from the command of the Texas and assigning him to the head of the naval intelligence bureau.

DEATH IN A TUNNEL.

Nine Men Run Down by D., L. and W. Engine and Three Killed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Nine trackmen were yesterday run down by a locomotive in the tunnel of the Lackawanna railroad near Oxford, N. J., three of them being killed and one fatally injured.

While the men were at work in the tunnel a north bound coal train broke loose near the south end. Engineer Wilcox, fearing that the wild portion of the train would come into collision with him, pulled the other portion of the train out of the tunnel and on to a siding at Washington. He then returned to the tunnel on the same track to pick up the detached portion of the train.

The men, who were at work on the south bound track, heard the engine coming from the north, but were unable to see it. Thinking that it was on the track on which they were working, they stepped over on to the north bound track to allow it to pass. They were grouped between the rails, and the engine was upon them before they realized their danger. They were knocked down and buried in all directions. Andrew Kilpatrick and Lewis Dahlberg fell beneath the wheels of the locomotive and were instantly killed. John Smith was badly mangled and died in a short time. None of the others, excepting Frederick Burns, was seriously injured.

The engineer claims that he did not see the workmen until his engine was too close to stop before striking them.

The railroad officials are investigating the accident.

"Wheaton is moving on Lemerk and Taal and has navy co-operation; casualties slight; insurgent loss considerable in men and property, as they keep up constant opposition.

"An expedition under Kobbe leaves for hemp ports tonight.

"General Hughes is absent on the western coast of Panay policing that section.

"A band of 86 Tagalos, which landed at Negros in December, was struck by Byrne in the Negros mauntains. He killed 19, captured 28 rifles and a quantity of ammunition; no casualties to our troops.

"Troops in northern Luzon are busy pursuing robber bands, with good results."

Jailer Killed, Prisoners Escape.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Jan. 18.—County Jailer Alfred Henry, while feeding the prisoners in the Howell county jail yesterday, was overpowered and killed by two prisoners, Ben Richardson and Ed Grady. Richardson was under sentence to the penitentiary for burglary and is an escaped convict from the Tennessee penitentiary. Henry had gone to the jail to feed the prisoners and, not returning to his home at the accustomed time, his wife became anxious and sent a neighbor in search of him. His body was found in a pool of blood on the jail floor. The prisoners had escaped and locked the door after them. A posse was immediately organized. A reward of $1,000 is offered for their capture. A report by telephone announced their appearance ten miles south of here headed for Arkansas.

Veterans Invited to Chattanooga.

This invitation will be extended to all Grand Army and Confederate posts, to the 26 state commissions engaged with the national commission and to the army societies of the six armies—three for each side—represented in those engaged in the battles about Chattanooga.

Higgs, United States consular agent at Weymouth.

DEBATE LIMIT FIXED.

Senate to Vote on Financial Bill Feb. 15.

PHILIPPINE RESOLUTION ADOPTED.

House Again Talks About the Treasury Secretary's Dealings—Urgent Deficiency Bill Passed With Slight Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—An agreement was easily reached in the senate yesterday to take the final vote on the pending bill fixing gold as the standard of value in the United States on Feb. 15. In the intervening time the measure will be discussed.

After several days of debate the dragnet resolution of inquiry regarding the conduct of the Philippine war was adopted. It was introduced by Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts and practically was adopted as a general substitute for resolutions of a similar but less extended character offered by Mr. Pettigrew and Mr. Lodge. Beyond a vigorous speech by Mr. Pettigrew the resolution aroused no debate, as it is within the discretion of the president to send or not to send any information requested.

The resolution offered by Mr. Hale of Maine as to the seizure of flour by the British authorities was adopted, but only after a spirited debate and after the resolution had been materially amended. Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, made a sharp attack upon the resolution, but withdrew his objections after it had been amended.

Mr. Teller (Silver Rep.) of Colorado addressed the senate upon the financial bill and will continue his speech today.

The house had another inning over the sale of the New York custom house by Secretary Gage. Mr. Sulzer of New York, the author of the resolution for an investigation of the secretary's transactions with the New York banks, started the ball rolling by charging that the mandate had already gone forth to suppress it.

Mr. Sibley, a Pennsylvania Democrat formerly a radical advocate of free silver who is now out of sympathy with the Democrats in the house, warmly commended Mr. Gage's course. These two speeches precipitated a debate which lasted about three hours. Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio explained that the committee on rules, to which the Sulzer resolution had gone, had not acted because no evidence had been produced before the committee to warrant the ordering of such a far-reaching investigation. Not a single person had appeared before the committee to press it.

Mr. Hepburn (Rep., Ia.) assailed Mr. Sulzer for some of his extravagant statements and declared there ought to be some way to rebuke a member for slandering honored officials.

Later in the day, during the discussion of the appropriation for the army, Mr. Cannon, in charge of the bill, challenged any member to move to strike it out.

Mr. Williams (Dem., Miss.) replied to Mr. Cannon in an eloquent speech, in which he affirmed the loyalty of every American citizen to the flag and charged Mr. Cannon with shrewdly issuing a challenge that he knew would not be accepted. He maintained the right, however, of members to criticise the policy of the government, asserting that loyalty to the flag was often confounded with loyalty to a policy of the government.

The urgent deficiency bill was passed with only one unimportant amendment.

More Islands May Be Ours.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Captain Christmas Dirknigh Holmfeld of Denmark called at the state department yesterday to talk with Secretary Hay over the proposition to sell the Danish West Indies to the United States. The officer had no credentials and did not claim to appear in a representative capacity. He stated that he had studied the subject for many years and could claim to be an expert. Therefore he appeared only to supply any information the department of state might desire on the subject of the Danish islands. Secretary Hay thanked the gentleman courteously and promised that the department would avail itself of his offer if at any time it had occasion to look for information.

Milwaukee Officials In Contempt.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 18.—Mayor Rose, City Clerk Schuengel and the 24 aldermen who voted for the street railway ordinance are in contempt of court. This is the substance of the decision handed down by Judge Ludwig. The judge holds that he had jurisdiction in the case and that in disobeying the restraining order of Court Commissioner Harper the city officials named in the injunction are in contempt.

Railroad Men Get a Raise.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—Firemen and possibly conductors and engineers all over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad system proper are to be the subjects of a substantial wage advance dating from Jan. 1. The advance will be close to 10 per cent. It will vary, it is understood, on different parts of the system, so as to equalize the scale, and for the most part the advance will be about 8 per cent.

Extension to Manhattan Elevated.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—The state railroad commission has received from George J. Gould, president of the Manhattan Railway company of New York, announcement that the company will comply with the recommendations of the state railroad commission and extend its east side lines from One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street to the Bronx park at Bedford station.

A Large Indebtedness.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—An indebtedness of $5,564,917, said to be the largest schedule of liabilities ever presented for discharge under the national bankruptcy act, is set forth in a petition in voluntary bankruptcy filed in the United States district court by Francis P. Owings, who was formerly interested largely in real estate in Chicago.

Another Southern Cotton Mill.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 18.—Ground has been broken in Rutherford county for a cotton mill to operate 40,000 or 50,000 spindles. The mill is being erected by R. R. Names, Dr. T. B. Lovelace and Colonel Frank Coxe. The location is on Second Broad river.

New York Agricultural Society.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—The treasurer's report of the State Agricultural society shows the following totals: Receipts $101,107.53; disbursements, $99,900.56; balance on hand Dec. 31, 1899, $1,206.97.

COMING EVENTS.

January 18—Annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A.

New Jersey and Rapid Transit.

The completion of the underground railway tunnel in New York is an enterprise of such magnitude that it will attract attention from all quarters of the globe, but the average Plainfielder will probably not give it any more serious consideration than the man on the Pacific slope whose interest is focused on the subject simply because it involves scientific and practical ideas of a stupendous nature. The completion and operation of this tunnel, however, will have an important bearing on the growth and prosperity of the New Jersey suburban section, of which Plainfield is a very important part.

The operation of the underground railway will make rapid transit to the upper part of Greater New York a mere use of energy in descending a flight of steps, entering a commodious car and being whizzed along the tunnel at something like fifty miles an hour—"to Harlem in fifteen minutes." The trip will be void of all the aggravations and inconveniences which now beset the passengers using the present system of surface or elevated cars in the metropolis, and will make a journey from the lower part of Manhattan to the Bronx district a veritable "thing of beauty and joy forever."

The tide which now turns the faces of thousands of New York business men to the shores of New Jersey in quest of places of residence that can be reached without being jammed in cars like cattle, forced to swing like a clock's pendelum around curves, subjected to delays of all kinds and their peace of mind so rudely disturbed that by the time they reach their firesides they are in an unhappy mood, will undoubtedly begin to turn to its natural course when transit facilities have reached perfection—or as near to it as modern ingenuity and capital will devise—in the metropolis.

Thousands of New York business men now seek homes in New Jersey because residence in upper New York means that they will have to use the old and almost constantly clogged transit facilities of the present day. With the operation of an underground system of transit, which carries with it cleanliness, convenience and rapidity, the inclination to take up abode in New Jersey will be greatly lessened.

Unquestionably, the average New York business man would prefer to live in the State in which his business interests are centered—especially since it is the Empire State—and when the conveniences of reaching the upper part of New York are the best, there is a condition that Jerseymen will have to face with some trepidation as to the outcome. The completion of the underground railway will discouarge emigration of New Yorkers to New Jersey for homes. Of that fact even a casual observation of the situation will demonstrate. Such being the case, it is the plain duty of Jerseymen, if they are to keep up in growth and prosperity in the suburban district, to do something to offset the condition that will confront them four years hence when perfect rapid transit is secured for the metropolis. New Jersey, if she is to maintain her present supremacy as the choice home district of New York business men, must be up and doing.

The Congressional Directory for the present session is out, and besides the interest taken in the history of the members of the Senate and House, there is always a curiosity to see just what space is occupied by and what details are given concerning members one knows. This is because it is well understood that the biographies are furnished by the members themselves, and the compiler changes them as little as possible. For instance, Senator Platt, of New York, occupies only about half the space given to Senator Depew, the latter giving that amount of additional space to his own view of his achievements, even to a description of most of his public addresses. Jerseymen are as a rule modest. Congressman Daly, of Hudson, being the one who takes most space to tell how great a man he has been, occupying more than Senator Sewell, twice as much as Senator Kean, and twice that of any other member. Senator Kean describes himself as "of Ursino, near Elizabeth, N. J." Congressman Parker, of the Newark district, and Congressman Fowler, of the Orange-Elizabeth district are both brief and modest.

It is likely that the opinion of Attorney General Gray on the question of the constitutionality of the law creating the office of Supervisor of Bills will be received by the State Assembly at its session next Monday night. Meantime Supervisor of Bills Salmon is performing the duties of that office. The law requires that the Supervisor shall be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. His name has not yet been sent to the Senate, and Governor Voorhees holds that it is not necessary for him to do so until the close of the session, because the law passed last winter creating the office went into effect immediately, and the appointment of Salmon is, therefore, an interim. If the law should be declared unconstitutional by the Attorney General the Legislature would promptly pass a bill creating the office and naming the man to fill it. It is upon the power of the Governor to appoint an officer of the Legislature that the question of the act's constitutionality arises. The law creating the offices fixes the term at five years, and the Governor thinks it should be reduced to three years.

In accordance with a resolution adopted by the Democratice caucus of the House of Representatives calling upon State delegations in Congress to name a representative from each delegation to represent the States on the National Congressional Campaign Committees, Representative Daly, of New Jersey, has been appointed by the Democrats of the State to that position. There being only two Democrats in Congress from New Jersey, an election by the delegation was impossible.

Perhaps some of those credulous Scotch Plains people who wanted the trolley for the trolley's sake—leaving out all question of terms, fares, etc.—are sorry now that they spoke so quick and heedlessly of the future. The deprivation of transfers for all parts of the city is a hard blow to them, but it ought to be an object lesson to others to be more careful in dealing with trolley syndicates whose interests are the consummation of selfishness.

If the Rikers can carry passengers from Westfield a distance of five miles for 5 cents, why is it not just and practical for them to carry Scotch Plains passengers an equal distance for the same price? An application of this obviously fair rule would mean that Scotch Plains trolley patrons could reach any part of Plainfield for a nickel. But all seems fare with the Rikers.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

There are a number of small clubhouses located in this part of New Jersey, but there is not one of them that can, for general convenience or beauty of interior decoration and arrangement, excel that of the new club house of the Cranford Casino, the swell social organization of Cranford. It would be hard to even find its equal. The old clubhouse, it will be remembered, burned down several years ago. In rebuilding it the most modern ideas of a clubhouse were utilized and a modern structure was the result. In the basement are the bowling alleys, one of the best in the State. There are reading rooms, a spacious billiard and pool room and a handsome reception hall on the ground floor. A smoking room with a little supper room adjacent are also located on the same floor. On the second floor there is the club hall and ball room. There is a good-sized space for dancing, and a pretty little stage occupies one end of the hall. The interior furnishings of the clubhouse are particularly pleasing.

Some of the small boys of Westfield have discovered a new amusement. They managed to get possession of some of the torpedoes used on the railroad and put them on the tracks of the trolley company. The other evening one of the cars of the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway was making its usual trip from Plainfield eastward. There were only a few passengers, most of them from this city. Sitting close by the front door was one of Plainfield's well known hackmen. The car was speeding down the Elm street hill into Westfield when suddenly there came a loud explosion right under the fore part of the car. The hackman sprang to his feet on the instant. Almost immediately there came another and to the excited passengers it seemed as if the front of the car was lifted bodily into the air. In just one spring the hackman landed at the rear door and bolted out on the platform as two other explosions followed in rapid succession. The motorman was surprised to put it mildly, while the conductor looked somewhat startled. For a moment no one could imagine the cause of the noise, and then the conductor laughed and explained what it was.

Crosses to Mark Century.

During the current year the close of the century will be marked by the erection on the tops of the tallest mountain peaks in Italy of 19 enormous stone crosses, one of each of the Christian centuries. The crosses are to be erected by the international committee of the Work of Solemn Homage to Jesus the Redeemer. Two of the mountains near Rome are already marked by huge crosses, one of which has a pious society for its protection. The 19 mountain peaks on which the new crosses are to be built have already been selected. On each cross will be carved the inscription: Jesus Christus, Deus, Homo, Vivet, Regnet, Imperat."

Long Journeys of Engines.

A good railway engine will travel about 1,000,000 miles before it wears out.

Disease Germs in Hangings.

The investigations of Vito lo Bosco, an Italian hygienist, show that paper and tapestry wall coverings in houses are favorable to the preservation of disease germs. On the other hand, walls covered with stucco or good varnish cannot only be readily freed from germs by washing, but they possess the property of cleaning themselves spontaneously from bacteria lodged upon them. It has been found that the germs of typhoid, of cholera and of pneumonia, when placed on such walls, perish within 24 hours, while on walls covered with dried size they survive for weeks and even months. Dampness increases and prolongs the danger.

About 1,500 have been lost by the earth shocks at Ardin, in Asia Minor. Many towns have been completely wiped out of existence.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Der im Alter von nahezu 70 Jahren verstorbene Oberstudienrath v. Dillmann, Rektor des Stuttgarter Realgymnasiums, war ein sehr bedeutender Schulmann, der Schöpfer des Stuttgarter und überhaupt des württembergischen Realgymnasiums, ebenso der eifrige Vorkämpfer der Idee der Gleichberechtigung des Realgymnasiums mit der humanistischen Anstalt. Als Pädagoge vertrat er ebenso wie in religiöser Beziehung einen freieren Standpunkt. Große Verehrung genoß er bei seinen Schülern und in den Kreisen der Lehrer.—Privatier Ludwig Marquardt, früher langjähriger Besitzer des Kafe Marquardt, ist gestorben.

Cetilsheim. Kürzlich war der Taglöhner Leidig von Burleswagen in der Nähe der Dampfziegelei mit Lehmgraben beschäftigt. Plötzlich löste sich ein größeres Stück Lehm los und begrub den Arbeiter vollständig. Bis er von seinen Mitarbeitern ausgegraben wurde, war er bereits todt.

Horb. Nachmittags ist in Vieringen das Wohnhaus und Oekonomiegebäude des Paul Neff bis auf den Grund niedergebrannt. Außer dem Vieh konnte nichts gerettet werden. Der Gebäude- und Mobiliarschaden beträgt etwa 9000 Mark. Ein 12jähriger Knabe, der in der Nähe der Scheuer sich mit Zündhölzchen zu schaffen machte, hat den Brand verursacht.

Ulm. Der Festungsvertrag wurde letzthin von den bürgerlichen Kollegien genehmigt und unterzeichnet. Der Kaufpreis beträgt 4,500,000 Mark abzüglich der 600,000 Mark, welche die Eisenbahnverwaltung für das von ihr beanspruchte Terrain zu zahlen hat. Die Niederlegung des Walles wird in drei Jahren erfolgen, nach Fertigstellung der Ersatzbauten. Das westliche Rayongelände darf bis dorthin nicht überbaut werden, wohl aber sind für den östlichen Theil Zugeständnisse gemacht worden.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Der Oberfinanzrath Göller wurde zum Direktor der Amortisationskasse ernannt.

Freiburg. Der hiesige Stadtpfarrer Dr. H. Hansjakob, der bekannte Schriftsteller, hat die Annahme des ihm vom Großherzog von Baden verliehenen Ritterkreuzes 1. Klasse des Ordens vom Zähringer Löwen abgelehnt.

Grenzach. Auf dem hiesigen Postamte gab ein junger Postgehilfe auf den Postverwalter, der ihn wegen verschiedener Unregelmäßigkeiten zur Rede stellte, vier Revolverschüsse ab; einer davon traf den Beamten im Rücken und verletzte ihn ziemlich erheblich. Der Thäter ist verhaftet.

Heidelberg. Der in Folge der Zahlungseinstellung der Bankfirma Wilhelm Cunz u. Co. verhaftete Inhaber, Bankier Cunz, wurde gegen 90,000 Mark Kaution aus der Haft entlassen.

Lahr. Der Stadtrath hat einstimmig beschlossen, eine städtische Verbrauchssteuer für Bier, Wein und Obstwein einzuführen. Anderwärts bemüht man sich bekanntlich, derartige Steuern zu beseitigen.

Mannheim. Hier sind nächtlicher Weile 37 Ballen Damentuchstoffe im Werthe von etwa 10,000 Mark gestohlen worden.

Weinheim. Vor Kurzem ist die Burgruine Windeck, einer der beliebtesten Ausflugspunkte der Bergstraße, in den Privatbesitz der Grundherrschaft des Freiherrn v. Berckheim übergegangen. Die Burg gehörte seit 1803 dem badischen Staat. Freiherr v. Berckheim ist die Bedingungungen eingegangen, die Ruine jederzeit in gutem baulichen Zustande zu erhalten, die dazu vom Staat als nothwendig erachteten Arbeiten vorzunehmen und den Besuch der Ruine Jedermann wie bisher unentgeltlich zu gestatten.

Straßburg. Dem Münchner Universitätsprofessor und Reichstagsabgeordneten Dr. Freiherrn von Hertling ist es gelungen, die Verhandlungen mit der Kurie betreffs Errichtung einer katholisch-theologischen Fakultät an der hiesigen Universität zu befriedigendem Abschluß zu bringen.

Hagenau. Hier wurde von der Polizei einer jugendlichen Diebesbande das Handwerk gelegt, die aus acht zum Theil noch schulpflichtigen Jungen bestand; der Häuptling war 15 Jahre alt. Ihr Hauptquartier war das vor Kurzem niedergebrannte Hopfenmagazin, dort verbrachten sie häufig die Nacht, und dort hielten sie in der feuergefährlichen Umgebung rauchend ihre Zusammenkünfte, so daß jener Brand auch wohl auf ihre Fahrlässigkeit zu schieben ist. Sollte irgend etwas ausgeführt werden, so wurde ein Mitglied der Bande durch das Loos dazu bestimmt; auf Verrath eines Genossen stand der Tod. Der 15jährige Hauptmann ist verhaftet, die übrigen Mitglieder sind noch auf freiem Fuß.

Kolmar. In Folge eines Herzschlages verstarb hier ein verdienter reichsländischer Beamter, der Oberforstmeister Hartleben; er war in der reichsländischen Forstverwaltung seit 1871 thätig.

THE WINTER WARDROBE.

How to Keep Warm During Cold Weather.

Sable, chinchilla, otter and the different fox furs are those now most fashionable. Mink is less seen, while real seal is quite in the background. Boas of ostrich plumes are still worn because they are becoming, but short stoles of fur are newer. The collar part is plain, but at the ends are bunches of tails, which serve as a finish.

Many women object to long gaiters or leggings because they are so awkward and make the feet appear so clumsy, yet skirts are of little real protection in cold weather, as they are blown about by the wind instead of clinging and retaining warmth. A very good method of solving the difficulty is to buy a pair of long, heavy golf stockings of a suitable boy's size and cut off the feet or, rather, the front part of the foot and the entire heel, leaving only a narrow strip to pass under the instep. When the stockings are drawn on over the ordinary stockings and pinned up high with safety pins, the foot and ankle are in nowise enlarged, and the usual boot may be worn without difficulty. The warmth afforded is surprising and is far greater than that yielded by a flannel or down petticoat.

The illustration shows a pretty dress for a little girl. The skirt and bodice are sewed together, the skirt being full and opening at the side, where it laps over with a scalloped edge, which is bordered with narrow velvet. The blouse also crosses and is scalloped and trimmed with velvet, having a little bertha to match. The plastron is of surah, tucked and puffed. Around the waist is a surah sash, which is tied at the back and has fringed ends.

FASHIONS IN JEWELS.

Long Chains and Curious Little Charms.

Never has jewelry been more worn than it is now. The long chains which made their first tentative appearance several years ago have now increased and multiplied and are worn by everybody. Not everybody, however, can have them of gold and jewels, hence those of good workmanship and costly materials remain exclusive. Gold chains studded with diamonds, turquoises, pearls and amethysts are less new than those of fine enamel.

The renewed favor of jewelry, which for a long time was comparatively little worn, has brought into prominence many of the semiprecious stones which are now needed to give variety. Yellow topazes and pink ones, rose agates, aquamarines, amethysts and particularly the green chrysolite.

Little amulets are worn attached to the links of the long neck chain. Tortoises, sleigh bells, whistles, little balls of crystal, ancient coins, a coral tooth, little serpents, insects, hearts and four leaved clovers are some of the designs.

The ball costume shown in the cut has a skirt of mousselaine de soie bordered with a little ruche of the same material. Over this is a tunic of peau de soie embroidered with orchids and edged with three narrow plaitings of mousseline de soie. The bodice is crossed in front and at the back, the edges being embroidered and resting upon a fichu of mousseline de soie. The short, draped sleeves of mousseline de soie are ornamented with sprays of orchids. The wrap is of broche rose silk, lined with rose panne and bordered with white mongolie.

BICYCLES and MOTORS

WILL STAY FOREVER

The Automobile Will Never Succeed in Supplanting the Cheap and Useful Bicycle.

Many a day has gone by since we saw any report of a new bicycle complaint, or, indeed, since we saw any noteworthy reference to any of the old complaints. Once upon a time, you remember, the papers bulged out with wise dissertations on the bicycle nose, the bicycle throat, the bicycle hump in the back, and still other forms of what might generally have been classed as cycleritis. Ah! and what sport it all was for the poor, hard-digging paragrapher and the lazy, conventional cartoonist, with his feet on the editor's table! But days and months have passed without either a new discovery or an old recrudescence. In fact, about the only thing worth noticing recently was the sensational attempt of two New York women to ride to death. One of them came very near doing it; the other succeeded in getting her pictures into all the yellowish papers.

However, an odd item came flying up from the south the other day. A friend of ours down where the cotton and the sweet potatoes grow believes that the cycle, like the famous horse that the Manchurian warrior mounted, is going backward, scared out of its tires by the complaints to which we have referred and the rise of the automobile. It is a fact, we admit, that fewer bicycles are exported to-day than were exported four or five years ago, and we believe that not so many bicycles are demanded for domestic use as were a few years back. These changes are readily explained by the fact that manufacturing abroad has been increasing and, by the other fact tha cycling over here is no longer in a feverish state. A year or two ago the country was fairly bicycle mad. Now the people are beginning to appreciate the real worth of the wheel. The wheel used to be a fashion. Nowadays it takes its place as a pleasant recreation and a sterling medicine for those afflicted with dyspepsia or the mulligrubs. As for the old complaints, well, let us say bosh! Some ignorant and too enthusiastic riders may have loosened a screw somewhere in their anatomy, but we do not remember that a specific case of any of the forms of the fanciful cycleritis has ever been demonstraed.

The bicycle is down for a long visit. Not even the clangorous and fat-tired automobile can drive it out.—Boston Journal.

SAVES THE POSTMAN.

Pouch for Collecting Mail Built, in a Measure at Least, on the Plan of a Bicycle.

Uncle Sam's novel little letter carriers' mail collecting wagons, although but recently introduced, have conclusively proved their great value as an adjunct to rapid mail collection and delivery. Our illustration shows a very novel form of letter carriers' wagon, the scheme of an Alabama man. It consists essentially of a truck or vehicle of the type shown, having at its lower end a small wheel and a framework to carry the postman's heavy mail pouch. Such a pouch undoubtedly represents a considerable weight, and a truck of the form shown, which could be wheeled along, the propelling power being applied by the postman's shoulder, would certainly be less tiring and burdensome than carrying the pouch. Granting this is a fact, the carrier could, of course, cover a given section in less time, the great desideratum in all postal affairs. Legs are provided to enable the truck to be stood up conveniently and easily when desired. Naturally, the truck could be utilized for carrying and delivering parcels as well.

Brakes Coming Into Favor.

One of the most marked developments of the year's cycling has been the rise to popularity of the same kind of free wheel and coaster brake devices that a few years ago were snubbed as impracticable and relegated to obscurity. It is the old story of a rejected improvement coming to the front a victor. While the move toward free wheels will not rank as a filip to the sport with such innovations as the ball-bearings or pneumatic tires, it is likely to be sufficient to create a new demand and give fresh impetus to the trade by supplying riders with a change worthy of consideration and diverting the sport from a groove. The number of riders who have used free wheels and coaster brakes the past season is enough to impress their practicability.

Porous Plasters.

The adhesive mass used on the face of porous plasters varies in composition, though the following may be taken as representing the general formula followed in the better class of plasters: Rubber, two parts; Burgundy pitch, one part, and gum olibanum, one part. This mass is varied somewhat for different kinds of plasters, and there is no doubt that cheaper substitutes for the olibanum are used. Powdered orris root also is frequently present in the mass as a diluent. To work this mass successfully heavy and expensive machinery is required, and considerable skill is necessary to produce plasters which remain permanently flexible and adhesive. For these reasons the manufacture of porous plasters has practically passed out of the hands of the retail druggist into the hands of those who make them on a large scale.—American Druggist.

A Crest of Cloth.

One of the ornithologists attached to the Smithsonian institution was collecting specimens of the birds of southwestern Mexico not long ago, when he saw a cow bird which seemed to him to possess a white crest. Now, properly, the cow bird is altogether black, and the top of his head is as smooth as the poll of a young dry goods clerk. Evidently this strange matter required investigation, and a gunshot brought the bird to the ground. Then was found a more unexpected marvel than was anticipated. The "snow-white crest" proved to be a piece of white cloth that had been stitched into the bird's scalp and trimmed to represent a cock's comb. "It had doubtless been done when the bird was very young," says the observer, "by some of the natives, and the wounds of the operation were entirely healed."—Lippincott's.

Mystery of the Rubber Bands.

A mackerel with a rubber band around its body was taken from a net at Provincetown by John P. Woods. Several mackerel banded in a similar manner were taken by net fishermen on the New England coast four or five years ago, and fishermen generally were puzzled to account for the band. That the bands were placed upon the fish when small was evident, for in every instance the rubber was sunken deeply into the body of the mackerel. The mackerel captured by Woods has worn its band for a long time, as evidenced by the depth of the fissure. When taken from the water the body of the fish collapsed at the point encircled by the band, the upper end inclining at an angle with the tail portion, yet the skin was not broken.—Boston Globe.

Case and Comment.

The solemn air of judicial gravity and dignity of the supreme court is sometimes disturbed by a flash of humor. On one occasion there was an argument going on, and the attorneys were using a map to illustrate the case. One attorney, in the course of his presentation of the case, pointed to the map in question and was proceeding to dilate upon the same, when Justice Gray asked him what the map was.

"Why, your honor, it is just a bird's-eye view of the land in controversy," answered the counselor.

"Well," said Justice Gray, "I wish you would bring the map a little nearer; I haven't got a bird's eye."—Washington Times.

American Physique.

Prof. Angelo Mosso of Turin, a celebrated Italian savant, who recently visited this country, was greatly impressed by our gymnasiums and athletic sports. He thought it especially admirable that physical education was carried to so high a degree here without any military object. The American boys and girls in point of physique, he says, are far superior to those of Italy, and he confesses that he had "only to look at the passers-by in the street" to be convinced how much more developed and strong they were than his compatriots.—Youth's Companion.

Not Necessary to Talk Much.

"You know," she said, "I am not much of a conversationalist."

This seemed to him the opportunity for which he had been waiting.

"Well," he returned, "if I do the preliminary talking your conversational ability will be sufficient to enable you to say 'Yes,' won't it?"

After all, in courtship there is nothing like getting your answer before you ask the question.—Chicago Post.

A Lawyer's Promise.

"What hurts me the worst of all," said the stricken millionaire, "is the disgrace of dying rich."

"Don't worry about that," said the family lawyer, soothingly; "I promise you that I'll fix things so that in a year's time neither the public nor your heirs will have any proof that you ever left a cent."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Insinuation.

Husband—That tramp I met at the gate told me he weighed 250 pounds.

Wife—What a story teller! Why, he told me when I fed him that he only weighed a hundred.

"Yes, my dear, but that was before he had eaten those biscuits of yours."—Detroit Free Press.

Papa's Sarcasm.

"George says he loves me, papa."

"Well, I don't wonder at it. I said the same thing when I wanted to get into a rich man's family."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

One came and told me suddenly,
"Your friend is dead! Last year she went."
But many years my friend had spent
In life's wide wastes, apart from me.

And lately I had felt her near,
And walked as if by soft winds fanned,
Had felt the touching of her hand,
Had known she held me close and dear

And swift I learned that being dead
Meant rather being free to live,
And free to seek me, free to give,
And so my heart was comforted.

THE BACHELOR.

Money doesn't make the mare go half as fast as it makes itself go.

The happiest moments of a woman's life are when she thinks sadly of the joyous past.

A girl can't endure a man if he kisses her and the next time he meets her doesn't act awed and solemn.

When a girl says she means never to get married it is time to think of what kind of wedding present you can't afford to buy.

The Fate of the Impractical.

Oh, youth with lofty brow?

How will the world reward you?
Some pedant grim will lurk
To prove your best achievements

TOM THUMB AND THE QUEEN.

The Diminutive General Tried to Back Out of Her Presence, But Failed.

The American minister, Hon. Edward Everett, was very kind to his countrymen, and it was at his house that Mr. Barnum met a certain Mr. Murray, master of the queen's household. says St. Nicholas. On the day following one of the queen's life guards appeared before Mr. Barnum with a note containing an invitation from the queen to Gen. Tom Thumb and his guardian, Mr. Barnum, to appear at Buckingham palace on a specified evening.

In retiring from the royal presence Mr. Barnum attempted to follow the example set by the lord in waiting by backing out. The gallery was of great length, and the gentlemen with long strides made rapid progress; but Tom Thumb's short legs left him far behind—or before. Seeing that he was losing ground, he turned and ran a few steps, then resumed the process of "backing." Again losing ground, he repeated the performance, to the great amusement of the royal spectators. The queen soon sent another summons, and the general, with his guardian, made a second visit to the palace, being received in the yellow drawing room.

A third visit was soon paid to Buckingham palace, and this time the queen's uncle, Leopold, king of the Belgians, was present and was greatly amused, asking many questions; and Queen Victoria, desiring the general to sing, inquired what song he preferred. "Yankee Doodle," was the prompt reply. All present laughed heartily, and her majesty said: "That is a very pretty song, general; sing it, if you please," and he did.

ESCAPE GIVING TIPS.

There Are Many Men Who Shun Their Regular Barbers in Christmas Season.

"Say, I want to tell you something that is dead straight," said Schneider, the calculating barber, according to the Philadelphia Record, as he hurried his razor over the face of one of his victims. "You notice this crowd here waiting to get shaved—well, you will be surprised when I tell you that there are only two of my regular customers among the entire men there. What does that mean? Well, not that there has been an influx into town or that the eight men have just moved into the neighborhood. It simply means that that double quartet is made up of men who are regular customers at other barber shops, but who have come here to get out of giving Christmas presents in those shops. Say, are you on?

"Oh, you'd be surprised at the number of people who every year perform the change-of-barber-shop act. We don't do any more business here, as for every strange customer who comes to us a regular customer goes to a strange shop at this season of present-giving. When they again get back to their regular shops after Christmas is over they carelessly remark that they have been out of town. 'Sh, don't talk so loud, for I don't want any of my once-a-year customers to hear you; they might go somewhere else next year. Next gent," with emphasis on the gent, the individual being one of the strangers.

WINE FROM APPLES.

It Is Made So Cleverly as to Deceive Even the Most Knowing Experts.

Science has lately made it possible to obtain good wine from the apple, which has always been devoted to sparkling cider. Experts have been deceived in sherry, madeira and sauterne which came from apple juice instead of grapes.

Juice from the apple is fermented with yeasts of different kinds brought from the grape-growing districts of Europe to this country. For instance, the flavor of sherry is due not to the grape, but to the infinitesimal fungus germs that cause its fermentation. The American companies import these germs from the district in Spain where they flourish, inoculate the apple juice and obtain a fine wine. The same process is followed with other varieties of wine.

These yeasts are obtained from the sediment in the vats of Europe. They are easily propagated, and the only difficulty is to separate the different kinds. As the quality of wine depends on these fungi winemakers have usually left to chance the kind of wine they produce, depending on the organisms which float in the air and attach themselves to the grapes. The yeasts are sold bottled, and are much in demand.

BOSTON'S BOHEMIA.

It Is Several Times More Virtuous Than Boston Society, Says This Writer.

"Here (in Pinckney street) is the freedom of the Latin quarter, with but a small amount of its license," writes Margaret Allston, in "Her Boston Experiences," in Ladies' Home Journal. "Human nature bears a close family resemblance all over the world when judged by communities with similar earmarks, but in America individuals merely pose as Bohemians; they seldom come up (or down) to the 'simon pure' article of foreign cities. America is eminently a respectable country, well washed morally, and with considerable respect for the neighbors' opinion. Americans become Bohemianized in Paris, but seldom in Boston, where the spook of Cotton Mather and other standards of respectability still hold sway with a groan and a ghostly shudder at a mishap. In truth, this Boston Bohemia stands for good spirits and innocent unconventionality, and is several times more virtuous than Boston society, no matter how pretentiously and flamboyantly the little country tries to disprove its virtue."

Sir Arthur Sullivan has come out in a new guise. He has invented an appliance for attaching to carriages by which he claims that safety is obtained for the occupants of the vehicle in case the horses run away. The vehicle is so constructed that the occupant, by touching a spring, can release the shafts, thus leaving the horse to go on alone.

The Atchison Globe Man:

Some women think that only married man can do wrong.

A man has not only to fight the possibility of what a woman finds out, but also what she dreams about him.

If a woman is truly fond of her husband she believes he is "coming down with something" every time he falls off in his feed.

Women will trust their daughters with men under conditions in which they would not trust their husbands with other women.

When a girl laughs and looks pleasant when she sees her steady talking to a woman she dislikes, she thinks what great actress the world would have gained had she gone on the stage.

An Atchison woman who has worked hard all her life in order that her family might have something saved up is now worn out and dying. Those who have a good time as they go along are right kind of philosophers.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Perhaps the most notable event of the present amusement season will be the presentation in this city tomorrow night at Music Hall of "The Turtle," nearly direct from its phenomenal and unprecedently successful engagement at the Manhattan Theatre, New York. The annals of stage history offer few such great successes as "The Turtle." For over 200 nights it filled the Manhattan Theatre to the doors, and it was only due to earlier contracts that so successful an engagement was terminated in the midst of its run. It tells a story that keeps the auditor in one constant state of uproar. The droll and fantastic complications of "The Turtle" are all the more mirth provoking because the mistakes involving its personages are perfectly clean and apparent. Its characters are proper people and its events move along in logical sequence to delightfully absurd conclusions. It is a frank, merry play, admirably acted by players of individual distinction.

* * * * * * *

The play to be presented to us at Music Hall Saturday night is one that has been on the top wave of success as it were, to judge from the universal praise that has been bestowed upon it so far this season. David Higgins, drama "At Piney Ridge," whose scenes are laid in the mountains of Eastern Tenessee, has not come to us in the newest gloss but after a two years' of profitable production in other fields. It has been greeted with much favor in all parts of the country and received with not only credit to its author, but with genuine enthusiasm. The story of the drama is direct and simple and simply told and enacted. While it is melodrama, it is of the newest school of its class and deals, in the most approved manner with its fidelity to the life it depicts, and in keeping with the romantic qualities of the mountain region where the action it laid, without being stilted or exaggerated in any way. David Higgins, the author, will appear in the steller role of Jack Rose, the hero of the play, and has surrounded himself with a competent company.

On Tuesday next, 23d inst., at Music Hall an unexcelled minstrel performance can be looked for on that date. John W. Vogel and Arthur Deming's big minstrels, with fifty people, will be here. Vogel is know as the greatest manager, while Deming is conceded to be the most popular minstrel comedian in the world, and there is little doubt but what the organization is as they claim, the richest and costliest in existence.

BONAPARTIST NOBILITY.

How a Number of Them Have Succeeded in Gilding Their Coronets.

The Bonapartist nobility have a talent for gilding their coronets through marriage, says London Truth. A Ney in 1830 secured the heiress of Lafitte, the banker. His nephew married the adopted daughter of Mme. Heine. Duc de Rivoli married the latter when she was Dowager Duchesse d'Elchingen. He and she are now prince and princess of Essling. Most of the Murats have married great heiresses. Prince de Wagram is husband of a Frankfort Rothschild. Fouche, Duc d'Otrante, is settled in Sweden, and has had matrimonial fortune there. Duc de Tarente has just married the widow of M. Camescasse, who was an eminent barrister, prefect of police, deputy and one of the most amiable Frenchmen I ever knew. The new Duchesse de Tarente is "boss" of the General Company of Omnibuses and has fortune from other sources. She has two daughters nearly grown up who attended the wedding. They give promise of beauty. The wedding took place at Douai. Marshal Macdonald, first Duc de Tarente, was not Scotch by birth, but the grandson of a Scotchman who was driven by the defeat of the second pretender to take refuge in France. He settled at Auxerre. The marshal was not Bonapartist in feeling. But he was so cold-shouldered by restored royalty as to be glad of its disappearance in 1830.

A Faithful Dog.

Our Dumb Animals gives a touching story of the wonderful heroism of a dog last winter in the icy waters of Alaska. Two men and the dog started out from camp to find a trail leading away from the terrible Valdes glacier. For days they wandered in the snow till their provisions were well-nigh exhausted and the men could go no further. Then one of them wrote a message on a scrap of paper, tied it to the dog's neck, and told him to go back to camp. The dog disappeared in the snow and storm. Two days and nights passed; when, just as they were giving up in despair, "out from the blinding snow bounded the faithful dog, and close behind him came ready hands to minister to their wants."

SELF-INFLATING TIRE.

An English Invention Which, According to Some Authorities, Has Some Real Merit.

The self-inflating tire of James F. Everett and Arthur Kirkman, of Wallington, England, is shown herewith in longitudinal and in vertical section.

The invention consists, essentially, in providing a metallic or other band, hereinafter referred to as the inner band, between the rim and the pumping-tube and another such band hereinafter referred to as the outer band, between the pumping-tube and the air-tube or pneumatic tire. The inner band is mounted in the hollow of the rim and is or may be attached thereto, the ends being connected or abutting, so as to afford a smooth surface to the rim, thus affording a flat surface on which the pumping-tube can operate and so as not to interfere with the nipples on the ends of the spokes or the spokes themselves and to cover at the joint. This inner band serves to raise the pumping-tube away from any spoke or other holes there may be in the rim. The inner band can be made of aluminium, and is covered with canvas, as shown. The pumping-tube is also covered with canvas, or at least is made inextensible. The outer band is of aluminium and inclosed with canvas, which is solutioned to the air-tube. The same forms a medium for compressing the pumping-tube independently of the pneumatic tire, so that the pressure in the pumping-tube may be sensibly above the pressure in the air-tube. The air-tube is covered with canvas or is otherwise made inextensible, and canvas is solutioned, so as to inclose the inner band, the pumping-tube, the outer band, and all or part of the air-tube. Air is admitted through a dust-cap or filter in the ordinary manner to the pumping-tube, which does not extend quite around the wheel, and as the wheel revolves the sides of this tube meet and air is forced around until it passes through a back-pressure valve by a curved pipe into the air-tube. This pipe passes through a thimble which is attached to the outer band, and the thimble further passes freely through a hole in the rim, so as to be in a manner attached thereto and yet permit of the free action of the outer band to effect the compression of the pumping-tube, the other end of the outer band being free to move both radially and circumferentially. The space between the ends of the pumping-tube is filled up with an india-rubber cushion, or the ends of the tube may be closer together.

LATEST PARIS FAD.

Motor Weddings Are Now Considered the Correct Thing by the Swells of the French Capital.

The very latest fad in Parisian society is the motor wedding. The custom of driving to the church where the marriage ceremony is to be performed in automobiles, though inaugurated only a month ago, has apparently come to stay, and a motor wedding is one of the leading conditions upon which the young women of the swell set will entertain a proposal of marriage.

The first of these weddings was given at the Church Saint Germain l'Auxerrois early in November. The bridal car, gayly decorated in white and gold, and covered with flowers, driven by the bridegroom himself, led the procession, followed by the wedding party in about 20 motor cars of the very newest design. The cars were driven at a rapid rate through all the principal streets, and drew up with a loud salute of whistles at the church door.

After the ceremony the bride and groom escaped through a side door and regained their car before the guests were aware of their departure. As soon as it became known that they had left the church there was a rush for the cars, and all started in pursuit of the newly married pair. The inmates of the swiftest car soon overtook the car of the bride and pelted it with rice and flowers. As the others drew up all joined in the merrymaking, and a large crowd of pedestrians applauded the attack. As soon as the supply of flowers was exhausted the cars started off again in procession, playing popular airs on the whistles of the different cars.

Winter Clothing for Cyclers.

The clothing worn when cycling should not be heavy, but it should be well distributed. The body which is evenly clothed will experience a far greater amount of comfort than the one which is enveloped in heavy garments overlapping each other, but with hands and feet only half clothed. No tight clothing should be worn, as respiration must be carried on with a closed mouth, and this is impossible and incompatible with riding if tight clothing is worn. It is very important that this matter of keeping the mouth closed should be attended to—particularly by those who have any constitutional weakness of the chest. The variability of our atmosphere demands that rigorous care should be taken to guard against the insidious effects of raw, foggy air, for this, finding its way into the lungs, is only too apt to give a cold which is very often the forerunner of disease.

Missouri has passed a law requiring every barber who does business in the state to pay one dollar to a board of examiners for a certificate certifying to his competency.

NEW VEHICLE LIGHT.

Electric Lamp Fed by a Current Generated by a Dynamo Attached to the Wheel Axle.

Systems of electrically lighting railroad cars, particularly dining cars, sleepers and parlor cars, in which the current is generated by a dynamo geared to the car axle, are in use on a number of railroad lines in this country. The high speed at which these cars travel makes such an arrangement quite satisfactory and easy to work out, current being supplied during stoppages of the train from storage batteries charged when the train is running.

Gustav Heidel, of St. Louis, Mo., however, has obtained a patent on a modification of this system, whereby it is made applicable to ordinary vehicles. On a standard supported on one of the axles is carried a casing inclosing a dynamo of special design, which is actuated by a shaft made to revolve by means of a friction roller pressed against the rim of the vehicle wheel. This roller is maintained in contact by means of the heavy springs upon which the casing is mounted. The incandescent lamp is carried on top of the casing and is provided with a forward lens and colored rear and side lights. Special stress is laid on the character of the dynamo, the pole pieces of which are of a novel design, asserted to give an increased amount of electrical energy. The small diameter friction roller will naturally be given a comparatively high speed of rotation by contact with the larger wheel. Light can be furnished when the vehicle is not in motion either by ordinary dry cells or from storage batteries, which might be constantly recharged by the dynamo and the lights fed from them altogether.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Brain Is Always Active.

After an experimental study of more than five years at the psychological laboratory of the Saltpetriere, M. Vaschide has concluded that the brain is always active, and there is no such thing as dreamless sleep. He has watched the sleep of 36 subjects ranging in age from 12 months to 80 years, and his own observations have been checked by those of 46 other persons. He finds that the dreams of deep sleep differ from the hallucinations that come at the moment of falling asleep and that of waking. The superficial sleep reflects more the sensations of every day, while the dreams of deep sleep are more continuous, more logical, farther from reality, and have more to do with one's earlier existence.

Light Tires for Winter.

An English rider contends that light tires are better suited for winter than for summer riding. He says he finds the light road racing tires are good in the mud of winter, do not cut on freshly laid stone patches, do not slip as much as big tires and are not uncomfortable, because most of the time in winter the roads are "padded" with mud. On the other hand, the narrow, hard tires, except the best of them, bump distressingly on the dry roads; they puncture easily. Vibration, it is agreed, is the chief thing suffered from small tires. For long distances and higher rates of speed in summer large tires are the best, but in the mud of winter the "speed" tires lessen the exertion. The theory is interesting if nothing else.

GREAT INTEREST IN THE STREET WIDENING.

Hearing By The Borough Council Largely Attended.

THE PROJECT IS FAVORED.

ONLY A FEW ARE OPPOSED TO THE IMPROVEMENT.

Aggressive and Pointed Remarks Were Heard From Both Sides—Justice David Smalley was One of the Principal Objectors as He Thought the Borough was Traveling too Rapidly—Signers Secured.

For the first time in many months there was an exciting time in the borough last evening, the occasion of it being the reception accorded Mayor Smalley, Councilmen Valiant, Rogers, Burtis, Coddington, and Borough Counsel Reed, by people of the borough who are more or less interested in the widening of Somerset street from the county line to Jackson avenue. By 8 o'clock, the hour for which the public hearing was called, the room was filled to overflowing and people were standing up.

Wit, humor and pathos was evidenced. One minute the audience was held spell-bound by the eloquence of Mayor Smalley or Counsel Reed, and the next minute they were thrown into laughter by the jocular remarks of Justice David Smalley, Former Chief Marshal Wm. N. Pangborn and Peter A. Emmons. It was a meeting noted for a wide and general expression of opinion, all of great advantage to those present. On two occasions Justice Smalley and J. A. Blatz had to be called to order for introducing the Watchung avenue opening, and thereby causing Counsel Reed to take the opportunity he had been looking for to explain that he was in no way to blame for the unjust criticism passed upon the work of opening the street.

When Mayor Smalley called the meeting to order he explained the object for which it was held, and then Clerk Frank Rowley read a few communications. One was from F. C. Jennings who stated most emphatically that it was an unwise thing to talk of widening Somerset street, even though the borough was rolling in wealth. He protested against it. Charles F. Pond also protested against it. Mrs. Lena Hoester communicated with the Council and said that she would dedicate five feet of her property toward the widening, and Elston M. French for J. Harper Smith, of Somerville, informed the Council that the necessary five feet in front of his property between the Peter Wooden property and that occupied by Dr. Mattison, would be dedicated. Dr. Zeglio also informed the Council that he gave his consent.

The reading of these communications was followed by a statement by Mayor Smalley who, at length, in formed the citizens present of the project.

Senator Reed followed and told how the work could be done. He said that there is a law whereby a street can be widened under an ordinance by the securing of signers of property-owners. The proceedings would be similar to that in the case of the opening of Watchung avenue, by having commissioners appointed to assess benefits and damages. There was also another way, the Senator stated, that of having the property owners dedicate the necessary amount of land, thereby doing away with the expense of appointing commissioners and the legal proceedings.

Councilman Clark said that the actual cost of widening would be about $1,000 or a trifle more, the storm sewer would cost about $2,500 and the balance, about $1,500, would be necessary for macadamizing the street. The expense he said would increase each taxpayers tax a trifle over four cents on every hundred.

Wm. N. Pangborn, representing some property-owners, recited the needs of the improvement, but he seriously objected to anyone encroaching on the building line. He said the people he represented would dedicate their property if a building line was established and strictly adhered to.

The next important speaker was Justice Smalley. At great length he recited the enormous expense the improvement would be to the borough, and how everyone is now taxed to death. He wondered how in heavens so many people in the borough managed to keep out of the poor house. He believed the chief object in widening Somerset street was to allow owners of fast horses more room so they would not collide with telegraph poles, trees, etc.

J. P. Emmons and A. E Kenney spoke in favor of the widening. The latter saw no reason why the people of the borough should not be progressive and move along. He thought it wise to widen the street, remove unsightly poles, posts, etc., and keep up the march of improvements.

S St. John McCutchen, president of the Board of Education, spoke of the condition of the street in front of the school and what a benefit the improvement would be there. He thought the main street to the borough should be a creditable one, which it is not now.

J. A. Blatz favored a storm sewer, but thought it should take in all the territory from the county line to Greenbrook road, as there is often more water near his place than anywhere else. He thought the improvement would work a hardship on some, and the borough should go careful. However, he was in favor of the widening.

Mr. Clark desired to have a recess of ten minutes at this time for the purpose of securing signers favoring the widening, but at Mr. Valiant's suggestion he withdrew his motion to save time.

Justice Smalley again took the floor and suggested that petitions be circulated for the purpose of getting people to sign in favor. Mayor Smalley objected and said that petitions were not much of a success except in cases of bigamy. This was followed by the receipt of verbal objections from Mr. Eggerding and Mrs. Verdon. Surrogate Spencer spoke in favor of the project, providing it did not mean a "special assessment" on the borough. P. A. Emmons, who spoke from the point of view of a disinterested person, said that he did not favor the widening, but thought the storm sewer would be a good thing. He also said that Mr. O'Reilly, of New York, owner of the property opposite the public school, would not sign. He valued it at over $7,500.

Mr. Reed closed the speechmaking by rehearsing the transaction between the Council and the trolley company, when the former desired to get the most advantageous terms and the people forced them to grant a franchise for the small sum of $250 a year.

After the meeting an opportunity was given the property owners present to sign the map dedicating the necessary five feet. The following signed: W. B Cosgrove, Lena Hoester, W. L Smalley, N. B Smalley, two pieces of property, W. G. Debele, J. O. Emmons, Dr. Zeglio, H. N. Spencer and Henry DeMott. In all there are forty-six properties affected, including the public school property for which the Board of Education has a right to sign. That body will no doubt take some action at its next meeting.

HUNT FOR WILD HEIFER.

Farmers Near Wolf Swamp Find it a Hard Job to Capture the "Critter."

The farmers living near Wolf Swamp have been enjoying a wild heifer hunt for several days. George Scudder, a milkman, living in that vicinity, had a young heifer stray into the woods. Liking its surroundings, it refused to be caught or driven home with the other cattle. Scudder exhausted all his plans for the capture of the wild steed and then offered the animal as a prize to the one who could capture it. Several parties were out on different occasions but the animal was not corralled until Wednesday when Henry Ryno cornered the "critter" and led it triumphantly home.

Death of John B. Lord.

Somerville, Jan. 19.—John H. Lord, banker, farmer and philanthropist, died of pneumonia at his home in East Somerville yesterday. He was born in New York city in 1845. Twenty years ago he succeeded his father, Haynes Lord, in the burlap business in New York. He was a member of the Somerville Board of Commissioners, president of the Somerville Second National Bank, vestryman of St. John's Church, and the founder of the suburb of East Somerville. He leaves a widow but no children.

Electricity Kills Them.

It turns out that there are no disease germs in the telephone, as they shun them. No case of contagion has been traced to the use of the telephone, a scientific commission in Paris having thoroughly investigated the matter, as many persons had become alarmed over adverse reports. Hence, it would seem as if electricity was the "knock out" drops for microbes.—(Dover, N. J. "Index," Jan. 5th, 1900.)

Charged With Robbing a Plainfielder.

Walter Jones, colored, of this city, is now languishing in the county jail at Elizabeth, held to answer the charge of robbing a man named Knox in Plainfield nearly two years ago. The warrant was out for him a long time but the authorities failed to find him. Prosecutor English is now preparing the case against him.

GREAT BOWLING DONE AT CRANFORD CASINO

Defeated Park Club Twice in Three Games.

CRANFORD TEAM ON TOP.

THEIR LOWEST SCORE OF THE EVENING WAS 845.

Such a Pace Would Have Won the Trophy if Started Earlier—Parks Rolled in Great Form After the First Game—B. C. Ball Carried Off Individual Honors for Parks—Two Games Decided in Last Frame

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, January 19.—Just why the bowling team of the Cranford Casino happened to make such a remarkable showing against the Park Club, of Plainfield, in the three games rolled in The Daily Press Bowling League here last evening, it is hard to say. Such a pace as that, if started earlier in the tournament would have undoubtedly landed the Cranford team on top.

The first game saw Cranford in the lead at the start. So it went for four frames when the Parks began to improve, Johnson making a triple header and Hibbard a double. On the fifth and sixth frames the Parks led by five pins. The final result showed Cranford 62 pins to the good, three of the home team winding up with strikes.

For the first two frames of the second game the visitors remained on top by the majority of a single pin. Clean frames on the third and fourth for Cranford sent them ahead and there they stayed to the end, but it was close. Only six pins separated the teams on the seventh. At the windup it was still anybody's game, Messick, Dumont and Wilber all made strikes, Sharp a spare, while Bates had a split. Johnson wound up with three strikes. Cranford won by fourteen pins, 863 to 849.

The last game was equally exciting. The first frame shows the teams tied. Four strikes on the second for Cranford put them twelve ahead. The lead changed hands immediately and the Parks continued to hold it by a small majority to the end.

It was anybody's game on the last frame. Bates had a triple header to end with. A strike by Sharp on the windup with "good filling" by the others would have changed the result. Sharp failed even to get his spare. Mr. Thiers also missed his but the game was won for Plainfield by ten pins, 855 to 845.

The scores in the three games were the highest for an entire series that have been rolled this year.

The individual scores were as follows:

PARK CLUB.

	1st game.	2d game.	3d game.
F. O. Ball	135	158	137

PRO-BOER MEETING.

Sympathizers With the Dutch Republic Will Meet in Saengerbund Hall Monday Night.

The arrangements for the Pro-Boer mass meeting in this city have been completed. It was found impossible to secure the use of Washington Hall for the meeting, and so Saengerbund hall on Somerset street has been rented. The meeting will be held next Monday night.

The principal speaker will be George W. VanSicien, of New York, a pronounced sympathizer with the Dutch Republic. Mr. VanSicien is making Pro-Boer speeches throughout the country, and is said to have an intimate knowledge of the conditions of the Transvaal war.

It is expected that there will be several local speakers also heard in effort to stir up sentiment in favor of the Boers.

A FREAK ADMINISTRATION.

Cranford Disgusted at the Reform Township Committee.

The latest economy of the noted Reform Township Committee of Cranford was a refusal to buy blotting pads for the use of the public officers. Benevolent citizens undertook to supply them and others inscribed upon them such uncomplimentary opinions of the administration that the committee put tripple locks on the doors of the offices. Now no one can get into the rooms except when the committee is there.

—Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., will meet tonight and have several initiations.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING ON KENSINGTON AVENUE

Marriage of Miss Alba L. Townsend and Walter H. Howe.

AT RESIDENCE OF S. M. DAVIS

CEREMONY PERFORMED UNDER A FLORAL ARCH.

House Was Prettily Decorated in Pink and White—Couple Were Unattended Save for Four Ushers—Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. Louis Francis, of Brooklyn—Party of Relatives Present.

Simple, but very pretty, was the wedding ceremony of Miss Abba Laura Townsend, of this city, and Walter Hunt Howe, of Greenpoint, L. I., at the home of S. M. Davis, of 429 Kensington avenue, last evening. Miss Townsend was formerly from Brewster, N. Y., and has lately been making her home with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Davis. A merry party of relatives and friends were present at the wedding and at the informal reception that followed.

The parlor where the ceremony was performed, was elaborately decorated with palms and potted plants and southern smilax while carnations and roses were arranged to give color to the general effect. They were pink and white. A floral arch was built in one corner of the room and beneath it, the young couple were wedded. The Reformed church service was used, Rev. Dr. Louis Francis, of Brooklyn performing the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white satin. Her bouquet was composed of lilies-of-the-valley. The groom wore the conventional evening dress. They were unattended save for the four ushers, William Townsend, of this city, a brother of the bride; Roswell Howe, of New York, a brother of the groom; Benjamin Nichols, of Brewster and Harold Davis, of this city, a cousin of the bride. The bride was given away by Mr. Davis.

Immediately at the close of the ceremony, the reception was held. The hall and other rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion. A collation was served. After receiving the congratulations of their friends, the newly wedded couple departed for New York. They left for the south today amid the usual shower of rice and will be absent for several weeks. They will then make their home at 150 Kent street, Brooklyn.

The groom is the son of Daniel H. Howe, of North Salem, N. Y., and is the junior member of the firm of Brown & Howe, of Brooklyn, dealers in masons' materials.

The out-of-town guests present at the wedding and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Griffiths, Miss Estella E. Sprague, Miss Lydia P. Field, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Moore, the Misses Barlow, Miss Susie M. F. Howe, Mrs. O. F. Howe, Mrs. Catherine S. Jenning, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Greene, A. B. Moore, Edgar Barlow, A. J. M. Cullum, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Lathrop, Mr. and Mrs. George Rowland, James W. Lathrop, of New York; Miss Bessie Nichol, of Brewster, N. Y.; Miss Harret Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Page, of East Orange; Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Disborough, of Weston, N. J.; Miss Eliz. S. Lee, of Easton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Roden, of Spuyten Duyvel, N. Y.; Miss Lizzie Powlison, of Millstone; Mrs. Gertrude W. Vanderwort, Miss Ellen K. Vanderwort, of Weston, N. J., and J. P. Staats, of Millstone.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG MEN IN ANNUAL SESSION.

Interesting Report of President Stephen Cahoone.

RESULTS OF A YEAR'S WORK

THE Y. M. C. A. IS IN A FLOURISHING CONDITION.

New Board of Directors Chosen to Hold Office for Three Years—Brief Address Given by State Secretary Donald MacColl on State Convention—Thanks to City Newspapers and Cold Storage Co.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association was held last evening. The small hall at the association building was well filled with the members and friends when President Stephen Cahoone called the meeting to order and read a short chapter from the Bible.

Prayer was offered by Edward L. Suffern and the secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting. Then the various reports were submitted and read. The first report was that of President Cahoone, which was the most important and exhaustive, and to all present it proved highly interesting. The following is an epitome of the work done by the association during the past year as submitted by the president for publication:

The term "Christian Association," emphasizes the character of our organization, and the distinctively religious features of our work have the preeminence in all plan and effort. The religious work, during the past year, has been given the attention which it rightfully claims, and has been steadily carried on in all its departments. There have been held 52 meetings for men on Sunday afternoons, with an average attendance of 94, and 16 meetings for boys with average attendance 26. Preparatory services have preceded the gospel meetings, and during the year 43 other special prayer services have been held, mostly in our building, and many of our workers have conducted religious meetings in Plainfield and elsewhere. Three classes for Bible study have been maintained; that taught by our General Secretary having an average attendance for the year of 8, and another under the charge of our Physical Director, Mr. Heywood, attendance of 9. Recently there has been organized a junior class for Bible study conducted by Philip Suffern, which has had five sessions with an average attendance of 15.

The report of the educational committee shows a total enrollment of 60 in the evening classes, 44 different students, and an average attendance for the year of 38.

The junior work department has received quite an impetus from the State Conference for Boys, held in Plainfield October 20-22, on which occasion 137 delegates were present. One result of this convention is a Bible class, which has met five times, with an average attendance of 15, also an increased interest in this work on the part of the older boys serving on the committee.

Mr. Heywood, our physical director, reports this branch of Association effort in a prosperous condition. Altogether 125 men and 44 boys have used the privileges of this department and four classes in the gymnasium, having a total average of 65. Mr. Heywood has made 80 physical examinations, and given special treatment to six men under the direction of their physicians.

That our building is fully appreciated and used by the people of Plainfield, is evidenced by the fact that sixteen different organizations, mostly religious and philanthropic, have occupied our hall and rooms during the year free of charge.

A literary society was organized last year, has held six meetings with an average attendance of twenty-five, and the debates have been interesting and profitable; altogether the outlook for this new venture is most promising. Our "Star Course" of entertainments, to which all our members are admitted free, improves with age, and grows more popular each year.

Our general secretary is at the building every day and part of Sunday, and naturally is the one to receive any who are seeking help of any kind or his personal advice and encouragement. Both Mr. Manning and his assistant, Mr. Davis, are occupied largely in attending personal to the varied wants of the men who come to our building. During the year just closed thirty six men have been directed to suitable and pleasant boarding places. Many who come to our city are strangers, and would without such direction often make their homes in places where the surroundings and influences are not of the right character. Thirty-one situations have been secured, permanent and temporary, for those out of work, and thirty others have been assisted in various ways. Those seeking spiritual light have been dealt with at our Gospel services, and at after meetings, as well as at their homes and elsewhere. Some have been encouraged to sign the temperance pledge, and much personal work has been done with men addicted to the drink habit, while others in need or in sickness have been visited at their homes, prayed with and counselled in various ways.

Our treasurer's report, to which your attention is called, shows receipts for the year, $7,139.44, disbursements, $7,036.43, balance on hand, $103 01. In addition to other demands on our resources, which could not be anticipated, we paid last year a large amount in taxes. It seems unjust to tax an institution like ours that is supported so largely by the contributions of generous friends in our city, and all of whose receipts are used to carry on this work for the benefit of the young men in Plainfield, and indirectly of the city itself, for its influence in the community certainly tends to diminish crime and vice, and promotes all the forces which make good citizenship. This Young Men's Christian Association has always stood for the highest type of citizenship, and spiritually its ministrations have extended far beyond the circle of its own membership. It has been a Christian home, a place of refuge for many a friendless and discouraged man, a helper to many a stranger coming to our city seeking employment or friendly counsel.

Stephen Cahoone,
President.

Then followed the report of the Religious Work Committee, which was read by Harry Gee. H. C. Munger read the report of the Educational Work Committee and Physical Director Heywood gave a verbal report of the work accomplished in the department under his supervision. Other reports were read by O. S. Rogers from the Boys' Work Committee and one on the Committee on Vacanices, prepared by R. H. Radford, was read by the recording secretary.

The following directors to serve there years were then elected: Stephen Cahoone, Nelson Runyon, A. B. Beers, H. J. Martin, E. L. Bonney, William D. Murray. The directors will chose the officers at the next regular meeting of the Association.

Donald MacColl, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., made a brief address with reference to the excellent work of the association and the approaching State convention, soon to be held at Trenton.

Before the meeting closed, upon motion of W. D. Murray, a vote of thanks was tendered the Plainfield newspapers for the interest shown in publishing notices of the association's affairs. A. B. Meredith also offered a resolution of thanks to the Plainfield Ice and Storage Company for ice furnished the association for several years.

BODY IDENTIFIED.

The Man Who Was Killed on the Tracks at Lincoln Was Henry Miller.

The body of the unfortunate man who was killed by the Philadelphia flyer near the Lincoln crossing Thursday morning has been identified as that of Henry Miller, a German farm hand, employed by one Urbansky who has a small place in New Market. Miller was about 39 years of age and unmarried. He has been in this vicinity about a year and a half. It is believed that he was struck by the train while stooping to pick up coal. The head was frightfully crushed. County Physician Carroll, of Dayton, was notified. The body was taken by Undertaker W. C. Runyon to his morgue to await the arrival of an uncle of the deceased who lives in New York and has been notified of his nephew's death and is expected on to take charge of the funeral.

Mr. Martine's Liberal Offer.

James E. Martine, of "Cedar Brook Farm," announces today that he will give to each person who loses a tree in the Somerset street widening, a fine maple tree in its place. This is a bona fide offer and when James says he'll do a thing you can depend on his word. He says that he has that amount of interest in the proposed improvement.

F. O. Smith an Entertainer.

F. O. Smith, of West Front street, will go to Orange this afternoon where this evening he will appear at an entertainment to be given by a lodge at that place. He will render several recitations and give character sketches.

—At the meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, next Monday evening, a number of Grand Lodge officers will be present.

CRAZY MAN KILLED JUMPING ON TRAIN.

Escaped Twice From Those Who Were Watching Him.

HAPPENED AT DUNELLEN.

PATRICK GRACE, OF ELIZABETHPORT THE VICTIM.

Went to Dunellen to Attend a Wedding, and There His Mind Went Wild—Prevented From Jumping on Fast Train in the Afternoon, but Escaped at Midnight Again—He Had Been in an Asylum.

Patrick Grace, a section boss employed by the Central Railroad at Elizabethport, attempted to board a fast frieght train at Dunellen early this morning and received injuries from which he died two hours afterwards.

Mr. Grace, who was a cousin of Mrs. John Cooper, came to Dunellen to attend the wedding of Mrs. Cooper's daughter, which took place Wednesday afternoon. He had been slightly demented for sometime and some months ago was an inmate of an asylum.

Wednesday evening Grace showed symptoms of being out of his mind and Dr. Brakeley was called to attend him. The family of Mr. Cooper kept close watch of the unfortunate man, who was given a room on the second floor of their residence on Madison avenue.

Yesterday afternoon Grace became worse and was the more closely watched as it was feared he would commit some rash act. At about 5 o'clock he eluded those who were attending him and jumped from a second story window. He was clad only in his undergarments and one sock. Grace made his way to the railroad station, where he attempted to board a passing train.

He was prevented from doing so by the employes of the company about the station, who finally assisted him to his home. Dr. Brakeley was again called to attend him. The physician gave Grace an opiate and he became quiet.

About 12 o'clock Grace again escaped from the house and ran to the railroad. Before he could be prevented from doing so, he attempted to board the fast Baltimore freight, which passes the Dunellen station about 12:43 o'clock. He was hurled to one side of the track and fearfully injured. When picked up it was found that his left leg and hip were frightfully crushed and he was also bruised about the body besides being injured internally. Grace was carried to the office of Undertaker W. C. Runyon, where he lingered in an unconscious state until 2:20 o'clock when he died. The body was later taken to the home of John Cooper to be prepared for burial. The unfortunate man was about 35 years of age and unmarried.

J. J. STAHL ASSIGNS.

Somerset Street Baker Unable to Continue His Business—W. G. Debele is Assignee.

Julius J. Stahl, of Somerset street, who has for some time past conducted a bakery and confectionery store, made an assignment yesterday to Wm. G. Debele, who resides opposite. It cannot be learned at present who the chief creditor is or the amount of liabilities and assets. The business will be continued for the present by Mr. Debele until the affairs are straightened out. The many friends of Mr. Stahl will be sorry to learn of his failure, and they hope that he will be able to continue business at an early date.

ENTERTAINED AT EUCHRE.

Thursday Evening Club was the Guest of Miss Harriett Filmer.

Miss Harriet Filmer entertained the members of the Thursday Evening Euchre Club, of which she is a member, at the home of F. A. Dunham, of Madison avenue, last evening. Euchre was the principal event of the evening. There were five tables. Prizes were won by Miss Ernestine C. Smith and Frank Smith.

The guests were then invited into the dining room where refreshments were served. Mrs. Frank H. Smith and Miss Griswold presided at the tables. Music closed a pleasant evening. The club will be next entertained by Miss Ella Titsworth, of West Sixth street.

Revival Meetings are Successful.

The revival meeting being held at the Mt. Olive Baptist church are very successful. There have been eight conversions, and two reclaimed. Thirty-one have manifested interest in religion. The meetings will probably continue next week if there is no financial hinderance.

A BIG RAILWAY DEAL

All Large Eastern Lines to Be Pooled.

DISCHARGE OF FIFTY THOUSAND MEN.

A Board of Control In New York City—Common Passenger Schedules—All Fast Freights to Be Abandoned—List of Roads.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—It is said that as a result of the recent consolidations and agreements among the owners of the great trunk railways east of Chicago the entire transportation system between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic seaboard is to be reorganized, involving the following changes:

The abandonment of the city ticket offices of all of the roads in the syndicate in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Buffalo, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Peoria and St. Louis and the substitution of joint offices in each city.

The discharge of all city, general, traveling and district freight and passenger agents and solicitors of the eastern roads in all parts of the United States, Canada and Europe. This will affect nearly 50,000 men.

The abolition of all forms of commissions heretofore paid for the sale of tickets over these roads. This will affect the incomes of 10,000 agents and eliminate the scalpers.

The establishment in Chicago and New York of joint auditing agencies that will apportion to each road an agreed percentage of the total competitive business.

The discharge of all superfluous assistants to the heads of departments of the individual roads. Later the heads of these departments may be abolished and the work done by clerks, who will report to the two joint agencies.

The establishment in New York of a board of control made up of persons representing the Vanderbilt, Pennsylvania, Morgan and Harriman properties, the rulings of this board on all questions to be final.

The abandonment of a number of through fast passenger trains put in service during the past few years as the result of sharp competition.

The establishment of common schedules for passenger trains between Chicago and New York and between all of the principal terminals of the combination roads in the territory east of this city and St. Louis.

The abandonment of all fast freight trains and the fixing of common time for these trains between competitive terminals.

Following are the roads now in the combination: New York Central, Pennsylvania, Boston and Albany, Boston and Maine, Fitchburg, New York, New Haven and Hartford, Erie, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, West Shore, New York, Ontario and Western, Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg, Lake Shore, Michigan Central, Nickel Plate, Baltimore and Ohio, Wabash, Big Four, Chesapeake and Ohio, Lake Erie and Western, Monon and all auxiliary lines of these systems.

When all the details for the future management of the roads in the eastern combination have been perfected, the leaders in the consolidation movement will turn their attention to the territory west of Chicago and attempt to bottle up the Chicago-St. Louis-Rocky Mountain country in like manner. The combining process may extend ultimately to the Pacific coast.

The Harriman-Vanderbilt syndicate owns and controls the Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Northwestern, Oregon Short Line and Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf. All the big competitors of these systems are in with the combining movement.

Typewriters For Navy Department.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The navy department has formally initiated its policy of procuring typewriting machines in large numbers by advertisement instead of making purchases in the open market, as heretofore. Makers of the highest grade machines are invited to submit proposals to be opened at the navy department Feb. 3 for supplying about 250 machines, more or less, to be delivered at points to be designated by the department.

Frozen to Death.

LYONS, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The body of an unknown man, apparently a tramp, was found frozen stiff in the barn of Philip Clauss, on his farm southwest of this place yesterday. Clauss noticed a broken window in the barn and investigated. He found the body on the top of a haymow and notified the coroner. The man had evidently been dead about two weeks, as no one had been in the barn for that time.

Cotton Imported From Egypt.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 19.—The first important shipment of Egyptian cotton for a South Carolina cotton mill was received at Clover, in York county, last Tuesday from Alexandria via Boston. The new cotton mill at Clover will use Egyptian cotton exclusively, its managers claiming that the sea island staple has not the "strength and silkiness" necessary for the "superior yarn they are to make."

A Dinner For President Cassatt.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Ex-Senator Henry G. Davis of West Virginia gave an elegantly appointed dinner last night in honor of President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, the guests all being men of note in the railway world. The dinner was entirely a social affair and had no connection with any railroad consolidations or other business matters.

Burglars Terrorize Elmira.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Burglars have apparently started in to terrorize the town. The residence of J. H. Costello, East Water street, was entered at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and diamonds valued at $425 and $26 in money stolen and the thieves made their escape. This is the sixth burglary within a few days, and the police department is entirely at sea.

Congressman Sherman Declines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Representative Sherman of New York, who has just returned to Washington and whose name had been mentioned in connection with the office, has definitely declined the secretaryship of the senate. "I have declined," said he, "because the people of my district have evidenced a desire that I should remain in the house."

PUBLIC PRINTER WINS.

Fight In the House Over Census Report Printing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The house yesterday passed the senate bill to extend the powers of the director of the census after striking out the committee amendment to authorize the director to contract for extra printing with private contractors. The whole fight was upon that amendment. The influence of the public printer and the labor organizations of the country was employed against it, and after a lively debate of several hours it was overwhelmingly defeated. The publication of the reports of the twelfth census therefore will be made by the public printer, as in the past.

For an hour Mr. Wellington (Rep.) of Maryland occupied the attention of the senate, continuing the debate on the Philippine question. He took as his text the resolution he introduced last Tuesday, declaring that the United States should take permanent possession of the archipelago, but after subduing the insurrection, which he sincerely deplored, should confer upon the Filipinos the right to govern themselves, affording them such protection as they might need.

Mr. Teller (Silver Rep.) of Colorado resumed his speech on the financial bill, in the course of which he arraigned Secretary Gage for his negotiations with the National City bank of New York. He had not concluded his remarks when he suspended them for the day.

CANAL TOUGHS INDICTED.

Men Who Caused Costly Breaks at Forestport, N. Y.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Colonel John N. Partridge, state superintendent of public works, is greatly gratified at the procuring of 13 indictments by the grand jury of Oneida county of persons presumed to have been implicated in the breaks in the canal feeder at Forestport. Colonel Partridge, when he assumed charge of his department, was suspicious of the conditions surrounding the breaks at this feeder in 1897 and 1898, and while investigating them was confronted by the break of 1899. Speaking of this matter last night, he said:

"I consulted Attorney General Davies when I learned of these events, and we resolved to call the Pinkerton detective agency into service. It was employed, and the evidence it has collected has resulted in the indictment of 13 men, some of whom are connected with the breaks in the three years and some with only one or two of them. When the break of 1899 occurred, I visited it and satisfied myself that it had been brought about by design. The state has lost over $130,000 in the payment of labor and for materials to repair these breaks. In 1897 $62,781 was expended, in 1898 $50,764 and in 1899 $17,000. The men if convicted can be sentenced for terms as high as seven years and fined as much as $130,000."

Forty Thousand Miners to Strike.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 19.—News has reached here that about 40,000 miners in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania, near Scranton and Shamokin, who have been in a restless state for some time, have decided to strike. Delegate T. D. Hayes of the Ninth district, with headquarters at Scranton, Pa., says a strike is unavoidable, as the men have been restive for some time and entertain a very bitter feeling toward the operators, who have declined to recognize them. They have nothing to expect from this convention, they say, as none of the operators from that field will be present at the joint conference to be held here next week. Miles Dougherty, president of the First district, which adjoins the Ninth, says that the miners in the First will follow those in the Ninth, which means the calling out of all of the men in the anthracite districts in Pennsylvania.

Webster Statue Unveiled.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A distinguished gathering of public officials, including President McKinley and his entire cabinet, members of the senate and house of representatives, the judiciary of the United States supreme court and other branches of public life, participated yesterday in exercises attending the unveiling of the colossal statue of Daniel Webster executed by the Italian sculptor Trentanove and presented to the United States by Mr. Stilson Hutchins of the city of Washington. The statue occupies a position on Scott circle, but prior to the actual unveiling the ceremonies of presentation and acceptance were held at the Lafayette Opera House.

Star Route Carriers to Handle Mail.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—It has been decided by the postoffice department to permit the star route system in a measure to supplement the system of rural free delivery. Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger has found that it is feasible to permit carriers on star routes to deposit mail in proper receptacles placed along their line of travel. This plan will be started in South Carolina, beginning July 1, and will be extended to other parts of the country as rapidly as possible.

War Seems Certain.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—"War between Russia and Japan is looked for as inevitable by the naval officers of those countries who have been nearest the probable scene of future operations," said Lieutenant W. Romanoff of the imperial Russian navy, who arrived in Chicago yesterday.

The lieutenant has just completed a three years' cruise in Asiatic waters on the Russian battleship Sissoi Veliky and is on his way to St. Petersburg.

Reduction For Conductors.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—In a circular which has been posted on the walls of the Pullman suboffice at the Union depot a reduction in the wages of sleeping car conductors is announced. The amount of the cut is said to be in many cases as much as 20 per cent. It is claimed that this reduction will place the wages of many of the oldest conductors back to the schedule at which they started.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Wilmington has sailed from Buenos Ayres for La Plata; the New York from Barbados for Trinidad, the Eagle from Gibara for Nuevitas and the Vixen from Norfolk for San Juan. The Dolphin has been ordered to Washington. She arrived at Port of Spain Wednesday. The Iris has arrived at Hongkong.

NEARING LADYSMITH

Warren Meets Boers Seventeen Miles Away.

A TERRIFIC BATTLE IMMINENT.

Boers Surprised at Sudden Appearance of British—General Buller Tells His Followers There Will Be No Turning Back.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Military circles in affiliation with the war office consider that the expected battle along the wide arc south and west of Ladysmith can hardly be delayed beyond today. From Durban it is reported that fighting has already begun.

General Buller's forces engaged in the flanking operation across the Tugela are some 13,000 or 14,000 bayonets, 1,200 horses and 40 guns. The disposition of his other 15,000 or 20,000 men is not known, although the assumption is that the whole army will be in action when the hour for combined movement arrives.

British re-enforcements are moving toward General French at Rensburg. With these he is expected to advance. General Gatacre's men occupy Lopesburg, a slight advance.

The war office announces that next week will be embarked 72 guns, 3,710 men and 2,210 horses. This is the largest consignment of artillery ever sent abroad. The war office invites 500 volunteers to form a sharpshooters' battalion of yeomanry.

Sir William MacCormac, in The Lancet, says that of the 309 wounded in the hospitals visited by him only eight had been hit by shells.

The British losses in killed, wounded and captured up to date are 7,987 officers and men.

A special dispatch from Durban, dated Wednesday, says:

"Advices from Potgieter's drift, dated yesterday, say that Sir Charles Warren has arrived within 17 miles of Ladysmith and that British wounded are arriving at Mooi River field hospital by every train from the front, indicating that there has already been severe fighting.

"Neither report has yet been confirmed."

A dispatch from Spearman's farm, Natal, dated Jan. 18, says: "General Lyttleton's brigade, with a howitzer battery, crossed the Tugela river at Potgieter's drift on Tuesday, Jan. 16. The water rose above the waists of the men. The Boers fired two shots and then recalled their forces to the trenches, the passage being uninterrupted.

"The British advanced in skirmishing order, and the small kopjes on the summits were occupied by 6:30 p. m. During the night it rained heavily.

"Yesterday the Boer trenches were vigorously shelled in front of Mount Alice, while the British remained in possession of the kopjes and plain. Heavy mists enveloped the hills, but the naval guns and the howitzer battery made good practice, thoroughly searching the trenches. On the Boer right a breach was made in a sand bag emplacement, where it is supposed Boer guns had been placed.

"The cannonade was heavy and continuous, and the Boers were observed leaving the trenches in small parties. The hill facing the British position was shelled next.

"General Warren has forced a passage of the Tugela seven miles to the left."

A dispatch from Mount Alice, near Potgieter's drift, Natal, dated Jan. 15, says that the forward movement for the relief of Ladysmith began on Wednesday, Jan. 10, from Frere and Chieveley. Lord Dundonald's mounted brigade, with the Fifth brigade under General Hart, comprising the Dublins, the Connaughts, the Inniskillens and the border regiment, proceeded northwesterly to Springfield. The position had previously been thoroughly reconnoitered.

A few miles outside of Frere Lord Dundonald passed targets erected by the Boers to represent a force advancing in skirmish order. Evidently the Boers had been firing at these from the adjacent hills.

Lord Dundonald pushed on, and as the main column advanced it was notified that Springfield was not occupied by Boers and that the Fifth brigade had taken possession. The British transport extended for several miles and comprised some 5,000 vehicles.

The mounted brigade advanced rapidly, not meeting with any opposition. The British scouts had minutely searched all suspicious country to Mount Alice, facing the enemy's mountain fortress.

The Boers had been at Potgieter's drift the previous day, but a body of South African horse swam the stream under fire and brought over the post from the Boers' side.

The Boers were evidently surprised at the appearance of the British on the scene. A large camp could be seen on Tugela heights, facing Mount Alice, but the enemy quickly struck camp and cleared off into the mountains. A buggy was seen leaving for the hills on the right, presumably with General Joubert or some other commandant.

General Buller took up his quarters in a pleasantly situated farmhouse belonging to Martinius Pretorius, who had disappeared.

On Friday a loud explosion was heard. Subsequently it was found that the Boers had destroyed a bridge under construction seven miles above Potgieter's drift.

General Buller has issued a spirited appeal and instruction to the forces, beginning:

"We are going to the relief of our comrades in Ladysmith. There will be no turning back."

Mr. Rudyard Kipling and his family will sail for Cape Town tomorrow.

Kruger Asks Mediation?

NAPLES, Jan. 19.—Mr. Charles H. Macrum, former United States consul at Pretoria, who left Lourenco Marques on Dec. 18, bound for New York, landed here yesterday. It is reported that he bears a letter from President Kruger to President McKinley, asking the latter to mediate between the Transvaal and Great Britain.

Boers Take an Orange River Town.

CRADDOCK, Cape Colony, Jan. 19.—On Sunday, Jan. 13, the Boers, with a commando of colonial rebels, occupies Priesks, a village on the Orange river about 107 miles northwest of De Aar.

Boers Blow Up Culverts.

STERKSTROOM, Jan. 19.—Wednesday the Boers blew up three culverts on the Dordrecht line, five miles beyond an outpost of the police camp. The commando at Dordrecht numbers 1,000.

ABOUT PORTO RICO.

Special Commissioner Carroll Makes His Report.

INDUSTRIAL AND SOCIAL CONDITIONS

Greatest Need of the Island Is Good Roads—The Soil Is Extremely Rich—Our Laws and Systems Are Much Needed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Henry K Carroll, special commissioner for the United States to Porto Rico, under appointment by the president to investigate the civil, industrial, financial and social conditions of the islands, has made his report. The report says that Porto Rico has an area estimated from 3,150 to 3,860 square miles. The climate is tropical, but not torrid. The thermometer rarely rises to 100 degrees, the highest monthly average on record in nine years in San Juan being 86 degrees. The mountains are generally covered with verdure and even the peaks are gardens of the husbandman. The death rate is moderate. Yellow fever is not indigenous, but smallpox has sometimes become epidemic. The health bill of Porto Rico, however, will compare favorably with that of countries in the temperate zone. The population in 1897 numbered 890,820, exclusive of the Spanish military then occupying the island and the penal population.

The Porto Ricans, the report says, are a kindly, hospitable, polite people, very sociable and always ready to do Americans a friendly service. One of the greatest needs of the island, it is said, is good roads. This is of the highest importance and affects all human interests—social, educational, industrial, commercial and political. The common estimate of Porto Ricans is that only one-tenth of the cultivable lands is in actual cultivation at any one time.

The soils of the plains and valleys are generally very rich and have borne crops for generations without the use of fertilizers. The crops most generally raised are, in the order of areas occupied in 1896: Coffee, 121,176 acres; cane, 60,884 acres; tobacco, 4,222 acres. Coffee cannot be raised without shade, as in Brazil. The coffee bushes need five years for full development under the shade of banana or other trees and continue bearing 25 and even to 50 years. Bananas give both shade and fruit the first year. Coffee farms are exempt from taxes for the first five years. The grades of coffee are among the finest. The fruits of the island are such as are common to tropical countries. The raising of cattle is an important and lucrative industry. The daily wages of the common field laborer range from 35 to 50 cents native money. Women are rarely seen in the fields. The people are industrious.

Commissioner Carroll recommends that the constitution and laws of the United States be extended to Porto Rico and that a territorial form of government similar to that established in Oklahoma be provided; that the legislative power shall extend to all regulations for the exercise of the elective franchise; that the legal voters of the island be permitted to elect a delegate to congress; that a commission consisting of three persons who shall be natives of the island and two of the United States be appointed by the president to revise the codes; that the jury system be adopted; that the banking and patent laws of the United States be extended to the island; that a court of claims be established to adjudicate all claims to property, secular and ecclesiastical, arising under the treaty of Paris; that the rule adopted by the military government as to civil marriages be continued in force; that the Spanish silver coins be retired and the coins of the United States be substituted; that the lottery be prohibited and that the governor general and the legislature be required to provide for universal and obligatory education in a system of free schools where English shall be taught and that an agricultural experiment station be established for the island.

Another Wife Shot For a Burglar.

HILLSBORO, Ills., Jan. 19.—Edward Moore, an employee of the Hillsboro Coal company, mistook his wife, Rose C. Moore, for a burglar Wednesday night and killed her. Moore and a friend named Lannigan were playing checkers. Moore says he thought his wife had retired. Hearing a noise at the kitchen door, he entered his wife's bedroom, never noticing her absence, secured his revolver and, seeing a form in the kitchen, fired, the ball entering the brain of his wife. Seeing his mistake, Moore became almost frantic with grief. He aroused the neighbors and secured help, but Mrs. Moore never regained consciousness. The coroner's jury is conducting an inquest.

Defense Needed With Arbitration.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 19.—King Oscar in the speech from the throne at the opening of the riksdag yesterday, referred to his love of peace, to which he had testified, he declared, by appointing delegates to the peace conference at The Hague. His majesty, however, went on to say: "But even if a satisfactory solution of the arbitration question should be reached, no country would be absolved from the duty of taking defense measures. Nor will the existence of an arbitration tribunal release any country from the obligation imposed by the maintenance of neutrality."

Changes In Battleships.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The board of naval bureau chiefs has decided against the use of double turrets for the new battleships. It has also decided to ask permission of congress to eliminate from these ships the sheathing which is at present a feature in the new construction.

To Abolish Grade Crossings.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—New York Central-Hudson officials have announced that it is the intention of the company to expend $640,000 in this city for the abolishment of grade crossings and a new railroad station. The work will be begun early in the spring.

A Russian Loan to Korea.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—A Shanghai special says: "It is reported here that an agreement has been concluded under which Russia will lend Korea $12,000,000, of which $5,000,000 will be paid immediately, Korea having unsuccessfully applied to Japan for a loan."

Tidal Waves on Chilean Coast.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 19.—Tidal waves higher than have been known for a long time have swept along the coast doing considerable damage.

IVORY SOAP PASTE.
In fifteen minutes, with only a cake of Ivory Soap and water, you can make a better cleansing paste than you can buy.
Ivory Soap Paste will take spots from clothing; and will clean carpets, rugs, kid gloves, slippers, patent, enamel, russet leather and canvas shoes, leather belts, painted wood-work and furniture. The special value of Ivory Soap in this form arises from the fact that it can be used with a damp sponge or cloth to cleanse many articles that cannot be washed because they will not stand the free application of water.
DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING.—To one pint of boiling water add one and one-half ounces (one-quarter of the small size cake) of Ivory Soap cut into shavings, boil five minutes after the soap is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool in convenient dishes (not tin). It will keep well in an air-tight glass jar.

CASTELLANE LIBELED.

Count Boni's Father Indignantly Denies Ugly Rumors.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The Matin says it is reported on the bourse that Count Boni de Castellane, husband of Anna Gould, has lost 3,000,000 francs by unlucky speculations. The Marquis de Castellane, father of Count Boni de Castellane, denies most emphatically the report that Count Boni had failed to meet his obligations due to bourse transactions, for the simple reason, he adds, that his son has never taken part in the alleged speculations. The marquis explains that the fact that Count Boni and his wife are on their way to America has been taken advantage of and furnished the opportunity for false rumors.

The Matin's assertions were the leading topic of conversation at the clubs and other social meeting places throughout the day. The evening papers reproduced the story, although without in any way guaranteeing its accuracy. The count's father gave a fresh turn to the affair by writing a letter to the editor of Figaro, M. Fernand Derodays, intimating that he must be prepared to fight a duel with the count on the latter's return or even with the marquis himself. In the course of the communication, after denouncing the statement of the Figaro as "canaillerie," the marquis says:

"If my son were not on the sea for New York, he would undertake to demonstrate to you the emptiness of this tittle tattle and would request from you reparation on grounds he would choose. In his absence I take his place. Your scandalous insinuation is a mere political trick which others would describe as Dreyfusard."

FAMOUS ORDER MEETS.

Emperor William Presides at Gathering of Black Eagle Members.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—A chapter of the Order of the Black Eagle was held in the castle yesterday. Among those who participated were Prince Hohenlohe, Count von Waldersee, Princes Friedrich Leopold and Albrecht of Prussia, Prince Bernhard of Saxe-Meiningen, Prince Henry VII of Reuss, Prince Anton Radziwill, Field Marshal Count Blumenthal, now 86 years old, and Herr Adolph Menzel, now in his eighty-fifth year.

Emperor William, as grand master of the order, headed the procession, wearing a purple velvet cloak over the embroidered uniform of a general, with the chain of the order upon his shoulders. Fanfares were blown during the procession, reaching fortissimo as the kaiser ascended the throne.

The new members were then initiated, including Dukes Albrecht and Nicolaus of Wurtemberg and General von Bulow. The chapter was held behind closed doors, the table being of horseshoe shape, with the emperor occupying the center.

New Jersey Agriculturists.

TRENTON, Jan. 19.—The New Jersey state board of agriculture at its meeting yesterday elected the following officers: President, D. D. Denise, Freehold; vice president, E. B. Voorhees, New Brunswick; secretary, Franklin Dye, Trenton; treasurer, William R. Lippincott, Fellowship; executive committee, H. F. Bodine of Locktown, J. B. Ward of Lyons Farms and Walter Heritage of Mickleton. A feature of the morning session was an address by ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin.

Clover Club Banquet.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—The eighteenth annual banquet of the Clover club at the Hotel Bellevue last night was the most successful affair in the history of the organization. Previous to the dinner Colonel A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, was re-elected president of the club. General Nelson A. Miles was the guest of honor. In his speech he conveyed to the gathering the regret expressed by Admiral Dewey for his inability to be present on account of poor health.

Grocers Reject Susan's Appeal.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19.—The Retail Grocers' National association, in session here, laid on the table an appeal from Susan B. Anthony that it advocate woman suffrage in the new dependencies of this country. Resolutions were adopted advocating pure food laws and opposing gift and trading stamp schemes. The executive committee was instructed to select delegates to the international congress of grocers in Paris next June. Detroit was selected as the place for the next annual meeting of the association.

NEW PENSION CLAIMS.

Participants In the Brush With Spain Make Application.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A large number of claims for pensions are being received by the pension office as a result of the Spanish-American war. Statistics prepared by the bureau show that the percentage of applications from volunteers is much larger than from the regulars.

The battle of San Juan was selected by the bureau as a basis for calculation, as the greatest number of casualties occurred there. There were 192 regulars killed, 1,097 wounded and 55 missing. Claims for pensions from the regular army number 2,962. At that battle 34 volunteers were killed, 177 wounded and 45 missing. The claims for pensions from volunteers number 3,588. There were 23 regiments of regulars and three regular batteries engaged in this fight as against nine regiments of volunteers. One regiment lost none in killed, wounded or missing, but has 419 claims for pensions pending.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Three small mine strikes were inaugurated in the vicinity of Wilkesbarre.

Count de Castellane's father denied the story that his son had sustained heavy losses on the bourse.

Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the Shamrock, has applied for membership in the Chicago board of trade.

Shaker village, at East Canterbury, N. H., was visited by fire, entailing a loss of $20,000, with no insurance.

Sixty persons were sickened at Bellevue hospital, New York, from eating potatoes that had been frozen.

Representative Bailey has offered his legal services to Colonel Colson in connection with the Kentucky shooting.

The gold supply of this nation surpasses that of any other country, according to Assistant United States Treasurer Muhleman.

The Maryland house of delegates, which is overwhelmingly Democratic, practically killed a resolution asking W. J. Bryan to address it.

Those Polygamist Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Postmaster General Smith appeared before the house committee on postoffices and post roads today to answer inquiries in regard to the alleged appointment of polygamists as postmasters in Utah. The postmaster general only repeated statements made by him in a letter to the committee to the effect that if the persons mentioned were polygamists the president had no knowledge of the fact at the time of the appointment; that one of the offices was vacated last spring and that as the other postmaster is under indictment for the crime mentioned no action will be taken until his guilt is passed upon by the courts.

The President's Birthday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Representative Julius Kahn of San Francisco, accompanied by the other members of the California delegation in congress, called on the president today and presented him a unique invitation from the Bohemians of America, a fraternal organization, with headquarters at San Francisco. The invitation is on a silver card 6 by 4 inches and asks the president to attend a banquet at San Francisco on the 29th inst., the occasion being the birthday of President McKinley. The Bohemians of America hold a banquet annually on the birthday anniversary of the president in office and thus manifest their patriotism.

Bryan's Coming.

The assurance that our esteemed friend, James E. Martine, a Democrat of Democrats, will have as his guest one day next week the Hon. William Jennings Bryan is in the eternal fitness of political things. If the Nebraska statesman is to visit New Jersey at all it is eminently proper that he should not pass by the "Farmer Orator." Though in a veritable Gibraltar of Republicanism, Mr. Martine has never hesitated to vigorously defend—in fact, become aggressive—over the political tenets for which Col. Bryan stands. As one of the prominent Democrats of the State who has stood by Col. Bryan through thick and thin, it will be a gratification for him to have the honor of entertaining the Nebraskan, and the latter's coming will be a notable occasion for the local Democracy.

No Need to Feel Lonesome.

In referring to the fact the committee which undertook the project of securing a soldiers' monument for this city has failed in its work, the Elizabeth Journal says—

Plainfield is expressing regret because a project for erecting a soldiers' monument in that city has been permitted to die because of the lack of sufficient financial aid to insure its fulfilment. The sum sought to be raised was $10,000, or about 75 cents for each man, woman and child in that city. Let not Plainfield feel lonesome. There are other cities just as lacking in monument-building zeal. Elizabeth hasn't a monument to anybody or anything. Newark has a few, but the most of them were given to her. Paterson has been talking of raising a monument to the late Vice President Hobart, but the sum thus far subscribed is so small as to be a shame to the city, and has impelled the suggestion that the project be wholly abandoned. Monuments do not seem to be in demand in most New Jersey cities.

About the time the Legislature convenes every year some Trenton minister starts out to conduct a crusade for the reformation of the morals of the capital. Are the members of the Legislature such innocents that the Trenton parsons feel impelled to exercise extraordinary precautions to prevent their falling into unholy snares? After passing through a Jersey political campaign we always supposed that Satan's offers must pale into insignificance with the average member of the Legislature.

Uncle Mark Hanna paid a flying visit to Philadelphia a few days ago, called on Mayor Ashbridge, secured a check for $25,000 and departed with a broad smile upon his countenance. The check represents one-fourth of the amount which Philadelphia bid for the Republican National Convention. Conventions come high, but Philidelphia feels that she must have them.

The general sentiment manifested at the public hearing of the Borough Council last night on the proposed widening of Somerset street, shows beyond a doubt that the improvement is favored by a majority of the people of the place. Mayor Smalley and the Council will therefore be justified in pushing the project to completion as quickly as possible.

The average salary of ministers in this country is stated to a trifle over $470, which loads the Pittsburg News to remark that: "It is easy to see why so many of our young men prefer to be railroad kings and trust magnates."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest to Plainfield.

The Plainfield Courier-News acknowledges the receipt of the State Comptroller's annual report and announces that the same has been carefully deposited in the cavernous depths of the editorial wastepaper basket. The Courier-News is fortunate in being so thoroughly informed upon all matters relating to the finances of the State and its many municipalities as to be independent of books of reference. Most newspaper offices find the Comptroller's report an invaluable publication and one that it is necessary to consult with considerable frequency.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"The Turtle" comes to the Music Hall tonight after a long and prosperous run en tour, and a period of two hundred performances at the Manhattan Theatre in New York, with a brilliant cast and scenic environments. "The Turtle" is full of spice and abounds in laughable situations and complications, but it is never naughty. The story tells of the double matrimonial ventures of one Champalier, who is nicknamed by his first wif, Leonie, as "The Turtle," his explanation of it being that she used to call him the turtle dove, and finally she dropped the dove part of. Laughter reigns throughout the performance, and as the play proceeds, the characters become more involved, until it seems impossible to release them from their troubles. The last act is particularly bright and witty, everything is smoothed out to the satisfaction of everybody, and the play ends with "The Turtle" re-marrying and returning to his first love.

"At Piney Ridge," at Music Hall tomorrow night, is a play of the southeastern ranges of the Blue Mountains. Its men and women are types familiar to every day life of the region depicted in the play. Briefly, the story is that of a young white man, who, when an infant, had been stolen by a revengeful slave and abandoned in the mountains only to be cared for by a mountain woman, who bequeathed him her property on which were rich deposits of iron and coal. The opening of the play finds the young man rich and on the eve of marriage to a beautiful girl The engagement is broken off, when he is accused of being a negro, by his rival, who is himself the one tainted with black blood. The plot and denoument are strong and powerful and the run of incident exciting and unexpected. The race question is dealt with in an unusual way. There is quite a thread of characteristic comedy and the play is one of absorbing interest. The company carry all scenery and properties used in the production, which will be given with every attention to detail.

Marion and Pearl, the universally acknowledged kings of blackface acrobatic comedy, introducing singing, dancing, groteeque tumbling and head to head balancing, Ollie Young, the well known club expert, with a new electrical innovation, and Olvio, equilibristic marvel, billed as the human dragon, will be seen at Music Hall next Tuesday night with John W. Vogel and Arthur Deming's Big Minstrels. Olvio is by far the most expensive novelty act ever seen with an organization of this kind, for, besides an enormous salary, two complete sets of scenery, three electricians and two or three hundred electrical effects are carried for his famous Brocken scene.

The continuous vaudeville programmes at Proctor's two theatres in New York city—the Twenty-third Street Theatre and Proctor's Palace—are being maintained at an unusually high standard, and it is safe to say that the bills for the coming week will prove more attractive than usual, if such a thing is possible. At Proctor's Palace, week of Jan. 22d, the big feature of the all day and night show will be the American re appearance of Montgomery and Stone, the famous black face song and dance entertainers. They have just completed a most successful engagement in London and should prove a big card. At Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, week of Jan. 22d, Willard Simms and Jennie Graham will present their unique sketch, "Vaudeville Types," and others are: Leo Dervalto, spiral ascensionist; Keno, Welch and Melrose, grotesque acrobats; Kleists Bros., musical novelty; Lenton Bros., acrobats; Sisson and Wallace, comedy sketch.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, January 19.—Mrs. William R. Larkin had an exciting experience Wednesday evening soon after returning from attending a meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Larkin saw a man peering in the bow window. She asked the fellow what he wanted and he said, "something to eat." Mrs. Larkin went into the house and told her husband, who is an invalid. The latter came out armed with a revolver, went gunning for the intruder, who was found concealed in a henhouse. He was told to hold up his hands and was marched out into the open. Mr. Larkin's intention was to turn the fellow over to an officer. Before proceeding far, however, the man made good his escape.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 19.—The first anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. J. S. Braker, formerly of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, took place in Waltham, Mass., on Sunday last. During the year there were added to the membership of the church 119. Improvements to the extent of several hundred dollars have been made to the main auditorium. A choral union numbering over 100 members under the leadership of Prof. Boyd, of Tremont Temple, Boston, has been permanently organized. A men's class of 50 has been added to the Sunday school. On the morning of the anniversary $5 000 was subscribed for the fund debt of the church. An effort was made to raise $6,000 and there is a prospect of the last thousand being raised in a short time. The membership of the church is nearly 500 and Mr. Braker begins his second year of his pastorate with even brighter prospects than the year just passed.

The revival meetings being conducted at the Baptist church each evening during the past two weeks, have been very encouraging to Rev. G. M. Shott.

The Epworth League Literary Society held an interesting meeting in the class rooms of the M. E. church last evening. Miss Nina Saber led the reading.

The members of the Epworth League will pay a visit to the members of the Grace Church League Society in Plainfield this evening.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Rev. J. P. Taylor, of Park avenue, says that he saw a flock of wild geese flying northward yesterday, and he takes this to be a sure indication that we are to have an early spring.

* * * * *

The Atlantic City Daily Union, in an editorial commenting upon the proposition to change the site of the county seat of Atlantic, says that in the history of this State no county seat has ever been moved. This is an error. The county seat of Burlington county was moved from Burlington to Mt. Holly somewhere in the neighborhood of a century ago, and it is possible that other instances may be found away back in the early days of the country. It is a fact, however, that if the county seat of Atlantic is moved it will be the first case of the kind within the memory of man.

* * * * *

While many localities in the State are groaning under a superfluity of Justices of the Peace, and would gladly pay to get rid of some of them, Cranbury, in Middlesex county, is suffering from a dearth of magistrates. A correspondent of the Monmouth Democrat says the town has but one, and he is so seldom at home that it might as well have none. It is evident, however, that Cranbury will be satisfied with nothing less than the best, since the same correspondent announces that public sentiment is in favor of the election of Rev. Charles F. Garrison to the office. Here will be a novel combination of the law and the word.

Miss Dunham, of Bedminster, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Case, of Duer street.

Damit billigte der Nationalrath die Ausweisungspraxis des Bundesraths. — In Interlaken hat sich ein Initiativkomite gebildet, dem die ersten Hoteliers angehören; dasselbe beabsichtigt, die Brienz-Rothhornbahn, sowie das Hotel Rothhornkulm zu Händen einer neuen Aktiengesellschaft zu erwerben.

Zürich. In der kantonalen Volksabstimmung wurde das Gewerbegesetz mit rund 40,000 Stimmen gegen 19,000 und das Erbschaftssteuergesetz mit 35,000 gegen 23,000 Stimmen verworfen. — Die Stadtgemeinde Zürich genehmigte 1,000,000 Francs für den Bau einer Kehricht-Verbrennungs-Anstalt. — In dem Pfarrdorf Turbenthal sind im „Hotel zum Schwanen" das Besitzer-Ehepaar und zwei Töchter desselben durch Einathmung von Kohlenoxydgas erstickt.

Luzern. Ein in Luzern funktionirender Kassier der Schweizerischen Centralbahn ist unter Mitnahme von etwa 2000 Francs Kassengeldern durchgebrannt.

Graubünden. Gegenwärtig wird in Norditalien eine beachtenswerthe Agitation für den Bau einer Splügenbahn mit elektrischem Betrieb entwickelt. Auch in Graubünden besteht ein Splügen-Komite. — Der Kaiser von Oesterreich überwies dem Kreisspital Samaden 8500 Francs als Erträgniß eines Balles; die Summe soll als Kaiserin Elisabeth-Bettstiftung verwendet werden.

Tessin. Eine gewaltige Wasserkraft soll im Livinenthale nutzbar gemacht werden. Ein Herr Krebs aus Stettin, wohnhaft in Mailand, hat letzter Tage ein Konzessionsgesuch für die Benützung sämmtlicher Wasserkräfte aus dem Ritomsee eingereicht.

Waadt. Das vergangene Jahr war in unserem Kanton der Entwickelung der Reblaus, wahrscheinlich in Folge der hohen Temperaturverhältnisse, sehr förderlich. Die mit großer Genauigkeit betriebenen Nachsuchungen der Behörden führten zu der Zerstörung von infizirten Weinbergen mit einem Areal von elf Hektaren, welche nunmehr während einer Periode von drei Jahren nicht mit Reben angepflanzt werden dürfen. Seit dem ersten bemerkbaren Auftreten der Reblaus im Jahre 1888 sind bis jetzt 34 Hektare Weinberge ausgerottet und davon inzwischen elf Hektare wieder angebaut worden, so daß sich eine Netto-Verminderung von 23 Hektaren ergibt, das ist kaum ein halber Prozent der gesammten Rebenkultur des Kantons.

Separate Bodices—The Long Princess Tunic.

The bodice differing from the skirt in color is no longer used for reception costumes or formal toilets of any kind, except for the theater. In the street they are worn beneath a coat, so that they are practically only a vest.

Velvet bodices are worn with skirts of other material. The most elegant ones are quite plain, jeweled buttons forming the only decoration.

Very tight, long princess tunics are adapted for elegant gowns. For a graceful figure not overplump nothing can be more becoming.

TUNIC COSTUME.

An immense amount of embroidery is worn. Jet and spangles or net, gauze and lace are a feature of the season's evening costumes and theater bodices, and spangled black net composes some very elegant toilets.

Black skirts of satin, velvet, taffeta or fancy woven silks are used for general service with theater waists and velvet bodices.

The illustration given today shows a gown of sky blue peau de soie. The foot of the skirt has seven small, flat ruffles, above which is a deep flounce of guipure de venise. The long princess tunic is cut in vandykes, which are embroidered with spangles, and the top of the tunic forms a pointed corselet, similarly embroidered. The chemisette is tucked horizontally and has a bolero of guipure de venise. The sleeves are also tucked and have deep cuffs of guipure. The collar is tucked and finished by a frill of lace.

First Preparations For Next Summer's Wardrobe.

The fashion of tranparent yokes and sleeves for elaborate costumes is growing daily in favor. A long sleeved, high necked underbodice of silk is made to match, so the gown may either show the neck and arms through the transparent material or may serve for day wear over the high, sleeved underbodice.

Already the first importations of summer materials are being shown. Judging from these, warm weather will see a continuation of white fashions, for chief among the new things are embroidered and lace trimmed robes of sheerest white nainsook and organdie. These, while not fully made, are formed and prepared with elaborate insets of fine valenciennes, forming stripes, checks, vandykes, rich tabliers, etc., and many are arranged with highly ornamented circular flounces. These same ideas are also seen in sheer colored dimities, where a design of some sort, often a tinted stripe, appears. Material for the bodice, also prepared with lace in the proper form, accompanies the skirt pattern.

The cut shows a charming gown of mouse gray cloth. The skirt is laid in stitched plaits at the top, the back forming a box plait. The lower part of the skirt is ornamented with embroidered applications and a silk fringe. The bodice, fitted at the back, is stretched in front and ornamented with applications and fringe, like the skirt. The yoke is of light gray panne, with a high, straight collar. The belt also is of panne, with an ornamental buckle. The plain sleeves are tight. The hat of gray felt is trimmed with a fringed scarf of green velvet and two green metal wings.

ART IN ARCHITECTURE.

DESIGNED AND WRITTEN ESPECIALLY FOR THIS PAPER.

THE plan here offered is that of a well-arranged and neatly-designed frame house. The style of the house should depend much upon the location and the nature of the surrounding landscape. This house has four main rooms on the first floor and three on the second, with a large finished attic chamber over the kitchen, besides vestibules, pantry and numerous closets. The convenience of the interior is apparent on examination of the floor plans. The entrance is from the front through a small vestibule connected with the parlor and sitting-room. These two latter are connected by means of wide sliding doors. In the sitting-room is a projecting window, with drawers under the stool. The bedroom is of fair size. The kitchen is of good size, intended also for use as a dining-room except on special occasions. The pantry, opening between the kitchen and sitting-room, is well fitted with cupboard, shelves, pastry table and flour bins. A sink is located in the kitchen where shown, provided with drain board and inclosed under for pot closet. The stairway to cellar leads down from the pantry.

Going up the main stairs from a lobby between kitchen and sitting-room, we land in a small hall, from which are easily accessible the four chambers on this floor. Each chamber is provided with closet room.

A GOOD COUNTRY HOME OF MODERATE COST.

The height of the cellar story is seven feet, of the first story 9½ feet and of the second story 8½ feet. The foundations are of stone and the chimneys are of brick. The walls and ceilings of the two stories are hard white finished on two coats of the best brown mortar and seasoned lath. The frame of the house is of seasoned pine timbers. All windows are hung with weights. The outside walls are covered with shiplap sheathing overlaid with building paper and half-inch siding. The gables and roof are covered with cypress shingles. This house can be built complete for $1,800 to $2,000.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE ROOMS.

MIND AND THE BODY.

Mental Suggestion Sometimes Used with Great Success Against Physical Ailments.

If an individual has faith in a medicine or in a treatment, he will assuredly derive more benefit from the medicine or treatment than if he were skeptical as to its merits. There can be little doubt that the sympathetic physician is the one best calculated to lead his patient to recovery. Again, in many diseases the good that may be wrought to the sufferer by the agency of mental suggestion is undeniable. Prof. J. M. Baldwin, referring to this fact in connection with insomnia, says:

"In experimenting upon the possibility of suggesting sleep to another, I have found certain strong reactive influences upon my own mental condition. Such an effort which involves the picturing of another as asleep is a strong auto-suggestion of sleep, taking effect in my own case in about five minutes, if the conditions be kept constant. The more clearly the patient's sleep is pictured the stronger becomes the subjective feeling of drowsiness. An infallible cure for insomnia, speaking for myself, is the persistent effort to put someone else asleep by hard thinking of the end in view, with a continued gentle movement, such as stroking the other with the hand."

Dr. E. C. Spitzka, of New York, has recently given some really remarkable instances of the power of mental suggestion. He cites the well-known fact that the mortality from wounds and diseases in a defeated army, compared with a victorious army, is as four to three, and even three to two. He also refers to the incontrovertible fact that persons in robust health have been known to die apparently of starvation after being without food for from three to five days. Dr. Spitzka is of the opinion that these individuals did not die of actual starvation, but from the physical effects of the hunger. The proof of this contention lies in the fact that persons have been known to fast of their free will for more than 40 days, without injuring their constitutions to any appreciable extent.

Many examples establishing the truth of this statement might be given, but it will be sufficient to quote one from Dr. Spitzka's paper. He says:

"In the graver forms of hysteria, when loss of sensation occurs, in exactly one-half the body, you can lay a piece of tinted paper on the sensitive side; then suggesting it to be a mustard plaster, a red area will appear on the corresponding unsensitive side. Blisters of such a character that scars have permanently remained from them have been produced in similar cases by the same method."

The medical profession, it appears more than likely, has not yet wholly appreciated the advantages to be derived from the employment of mental suggestion.—Medical Record.

Mrs. Lindsay's Bicycle Record.

Mrs. Jane Lindsay, of Long Island, now holds the record of having ridden 800 miles in 91 hours and 48 minutes. When she began her journey she weighed 111 pounds. At the finish she weighed just one-half a pound more. During the performance of her task she consumed 20 pounds of rice, broth of four chickens, five bottles of beef extract, six eggs in milk, one lamb chop, small porterhouse steak, one quart of lime water, three quarts of tea, two quarts of milk, half gallon of vichy and several quarts of ice cream. It is said that she finished in fine physical condition, but time will tell that part of the story. The general opinion is that it was a foolhardy feat.

A Veritable Aerial Steamer.

The airship of Count Zeppelin, a lieutenant general in the German army, now on trial beside the Bodensee in Wurtemberg, is a veritable aerial steamer. It consists of a lattice framework of aluminium 420 feet long and divided into partitions, each holding a gas bag. The whole is covered with waterproof silk and makes a cylinder 37 feet in diameter, with ogivale ends like a conical bullet. A gallery and two cars of aluminium beneath add stiffness to the machine. It is housed in a floating shed on the Bodensee.

Children Sacred in Japan.

From one end of Japan to the other a child is treated as a sacred thing, be it one's own or a stranger's. Each one carries its name and address on a ticket round its neck; but should it indeed stray away from home, food and shelter and kindness would meet it anywhere.

FRANCIS W. CUSHMAN.

Newspaper Correspondents Have Already United in Calling Him the Humorist of Congress.

A new star has appeared in the house. He shone out suddenly and brilliantly the other afternoon in the midst of a dull debate on the currency bill. He may prove a fixed star of the first magnitude or a comet, shooting with brief brilliance athwart the leaden skies of monotonous talk. Who may say? Dropping metaphor, whether mixed or straight, it is a fact worthy of other than congressional notice that Francis W. Cushman, of

FRANCIS W. CUSHMAN. (Congressman at Large from the State of Washington.)

Washington, made the first hit of the season by a new member. Cushman is only 32 years old, yet he has lived in four states. Born and educated in Iowa, he was a cowboy at 16 in Wyoming, a lawyer in Nebraska at 21, removing to Tacoma, in Washington, at 24. At 31 he beat James Hamilton Lewis, the democratic shooting star of the last congress, on a gold standard platform. Hence he is a republican of purest ray serene. He came to Washington heralded as the Abraham Lincoln of the Pacific slope. And he looks the part. That is, he looks as Lincoln probably did at Cushman's age. He is tall, lank and as homely as a rail fence. He is fluent and forcible of speech and humorous withal. Without this latter quality he would be a dismal failure as a Lincoln resembler. But he has the saving grace of humor.

BISHOP HENRY TURNER.

Distinguished Colored Divine Who Was Refused a Berth in a Georgia Sleeping Car.

Bishop Henry M. Turner, who was refused a berth in a sleeping car on the Georgia Central railroad because of his color, is one of the most famous negroes in the United States. He was born in South Carolina in 1834, and from his earliest childhood showed unusual talent. Before he was 11 years old he had, entirely by his own efforts, learned to read, and at 15 secured employment in a law office at Abbeville. His employers quickly recognized that the young negro had unusual powers of intellect and assisted him in his studies, so that he acquired a good common school education. His memory was so remarkable that in the course of a single evening he could memorize three or four chapters of the Bible. He was licensed to preach when he was 20 years of age and soon afterwards studied Latin, Hebrew and Greek, becoming proficient in all. In 1862 he became pastor of the largest colored church in Washington, D. C., and in 1863 was appointed chaplain in the army by President Lincoln, being the first colored man appointed to such a position. In 1880 he was elected bishop of the Methodist church. Bishop Turner who had been given the titles of LL. D. and D. D. by universities of the highest standing, is one of the principal agitators for the return of his race to Africa. He thinks their prospects in this country are poor.

Where Soap Is Unpopular.

In spite of British rule, India is virtually a soapless country. Throughout the villages of Hindustan soap is, indeed, regarded as a natural curiosity and it is rarely if ever kept in stock by the native shopkeeper. In the towns it is now sold to a certain extent, but how small this is may be gathered from the fact that the yearly consumption of soap in India is about 100,000 hundredweight; that is to say, every 2,500 persons use on an average only 112 pounds of soap among them; or, in other words, considerably less than an ounce is the average consumption of a person.

Pretty Ancient Ceremony.

One part of the wedding ceremony among the Babylonians was very significant. The priest took a thread from the garment of the bride, and another from the garment of the bridegroom and tied them into a knot, which he gave to the bride. This is probably the origin of the modern saying about tying the knot in regard to marriage.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 21. "Send Me"—Text, Isa. vi, 1-10.

A vision. Uzziah, the king, is dead. The presumptuous and willful man died a leper, smitten in the temple in the very act of unlawfully doing a priest's office. Isaiah is lost in reverie in the temple recalling the scenes of splendid worship under the rule of the dead one. The king is dead. Silently the great temple seems to fill before him. A throne loftier and more splendid than that used since the days of Solomon appears, and on it is seated a mightier than earthly monarch. His robes trail through the courts, and choirs of shining ones, six winged and trumpet voiced, surround Him, in place of ministering priests and choirs of Levites.

A voice.

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Hosts!
The whole earth is full of His glory!

This is the antiphon sung by seraphim. Isaiah is filled with greatest fear. The sight of such purity, such glory, such divine majesty and beauty, could but overcome him. He cries out in his sense of uncleanness and is reassured and cleansed only when an angel places a coal of fire from the altar upon his lips.

An inquiry. A messenger to men is needed to carry to them the truth of the enthroned One who rules heaven and earth. Isaiah had been depressed with the scenes of wickedness and religious iniquity about him. His soul was distressed. The vision reassures him and convinces him of the Divine government as controlling in human affairs. The glow of fervor from the scene of glory, the exaltation of spirit from the purifying fire on his lips, lifted his zeal and desire to the highest point. "Who will go?" asks the Lord.

An offer. "Send me!" cries Isaiah. He craves the honor of being messenger of God to men. How little he knows the path ahead! Well for us all that the vision of the Lord is given us before the task is laid upon us to go to men. We must be seers before we can be prophets. We must have heard God before we can proclaim His word rightly.

A message. What a proclamation—disaster, woe, misery, but at the last a remnant, a holy seed saved! Today the same truth holds good—wickedness, blindness of perception, hardness of heart, scorn, contempt and open opposition to the message of the King of kings, but still the cry passes on. The voice cries, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord." Let the anthem sing from seraphim to seraphim of "Holy, holy, holy!" and let men cry aloud and declare God's warning and invitation to men. Time hastes. The Lord is at hand.

One-twelfth.

One month of the new year has almost passed. What has been done for God in these days? New resolutions were made at New Year's. Promises to Jesus and His people to be more faithful were made by many. Have you kept your word? Has your attendance at church, at prayer and class meeting been more regular? The Bible was to be read through this year. A good beginning was made. Three chapters each weekday and five on Sunday was the plan by which the whole could be read in a year. Does it drag a little? Are you behind in it? Probably the daily paper has not been neglected. Philippine and South African affairs must be attended to whether the Divine plan running through all human history is understood or not. Better drop the paper, if necessary, and catch up on Bible. How is that matter of private and family prayer going? Regularity is as valuable here as in a machine. Are your resolutions on giving being carried out? Pinch any and all other things before you do the church. It will not pay to rob God. Life insurance policies are bad things to have lapse, but to fail to deposit regularly in the treasury which never fails and is never robbed is a great mistake.

Student Volunteers.

The student movement in the colleges and academies is increasing steadily in importance. The young people obtaining an education feel forcibly the obligation to preach the gospel to every one of the race. They have offered themselves in large numbers as missionaries. So far as funds allow they are sent out into the work. Bishop Phobrun has recently sent 12 to India. The needs of all fields are pressing. If the mass of our church members would faithfully keep their vows to give of their substance according to their ability to the support of the gospel and the various benevolent enterprises of the church, there would be no lack. The loaves and fishes are sufficient. The trouble is that some appointed to distribute them after the Master has delivered them into their hands are filling baskets for themselves instead of dividing them among the hungry.

Repression and Expression.

The secret of happiness in the Christian life does not so much lie in cutting off the evil and curbing the natural appetites and hedging ourselves in with restraints as in cultivating the right soul forces and then giving them expression in all proper ways. Our task is much less the killing of weeds and more the cultivating of crops. Thorns and thistles must be exterminated. They can be most successfully managed by planting and caring for some seeds of value.

Appetites are not evil, but necessary. They must be educated. Tastes must be formed. The highest, the best and most admirable must be discovered and obtained. The nature must be developed on all lines of the excellent, and then there will be no need of anxiety about the evil. It will have vanished.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan 21—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Send me.—Isa. vi, 1-10. (Quarterly missionary meeting.)

Isaiah, the son of Amoz, prophesied in Judah and Jerusalem during the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, covering the period from 758 to 698 B. C. He was married and had two sons, whose names were symbolical. His own name signified "salvation of Jehovah." Tradition says that Isaiah when 90 years of age was placed, by order of Manasseh, in a tree and sawn asunder. Isaiah's prophecy is called "the fifth gospel." His predictions concerning Christ were marvelous and should be prized and valued by every Christian and Christian Endeavorer.

In a highly impressive vision Isaiah was called of God to do a great work for Him. He felt his unworthiness, but God made him worthy. He felt his insufficiency, but God supplied his lack So also will God prepare and support us for any mission which He has for us to do.

1. Isaiah was called of God. "The Lord said, Whom shall I send?" The missionary call must come from God. The missionary must have many qualifications, but this one above all others God has in all ages called men to do His work, and today He calls each one of us as individuals to do something in the great work of evangelizing the world. Every opportunity to give to missions, every occasion for prayer for missions, every opening for missionary work, is a call from God to us. May we be as ready and willing to respond as Isaiah was.

2. Isaiah responded to the call of God. "Whom shall I send?" said the Lord. "Here am I. Send me," replied Isaiah. (a) It was a prompt reply. God wants promptness in missionary work. Millions are dying unsaved without the gospel. If we do anything to save them, we must act promptly. (b) It was a willing response. It has the right ring about it in this respect. God wants willing missionary workers. Perhaps no Christian work is so unwillingly done and so uncheerfully done as missionary work, and yet it should not be so. It is our most important work. It is our best paying work. And, furthermore, God loves willing, cheerful workers and givers.

Isaiah was honored and blessed of God for his prompt and willing obedience to His call. He became the brightest light, the greatest evangelist, in the Old Testament dispensation. God will also honor and bless us if we will willingly and promptly respond to His call.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

This topic emphasizes the individual in mission work. It is not "Send somebody else," but "Send me." Let the leader see that this phase of missionary effort is emphasized. Make the keynote of the meeting not what Isaiah, Paul, Judson or Carey did for missions, but "What am I doing, and what more can I do?"

Bible Readings.—Gen. xii, 1-5; I Sam. iii, 10; Isa. iii, 7; Jonah iii, 1-10; Nah. i, 15; Math. xiii, 31-33; xxviii, 19, 20; John ix, 4; Acts i, 1-8; viii, 26-40; xiii, 1-3; xvi, 8-11; Rom. x, 14, 15; I Cor. xv, 58; Rev. xxi, 17.

Moral Courage.

Cowardice before an armed foe is a trait almost unknown among our people. The bravery with which our soldiers face death in battle is as magnificent as that seen in any age of the world. Physical courage is illustrated also by heroic deeds almost daily in the common walks of life, where people are rescued from peril by engineers, policemen or anybody who happens to hold guardianship over human life. It is moral courage which is so sadly lacking. There are hosts of people who have firm convictions in opposition to the popular views on the most urgent questions of national policy, but they are afraid to speak their mind freely and frankly because of the tyranny of the unthinking mob or toadying press or self interested politician, whose only argument is abuse and whose whole creed is, "Be on the winning side." There are hosts of people, too, who lack moral courage in asserting the broad principles of morality and religion and in securing for religion those acknowledged rights which our civilization has always assumed and never questioned.—Ram's Horn.

When We Face the Past.

A rich landlord cruelly oppressed a poor widow. Her son, then a little boy of 8 years, witnessed it. He afterward became a painter and painted a life likeness of the dark scene.

Years afterward he placed it where the man saw it. He turned pale, trembled in every joint and offered a large sum to purchase it, that he might put it out of sight.

Thus there is an invisible painter drawing on the canvas of the soul a lifelikeness reflecting correctly all the passions and actions of our spiritual history on earth. Eternity will reveal them to every man. We must meet our earth life again, whether it has been good or evil.—Episcopal Recorder.

Spirit of Christ.

And this, in truth, is what we want: We want the vision of a calmer and simpler beauty to tranquilize us in the midst of artificial tastes. We want the draft of a purer spring to cool the flame of our excited life. We want, in other words, the spirit of the life of Christ, simple, natural, with power to calm and soothe the feelings which it rouses, the fullness of the spirit which can never intoxicate.—F. W. Robertson.

Relationship.

There is a relationship between the childlike character and the Christlike character which will last as long as the kingdom of God lasts.—R. J. Campbell.

EIGHTY YEARS OLD.

Miss Susan B. Anthony Has Reached the Four-Score Mark.

Suffragists Will Observe February 15, 1900, as a Day on Which to Pay Tribute to Their Distinguished Leader's Work.

The National American Woman Suffrage association will celebrate the eightieth birthday of their great leader, Susan B. Anthony, in a manner befitting her grand work for humanity. A committee appointed for this purpose is making preparations for a public meeting in honor of the event which will take place on February 15, in Lafayette opera house, Washington, D. C.

In the evening of the same day there will be a card reception for Miss Anthony, at which she will receive with members of the birthday committee. The occasion will be one of interest in many ways. Those having the arrangements in charge are:

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman; Rachel Foster Avery, secretary; Harriet Taylor Upton, Ohio; May Wright Sewall, Indiana; Mary B. Clay, Kentucky; Emily M. Gross, Illinois; Mrs. Senator Burrows, Michigan; Mrs. Senator Warren, Wyoming; Lucy E. Anthony, Pennsylvania, and Harriet Stanton Blatch, of England.

Prominent women representing all phases of woman's work and experience will present to Miss Anthony their greetings, and express their sense of recognition of what her labors have meant to their respective efforts. There is not a woman to-day, no matter what her position, who has touched any of the really vital issues of life, who has not been helped to some degree by the efforts of Miss Anthony and her compeers.

This celebration will follow the close of the National Woman Suffrage convention, which will be in session in Washington from February 8-15.

When Miss Anthony began her work woman was a chattel in the eye of the law; shut out from all advantages of higher education and opportunities in the industrial world; an utter dependent on man; occupying a subordinate position in the church; restrained to the narrowest limits along social lines; an absolute nonenity in politics. To-day American women are envied by those of other nations, and stand comparatively free individuals, with the exception of political disabilities.

(For Fifty Years Leader of the Woman's Suffrage Movement.)

During the 50 years which have wrought this revolution, Miss Anthony is the one woman in all the world who has given every day of her time, every dollar of her money, every power of her being, to secure these results. She was impelled to this work from no personal grievance, but solely through a deep sense of the injustice which, on every side, she saw perpetrated against her sex, and which she determined to combat. Never for one short hour has the cause of woman been forgotten or put aside for any other object. Never a single tie has been formed, either of affection or business, which would interfere with this supreme purpose. Never a speech has been given, a trip taken, a visit made, a letter written in all this half century of her efforts that has not been done directly in the interest of this one object. There has been no thought of personal comfort, advancement or glory; the self-abnegation, the self-sacrifice have been absolute—they have been unparalleled.

Future generations will wonder what manner of people those were who not only permitted this woman to labor for humanity for 50 years almost unaided, but also compelled her to beg or earn the money with which to carry on her work. Too often these facts are forgotten or ignored by those who have been most benefited by her labors. They see glory in the fact that money is entirely their own now to do with as they please, but do not know, or will not admit, that the statutes which guarantee this independence were passed by the efforts of Miss Anthony and her compeers.

That they may express in some small degree their appreciation of Miss Anthony's life of self-sacrificing labor, in their behalf, the women have arranged this celebration to take place upon her eightieth birthday.

Women Making Uniforms.

Over 1,600 women are at present making uniforms for English soldiers. Khaki is a dyed cotton, but what it is dyed with the government officials themselves do not know. The firm that discovered it keeps the secret very much to itself. To guard against misfits the English army clothing stores make the uniforms in no less than 36 different sizes.

Ordinary headaches almost always yield to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and back of the neck.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION.

WORK OF STOKERS.

Feeding the Furnaces of a Warship Is About the Hardest Task Man Can Perform.

Take a trip down to the stokehole of one of our cruisers. When you enter you are nearly taken off your feet by the sudden gust of burning hot air. Semidarkness holds you in its embrace; the heat is terrific and the noise deafening. All around you are parts of the towering engines moving incessantly, some of them slowly, others so quickly that the eye cannot follow them.

Descend yet further. Glancing at a thermometer, you see that the heat has now increased to 110 degrees. At the present time 97 steam cylinders are active, your guide tells you. You crawl down an iron ladder; darkness is around you; only here and there a small electric flame. You are just 25 feet below the water line.

You reach the very bottom of the ship and face the fiery eyes of the long row of furnaces, each "eye" three feet in diameter and emitting unbearable heat. The small space between the iron wall and the months of the furnaces is enlivened by a hundred or more men swinging great shovels and irons.

Clad only in fragments of trousers and a woolen shirt, the brawny stokers work with clocklike precision. Their faces, breasts, hands and arms are covered with soot a quarter of an inch thick—so thick that the perspiration, running from their heads in streams, leaves no marks. Every half minute each furnace must be fed, which means a temporary increase of the prevailing heat by about 80 degrees, and the normal temperature is 122.—N. Y. Journal.

NEW CATTLE MARKER.

It Is Intended to Do Away with the Cruel Method of Branding Now in General Use.

A new method of branding cattle has been devised by Walter A. Cameron, of Stacey, Mont. By this means the animals are indelibly marked instead of being burned. The patented device is shown in the cut from the Scientific American.

The branding instrument consists of two levers pivoted together and provided with jaws. On the lower jaw a soft metal impression block is secured, and on the upper jaw a block is carried, having a chamber communicating by means of a tube with a reservoir containing the indelible fluid. The tube incloses a plunger operated from the upper lever and is provided with lateral ports at its upper and lower ends. The lower ports permit the liquid to flow into the chambered block when the plunger is raised, and the upper ports permit the liquid above the plunger to be forced back into the reservoir.

Symbol-carrying plates are removably secured to the chambered block.

BRANDING BY FIRE DONE AWAY WITH.

The symbols consist of letters, figures or other characters, and are formed of tubular pins.

In using the instrument the levers are operated to separate the jaws. By reason of this motion the plunger will be drawn upward to permit the liquid from the reservoir to flow into the chamber. After placing the impression block carried by the lower jaw against the outer side of the animal's ear the levers are operated to force the tubular pins into the ear, thereby causing the plunger to inject liquid into the wound.

A spring within the tube holds the plunger normally below the lower ports, so that the liquid will not escape when the device is not in use.

Glass by Electricity.

A lamp chimney manufacturer in Anderson, Ind., has discovered a new process of melting the sand used in glass-making. While passing through his plant he saw a globe on an arc light break, and a piece of glass fell on the carbon. It was only a second until it was reduced to a liquid. He directed the construction of a big vat with sides and bottom composed of carbon, over which he could turn a current. An arrangement was made to run sand through this vat. It worked perfectly, and the best molten glass is being turned out in as many seconds as it required hours for the old fuels to melt it. The process has been patented.

New Artificial Paving Stone.

A new artificial paving stone is made in Germany. It is composed of coal tar, sulphur and chlorate of lime. The tar is mixed with the sulphur and warmed thoroughly and the lime is added to the semiliquid mass. After cooling this product is broken fine and is added with ground glass or blast furnace slag. The blocks are then subjected to a pressure of 3,000 pounds to the square inch.

A. alleys against a contingent of local experts. The plan did not go through, however, and no further arrangements have been made for a meeting between the bowlers of the two associations.

The trophy of The Daily Press Bowling League, which was on exhibition in the large show windows of Woodhull & Martin's big store for several weeks, is now on a trip to the other places included in the league. At present it is being exhibited in the windows of Condit's Pharmacy in Westfield, where it has attracted much attention and favorable comment. It is being exhibited at the same time with a handsome collection of prizes that the Westfield Club will give in its head pin tournament.

NEIGHBORS DISAGREE.

And All Because One Tried to Do the Other a Good Turn.

Alexander Richardson and Andrew Emmons, farmers, of Branchburg township, who had been lifelong neighbors and close friends, were at war in Justice Sutphen's court in Somerville as the result of an act of kindness that failed through singular circumstances.

Some weeks ago Emmons wanted to move a large hog-pen. He asked Richardson to bring around his team of mules to assist him. Richardson complied with the request and his mules were made fast to one corner of the pen, which had been raised on rollers.

The mules gave a long pull and a strong pull, which snapped one of the timbers supporting the structure. The timber fell and broke the leg of one of the mules. The mule was killed to end its sufferings.

Richardson waited in vain for Emmons to recompense him, and then brought suit against Emmons to recover the value of the mule. After a short deliberation the jury awarded Richardson $35 for his loss.

EXHIBIT OF THE W C.T.U.

SPACE HAS BEEN SECURED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Local Union is Making an Effort to Interest Its Members to the Extent of Giving Money to Aid Success of the Plan.

The World's W. C. T. U. has fortunately secured an important space at the Paris Exhibition, April 15th to November 5th, 1900, thus affording a valuable opportunity to present the claims of the union to representatives of the nations who will be in attendance.

At the exhibition given in Paris in 1889, the late Miss Willard and Mrs. Nichols, of this country, organized an exhibit, and the countries and colonies affiliated to the union in all parts of the world gave practical help, and several British friends did much to promote the success of the undertaking. The union pavilion was pronounced to be an "oasis in a desert." Many declared it the only witness that stood for God and things sacred in a place where they were not officially recognized. During much of the time an average of one thousand persons a day passed through the building. Each one was curious, and they were taught the lessons inculcated by the W. C. T. U.

Lady Henry Somerset, in a recently published article, says as follows concerning the coming exhibition: "We hope, if possible, to have a temperance cafe in the pavilion where temperance drinks will be sold, thus showing the practical side of the work. The fifty five countries and colonies affiliated to the union will send literature in different languages for free distribution, but we shall require a special fund to print millions of temperance leaflets for free distribution, and thus fulfill one of the last wishes of Miss Willard who prayed that we should use every effort to have a pavilion at the coming exhibition."

In view of the above facts the local union is making an effort to interest its members to the extent of giving money to help in the execution of the plan, and twenty-five cent offerings, handed to the treasurer, Miss Mary French, West Seventh street, will be forwarded to the treasurer of the World's W. C. T. U.

Decision That Appeals Cannot Be Taken to Circuit Court.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, January 19. — William Howard, Clerk of the Union County Court, yesterday received from Justice Van Syckel a decision that will affect all the district courts of the State. It is that no appeal can be taken from a decision or verdict rendered in the District Court, but that the proceedings will have to be certioraried to the Supreme Court.

This decision by Justice VanSyckel, it is said, will affect nearly 400 cases in the State. It was brought about by an appeal taken to the Circuit Court by Frank Bergen on behalf of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, from a verdict for $200 rendered against the company for the killing of a valuable Scotch collie belonging to George Mannifield, a clerk in the Elizabeth postoffice. Justice VanSyckel holds the Circuit Court has no jurisdiction.

County should Pay For It.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I noticed this morning on my way down town, that East Third street was being repaired with a heavy coating of crushed stone. Upon inquiring I found the work was being done by the city. Query—By what authority has the city to do this work, as East Third street from Richmond street to Watchung avenue is a county road? There is no question but that the work being done is necessray, but should be done at the expense of the county.

FOOT CRUSHED IN PRESS.

NOW FARMHAND IS TRYING TO RECOVER DAMAGES.

Suit Against John Lambert Now in Progress at the Circuit Court in Elizabeth—George Christensen is the Plaintiff.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 19—The loss of one of George Christensen's feet in the hay press of old John Lambert, Dog Corners, last May, is the foundation for a $20,000 damage suit that has been occupying the attention of the Union County Circuit Court since yesterday morning. The trial will be finished today.

Christensen is a Swede and was employed as a farmhand by Lambert. Last May they were using a patent hay press. While engaged there Christensen's foot became fast in the machinery and was crushed. Through his attorney, Joseph E. Stricker, the plaintiff in this action has been seeking to prove that he was not properly warned of the danger of the machinery, and that Lambert directed him to press down the hay into the feeder with his foot when the foot was caught and crushed.

The defense, represented by Murphy & Blatz, is that Christensen's injury was the result of gross carelessness on his own part, and that he could not have possibly have been injured if he had followed the directions and shown the usual amount of carefulness expected in running any kind of machinery.

A number of witnesses were examined yesterday. This morning the last three witnesses for the defense and the summing up occupied the morning session of the court.

Obnoxious Dirt Piles.

The residents of Vine street feel that the street commissioner or street committee are neglecting their duty in not removing the dozen or more piles of dirt scraped out of the gutters about the first of the month. One property owner wrote to Mayor Smalley, calling his attention to the fact and suggested that if the borough authorities did not intend to remove them they ought to plant flower seeds in them and make flower beds out of them.

SECOND ASSEMBLY SAW LARGE CROWD.

Was as Successful as First of Series.

AT CASINO LAST NIGHT.

SOCIETY TURNED OUT IN FORCE FOR THE FUNCTION.

Dancing Began Earlier Than Usual and Ended Promptly at Time Set—The Patronesses and Subscribers—The Ballroom was Prettily Decorated—Much Enthusiasm Shown by Guests.

After a week of comparative dullness for the local society folk the second of the series of assemblies was held in the Casino and the clubhouse adjoining last evening. Like the first it was a decided success which the dismal weather out-of doors did not trouble. The brief respite that followed the Tyler reception last week gave everybody a chance to rest, and the affair of last evening went off with decided snap and enthusiasm.

The Casino was used for the dancing and there on the stage, behind a screen of palms, was located the orchestra. Rugs, cushions and easy chairs were arranged on the sides of the room. The rooms in the clubhouse were utilized, the upper floor as dressing rooms while the guests were received on the first and supper was afterwards served there.

The attendance was as large as that at the first of the assemblies, held Christmas week. At that time, there were present many of the young people home from college for the holidays besides the regular subscribers. Of course, there were comparatively few of the college set who could come home for the dance but the subscribers were out in force and there were a number of guests present from out-of-town, many of them guests at the homes of the subscribers.

According to the promise of Charles E. Brooks, who has charge of the assemblies, the music began early in the evening and the young people flocked there with unusual promptitude and danced until 1 o'clock when the second of society's formal dances came to an end.

The patronesses for these series of dances are as follows: Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Pliny Fiske, Mrs. William T. Kaufman, Mrs. Sylvanus L. Schoonmaker, Mrs. Henry M. Stockton and Mrs. H. P. Talmadge.

There must have been at least one hundred and fifty guests present during the evening and there were many handsome gowns worn. The four debutantes of the season were all present together with many of the older set. The music was excellent and the second of the assemblies passed off as successfully as the first.

The list of subscribers is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Miss Lydia P. Ackerman, Miss Edith Arens, Siegfried H. Arens, Dr. F. C. Ard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bartindale, Miss Martha Borsum, Miss Alice Barlow, Miss Helen F. Bushnell, J. Whitney Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Cox, Miss Fanny C. A DISTINGUISHED WAITER.

Frank Lorentz, Direct From Service in the Philippines, Now Attached to Hotel Kensington.

Proprietor Staats, of the Kensington Hotel, has just engaged a waiter for his grill room who is distinguished in more ways than one. A few days ago he arrived in New York from the Philippines, where he has been fighting for Uncle Sam. His name is Frank Lorentz, and his native home is Watertown, Wis. He has traveled extensively about the globe and is thoroughly conversant on all topics of National importance. While in the Philippines he was an aide on Gen. Joe Wheeler's staff, and he saw considerable fighting. He did not hear of Gen. Lawton's death until he arrived in New York. He is loud in his praise of Lawton. While in the Philippines he served in the Twenty-fourth U. S. Infantry, of which Major Edwards, bro ther of George Wharton Edwards, of this city, was also an officer. He says that the Filipinos have no use for the white man, but they went crazy over the U. S. colored troops.

Mr. Lorentz does not think much of the Philippines outside of Manila, but says that he would just as soon live in Manila as New York. He says that a man unarmed is not safe for a distance of five miles from Manila, so treacherous are the natives. He thinks they are about the most tricky people he has ever met. Mr. Lorentz received several wounds, but none that were serious. He has in his possession several bullets and a number of relics which he brought home with him. He also served Uncle Sam in Cuba in Capron's Battery, First Artillery, and was well acquainted with young Capron and Hamilton Fish.

MAY BE SETTLED TODAY.

Somerset Republican Executive Committee to Discuss the Judgeship Appointment.

A meeting of the Somerset county Republican executive committee is to be held today, at which time several matters of importance are to be discussed, including the relative merits of the several candidates for the offices of Judge and Prosecutor. One matter seems to be pretty well settled in the minds of many prominent Republicans, which is that Judge Bartine will not be appointed to succeed himself. He has held the position for fifteen years, during which time he has made many personal friends who would like to see him continue there. On the other hand, during his administration of justice, a considerable number of people have been disappointed in his interpretation of the law, especially concerning excise matters. For this reason alone pressure has been brought to bear with Governor Voorhees against the reappointment of Mr. Bartine, and a feeling seems to prevail that either Lewis H. Schenck or Hugh K. Gaston will get place, with the chances in favor of the former. As to Prosecutor, James L. Griggs and H. C. Suydam seem to be in the lead.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS DWINDLE.

Loss in Attendance of 9,571 Last Year and 14,726 in Two Years.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Trenton, Jan. 19—The executive committee of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association met in this city Thursday. General Secretary E. Morris Fergusson in his annual report says that there was a falling off of 9,571 in Sunday school membership in the State in 1899. By a comparison with the returns of 1897 the loss is shown to be 14,726. From 1889 to 1898 inclusive the gain in the number of Sunday-schools in New Jersey was an average of thirty-three a year. Last year the gain was only three schools.

Rahway's New Bank.

The movement toward establishing a national bank in Rahway is progressing satisfactorily. Up to this morning it is said about $60,000 have been subscribed, and the remainder, it is expected, will be all contributed by February 1st. The new bank, in all probability, will be located in the large brick building on Irving street, now being erected by Liveryman Graves. The building is near the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the site is about the most central in the city for a bank.

Schenck the Favorite.

It is reported on the best authority in Somerset county that Lewis Schenck is the favorite for the position now held by Judge Bartine, and that he will probably be appointed by Gov. Voorhees.

A Prosperious Savings Bank.

The annual report of the Dime Savings institution appears in today's Press. It shows evident prosperity. The amount due the depositors is $569,892.23, and the surplus is $38,313.93.

"THE TURTLE" WAS HERE

GOOD-SIZED AUDIENCE ATTRACTED TO MUSIC HALL.

Its Audacity Possessed Great Drawing Qualities — Manager Edwards Has Several Worthy Attractions Coming.

After having run for a long time before metropolitan audiences, "The Turtle" was seen by Music Hall patrons last night. "The Turtle" is a fair sample of the brand of French farce comedies that have surfeited New York for the past two or three years. It created somewhat of a furore in the metropolis over the fact that the second act contains some very audacious and risque stage business in the shape of an unblushing French woman character, who divests herself of her garments and retires to her downy bed before the eyes of the audience. It is a vulgar bid for popularity, but it seems to have been a winning one considered from the point of the box office receipts. The New Yerk theatre in which "The Turtle" appeared was packed throughout its long engagement, and even in Plainfield with one of the nastiest nights this winter there was a good-sized audience to witness the suggestive Parisian creation. As sad a criterion as it may be on the tastes of Plainfielders, it can be said that had the attraction last night been any other than "The Turtle"—or some of its numerous imitators—there would not have been a corporal's guard in attendance.

But from the standpoint of dramatic worth and respectability, Manager Edwards has a number of attractions coming at an early date that are deserving of fine patronage. One of them is "At Piney Ridge," which will be presented at Music Hall this evening, with David and Georgia Waldron playing the principal characters in this picturesque drama of the Tennessee mountains. This splendid play of Mr. Higgins is now in the full swing of a well-deserved triumph and bids fair to be one of the few dramas that do not die out in the interest of the public in one season.

Webster's abridged definition of the word "minstrelsy" is—art or occupation of a minstrel; system of ballads; music; a company of musicians. But the way he would define it now would be as follows: Gorgeous magnificence in scenic embellishments; songs that are w.tty, wise and charming; personal grace with beauty added; voices with power and charm; an amusement exhibition containing all that is novel, great, grand and beautiful; matchless in grandeur, with fun without a blush, provoking long and loud laughter with humor without a taint; the cleanest and best of all amusements. The above definition forms a brief synopsis of the many good things in John W. Vogel and Arthur Deming's Big Minstrels, which comes next Tuesday night.

Saturday of next week we are to have another of the rural dramas, which seem to be "all the go" this season. The new candidate for favor rejoices in the homely title of "Hi Hubbard," and is said to be replete with interesting scenes and incidents. It has been playing at the Third Avenue Theatre, New York, the past week, and the daily and dramatic papers speak of it in highest terms. Like the play we had last week, a "Rube" band and splendid orchestra are features of the organization, and there will be two performances, matinee and night.

On Tuesday of the following week "All the Comforts of Home," by Wm. Gillette, will have its first presentation by a regular professional company. The cast and revival of this very popular play is sanctioned both by Mr. Gillette and Chas. Frohman, so a splendid performance may be anticipated.

Thursday, Feb. 1st, John Kernell and "Tim" Cronin, two of the best vaudeville stars that ever appeared, will be seen in a laughable affair entitled "What Happened to Reilly," and during the month of February will be presented "A Man of Mystery," "Chattanooga" and other interesting novelties.

Protest Against New Sewer.

The city of Rahway furnishes an outlet for the Cranford sewer system, and in order to forestall an increase in sewage, has filed a protest with the State Sewerage Commission against the proposed extension to Garwood to accommodate the new organ factory. It was upon the promise of sewer facilities that the company agreed to locate in the township.

Need of a Sewer.

A glance at Somerset street these days will convince anyone that there is something radically wrong with it. It is one of the worst streets in this vicinity for mud, all because there is no sewer to carry off the surplus water.

CITIZENS WINNERS IN TROLLEY FIGHT.

Concessions in Favor of the Scotch Plains Transfers.

GO INTO EFFECT TODAY.

PUBLIC OPINION COMPELS COL. HINE TO ACCEDE.

He Notifies the Chairman of the Township Committee That the Transfers Will Again be Placed at the Disposal of the Patrons of the Road—Had They Not Been Restored Citizens Would Act.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan.—At last evening's meeting of the township committee, held in the town rooms, the matter of the refusal of the trolley company to issue transfers was brought up and fully discussed. The committee was unanimous in the determination to have the transfer system re-established. If it was not done the company would be compelled by the township committee to hold the trolley company strictly to the provisions of its franchise.

There are said to be several ways which can be used to make things unpleasant for the railroad people. One is to enforce the $100 tax per mile; another to hold the company strictly to that part of the franchise which compells all cars to come to a complete stop before the Park avenue crossing—a clause that was inserted to protect the many school children who are obliged to use this crossing going to and from school. The penalty for violating this clause is $10 for each offense and it may be collected by any Justice of the Peace in Union county. It is understood that the company repeatedly violates this section of the franchise. No action, however, has ever been taken toward enforcing this ordinance.

These are but a few of the screws that can be put upon the trolley people if they decided to continue their arbitrary ruling regarding the Scotch Plains transfers. The citizens are in earnest in the matter and they purpose compelling the company to accede to their demands.

The feeling against the company is so bitter that the trolley officials evidently realized that the brewing storm might grow into a hurricane and so redound to their disadvantage as to cause them any amount of trouble, to say nothing of the expense that threatened.

A short time after the meeting Col. E. H. Hine, secretary of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, called upon T. J. Nichol, chairman of the township committee, and had an earnest talk regarding the transfers. The result was that Col. Hine told Mr. Nichol that his company would concede to the wishes of the committee and that on and after today transfers would be issued between Scotch Plains and all points in Plainfield. This will be good news to the citizens, who have again demonstrated the power of public opinion over great corporation The transfers go into effect today.

THE TABLES TURNED.

Reform Officials May Be Arrested for Shirking Poll Tax.

The Cranford Township Committee at a recent meeting ordered the township attorney to take legal proceedings against Assessor T. A. Crane and Collector E. S. Crane and recover from them money paid by a former committee one year ago for assessing and collecting special county road taxes, which the reform committee claim was illegally paid these officials.

It is now learned that Treasurer McIntyre and Committeeman Thompson have not paid their poll taxes, the same having been returned with the list of delinquent taxpayers by the collector before Judge Mendell Dec. 20th last. The collector is now thinking of carrying out the law and having both officials arrested and taken to the county jail at Elizabeth for not paying their taxes.

Could Not Reach New York

Several Plainfielders doing business in New York, only reached Jersey City this morning during the early hours. The fog, the most dense in the history of the railroad company, delayed the ferry boats to such an extent that many commuters returned home rather than wait for an opportunity to cross the river to New York.

TO AID SWEET CHARITY.

VERY SUCCESSFUL SALE HELD BY DAUGHTERS OF THE CROSS.

Mrs. Charles A. Reed's Home Thrown Open for the Use of the Circle—The Profits will Amount to About $75.

One of the most successful social affairs held under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross was that of yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Reed, 27 Myrtle avenue, when a tea and sale of homemade cakes and candies was given for charitable purposes. It was intended to hold the affair at the home of Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, but owing to the illness of her brother, a change was necessitated, and Mrs. Reed very hospitably opened her house. Considering the very disagreeable weather the attendance was much larger than was expected, there being nearly one hundred and twenty-five persons present during the hours, 3 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Reed received the guests and was assisted by Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mrs. Geo. Rogers and Mrs. Herbert Crowe. In the dining room Mrs. J. H. Howell and Mrs. George D. Hallock were in charge, while Mrs. F. L. Clapp poured tea and Mrs. M. E. Dwight poured chocolate. They were assisted by Miss Howell, Miss Valiant, Miss Ball, Miss Milne and Miss Dwight, who served the beverages to the guests.

An attractive place was the library, where the sale of cakes and candies was held. Those in charge of the cakes were Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Charles Lyman. Mrs. Northrup, Mrs. Knox and Miss Rafferty had charge of the sale of candies.

There was no special attempt made in decoration, but a pleasing arrangement of choice roses and greens added to the general effect. An idea of the success of the affair can be learned when it is known that $20 was received at the door from silver offerings. This, together with the amount realized from the sale, gives to the Daughters of the Cross a profit of $75. This sum will be used in the general charity work carried on by the Circle which is supporting at present four families, and contributing to the support of the city nurse. From a financial and social point of view the affair was in every particular a decided success and the women who compose the membership of the Circle are appreciative of the efforts of their many friend to assist them in their grand work. This is one of the oldest Circles and its members have a name for accomplishing much in there particular line. Yesterday's effort still further proves the efficient management and zeal of those who are numbered among the members.

DEAF AND DUMB TO DANCE.

A Novel Social Affair to be Held in Dunellen by Those Peculiarly Afflicted.

The novelty of a dance by deaf mutes is exciting some interest in the borough of Dunellen. There are twelve or fifteen families of deaf mutes living in the vicinity of New Market. They are all well-to-do and popular citizens notwithstanding their affliction. They all enjoy a good time and some of them are said to be able to tip the light fantastic after the most approved methods. No class enjoys themselves better than these unfortunate people who have been deprived of the power of speech and hearing. They have many friends among the citizens of New Market and Dunellen, who are occasional visitors at their homes, where they are hospitably entertained.

Now these people propose holding a public dance and supper at Taylor's Hall on the evening of the 25th inst. Although the mutes cannot hear or speak they are to have an orchestra and carry out a programme that will be as interesting as it will be novel. Just imagine these people getting together and all talking at once! In the absence of a flow of choice language there will be a rapid firing of the sign language that will remind one of a truly realistic pantomimic performance. The young ladies are said to be able to express their thoughts and feelings with their eyes and are not always compelled to use the fingers to convey to their fellow mutes what they wish to express.

And then, too, the mutes, many of them, are said to be graceful dancers and are perfectly at home in all society events. It is expected that the forthcoming ball will be a novel feature in society events hereabouts. It is possible that many of the citizens will attend the function and watch with interest the terpsicorean efforts of the mutes.

FUNERAL OF J. W. SANDFORD

Services Conducted by Rev. W. R. Richards—Remains Put in Receiving Vault.

The funeral services of the late Joseph W. Sandford, Sr., were held yesterday afternoon from the house, West Seventh street, at 2:30 o'clock, and there was a very large attendance of friends and relatives, many of whom were from New York, where the deceased was so well-known. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, officiated. He read appropriate Scripture selections, after which he talked for a short time concerning the uncertainty of life, and how essential it is to be ready when death comes. His words of comfort to the bereaved ones were impressive and touching.

During the services Charles L. Lewis sang effectively "The Holy City" and "Forever With the Lord." The floral display was very large and beautiful and comprised chiefly wreaths, crosses, pillows and bunches of roses. They completely covered the casket.

After the remarks by Dr. Richards an opportunity was given those present to view the remains, and following the service they were laid in the receiving vault at Hillside Cemetery.

A programme followed which included recitations by Miss Jamison, of Dunellen, piano solo by Miss Florence Spaulding, of Bound Brook, and a vocal solo by Mrs. G. W. Gardner, of Plainfield. Refreshments and a social hour followed.

$7,000 DAMAGES FOR LOSS OF HIS FOOT.

Large Verdict Given to Geo. Christiansen.

AGAINST OLD EMPLOYER.

DECISION REACHED IN THE SUIT AGAINST JOHN LAMBERT.

Jury Was Out About Two Hours and Then Brought in a Verdict Unexpectedly Large—A Question of Veracity Between Plaintiff and Defendant The Trial Lasted About Two Days.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, January 20—For the loss of one leg as far as the knee, a jury of twelve men in the Union County Circuit Court yesterday awarded George Christiansen $7,000 damages. The verdict was in a suit brought by Christiansen against his former employer, John Lambert, of Dog Corners. While it was generally believed that Christiansen would secure a verdict, the one given was a general surprise and was regarded by many as excessive. It was generally supposed that damages would be given for any amount between $1,000 and $5,000.

The last of the witnesses for the defense was examined yesterday morning and then the lawyers summed up. Joseph E. Strickler represented the plaintiff and Murphy & Blatz, of Plainfield, the defendant.

The plaintiff claimed that he had been ordered by his employer to put his foot into the patent hay press on which he was working and force the hay into it. While he was doing so, he claimed that the defendant, who was in charge of the horses that operated the press, started them and caused the press to crush his foot and leg.

Mr. Lambert claimed that he had not given orders to his employe to put his foot into the press and furthermore, he declared that Christiansen had given the signal to start the team. Lambert is deaf and cannot hear a word. He claimed that he stopped the horses as soon as the signal came to do so.

There were present at the time an Italian and a German but neither saw the accident.

The case went to the jury shortly after noon. At 2:15 o'clock, the jury announced that they had agreed and a verdict was given for the plaintiff for $7,000 damages.

The case will be appealed immediately by Murphy & Blatz, lawyers for the defence.

A MADMAN'S CRIME.

Kills His Wife, Two Children and Himself.

BALL PLAYER BERGEN INSANE.

Father of the Dead Man Finds the Household Dead—A Bloody Ax and Razor Tell the Horrible Story.

NORTH BROOKFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Martin Bergen, one of the best known ball players in the country and one of the Boston club's catchers last season, killed his wife and two children with an ax, then cut his own throat with a razor at his home in the eastern portion of North Brookfield yesterday morning.

The crime was discovered by the father of the dead man. He found Bergen and the girl lying on the kitchen floor.

Deep cuts in the throats of the girl and her father showed how death had been inflicted, and a blood stained razor near by indicated the implement.

Further investigation showed that Mrs. Bergen and the little boy also had been killed.

Their bodies lay upon a bed in the chamber, and near by was an ax covered with blood.

Mrs. Bergen's skull was terribly crushed, having evidently been struck more than one blow by the infuriated husband. The appearance of the little girl also showed that a number of savage blows had been rained upon the top and side of her head. Bergen's throat had been cut with a razor, and the head was nearly severed from the body.

Mr. Bergen spread the alarm as quickly as possible, and Medical Examiner E. W. Norwood notified the local authorities, and they were soon on the ground. In the bedroom was found an ax besmeared with blood, which was evidently the weapon with which the murders were committed.

The ashes had been cleared out of the stove and paper placed in position for lighting, but the kindling had not been put in. The beds in the house bore evidence of having been slept in last night, as usual. There were signs of warmth in the bodies of Mrs. Bergen and her husband when found, and all the circumstances seem to indicate that the murders had been committed but a short time before the elder Bergen paid his first visit to his son's house. Medical Examiner Norwood, after a careful examination of the bodies, expressed his opinion that the murders were committed by Martin Bergen and that the latter was without doubt insane.

In view of all the facts ascertained by his examination Medical Examiner Norwood stated that there would be no necessity for holding an autopsy.

WARSAW, Ind., Jan. 20.—The Commercial bank of Silver Lake, 12 miles distant, was entered by burglars yesterday morning, the vault blown open and about $3,000 secured. The burglars escaped. The night watchman and a posse of excited citizens intercepted the robbers just as the latter were emerging from the wrecked building. The robbers, firing as they ran, made their way to the Big Four railroad, where they had a hand car in waiting, and made good their escape.

An American cattle importer at Matanzas, finding himself unable to sell his cattle, started in the butcher business, lowering the price of meat from 25 to 10 cents a pound. This gratified the people of Matanzas, but the other butchers promptly bought up his stock in order to get him out of the way. He says the undertaking was profitable and that he may kill in Havana. If he could succeed in lowering the price of beef here, it would be very welcome, as the present prices are considered exorbitant.

Divers Find Ship a Shapeless Mass. No Bodies Recovered.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 20.—The tug Ingraham has returned here from the wreck of the Helgoland in St. Mary's bay. A diver who went down found the steamer a shapeless mass of iron, sails and cordage. Her mizzenmast was hurled overboard when she struck. Her funnel probably went at the same time, and her mainmast followed. Her foremast alone is now standing. The only letters of her name now remaining are "Hel."

The coast folk who first sighted the ship assert that she was on fire as she entered the bay, the flames being plainly visible. The captain was making for the land to beach the steamer when the fatal rock was struck. As yet no bodies have been recovered.

HISTORIC MONUMENT.

First Memorial to George Washington, Located at Boonsboro, Md., in Ruins Again.

For the second time since its erection in 1827 the first monument ever raised to the memory of George Washington is in ruins. It was originally built by the united efforts of the people of Boonsboro, Md., on the top of South mountain, a lofty cliff, commanding a wide view of the surrounding country. On July 4, 1827, almost all the adult population of the village, headed by a band, marched up the steep path to the top of the mountain and there went to work. There were stonemasons and builders among them, and every man did his best to help. The foundation had been laid previously, but on that one day the entire superstructure of the monumnt was built. It was 54 feet in circumference at the base and 15 feet high, composed of a wall made up of large stones, the interior being filled with the same material. In the center a stairway led up to the top of the pile. Twelve feet from the base, on the side fronting Boonsboro, a white marble tablet was inserted bearing a fitting inscription. Many soldiers who fought in the revolutionary war took part in the erection of the monument, and the oration was delivered by a clergyman who had served as chaplain in the continental armies.

In 1872 nothing was left of the original monument but the foundation and a few crumbling fragments. At that time a movement was started to restore the monument, and in 1883 it was rededicated, having been raised to a height of 50 feet and surrounded by an iron framework and balcony. The site of the monument is so exposed, however, that even the restored structure has fallen a prey to the elements, so that now it is again in a condition of ruin. Historical investigation has shown that this was the first monument ever raised in honor of the Father of His Country, and a movement is again on foot to restore it to its original condition.

MAIL COLLECTION.

Indiana Man Invents an Arrangement Designed to Make It Easy and Expeditious.

Patents relating to improvements in postal facilities are one of the most prolific classes. These relate to improvements in the mail boxes and mail pouches, proposed methods of picking up and delivering mail from flying railroad trains, etc. Andrew L. Henry, of Ladoga, Ind., has hit upon a startlingly novel arrangement in this already overworked field, but, like many of such inventions, it is probably impractical. It is a system of receiving and delivering for use in towns in conjunction with horse and wagon collections, and is designed to enable the postman to make his rounds, accomplished by attaching the mail boxes to their supports with a yielding fastening of some kind, such as a chain and weight. The box is shown in the illustration, attached to a post by means of chains, and is provided with a counter weight, and a handle for greater convenience. The postman, it is supposed, drives up, reaches out his hand, grasps the handle and lifts the mail box into the wagon, where its contents are removed. It is then locked and gently lowered into its original position on the post.

A RECENT INVENTION.
(Device to Make the Collection of Mail Matter Easy.)

Poisoning from Overcoats.

Poisoning from overcoats is an unexpected danger, but no fewer than 60 cases have been reported. On being wet, the cloth, in the dyeing of which chloride of zinc had been used, gave off poisonous vapors, producing painful swelling of hands and arms.

The Richest Gold Mine.

It is estimated that greater quantities of gold and silver have been sunk in the sea than are now in circulation on earth.

ADVANCING SLOWLY.

General Buller's Force Gains by Delay.

BOERS STRENGTHEN THEIR DEFENSES

British Within Twelve Miles of Ladysmith—Evacuation of Colenso by the Boers Reported—Frightful Bombardment.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Every hour that General Buller delays his combined attack makes his position stronger. Transports continue to arrive at Durban, and fresh troops are being sent up the line to re-enforce those in front of Colenso. It appears that General Buller's troops north of the Tugela number at least 22,000 and possibly 25,000, with 50 guns. His total forces, forming a great outer curve south and west of Ladysmith, probably number 40,000.

While General Buller's forward operations, which began on Jan. 10, develop rather leisurely, the Boers appear to be fully aware that they must meet a strenuous assault. Balloon observers have roughly estimated that 10,000 Boers are using spade and pick in artificially strengthening positions which nature has rendered easy of defense.

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph, dated Thursday, from Spearman's camp describes the difficulties of the march owing to the unwieldy baggage column, including all the tents and sheep, over bad roads in wet weather. The correspondent then goes on to say:

"Some 10,000 Boers arrived in the vicinity of Potgieter's drift on Thursday and Friday of last week and began the erection of extensive and formidable lines of trenches, for their position apparently could only be turned from the west by assailing the high ridges of the Sproen kop.

"A balloonist today reported that no guns were visible in the enemy's works, but that there was a large Boer camp in the direction of Brakfontein, a brown ridge four miles from Potgieter's drift.

"Boers arrived in large numbers today from Colenso and Ladysmith. They have certainly run branches of the railway from Modder spruit around Mount Bulways. Nearly all the Boers have gone to attempt to check General Warren's advance, but he made no sign today."

A Durban special, dated Thursday night, says:

"It is reported here that Lord Dundonald has smashed a Boer convoy.

"General Buller is said to be within 12 miles of Ladysmith and General Warren to be about six miles to the rear."

The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch, dated Thursday, from Spearman's camp:

"It is rumored that the Boers have evacuated Colenso in order to re-enforce their troops here. Heavy gun fire was heard from Ladysmith this morning.

"General Buller's order instructs the men to heed the white flags of the Boers only when they lay down their arms. It also instructs them to beware of false bugle calls."

The Boer accounts of the passage of the Tugela river are given in the following two dispatches from Commandant Viljoen's camp, on the Upper Tugela, via Lourenco Marques, Jan. 18:

"Jan. 16.—Buller's second move was a reconnoissance in force with an armored train and a large body supported by cannon toward Colenso last night. A heavy bombardment ensued, and thereupon the British returned, having wounded one of our men. No reply was made. This move was a feint to cover extensive movements up the river. Kaffirs on this side of the Tugela have been warned by the British to leave their kraals, as the fight will commence shortly."

The second dispatch runs thus:

"Jan. 17.—The night was unbroken save for slight rifle encounters between outposts, which led to nothing. At daybreak the enemy was located as before. He had not brought a single gun across the river, but from the ridges of Swartz kop a battery and a half of siege guns opened on our position at 5 a. m.

"The bombardment was probably the most frightful ever witnessed on land. Frequently five heavy naval guns fired simultaneously at one schanze (intrenchment)."

Quiet In Ladysmith.

LADYSMITH, Jan. 17, via Spearman's camp, Jan. 20.—Everything is quiet. The position is unchanged, and there is very little bombarding. The welcome sound of the guns of the relief columns was heard Thursday from Colenso and Springfield. The heat is intense, but there is no increase of sickness.

Another German Ship Seized.

LOURENCO MARQUES, Jan. 20.—The German bark Marie, from Australia with a cargo of flour for the Transvaal government, has been taken as a prize by the British third class cruiser Pelorus near the island of Inyak, Delagoa bay, and has been sent to Durban with a prize crew on board.

Antilynching Bill In Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 20.—A mass meeting of colored citizens was held here yesterday to indorse Governor Longino's attitude on lynching. Resolutions to that effect were adopted. Following the governor's suggestions Senator Adams yesterday introduced a bill providing that the officers who "lose" prisoners to mobs shall forfeit their offices and that the county in which a lynching occurs shall pay $3,000 to the heirs of the victim of the mob's fury.

General Lee's Birthday.

RICHMOND, Jan. 20.—The anniversary of General Robert E. Lee's birthday, which is a state holiday, was observed here by the closing of the banks and exchanges and the state and municipal offices, the suspension of the session of the general assembly and the firing of a salute by the Richmond howitzers. At night Pickett and Lee camps of Confederate veterans held a joint campfire.

Florida Republicans Meet.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 20.—The state Republican convention is in session here. There is a contest between the Grunby and MacFarlane factions of Tampa. The delegates to Philadelphia will probably be instructed for McKinley and a western man for second place.

A Scarlet Fever Alarm.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Scarlet fever is prevalent in Suffern, Rockland county, and the board of health has passed a resolution ordering an enforcement of the law in regard to quarantine. There are a number of cases of the disease in Suffern.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Comparison With Last Year Shows a Decline, but Outlook Is Good.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Whether the new year will surpass or keep pace with the old is the question which gives especial interest to every week's returns. Comparing now with business by far the largest and most prosperous ever known a year ago, more than 40 per cent larger than in January, 1898, which in its turn had shown heavier business than in any year preceding, it cannot be expected that such a gain will be repeated.

It is not much that the volume of exports and imports last year for the first time exceeded $2,000,000,000, but it is a gain of value beyond calculation that the year completed the progress of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation. In its last month, with prices ranging higher than in any other month since March, 1893, exports of manufactured products were the greatest ever known in any month. The amount after deducting the chief staples was $53,568,037, more than a quarter larger than in 1898. Exports are not, as many have feared, arrested by the rise of prices, but even this week there is reported an export contract for 50,000 tons steel rails taken by Chicago works.

This week one contract of 10,000 tons for a western road and two for bridges requiring 11,000 tons are the only large transactions reported in iron products, but heavy business was secured by concessions, for plates at Pittsburg going materially below 2.25, and for bars at Philadelphia below 2.20, the price of the association. The copper output of this country in 1899 was 262,206 tons, greater by 91,000 or 53½ per cent than in 1895, while the foreign product, last year 89,240 tons, gained in the four years only 3,062 tons. The prices of copper and lead are unchanged, with tin higher at 27½ cents.

Perhaps the most important industrial event is the success in marketing woolen goods for the new season at prices averaging 18.4 per cent higher than last year, many makes having been promptly sold up and withdrawn, while others sell so well as to give great encouragement.

Business in cotton goods begins to increase, though in staples still moderate. The goods now averaging 29.7 per cent higher than a year ago, and with the rise this week to 7.81 cents cotton is 33.0 per cent higher. Leather is dull, though export trade in hemlock is good, but hides again yield slightly at Chicago, the decrease from the highest point averaging less than 3 per cent.

The market for breadstuffs is not active, nor have changes in prices of elevator wheat been of any consequence, but the active May option shows a sharp decline. Atlantic exports continue far below last year's.

Failures for the week have been 242 in the United States against 249 last year, and 40 in Canada against 32 last year.

Burglars In Binghamton.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The operations of a gang of burglars are creating considerable excitement on the west side in this city. Wednesday night four houses were entered, but in all cases the burglars were frightened away before securing much booty. Thursday night three more houses were entered, and unsuccessful attempts were made to enter the homes of A. K. Harvey, E. B. Horton and W. H. Gaylord. Six shots were exchanged between Professor Horton and one of the burglars, Mrs. Horton having a narrow escape from being hit by one of the bullets. The burglars dined sumptuously at the residence of W. A. Rhoades, the family knowing nothing of the visit of the cracksmen until morning.

Philippine Postal Changes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Beginning April 1 the Philippine postal service will be placed upon an independent footing, as in Cuba and Porto Rico. Heretofore the Philippine service has been under the supervision of the postmaster at San Francisco. When the new order goes into effect money orders can be drawn upon points in the islands and registered letters sent between postoffices there. Instead of making returns through the San Francisco office auditors at Manila will be in charge and returns made directly to the postoffice department.

Plague Increases at Honolulu.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—An official dispatch from Surgeon Carmichael of the marine hospital service at Honolulu reports the existence of an uneasy feeling there as the result of the ravages of the bubonic plague, which, in spite of the efforts of the Hawaiian authorities, appears to be on the increase. Dr. Carmichael's dispatch is dated Jan. 12 and is as follows: "Five cases plague reported since Jan. 8. There have been 23 deaths from the plague since Dec. 12. Uneasy feeling prevails."

CAMPAIGN IN PANAY.

Severe Punishment Inflicted on the Filipinos.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The war department has received the following cablegrams from General Otis at Manila dated Jan. 19:

"General Hughes reports from San Jose de Buena Vista, on the western coast of Panay, that he crossed the mountains in a northwesterly direction from San Joaquin, southern Panay, on Jan. 17 and struck the enemy crossing the Antique river, capturing rifled cannon and Nordenfeldt. He pursued the insurgents through Antique, Egana and Sibaiom, their capital, and marched to San Jose. The casualties were slight. The enemy's loss is considerable. The entire population fled to mountains. The heat is oppressive.

"General MacArthur reports on the 17th inst. that 35 rifles surrendered at Flora Blanca; that at Manibaug, McRae of the Third infantry captured three insurgent officers, the wife of General Mescardo, considerable insurgent property and liberated three Spanish prisoners; that at Calang captured ten insurgents, burned seven tons of rice and insurgent barracks; that Sullivan, Thirty-fourth infantry near San Jose surprised insurgent force, captured six rifles and considerable live stock; that Lieutenant Houle of the Third infantry captured near Malolos 1 officer, 25 men and 6 rifles; that Van Horn of the Seventeeth infantry struck Ladrones at Santa Cruz, killed 17, wounded 5, captured 13 and 9 rifles.

"MacArthur reports on the 18th inst. that a strong mounted position west Mabalacat occupied by General Hizon and 50 men captured by McRae of the Third infantry. The enemy left a lieutenant and four dead men in the trenches. McRae captured 1 captain, 1 man, 130 rifles, several thousand rounds of ammunition, destroyed an arsenal and quantity of rice; casualties, one man wounded.

"General Bates reports that General Schwan's column of cavalry is refitting at Batangas to move eastward on 19th. Infantry is now moving in that direction. The enemy is returning, suffering loss in men and property; our casualties are few, mostly slight wounds. Bates also reports that portion of Wheaton's troops will enter Lemery and Taal tomorrow. They are meeting opposition in mountains, which impedes their march.

"Six officers, 54 enlisted men, 4 civil employees, 11 friars and all Spanish prisoners released by Schwan arrived from Batangas last evening; nearly 200 arrived in Manila on the day before via Calamba.

"General Young is at Vigan and reports number of successful skirmishes in mountains with remnants of the insurgent organization and robber bands, with slight casualties among his troops.

"General Kobbe's expedition, consisting of the Randolph Light battery, Forty-third and Forty-seventh infantry, convoyed by naval vessels Helena and Nashville, sailed for Albany province and Satar and Leyte islands yesterday."

ALASKA GOLDFIELDS.

Excitement Over Cape Nome—Dawson Improving.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Vice Consul Morrison at Dawson City reports to the state department that the excitement caused by reports of the phenomenal richness of the Cape Nome goldfields has not by any means abated. Many miners will attempt to make the trip out of the Klondike this winter down the river, which, the consul says, seems a foolhardy undertaking.

While Dawson has lost in popularity during the past summer, it has gained in wealth, and much money has been spent to make it a thriving town, equipped with a fire department, sewers, drains and other improvements. The gold output for the past year was estimated at $15,000,000, $3,000,000 more than the preceding year, and astonishing results are expected in the future from the introduction of steam mining machinery.

Canal Bill Will Displease England.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Daily Chronicle says editorially today: "According to advices we have received from Washington a canvass of the senate and house of representatives has placed it beyond dispute that congress will not only pass the Nicaraguan canal bill, but will pass it in a form directly at variance with the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. This is a statement of decidedly serious importance, and we hesitate to believe that the United States government will commit itself to a course which this country would have to regard as unfriendly."

Two Panthers Loose.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—Two panthers which escaped from a menagerie have taken possession of the woods between Waltham and the town of Weston and have stopped travel between the two communities after dark. Thus far their attacks have been confined to henroosts. Unless they are captured today they will be hunted down on Sunday by an organized band from the watch factories of Waltham. A reward has been offered for the capture of the beasts dead or alive.

Barnum & Bailey Suffer Loss.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 20.—Fire at the Barnum & Bailey winter quarters last night destroyed one of the large car barns containing 11 cars and also the quarters of the Italian laborers on the railroad improvements nearby, causing a loss estimated all told of $100,000. Among the cars destroyed were two sleepers, the Buffalo Bill show buffet car and Mr. Bailey's private car, formerly used by the late P. T. Barnum.

Osman Digna Captured.

CAIRO, Jan. 20.—News has been received here that Osman Digna, principal general of the late Khalifa Abdullah, has been captured. It had been known that he was in the neighborhood of Tokah six days ago, and several expeditions were organized from Suakin under Captain Burgess, with the result that Osman Digna was taken unhurt in the hills Thursday. He will arrive at Suakin today.

Armor Plate Tests Well.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—A test has been made at Indian Head of an armor plate representing 442 tons of the turret armor of the battleship Alabama. The plate was 14 inches thick and was fired at by a 10 inch gun. The first shot penetrated 4½ inches and the second 10 inches, and both shells were smashed. The plate was accepted.

COMFORT FOR BOERS

Senator Hale's Sensational Speech In the Senate.

BRITISH ATTITUDE A BLOW TO LIBERTY

English People Declared to Be Opposed to the South African War, Brought on by Sharp Cabinet Minister and Speculators.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—A speech sensational in its interest and international in its importance was delivered in the senate yesterday by Mr. Hale (Rep.) of Maine. The occasion of the utterance was the simple question whether a resolution introduced by Mr. Allen (Pop.) of Nebraska calling for information as to the recognition by this country of diplomatic representation of the Transvaal republic should be directed to the president or to the secretary of state. Mr. Hale made the question the text of an impassioned speech in which he declared that nine-tenths of the American people sympathized with the Boers in their gallant struggle for liberty against one of the greatest powers in the world. He declared that "the war which Great Britain is waging is the most fell blow at human liberty that has been struck in the century."

Mr. Hale spoke with unusual force, decisiveness and earnestness even for him, and his passionate eloquence claimed the closest attention of every auditor. He said he could not believe that any accredited representative of the Transvaal republic had been rejected by the president. "I should," he said, "deem that a most unfortunate event if it occurred. I do not believe it has occurred. I have heard that irresponsible, unaccredited persons, perhaps United States citizens, have appeared in Washington claiming to represent the gallant people who are struggling for liberty, but no such mission could be recognized.

"I have yet to be made to believe that any duly accredited representative of that brave people of South Africa has appeared before the president of the United States and been denied a hearing. If that be true, the sooner we are informed about it the better for the American people.

"I do not fail to take notice that throughout the length and breadth of the land the sympathies of the great American people are in favor of the struggle which the Beors are making today to preserve a republican goverment against one of the greatest powers of the world. I no not doubt that the American people agree with me that the war which Great Britain is waging is the most fell blow at human liberty that has been struck in the last century. I do not doubt that the administration representing the people of the United States feels today as I feel on the subject and as nine-tenths of the American people feel."

Mr. Hale quoted from a speech of Mr. Balfour in which the British statesman had declared the Boer war had knit together every branch of the English speaking race.

"I deny, sir," declared Mr. Hale, with great feeling, "that the American section of that race is in sympathy with Great Britain in the South African war to stamp out the liberty of a people. I deny that the American people are to be tied to the chariot wheels of war against the South African republics, and when the leader of the Conservatives in the house of commons asserts that he should be met by some disclaimer from this side of the Atlantic.

"I do not wish international complications," said Mr. Hale in conclusion. "I do not wish war. I recall that we have not been so much in love with neutrality in times past that we could not speak up boldly for Hungary, Poland, Armenia, Cuba and Greece, and I do not know why it is now that we must speak with bated breath in favor of liberty.

"I do not believe," continued he, "that the English people are in favor of this war. I believe that the great queen on bended knees has prayed that the war might be averted. I do not believe that the great premier of England favored the war. It was the act and movement of a sharp cabinet minister, engaged with gold speculators, which favored the war."

Mr. Hale said that we had had nothing to do with bringing on the war.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hale's speech the resolution as amended by Mr. Spooner was adopted.

PENSION BILL PASSED.

House Votes the Annual Appropriation—Porto Rico Relief Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The pension appropriation bill, carrying $145,245,250, was passed by the house yesterday. It was made the vehicle of an attack upon the commissioner of pensions by Mr. Curtis (Rep., Kan.), who was seconded by Mr. Lents and Mr. Norton of Ohio and Mr. Robinson of Indiana and other northern Democrats. All inveighed against the lack of liberality in the administration of the pension laws. The commissioner was ably defended by a score of members from both sides of the house. Mr. Mahon (Rep., Pa.) charged that the assault upon him had been instigated by the "pension sharks" of this city, who were robbing the old soldiers. As a result of the latter's disclosures a rider was put upon the bill by unanimous consent empowering the commissioner in his discretion to withhold the fees of attorneys of record in pension cases where he was satisfied that the attorneys had not prepared the cases under their personal supervision.

Representative Payne of New York, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house and floor leader of the majority, introduced a bill to extend the customs and internal revenue laws of the United States over the island of Porto Rico. Section 1 of the bill is as follows:

"That the laws of the United States relating to customs and internal revenue, including those relating to the punishment of crimes in connection with the enforcement of said laws, are hereby extended to and over the island of Porto Rico and all adjacent islands and waters of the islands ceded to the United States by the government of Spain by treaty concluded April 11, 1899, so far as such laws may be applicable."

Section 2 makes San Juan the customs port of entry for the island, and Ponce, Managuez, Arecibo, Aguadilla, Arroya and Ilumacas subports of entry. Section 3 provides for the creation of an internal revenue collection district.

Mr. Payne said concerning the measure:

"It is along the lines suggested by General Davis, governor general of Porto Rico."

Powers of the Paper Trust.

Newspapers throughout the country are now under the thumbs of one of the most powerful and avaricious trusts that has ever been bred in the United States. We refer to the Paper Trust. The price of all grades of paper has been raised to very high prices within the last year without the slightest reason except the desire, born of the consciousness that there is an overpowering monopoly, to exact the limit of price from the publishers throughout the United States.

The Daily Press, as an example, is compelled today to pay over $100 more for a carload of such paper as is now in the hands of the reader than it did a year ago. The price of the raw material, labor and all other details of manufacture have not increased within a year, and the increased price is nothing more nor less than an unjust tribute levied upon the newspapers of the country because the Trust is free from competition. If this condition continues it must eventually be adjusted by increased charges to the reading public, which means a tax upon education and intelligence. As a matter of fact, in certain western cities the newspapers have been compelled to raise the price of their papers in order to meet the rates exacted by the Paper Trust.

The Philaceiphia Record gets at the core of the matter in this short and pointed editorial suggestion:

It would take Congress only an hour or two to pass the following resolution, which would operate manifestly in the public interest, but the power of monopoly is too great for the resi-tance of the men who were elected to legislate for the people:

Resolved, That the duties on printing paper, which shelter a gigantic Trust monopoly in the work of spoliation, and which are a tax on popular education and knowledge, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Women suffragists, while not, perhaps, as active as usual in their own behalf or in behalf of the women of the United States, are crowding Congress with petitions that the women of Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippine and Sandwich Islands be granted equal civil and political rights. Thus Maine, Michigan, Mississipi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York and South Dakota have been heard from, some of them with more than one petition, and New York with as many as eight. Most of these petitions ask that the word "male" be omitted in all laws and legislation dealing with the colonies.

If the Palisades are to be preserved, the work of saving them will devolve upon New Jersey. Three-fourths of the stretch of this majestic and beautiful scenery along the lower Hudson is within the commonwealth of New Jersey. The interest in this great feature of American landscape is widespread, and it will redound to the credit of the present administration if steps are taken to stop the present destruction of the Palisades for commercial purposes. Let the Governor and Legislature act quickly and aggressively.

A New York State grand jury has declared a spite fence to be a public nuisance, and the builder of the objectionable structure has been indicted. Spite fences are quite common nowadays, and it is gratifying to see that in at least one community they propose not to tolerate them. A spite fence not only disfigures and lessens the value of property all around it, but it writes down the owner as a monumental chump who is best described by the old adage that he "would cut off his nose to spite his face."

The Chicago Record says if other nations kept out of the fray Japan could put up a good fight against Russia, and adds: "It seems quite certain that Japan expects to fight Russia in the near future, and it is probable that Russia understands that expectation. It is difficult to speculate on the possible operations of a possible war nowadays without counting on the part to be played by all the other nations of the earth."

Advertising promotes cordial relations between seller and buyer, says the Philadelphia Record. Newspaper readers become interested in an advertisement which appears daily, and quickly feel a like interest in the advertiser, speaking of him as familiarly as they do of personal friends. These relations are not only desirable but necessary in business; for upon them wholly depends the merchant's success.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

"Farmer" James E. Martine, of Plainfield, will give a dinner to the press of that city on the 20th inst. Nobody ever thinks of doing such a nice thing for the newspaper men of Elizabeth.—Elizabeth Leader.

Mayor Rockfellow, of Plainfield, is moving for a city hall, and Plainfield is big enough to have one. A public building of this description would probably include a respectable lockup, something that the town needs more than any other one thing, if credence can be given to current reports. Plainfield's present calaboose is a disgrace to any community making pretensions to a high degree of civilization.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Somerville has a public skating pond that has proved quite a success this winter, and a number of young people from this city have visited there. One enterprising citizen of that town, who possessed more than his share of public spirit, utilized a pond near the railway station. A small admission fee is charged and the proceeds are devoted to keeping the ice in good order and illuminating the pond at night. The scheme has worked excellently and the young people of Somerville are delighted with it.

* * * * *

There is hardly a morning passes that the crowd at the North Avenue station is not treated to some exciting scene. It is really wonderful the number of people who seem to take delight in arriving at the depot just as the train is pulling out. Then there is a rush, a spring, and the passenger lands on the steps with whatever amount of gracefulness he can muster. But when the platforms happen to be slippery then these exciting pursuits of the train become even more thrilling. Despite it all, however, these same people refuse to get up half a minute earlier and thereby arrive at the station in time to get their train at a standstill. While this running for trains is to be seen at every locality where man and railroad exist, the railroad men on the Jersey Central say that it is nowhere so prevalent on the Central road as at Plainfield.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 20.—Despite the stormy weather last evening there was a well attended and most enjoyable euchre party at the Social Club. The winner of the first ladies' prize, a cut glass water jug, was won by Mrs. George Royce Brown and Mrs. C. R. Donnell took second ladies' prize, cut class peper and salt cellers. The first gentlemen's prize was won by J. Dix Ritchie and proved to be a handsome picture of a lion's head in a very pretty frame. R. M. Stickle won the second prize, a silver pen knife.

Cottage prayer meetings were held in twelve different homes in Westfield last evening and as many more will be held during the coming week. This is to get ready for the big revival meetings which the different churches have arranged for. The revival will be in charge of Rev. THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

One of the best attractions of the current season is "At Piney Ridge," at Music Hall tonight, now in its second season of success. This drama has been accorded an enviable place in the list of creditable American plays, and it is in the heyday of its career as a finished production that it comes to this city this season. The play is not only true to life, but it is true to the honored traditions of the stage, so much scoffed at of late by many writers of ability and merit, but who, nevertheless, in spite of the inducing rewards success brings, conscientiously refrain from the writing of good plays. Mr. Higgins' play is not only a good one, it is a fine entertainment as well, and well repays in the enjoyment and interest it excites, as was said of it by a noted New York critic, "there is not a dull moment in the play from the rise of the curtain till the final scene, and the denoument is as powerful as it is unexpected and true to the region of the story." The company that is supporting Mr. Higgins is one of great merit, and the several members have been carefully selected with due reference to adaptability to the characters of the drama A production complete as to scenery and effects will be given, as all the requirements of a proper modern production are carried by the company.

* * * * * *

A delightful surprise is in store for all theatrically inclined, for John W. Vogel and Arthur Deming's Big Minstrels are due at Music Hall next Tuesday night. Arthur Deming will, of course, be the chief merry maker on this occasion and there is no comedian so well prepared to infuse spontaneous mirth. He has long held the premier place, and in this, his greatest of shows, will clearly demonstrate his right to the title "Emperor." Bentham and Byrnes, musical comedians; Ollie Young, club expert; Marion and Pearl, break-neck acrobatic wonders; John Queen, a comedian with a record; an unusually large singing contingent; Prof. Wayne's double symphony orchestra, and many others comprise this large company of fifty-five members. The scenic equipment will be complete, the first part setting being more elaborate and costly than anything of the kind ever seen here. Two specially constructed cars are required to transport the people and effects of this large organization.

The Greatest Fortresses.

From a strategical point of view the greatest fortress in the world is the Rock of Gibralter, from a sanitary point of view the greatest fortress is the fortress of common sense, and in the building of this fortress the first thing to be remembered is that one of its greatest bulwarks is the care of the eyes. One half of the ills of life are averted if this is properly attended to, and you have the assurance of this proper attention if you avail yourself of a free examination at Collier.

WILL HOLD HIS JOB.

John H. Gear Reelected United States Senator from Iowa.

Started in Life as a Farm Boy and Rose to Be a Man of Business, Governor of a Great State and a National Leader.

Years ago they called John H. Gear, just reelected to the United States senate from Iowa, "Old Business." He was then governor of the state (1878-1882), and he gave the affairs of the commonwealth an attention, a care, a discriminating fidelity such as few governors before him had done. The title has clung to Senator Gear ever since, although he has gone on to higher honors and has become a servant of the nation as well as of Iowa.

Senator Gear is New York born. He belongs to the generation of young men who abandoned farm life and small commercial pursuits in the early years of the nineteenth century and came west to find room for their ambitions and energy in which to work. Born in 1825, at Ithaca, he was 18 when he made his way to Burlington, Ia., taking all the chances of travel of that time and facing poverty for the reward which labor might bring in the years to come. He was a merchant in Burlington when Chicago was a struggling village, before the Union Pacific was constructed, when St. Louis was the commercial mart of the west, when the Missouri was to be the great navigable stream of the middle country, when there was not an operated railroad west of Ohio, not a mile of telegraph line, nor any means of transportation but steamboat, stages or one's own feet.

Burlington was a town of considerable importance at that time, having a wide trade and a class of merchants noted for their progressive ideas. Senator Gear, beginning with small capital, increased his field of operations until he was one of the best known merchants in the state. He was shrewd in driving a bargain, paid great attention to details, worked incessantly, paid his bills promptly and laid the foundation for the honorable nickname which he now bears. He did not show an aptitude then for political life, nor did he make any effort to enter it. He was a republican as soon as the new party was organized and uncompromising in his attitude on the questions raised during the civil war, but until 1863 he did not solicit the votes of the people, and then only to become the mayor of Burlington, a position which he filled with credit.

JOHN HENRY GEAR.
(Re-Elected United States Senator from the State of Iowa.)

When his term expired he retired again to private life, from which he did not emerge until 1872, when party exigencies demanded his election to the legislature, and he was sent to the house. In 1874 he was elected speaker of the house, and again in 1876 the same office was given him. His first term as speaker came at the end of the famous deadlock in the grange legislature of 1874. From the legislature he passed to the governor's chair, where he served four years. Retiring from the governor's chair, he became a private citizen again until 1886, when he was elected to congress and reelected in 1888, practically without oppostion.

The landslide against the republican party in 1890 defeated him for reelection to congress with four other congressmen of the state, but he served as assistant secretary of the treasury for some time. In 1892 his party again returned him to congress, and in January, 1894, he was elected to the United States senate as the junior senator from Iowa. His present term will end March 3, 1901. He was conspicuous in congress for his work on the committee on ways and means, where he had charge of the sugar schedule. He is now chairman of the senate committee on Pacific railways, and it was through his efforts that the government was successful in realizing $117,000,000 from them instead of the $20,000,000 offered.

FASHION NOTES.

Items of Interest Concerning Prevailing Styles.

White morocco cardcases with silver trimmings are still carried.

Among the variations of white now so much worn by elegant women are a white just faintly tinted with rose and another equally delicately suggesting green. Fur is often used as the trimming for these pale gowns, preferably chinchilla, otter or delicate silvery beaver.

The capes draped in the Spanish fashion which were worn in the fall have instigated the idea for a similar draping of the straight sack, which is now often caught up at the left shoulder by a buckle or other ornament.

Some of the newest skirts have a flat box plait in the middle of the front and back, both plaits being ornamented with applications or left plain. A picture illustrating a gown of this character is given. It is of blue cloth, and the back and front plaits of the skirt are larger than the others. Over the hips is an application of black passementerie. The bodice, fitted plainly at the back, has three large plaits in front, the middle one appearing a continuation of that of the skirt. The pointed yoke, which forms sleeve caps, is covered with black applications of passementerie. The belt and the wrists of the sleeves are ornamented to match. A hat of spangled black chenille is worn, trimmed with black ostrich plumes and a jeweled ornament.

STREET COSTUME.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WINTER FASHIONS.

Modes In Jewelry and Other Pretty Things.

Tiny jeweled watches are still worn pinned to the breast of the gown at the side. The pin matches the watch, but the usual fleur-de-lis, or bowknot design, has given place to the newer idea of a butterfly, lizard or little tortoise pin in gold and jewels or enamel.

Tight necklaces composed of little strings of diamonds or pearls are worn with evening dress. They are applied upon a band of black or dark velvet.

A novelty is a cape composed entirely of the fibers of ostrich plumes. These are arranged vertically, as when they are used for pompons, and at a little distance the cape, which is quite plain, resembles some downy sort of fur. It is lined throughout with shirred mousseline de soie and is a marvel of lightness.

EVENING GOWN.

Lace is used as far as possible in all toilets. It is almost a necessity of fashion at present, and the heavier varieties, with guipure, are the favorites, in both black, white and those nondescript shades which are variations of white.

An illustration is given which shows an evening gown of black spangled tulle over blue silk. The tulle skirt is scalloped at the edge and bordered with chenille, the blue silk lower skirt having a ruche of blue silk around the foot. The tulle bodice is draped over a tight lining of blue silk and is sleeveless, being held in place by garlands of Marechal Neil roses passing over the shoulders. The decolletage is square. A drapery of blue crepe de chine passes from the left shoulder to the belt, which is a fringed scarf of crepe de chine, tying at the side with long ends.

THE HINDU'S RELIGION.

It Seems to Fill All His Requirements and Is Indeed a Part of Himself.

Why, the Hindu asks himself, should he accept this western religion? He has one of his own, ancient, potent, elastic; it embodies his instinctive genius, suits his special needs, is older than the Christian, rests on thought he has elaborated, and many western men have learned to admire, says the Contemporary Review. To surrender his religion would be to make a complete surrender of himself, his past, his separate mind and being, and to become a mere echo of the civilization he despises.

The Hindu reaction is thus a very real force, moved by reasons we cannot but respect. Patriotism lives behind and within it; in it the orient stands up against the occident, defies it, challenges its right to come east and impose itself on what is older, more congenial to the oriental nature and too deeply rooted to be plucked up by alien hands. And so we need not be surprised to find the reformer succeeded by the reactionary, though behind the veil of his reaction the spirit that would reform still lives.

For the Hinduism he defends is not the Hinduism of the multitude, the religion of the street and the temple of Kali Ghat and the Durga puja, of the sacred river or caste; it is an idealized system, eclectic, clothed in garments which are heirlooms from the past, but quickened by a spirit which belongs to the present. Not all it finds in Hinduism is Indian, but some of it is very occidental indeed.

MINIMUM OF SLEEP.

University Students Experimenting to Find Out the Least Amount Necessary.

A very strange experiment is being tried by an organization of university students in Madison, Wis., to lengthen working hours. Upon the theory that sleep is, to a large extent, a matter of habit and can be lessened by proper care of the system, the members are trying to reduce sleeping hours to a minimum consistent with continued health.

The organization, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, is not in the nature of a secret society, but it has been working quietly in order to get the best representatives among the students from the various courses of college work. The experiment was at first begun in the Iowa university, and while it does not appear to take on the character of an intercollegiate organization, the Wisconsin members have organized along the lines of the Iowa university club. The theory upon which the members are working is to get such control over the body as to keep part of the system at rest while the other part works; in other words, avoiding unnecessary waste of vital energies. Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor, is the expositor of this theory.

The method, as given out, is to lessen the sleeping hours gradually and so accustom the system to it by degrees. The extreme limit fixes rest at not more than four hours a night, thus lengthening the working day some three or four hours.

ELEGANT COSTUMES.

Elaborate Gowns For Evening and Day Receptions.

Many fall dress gowns have a separate guimpe and sleeves made to match, which make the costume practical for day wear also. This is a consideration where expensive gowns are in question.

The hostess at a day reception is now attired very richly and usually in light colors. The tea gown has been elaborated out of its wrapperlike aspect and has become the favorite costume for these occasions. Liberty silk, painted mousseline de soie, velvet, moire and lace are materials much employed, and long trains are invariable. The empire style in its various modifications is often chosen as the mode of making.

Cloth is undeniably the fabric of the season, and never have there been more beautiful kinds manufactured. Thin, pliable and light, the finish is exquisite, and among the newest styles is a cloth of such exquisite smoothness and glossy silkiness that it closely resembles heavy satin, only the weight and softness of the folds betraying the fact that it is woolen goods.

The picture shows a gown of red cloth. The skirt has two circular flounces around the foot, above which is a tunic embroidered with black. This opens in front, showing a tablier composed of a lattice of narrow black velvet finished with fringe. The tight bodice is embroidered like the skirt and has a plastron to match the tablier. The guimpe is of black velvet, the collar of white satin embroidered with black. The close sleeves have black embroidery at the wrists. The black velvet hat is trimmed with a bow of black velvet, a gold buckle and three black ostrich plumes. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SKIRTS.

The Newest Ones Are Gathered or Plaited.

The plaited and shirred skirts which are the newest thing the mode has to offer are practically but variations of the plain skirt, for the plaits and gathers are so arranged that they add almost nothing to the bulk of the skirt. Usually the plaits are small at the waist and increase in size as they pass downward. They are stitched down, being left free toward the foot of the skirt to give the usual flaring effect. The folds inside the skirt, where the plaits have been stitched flat, are cut off, so that no unnecessary thicknesses remain. The fitting is as close and clinging as in the plain skirts. Sometimes the tablier is left plain, sometimes it is plaited like the rest. The lining is made separate and is of the same dimensions as the outside, but not plaited. The lower edge is stiffened, and the outside and lining are then fastened together by stitches concealed under the plaits. A silk ruffle or plaiting around the foot of the lining skirt is a great addition. The outside and lining need be fastened together only so far down as the plaits extend.

The cut shows a princess costume of black faille. It has a yoke of point de venise, which also covers the top of the sleeves. A scarf of spangled tulle borders the yoke back and front and ornaments the top of the sleeves. It forms a bow, fastened by a steel ornament at the side of the bust, passes down through another ornament at the waist, then to a third at the side of the skirt, the end falling free. The collar is of point de venise, the cravat of spangled tulle. The black velvet hat is trimmed with three black plumes. JUDIC CHOLLET.

EARTHQUAKE INSURANCE.

Owners of Vineyards Could Protect Themselves Against Damage by Storms.

Dr. Barrata has advocated in the Italian parliament a compulsory insurance against earthquakes, says the Scientific American. Owners of vineyards and others protect themselves in this way against hail and, therefore, why not against another calamity even more destructive, as they average about 750 shocks a year, and certain parts of Italy have occasionally suffered terribly. The idea of the insurance is a shrewd one from the point of view of public economy. It shifts the burden from the exchequer to private purses. The business would be of a peculiarly risky nature, for such an epidemic of earthquakes as has devastated Calabria between 1783 and 1786 might easily bring any ordinary company to bankruptcy. The risk would have to be widely spread, and actuaries would be buzzled to calculate the premiums for different places.

Some parts of the peninsula enjoy practical immunity. The great plain of Venetia has never suffered. Rome and Naples are occasionally shaken, although as a rule not seriously, but disaster frequently occurs in volcanic districts, as in Ischia in 1881 and 1883, when the loss both of life and property was serious. Calabria is far the worst as an earthquake region. Over 1,400 people perished in one locality in the period mentioned above.

Lay the axe to the root of the tree

Most people hardly realize that headaches and dyspepsia and other miseries all come from one cause and that taking a separate remedy for each symptom is like picking the leaves off an obnoxious tree instead of striking at the root. Headache, or sluggishness, disordered stomach or constipation or offensive breath show that either the stomach or bowels or the liver are not doing their natural work, and

R-I-P-A-N-S TABULES

Go to the root of all these difficulties by immediately correcting the stomach and gently stimulating the liver and bowels to healthy action. These Tabules are the accurate prescription of a regular physician; they are a simple remedy as mild yet certain as nature itself. To people of sedentary habits professional and business men, and particularly to women, these Tabules insure a regular habit, comfortable digestion and a clear head; preventing many a serious illness with its long train of suffering and expense.

The two most important processes of life—assimilation of food and elimination of waste—depend almost entirely upon the stomach, liver and bowels; their healthy action, maintained by Ripans Tabules, dispels a long list of ailments. For headaches, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, dizziness, fluttering of the heart, sluggishness, poor sleep, loss of appetite, depression, heartburn, nausea, bad taste in the mouth, sallow skin, and all the ills caused by a disordered stomach, take a RIPANS TABULE.

NOTES FROM MANILA.

Philippine Life Has Some Pleasant and Delightful Phases.

Chinese Peddlers Go from House to House and Make Your Chocolate While You Wait—The Cacao Bean Industry.

Here in Manila they make your chocolate while you wait. Right in the house a Chinaman comes with his basket and rolls the crushed cacao bean and sugar and then makes a supply of chocolate that is sweeter and more palatable and cheaper than the commercial brand sold in the Chicago stores.

When the Chinaman comes he lays aside his hat and shirt, and, stripped to the waist and barefooted, he begins his work. In the basket is the chocolate or cacao bean, from which the rancid oil has been extracted and which oil long ago has anointed the hair of some Filipino belle or lighted some Filipino home. The beans first come on the board bitter and brackish. With a rolling pin the Chinaman grinds them into a fine powder. This takes time. When it is done, he opens another basket and dips out the sugar for the sweetening and the final mixture. The sugar is what would probably grade "coffee C" if it were in commercial circles. Like the bean, however, it grows on the island. Industriously the Chinaman rubs, and gradually the chocolate forms on the bottom of the board and drips off in sticky sweetness into the basket beneath. The family gathers about to sample the product and the Chinaman stops to smoke a cigarette while judgment is being passed. Cups of the beverage are handed around and all "taste." If it is not sweet enough, the manufacturer throws more sugar on his board and drops in another pinch of vanila and cinnamon for the flavoring. When it is "right" he goes to work and for several hours rubs away at his task. The deposit below the rolling pin is a brown substance that is soft and moist, while above it is to all appearances a dry powder and sugar. The little ones gather about, and if there is an older daughter perhaps she sits down on the floor in front of the Chinaman and watches the growing pile.

Such, writes a Chicago Record correspondent, was the case in the house of a Spaniard to-day when I called. The young lady sat there and idly watched the manufacture of the edible, and when a little brother came she took his head in her lap and he lay there with her, watching the brown-skinned Chinaman rub and rub the sugar into the other ingredients. It was insisted that I should sample the finished article, and I found it very good.

The chocolate, before it is chocolate, is cacao bean, and the cacao bean is a speculative crop at best. First, it takes four years to raise a crop. The plants grow only ten feet in height. They are subject to insect attacks, and when the fruit is nearly ripe and ready to pick, a windstorm may come along and break it from the tree. As long ago as the seventeenth century the work of raising cacao began in the Philippines. Then priests brought the bean here from Mexico. In Mexico the tree grows 25 or 30 feet tall, and the crop is not always an uncertain quantity. Here, however, only those planters who can afford to lose a crop oftener than they harvest one raise the cacao bean.

The fourth year the fruit comes, and when ripe it is filled with seeds that are not unlike almonds in shape, growing in a pulp like the seeds of a watermelon. These seeds are separated from the pulp by hand and dried in the sun; then the shell is taken off and the bean is further dried. Then it is ground into powder and the oil extracted.

Then it is shipped to Spain or anywhere that there is a market, or it is sold in the markets in Manila. There is a mill in Manila where the chocolate is ground and seasoned with vanila and cinnamon and molded into cakes, wrapped in tinfoil and pretty blue paper and sold.

But the picturesque way is to rub it with sugar and vanila and cinnamon and make one's chocolate under one's own roof and before one's own eyes.

Orange Free State Arms.

The coat of arms of the Orange Free State shows an orange tree in the middle of the field; on one side stands a lion, on the other a lamb. The motto beneath is "Freedom, Immigration, Patience, Courage." The emblem of the lion and lamb has a Scriptural reference to the peace and harmony within its borders, and does not glance at the geographical position of the republic between the domain of the British lion and the pastoral Boers of the Transvaal, as an American joker might assume.

A Corpuscle's Journey.

If a man of 84 could have one single blood corpuscle floating in his blood all his life it would have traveled in that period no less than 5,180,809 miles.

TOWN OF KIMBERLEY

Origin of the Diamond City Described by Hon. John Studdy.

Cecil Rhodes from the First Worked Hard and Spent Little—Wilderness Became a Municipality in a Single Day.

Residing upon his ranch in southern California is a gentleman—Hon. John Studdy, late of Kimberley, South Africa, and an ex-colonial minister of finance—who, from a personal knowledge of the subject, describes how the first diamond was discovered, which led to the building up of the beleaguered city of Kimberley, and how Cecil Rhodes laid the foundation of his colossal wealth and power.

"It was in 1869," says Mr. Studdy, "that I first met Herbert Rhodes, the pioneer of the Rhodes family fortune, at Du Toitspan, where we joined in the rush to old De Beers, and in which latter place we worked together upon very friendly terms.

"In a short time Herbert Rhodes was followed by Frank, now Col. Rhodes, when the two brothers entered into a partnership working a good paying claim upon road No. 8.

"Both brothers were very popular at the diggings. Herbert was a strong, good, all-round man, and if he possessed a fault it was his big-hearted generosity, which, at times, carried him to lengths of expenditures perhaps not warranted by the extent of his find, and who surely deserved a better fate than that horrible one of being burned to death, which subsequently overtook him when gold prospecting on the coast of Zanzibar.

"I had worked for over a year at old De Beers, with fairly satisfactory results, when I went out, in company with a friend, upon that memorable hunting trip, which led to the discovery of New Rush, or Kimberley, and incidentally to the making of the fortune and fame of Rt. Hon. Cecil Rhodes.

"It was on a Sunday afternoon, I remember, that we had pushed our way across a plain of high Tamboke grass, when in searching for some partridges I had brought down near a clump of minora bushes, I found a prospect to which I at once called the attention of my companion.

"On making a careful survey of the ground, seeing that it was of a similar formation to that of old De Beers, I sat down and sorted out some of the dirt, when in less than five minutes I picked out as many small diamonds.

"Impressed with the belief that I had made a big find, I went over to the tent of an old Natal friend, Popham, by name, with whom at the time was Herbert Rhodes. I told them of my discovery and we three at once decided to organize a stampede for the new field.

"Popham and Rhodes got away in less than two hours and I fully intended to accompany them, but deferred to the wishes of my partner to remain with him at the old De Beers; sending on four Kaffir Zulus, however, to help stake out our claims.

"It was but a few hours after, through the instrumentality of the friend whom I had taken with me on the hunting trip, that the news was spread abroad through the camp; and before seven a. m. in the next morning Old De Beers was deserted and in 24 hours later there were from 3,000 to 4,000 men on the ground on which now stands the city of Kimberley.

"In a few days the country all around that clump of mines, where I had shot the partridges, was staked out, and it was almost on the spot, right in the center of the crater of the extinct mud volcano now forming the celebrated De Beers mine, that Popham, Herbert Rhodes and myself secured three of the best-paying claims.

"It was about five or six months after this, when we had all moved to New Rush, that Cecil Rhodes, the youngest brother, unexpectedly turned up at the diggings.

"On the morning of his arrival in camp, Herbert Rhodes asked me to take his brother Cecil down and show him over the claims, where they were working from 18 to 20 Zulus. To this request I readily agreed, and while in the pit picked out a small diamond from the sidewalk and handed it to him—his first stone in South Africa.

"It was not long after Cecil Rhodes came upon the scene," Mr. Studdy continues, "that I foresaw that, sooner or later, there was going to be a split in the camp.

"In this prognostication I was eventually proved to be right, for Herbert first of all, sold out his interest to Cecil, and then Frank did the same; when Cecil, who would hardly spend enough on his food and clothes to keep body and soul decently together, began with the aid of his savings, to engineer those plans which have raised him to be one of the two foremost men in South Africa."

The race for the Daily Press Bowling League trophy grows exciding. For a time it looked as if Roselle might have an easy time of it, but the good showing made by Westfield puts the latter club right into the race. Roselle is still ahead, but Westfield has rolled three more games than the leaders and has won one more game. The next games to be rolled by either of the leading clubs will be when they meet on the Roselle alleys. This promises to be one of the hottest matches of the season. Naturally Westfield will make a big effort to make up for the time when Roselle captured two games on the Westfield alleys, the first series of games of the league. If Westfield can succeed in turning the tables then there is an excellent chance that Westfield may come out on top in the league. Westfield's only other series after that is when the Park Club team goes to Westfield. If the Parks do not roll any better than they have been doing, Westfield is likely to take three straight. Roselle will have to come to Plainfield and then Cranford goes to Roselle for the last series of the league. The race for the trophy now lies between Roselle and Westfield for the Parks are way off championship form and only a straight line of victories hereafter would serve to put them on top.

WRECK ON LEHIGH VALLEY

Nine Freight Cars Smashed Near Flemington by Broken Axle.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, Jan. 20.—A wreck in which nine freight cars were smashed occurred on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Flemington Junction yesterday morning.

A wheel and axle broke under the fast freight due about 3 o'clock, which tore up the tracks for some distance and demolished nine cars before the train was stopped.

Both of the main line tracks, and the siding were blocked. The cars were loaded with cement, wool, hay and eram, which were strewn along the tracks.

The siding between this station and Flemington Junction was soon cleared by the two wrecking crews and the trains then passed around the wreck and traffic was not seriously interfered with.

Thirteenth Escape From the Jersey Industrial Institution.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 20—Lydia LaVette, an inmate of the State Industrial School for Girls, escaped Thursday night and her whereabouts is not now known. This is the thirteenth escape from the institution in the past three months, and the trustees are wrought up over the apparent lack of discipline.

Mrs. Eyler, the principal, in announcing this escape, emphasized the fact that Miss Wight, one of the teachers, had left the door of her schoolroom unlocked, contrary to orders, and the girl was able to get out without detection. Miss Wight is one of the teachers who testified to Mrs. Eyler's cruel methods of discipline at the investigation recently held by Governor Voorhees.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

IT IS LAW.

Street Commissioner Gavett Explains Why City is Repairing Roads Claimed by the County.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—Ex Councilman, Mr. Walter L. Hetfield, in his open letter printed in The Daily Press of yesterday, inquires by what authority the city is repairing with crushed stone a part of East Third street which has been made a county road. I am not a lawyer, as Mr. Hetfield is, but it would seem to me that the following statute not only gives the city the necessary authority, but imposes upon the city the absolute obligation to make the repairs. The section of the County Road Act referred to is found in the laws of 1889, page 58, section 6, a verbatim copy of which is as follows:

"That all roads marked out or indicated as county roads on the map or maps mentioned in the first section of this act, shall be kept in repair by the local authorities of the cities, towns, townships or boroughs in and through which they extend, until such roads shall have been actually improved by the Board of Chosen Freeholder of the county, as provided in this act; but in cases where part of said roads shall have been improved under this act, only the unimproved part shall be kept in repair by such local authorities."

As Mr. Hetfield says "there is no question but that the work being done is necessary," the Legislature appears to furnish an answer to his inquiry.

Monument Project Not Entirely Given up.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The Sons of Veterans, perhaps inheriting a fighting spirit, have not yet given up the battle for a soldiers' monument. While the joint committee has been dissolved, the Camp committee has been enlarged, and all outstanding bills paid by the Camp. Their purpose is to agitate the matter and to hold themselves in readiness to co-operate with any other organization or individual desirous of doing justice to the memory of the soldier dead. Such an action is commendable and should be a guarantee to the city of the sincerity and earnestness of these young men. Those who have already subscribed may be assured that their confidence has not been misplaced. The Job Male bequest of $500 is an incentive to further effort, and it has been learned that there are other bequests which will add zeal and enthusiasm to the project.

W. C. O'Donnell,
Chairman of Committee.

Mr. Spencer Explains.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Knowing your disposition to treat everyone fairly, kindly correct The Press' report of my remarks at the meeting at the Borough Council chamber Thursday night last. In regard to the widening of Somerset street, building storm sewers, etc., I am quoted as saying that I was in favor of the project provided it did not mean a "special assessment" on the borough. What I did say was that I was in favor of the project, provided no special assessment was levied on the property owners along the line, as I felt they had already done more than their share for the improvement of the borough, when they voluntarily paid the total costs of grading and macadamizing said street. While I hoped it would entail no hardship upon anyone, I felt that the public as will as the business interests of the street demanded the improvement.

DYING IN ONE ANOTHER'S ARMS.

Father was Clasping Son When Rescued from Gas-Filled Room.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 20—Clasped in each other's arms Daniel Stalker and his twelve-year-old son, Benjamin, were found dying in their room in Peter's Hotel yesterday. The gas was turned on and they were so near death when found that the finding may only result in the prolongation of their lives by a few hours.

Stalker was a widower. He was employed in the Singer Machine works. He retired in good spirits last night. He did not arise this morning to go to work, but this did not excite comment. When neither he nor his boy came down the door was burst in. The father and son lay on the bed. The room was filled with gas, which was pouring from the jet in the room. Both were taken to the General Hospital. This evening the father showed signs of reviving, but the boy was in a coma that may last until death ends it. It is supposed the father after turning off the gas turned it on again. There was a window in the room which was loose and permitted much of the gas to escape, and this doubtless prolonged their lives.

ASYLUM OVERCROWDED.

ANNUAL REPORT OF NEW JERSEY HOSPITAL FOR INSANE.

It is Charged That the Institution is Filled With Many Who Have Many Committed by Careless Physicians.

The Board of Managers of the New Jersey Hospital for the Insane, locacated near Trenton, has furnished their report to Governor Voorhees. In it they make a serious complaint, to the effect that the institution is overcrowded because physicians are careless in their examinations and freely sign certificates placing persons in the asylum.

There are now 1,170 patients, which is largely in excess of the capacity of the place. Such a condition of affairs would not exist if patients not strictly insane were not forced upon the management. Many of the patients are only suffering from nervous troubles, and ought to have other treatment.

It is further stated as a cause for complaint that Burlington, Gloucester and Salem counties have no asylums, but confine their insane in their almshouses, which are in no way adapted for the treatment of insanity. There are no resident physicians in these almshouses, and there is no regular medical care of the patients, so that the sufferers have no chances of recovery. The managers maintain that this is not only an injustice to the patient, but also to the State, inasmuch as the State of NewJersey is charged $2 per week for each patient, which is considerably more than what it would cost the State itself to take care of them.

As to the cause of insanity of those admitted the Board gives an interesting table. One man lost his mind through novel reading, two men and three women through disappointments in love affairs, seven men and five women from domestic afflictions caused by death, thirteen men and seventeen women from general ill health, four men and eight women from domestic troubles, six men and three women from loss of property and business troubles, five men and eight women from overwork and loss of sleep, seven men and eleven women from old age, eleven men and five women from epilepsy, twenty men and six women from the use of alcohol, two men from opium eating, six men and two women from sunstroke, eleven men from injury to the head, and one woman from unjust imprisonment.

In the case of forty men and forty-two women there was an acknowledged hereditary predisposition to insanity. Thirty four cases had a suicidal tendency, and in twenty-five cases there existed a decided homicidal tendency. In fifty-one cases there was alcobol, and in thirty-two cases the father of the patient was intemperate in the use of alcohol.

HIS WAY TO KEEP STRAIGHT.

A Philadelphia Coachman Tells His Employer Some Tricks of His Calling.

"John, I'd like to know what makes your back so straight," said a rich Philadelphia man to his coachman the other day, says the Press, of that city. "And how do you stand the fatigue of sitting so beautifully erect while you drive for hours and hours at a stretch?"

The coachman blushed with pleasure as he led his master to a light and airy corner of the carriage house. "I'll show you the kind of exercise I take every day, sir," he said, "so as to be a credit to your livery, and your equipage, and yourself and lady."

The man then lay down on his stomach and drew upward his body and his legs until he formed a V, the point of which—his abdomen—alone touched the ground. "I do this 200 times a day, sir," he said. "It gives correct carriage."

Then, on parallel bars, he dipped. "One hundred of these daily, sir, expand the chest and give a robust grace to the upper arms and shoulders." He put his arms, well stiffened, at his sides, and then slowly raised them till the hands met over his head. "I do about 500 of that movement for a chest broadener, also for straighteners."

He then nearly touched his back with the crown of his head and quite touched his chest with his chin. "That straightens the neck, sir, and gives the head a proper poise. And so on, sir; I continue for an hour or two every morning, and I don't believe, as long as I keep it up, I'll ever lose my figure."

REDNESS OF THE NOSE.

The Discoloration Is Very Frequently Caused by the Wearing of Veils in Cold Weather.

Rosenbach (Berliner klinische Wochenshrift), calls attention to the develment of abnormal redness of the nose in consequence of the wearing of a veil in winter. The discoloration is most pronounced at those points where the veil is most intimately applied to the face. The effect is partly due to the mechanical action of the sharp and rough texture upon a sensitive skin, and to the influence of the watery vapor that collects within its meshes and prevents evaporation. Blood is thus driven from the tip of the nose to adjacent parts, whose blood vessels in consequence become enlarged and conspicuous. The condition is exaggerated if the use of the veil is persisted in on passing from a cold to a warm atmosphere. The alterations tend to become permanent the longer the veil is worn without airing, the longer its injurious action is maintained by compression, the colder the season, and the greater the exposure. Sometimes the cheeks are also affected similarly. The treatment of the condition consists in discarding the veil, avoiding for a time sharp winds and great cold, and, when exposure to cold air is unavoidable, sudden changes from a cold to a warmer temperature. Gentle massage should be practiced, and applications of a thin layer of lanolin, vaseline or cold cream may be made, followed by that of some simple powder such as talc or chalk. When the use of a veil is necessary, it should not extend below the nasal orifices, so as to permit the escape of watery vapor. Further, it should not be too heavy, nor should it be too tight.

WOMAN'S INVENTION.

Woven Bandage, Well Indorsed by Eminent Medical Men, But Not Protected by Patents.

The latest invention tending to diminish the suffering of humanity is that of Mrs. Therese Eicksen, a German of considerable energy and ingenuity. It is nothing more or less than a woven bandage for the use of those who have broken or sprained a limb. It is approved by many physicians because it conforms so perfectly to the shape of the limb, supporting it at all points and at the same time is not so stiff as the usual splints or wrapped bandages. In addition, its meshes permit the free circulation of the air, and in this way contributes to the speedy healing of the injured member. The support afforded by this naturally elastic bandage is such that it obviates the necessity of remaining in bed with some injuries which were thought heretofore to require such confinement. It is made of strong, heavy wool, or in some cases of heavy flax cord.

Mrs. Eicksen regards her invention not only as a benefit to the injured, but is also trying to introduce the knitting of these bandages as a new occupation for women, especially for the blind or decrepit, who cannot engage in more active pursuits. She has not patented her bandage, but is now traveling all through Germany teaching every one who wishes to learn how to knit the bandages properly. There is a special stitch required so as to make them both strong and elastic, and the value of the invention is being more and more appreciated daily. The inventor suggests that her bandages will also prove servicable as strengtheners of the wrists for tennis players, as well as belts for mountain climbers, being light and strong, and far better than the stiff leather belts usually worn. For bicycle riders, too, who wish to have a free use of their bodies, and at the same time not look "dowdy," she suggests waists woven in this way. The bandage has been used with great success by German physicians in cases of broken arms and legs, of men, women and children and even of animals, for which it is notably difficult to find a good splint that will stay in place. This bandage stays exactly where it is put, and this is one of its great advantages. It might be a good idea for some American woman who is in Germany to take a few lessons in this bandage-knitting, that she might teach it over here.

How to Clean Knives.

They should be held in a straight position on the knifeboard and moved backward and forward in as direct a line as possible, which will prevent the scratches so often seen on them. Do not put too much powder on the board, as that is liable to scratch the blades. The board should be in a sloping position, one side slightly higher than the other. The ivory handles should be just dipped (not left to stand) in warm water and washed with a soapy flannel, and then wiped clean and dry. Blades and handles should be washed separately. Ebony handles may be cleaned with a piece of linen dipped in oil and then well dried. Keep a set of cloths of a coarse, strong texture for use for the knives only.

Involved Affairs of the Central Loan Association.

PLAINFIELDERS INTERESTED

PROMOTER STARTED THE DIVIDED MORTGAGE PLAN.

The Scheme Got the Association Into Trouble by Loading It Up With Second Mortgages Upon Which Nothing Could be Realized — Somerville Man is Now President of Concern.

The members of the New Jersey Central Building and Loan Association, of whom there are several in Plainfield, are considerably agitated over the financial condition of the association. As a result of a complaint of some of the stockholders of the Bayonne branch to the Chancellor the affairs of the association are being wound up. It is not believed that the members will lose more than 50 per cent. of their holdings, but that will depend upon the manner in which the affairs can be settled, and it may be several years before they can realize much.

The home office of the association is at Newark. It was organized about three years ago, and Hon. James J. Bergen, of Somerville, was elected president. The association was organized through the efforts of J. Dickson Whitlaw, a promoter of building loans, and he promised great results. His scheme was the divided mortgage plan of loaning money. If a member wanted to borrow from the association $2,000 he would find somebody who had $1,500 to loan. Only $500 of the association's money would be used and $1,500 of the other lender's. The latter would be given a first mortgage on the property for the amount of his claim and the association would take a second mortgage for the $500. The borrower would pay into the association, however, just the same as if all the money came from its treasury. In this way the association would be realizing about 20 per cent. by the transaction. This plan, however, was one of the things which got the association in trouble, for it was soon loaded up with a lot of second mortgages upon which nothing could be realized.

Mr. Bergen did not continue as president very long, as he found it interfered with his business, going to Newark every week. He was succeeded by A. P. Sutphen, of Somerville. Things went along satisfactory for a time and branches were organized at Bayonne, Morristown, Long Branch, Lakewood, Perth Amboy, Bloomfield, Plainfield, Somerville and other places. Then some of the members became dissatisfied and it was thought about a year ago that the affairs of the association would have to be wound up. Whitlaw was receiving a big salary and offices had been rented in Newark at an expense of $75 a month.

Finally some of the stockholders got together and decided that they would try and bolster up the institution, cut down expenses and save the members from loss if possible. The board of directors was supplanted by a new board.

About three months ago three members of the Bayonne branch filed a bill in chancery asking that a receiver be appointed and setting forth, at length, the condition of the association. An expert sanctioned by the Department of Banking and Insurance went over all the business at their instigation. In the bill it was claimed that while the annual report submitted by Litchman December 31, 1898, showed a surplus over and above liabilities of $1,372 34 and that there were outstanding assets of loans and mortgages amounting to $33,415, that upon examination of affairs Litchman admitted the statement was erroneous and that the loans and mortgages only amounted to $30,415 and that there was really a deficiency of $727.60. Other irregularities and bad management were detailed in the bill.

James L. Griggs, of Somerville, represented the association in the matter of the receivership and he procured the appointment of S. R. Farrington, one of the board of directors, to act with Judge Harris, of Bayonne, as receivers.

Vice-Chancellor Emery expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the action of the last board of directors when the circumstances had been explained to him. The Vice-Chancellor said it was evident that these business men had neglected their own affairs in order to help bring the association through without loss. He said he would give the men appointed by him three or four years to wind up the affairs if they thought it best for all interested. Mr. Griggs thinks that the assets will be disposed of to the best advantage possible and that the members will not lose over 50 per cent.

NEWSPAPERMEN DINED.

ENTERTAINED AT HOTEL KENSINGTON BY JAMES E. MARTINE.

The Genial Silver Tongued Orator Makes an Ideal Host and Entertains Proprietors and Staffs of the "Press" and "Courier."

The dinner given by James E. Martine Saturday night at the Kensington Hotel to the proprietors and staff of the Daily Press and Courier proved a pleasant affair. The dinner was served in Landlord Staats' best style and was thoroughly enjoyed by the newspaper men.

Covers were laid for twelve, which included all the active newspaper men of both newspaper staffs in Plainfield. The menu cards were very handsome and had been especially printed for the occasion, with the compliments of the genial host. Mr. Martine presided at the head of the table with Mr. Force, of the Press, on his right and Mr. Runyon, of the Courier, at his left.

The sentiments to which the diners responded were clever quotations from well-known authors and quite apropos of the gathering.

Mr. Martine being the host, also acted the part of toastmaster, which he did in his usual graceful style of oratory. After the cloth had been cleared Mr. Martine welcomed his guests in a speech overflowing with kindly greetings and warm sentiment. He expressed the high appreciation he had always maintained for newspaper men in general and those of Plainfield in particular. Mr. Martine was followed by Mr Runyon and Mr. Force, who briefly thanked their host for his hospitality.

The most important speaker perhaps of the evening was Silas Dewey Drake, Mayor of Lincoln, who convulsed the host and guests by his droll stories and recital of reminiscences of his boyhood days, when he essayed to grasp the intricacies of the newspaper profession.

As a newspaper man Mr. Drake did not believe he made as much of a success in that line as he had in after years in founding new boroughs.

Brief remarks were also made by those attached to the staffs of both papers.

The function proved a pleasant affair. It will live long in the hearts of the newspaper men, who cherish the highest regard for James E. Martine, the silver-tongued orator, polished gentlemen and firm friend of the gentlemen who make the newspapers of Plainfield.

The newspaper men present included F. W. Runyon, A. L. Force, S. D. Drake, W. W. St. John, M. F. Elderton, F. E. Whiteside, Corra Ryno, C. F. Stout, C. B. Morse and W. C. Dobbins.

OVERLOOKED A DECISION.

Justice Van Syckel to Reverse Himself in District Court Case.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 21.—Lawyer Frank Bergen, of this city, have received a letter from Supreme Court Judge Van Syckel, in which the Judge reverses his decision that the Circuit Court had no jurisdiction over verdicts rendered in the District Court, and that appeals would have to be taken to the Supreme Court on a writ of certiorla.

Mr. Bergen took issue with Justice Van Syckel on this ruling, and called his attention to a contrary decision last February on the subject. Judge Van Syckel saw his mistake and has gracefully acknowledged it.

District Court appeals can now, therefore, be taken to the Circuit Courts of the State.

Cut the Fence.

The Jersey Central Railroad Company recently fenced in its tracks with wire fencing, thus closing many short cuts and paths along the line. This does not meet with favor with those who have been accustomed to use the paths, and the fence has been cut in many places. Railroad officers are looking after the fence cutters.

AGAINST SPRING ELECTION.

Somerset Republicans Express Themselves Favorable to the Proposed Legislation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 22—The Republicans of Somerset county favor the doing away with the spring election and choosing the local municipal officers at the same time with the State and county officials in November. There has been considerable disussion on the subject and it was brought up at the meeting of the Republican county executive committee held here Saturday afternoon.

All of the members of the committee were present and they were asked to informally express their opinion on the subject, and how they believed it would work in their district to make the proposed change. Every member, especially those in the rural districts, expressed themselves in favor of the change. They believed that it would result far more successfully than does the present method.

S. D. DRAKE WAS HOST.

Plainfield Social Club Members Were Entertained by Their New Member.

Silas Dewey Drake covered himself all over with the glory again Saturday when he tendered a trolley ride and dinner to the members of the Plainfield Social Club, formerly known as the Asbestos Club, in honor of his election to the membership of the club.

The members gathered at the clubrooms in the morning at 11 o'clock and from there boarded a trolley car and enjoyed a trip to Bound Brook and return. At 12:30 o'clock they went to the Hotel Kensington, where an elaborate dinner was served in the grill room. Twenty-five set down to the dinner.

After the dinner each one of the guests were called upon to make a few remarks. Nearly all responded and many complimentary things were heard of the host.

PRO-BOER MEETING.

Sympathizers With the Dutch to Hold a Mass Meeting This Evening.

Sympathizers with the Dutch Republic will hold a Pro-Boer meeting this evening at Saengerbund Hall on Somerset street. Geo. W. VanSicklen, who is making Pro-Boer speeches throughout the county, will be the principal speaker. It is possible that James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," and other well known speakers will also be present and have something to say regarding the Transvaal war and what led to it. As there are many sympathizers with the Boers it is anticipated that there will be a large attendance.

Need of Second Hand Clothing.

The Plainfield Relief Association makes an earnest appeal for second hand clothing. At the time of year when the applicants for work are most numerous, we find our supply of half grown clothing practically gone and as it is used in being given out for remaking, as well as in the weekly sales, our work is greatly hampered by the lack of it. Anything sent to the rooms, 544 West Front street, will be most acceptable. Marion S. Dumont,
Secretary.

BATTALION ROSTER OF SCHOOL CADETS

Officers of the Military Organization at High School.

THE LIST IS NOW COMPLETE.

BATTALION IS FULLY ORGANIZED AND OFFICERED.

A. B. Meredith, of the Faculty, Will Act as Drill Master, But the Boys Will Govern Themselves—Three Companies, With Captain, First Lieutenant, Four Sergeants and Two Corporals Each.

All that is lacking to make the organization and equipment of the cadet battalion of the Plainfield High School complete is the arms. The cadets are most of them uniformed and the organization of the battalion with its three companies has been perfected. The roster of the officers, commissioned and non-commissed, is now complete.

When the battalion was first organized in the fall, the boys were drilled as one company and the other officer elected was the major. Then came the captains and lieutenants and the division of the battalion into three companies, and finally the appointment of the sergeants and corporals is complete.

There are some ninety boys in all included in the battalion. The cadet major is the commanding officer and he has his staff. A. B. Meredith, of the faculty with the rank of major, acts as drill master but the control of the battalion is left entirely to the boys themselves. All troubles are settled by the officers under the general supervision of the faculty.

Each company has a captain, one lieutenant, four sergeants and two corporals. There will be from twenty to twenty-four privates in each company. Color sergeant and bugler are still to be appointed.

The completed roster of the officers of the battalion is announced as follows:

THE PLAINS IS EXCITED.

NUMEROUS TOWNSMEN SUBPŒNAED BEFORE GRAND JURY.

No One Seems to Know What For, But It is Understood to be in Reference to the Sunday Business of Hotels.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, January 22.—The residents of the village and the local hotel keepers are wondering and guessing over the serving of a large number of summons in the village Saturday afternoon, ordering those served to appear before the Grand Jury at Elizabeth this morning. No explanation was given to those served, and Saturday night the matter was the discussion for the stores, hotels and firesides. The only conclusion that could be arrived at was that the Grand Jury's attention had been called to the alleged Sunday selling in town, and that the Citizens' League had secured evidence and laid it before that body. Those served are people who stand on both sides of the liquor question.

A prominent member of the League, when interviewed by a Press representative, said he did not know of any such move being made by the League, but that the law committee had the power to do such a thing without the knowledgd of the other members. The serving of the summons scared the hotel men and the town was tighter yesterday than it has been for years. Only those who were well-known were able to gain an entrance.

A bright bouncing baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Dunavan, 73 Westervelt avenue, yesterday, and congratulations are being received.

THE "FARE" MUST BE SEEN.

City Judge Runyon to Interview J. M. Middledith in Order to Make a Right Decision.

The troubles of Hackman Charles Berry still continue. He came up before City Judge Runyon this morning on the complaint of Roundsman Flynn, charged with soliciting passengers from the sidewalk. The story of his appearance before the Judge and the charges he made against the Roundsman have already been noted in these columns. Roundsman Flynn appeared against him this morning.

Flynn told how Berry had gone right up on the sidewalk after J. M. Middledith, of Mercer avenue. Berry declared that he was hired by the month and was entitled to do so. Flynn declared that such was not the case and put several hackmen on the stand who declared that Mr. Middledith had patronized them as well as as Berry.

Berry produced his letter from Mr. Middledith in which the latter stated that he had hired Berry by the month. The Judge laid the case over for a day to enable him to see Mr. Middledith and find out the situation.

HAS NO FRANCHISE.

New York Officials Say They Will Stop the Operating of the Whitehall Street Ferry.

After operating without a franchise for nearly two and a half years, the Central Railroad of New Jersey will be called upon by the New York city authorities to discontinue its line between Jersey City and Whitehall street.

When the Central Railroad Company began running its boats between Whitehall street and Jersey City, in August, 1897, it had not been announced that any ferry privilege was to be disposed of, and no other companies had an opportunity to bid for the privilege. This ferry was operated for six or eight months, however, without causing especial comment, and when inquiry was set on foot it was learned that the railroad company started the ferry on an assurance that a franchise soon would be granted.

Tammany officials recently have evinced an unwillingness to allow the ferry longer to be operated without a franchise.

Representatives of the railroad company have indicated a willingness to pay for a franchise provided one should be passed by the Municipal Assembly.

Corporation Counsel Whalen yesterday said:

"This ferry is being operated without a frenchise, and while it might be unfortunate to interfere no company or individual should be permitted to operate a ferry without first obtaining a franchise. The fact that no legal franchise has been granted makes it necessary for me, in the interests of the city, to take steps to restrain the company from longer operating the ferry. I shall take such steps at once."

DEAD, HE WAS PRAISED.

EULOGY OF LATE W. C. AYERS AT FUNERAL SERVICES.

Dr. Yerkes Spoke in High Terms at the Bier of the Aged Citizen—Large Attendance of Friends at the Services.

The funeral services of William C. Ayers were held Saturday afternoon last from his late home, West Second street, and were very largely attended by neighbors, townsmen and a number from out of town, many of whom were prominent in the business world, who had known the deceased for many years. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, where Mr. Ayers was an attendant and a member, officiated. After reading appropriate selections from the Scriptures he spoke at some length concerning Mr. Ayers. He eulogized him and spoke of his many excellent qualities. He referred to the upright life he had lived and how he was respected by his fellow-townsmen. He also spoke of Mr. Ayers as a Christian and of his faithfulness to his church, always being in attendance when it was possible.

The sentiments expressed by Dr. Yerkes were those of the people in attendance, for all knew of the exemplary Christian life of the departed. During the service a quartette, composed of Miss Willis, Miss Nan Randolph, G. W. Smith and B. T. Barnes, rendered two beautiful vocal selections.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and came from friends and relatives who held the departed in high esteem. There was a large set piece from the Exempt Firemen's Association whose members were present in a body, and another large piece came from the associates of Dr. Samuel Ayers, who are with him in the work of the evening school work in New York. There were many other handsome tributes.

During the forenoon an opportunity was given persons to call and view the remains and after the services another opportunity was given. Even in death there was no change in the features so well known to all.

Interment took place in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery and those who served as pallbearers were H. Mulford Estil, L. Warren Randolph, Eugene M. Laing, Edward L. Bonney, Edward H. Holmes and George Titsworth.

E. church, this city, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be at Hillside Cemetery.

SCHENCK WILL BE NEXT COUNTY JUDGE.

County Committee Caucus Favored His Candidacy.

NO CHANCE FOR BARTINE.

JAMES L. GRIGGS CHOSEN FOR COUNTY PROSECUTOR.

Meeting of Republican County Executive Committee Held at Somerville Saturday Afternoon — First Ballot Showed Overwhelming Feeling in Favor of Messrs. Schenck and Griggs.

There is no doubt at all now that Governor Voorhees will present the names of Lewis H. Schenck for County Judge, and James L. Griggs for County Prosecutor, both of Somerset county, to the State Senate, and ask that the appointments be confirmed. And there is also no doubt but that the Senate will immediately confirm them. The action of the Republican county executive committee Saturday afternoon in declaring themselves in favor of these two candidates by an overwhelming vote practically ended the contest.

The meeting Saturday afternoon was called by Senator Charles A. Reed to get the consensus of opinion of the members of the county committee. Senator Reed, it was understood, favored Mr. Schenck for Judge and Mr. Griggs for Prosecutor. There are twenty-four members of the committee, and they were all present during the afternoon. The candidates were also members and naturally took no part in the proceedings.

Regarding the choice of a County Judge the strong fight put up by Judge Bartine, a Democrat, for reappointment, was the only possibility against Schenck. A ballot was taken which showed eighteen for Schenck and two for Bartine. The choice of Schenck was immediately made unanimous.

There were three names mentioned for the prosecutorship and the ballot on that office was as follows: Griggs, 18; Suydam, 2; Reger, 1. The choice of Griggs was immediately made unanimous.

Senator Reed told a Press reporter this morning that there was no question as to who he would recommend. It would certainly be the men chosen in the caucus Saturday afternoon. As the Senator is the recognized leader in the county, there is no doubt but that the Governor will stand by his recommendation and present the names of Messrs. Schenck and Griggs to the Senate at once, probably this evening.

WHERE PEACE REIGNS.

Borough Has Been on Extraordinary Good Behavior the Past Year.

According to the statement of Chief Marshal Campbell, of the borough, there have been thus far about forty-six arrests made in the borough during the past year, while in the previous year the number reached 229. He says that if there is no trouble, that if people do not violate ordinances and make themselves liable to arrest, he cannot arrest them. This is logical if nothing else. Chief Campbell's theory is that "if there ain't nothing, there aint, and if there is, there is, and that is all there is to it."

To Go Into Business for Himself.

PACK TRAIN TAKEN.

Filipinos Ambush Americans and Seize Goods.

NEGROS UPRISING WAS SERIOUS.

Officials of the Autonomous Government Were In Revolt—Many Prominent Men In the Island Arrested and May Be Expelled.

MANILA, Jan. 22.—The escort of 50 men of Company C, Thirtieth infantry, Lieutenant Ralston commanding, which was ambushed near Lipa, as already cabled, consisted of 50 convalescents from the hospital who were going to rejoin the regiment. The insurgents hid in the bushes along the road and opened fire upon the pack train from three sides.

The Americans, in addition to their casualties, were compelled to abandon the train, which consisted of 22 horses. The latter, with their packs, all fell into the hands of the insurgents, who pursued the retreating escort for three miles along the road until the Americans were reenforced.

Mail advices from Negros bring particulars of the uprising last month in the southern part of the island in which Lieutenant A. C. Ledyard, Sixth infantry, was killed. Instead of being an unimportant revolt of native police, as was at first reported, it appears to have been an attempt to overthrow American authority. The movement was started by the chief officials of the autonomous government, the men who were elected and inaugurated with so much ceremony last November.

Eleven of these officials, including the president and several councilors, were lodged in jail on the charge of plotting treason. Several secured their release under heavy bonds, but others remain in prison.

General Smith found evidence that the revolting police were following the orders of the autonomous government, which designed to use the forces under its control to overpower the Americans. The plot failed through being started prematurely, but Negros was in a state of uneasiness for a week. Two companies of the Twenty-sixth infantry were hurried from Iloilo to re-enforce the garrison at Bacolod.

The officials arrested include some of the most prominent men in Negros. It is believed that they will be expelled from the island.

Major Johnson, with two companies of the Forty-sixth regiment, and Major Muir, with three companies of the Thirty-eighth, have defeated 800 rebels at Taal, in the southern province of Batangas. They captured three cannon and many other arms. The American loss was two men wounded. The gunboat Marietta co-operated with the troops.

Farmers Buy a Fake Corn Sheller.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 22.—A short time ago a man claiming to be the authorized agent of an Ohio manufacturing concern took a large number of orders for a patent corn sheller from the farmers in this vicinity. By a special agreement the customers were to pay part of the cost at the time the order was given and the balance upon the delivery of the sheller. The agent has not been seen since, but the farmers all received a pine board 12 by 6 inches, with one end bound with a piece of sheet iron. The following directions were sent along with it: "Sit on the board and draw the corn over the iron end, and it can be shelled with ease."

Street Car Strike In Troy.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Not a street car moved in this city yesterday. The United Traction company was completely tied up by the men going out on strike at 6 a. m. The tieup is perhaps the most complete of the kind ever attempted. With lines operating in five cities all close together, the United Traction company officials were unable to get a man to touch a Troy car. Three hundred and sixty-five men went out. The strike was the result of the action of Superintendent Edgar S. Fassett in refusing to consider an application from the Troy employees for 20 cents an hour and ten hours to constitute a day's work.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—Ex-Governor Bradley of Kentucky will deliver one of the leading addresses at the annual banquet following the convention of the Ohio Republican league at Cincinnati Feb. 12. Dolliver of Iowa, Governor Nash, ex-Governor Bushnell, Senators Foraker and Hanna, Hon. H. M. Daugherty and Hon. Charles Dick.

Attempted Jail Delivery.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Through a timely discovery a jail delivery was frustrated at the Ulster county jail, where there are 40 prisoners. Boards had been forced loose from a ceiling of the building and from the flooring above it, and everything was in readiness for the escape into a room above, from which it would be easy for the prisoners to have gained their liberty. Five prisoners made their escape in this way last year.

Fire Suffocates Six.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—A fire which started in a barroom in the old St. Mary market neighborhood soon after midnight obtained considerable headway before the firemen reached the scene, and half a dozen people in the adjoining building were suffocated before help reached them. They were mostly Sicilians. Four were taken out dead, and the others will hardly live.

DEATH OF RUSKIN.

Famous Art Critic Passes Away at a Ripe Age.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—John Ruskin died here of influenza, aged 81 years.

The remains of Mr. John Ruskin, in accordance with a wish he expressed years ago, will be interred in Coniston churchyard. The funeral will take place on Thursday.

John Ruskin was born in London in 1819, the son of a Scotchman from Perth who had made a large fortune in the wine trade. In his "Preterita" he has given a charming account of his childhood and early life, giving much credit to his mother, who aided in guiding the development of his native tastes and talent. She even went to Oxford with him and remained during his early terms there. He was graduated from Christchurch, Oxford, in 1842 with high honors, having in 1839 gained the Newdigate prize for English poetry. He entered at once upon the study of art, took ground against the prevailing tendency to conventionalism or imitation of the old masters and in 1843 produced his "Modern Painters."

In 1846 Ruskin republished his "Modern Painters" with many additions and continued to add to it till it finally appeared in five splendid volumes, having grown to an elaborate philosophical treatise on landscape painting. Meanwhile he was traveling extensively and studying the art of Europe, especially in Venice, the results of which appear in "The Stones of Venice" and the "Seven Lamps of Architecture."

Ruskin's married life was strongly tinctured with an unusual form of romance. Having learned that his wife and John Millais, the painter, were very much in love with each other, although in a strictly proper way, Ruskin is said to have informed his spouse that he was unwilling to stand in the way of her happiness. Suit for divorce was accordingly entered by the lady, who afterward married Millais. Ruskin's friendship for the couple continued unabated up to the time of his mental obscuration.

John Ruskin in his early prime did for art a great work—a work in some respects like that Bacon did for philosophy. He recalled artists from an excessive reverence for authority and from a cold and speculative refinement to a livelier study of nature and faith in nature's methods.

The Yaquis Badly Whipped.

NOGALES, A. T., Jan. 22.—News has been received from the south that General Lorenzo Torres had engaged the Yaquis at Macoyata on Thursday, killing over 200 and taking 500 prisoners. Father Beltran and several sisters of charity who have been held as prisoners of war by the Yaquis for the last six months were rescued by the victorious Mexicans and are now with General Torres. It is expected that this last important victory of General Torres will have the effect of scattering the Yaquis and will result in ending the war.

Stranded Ship's Crew Saved.

LEWES, Del., Jan. 22.—The steamer which the Fenwick island life saving station reported Saturday night as stranded on Fenwick island shoals, about eight miles offshore, proves to be the British steamer Sutton, with a cargo of iron ore from Carthagena, Spain, for Philadelphia. The Sutton stranded at 6 o'clock Saturday morning during a dense fog. After working all day to back off the shoals the vessel, from constant pounding, began to fill and settle. The crew of 24 were taken off in safety.

BIG GRASSHOPPER.

It Ornaments the Top of the Royal Exchange, One of the Most Important Buildings of London.

The grasshopper shown here is just six feet 6½ inches from what might be called end to end, meaning to exclude the long projecting antennæ, or "feelers."

Measuring these, we have an additional three feet, and if the grasshopper here shown were made to stretch his hind legs to their full extent we would have, say, two feet more—or a total of 11 feet 6½ inches.

This grasshopper is placed on the top of the Royal exchange, London. This building is in the center of the city, facing the mansion house and Bank of England.

IMMENSE GRASSHOPPER.
(It Ornaments the Top of the Royal Exchange at London.)

Just how the grasshopper came to find its elevated position is a matter more of tradition than history. One account has it that in early days the Royal exchange, being more or less in the fields, was frequented by numerous grasshoppers, which dwelled in the high grass of the exchange court.

From this circumstance, the London builders of the present structure thought to perpetuate memories of these early times by placing a model of a grasshopper upon the building.

The more authentic account, however, is somewhat less fantastic. The Royal exchange was built by Lord Gresham. The crest of the Gresham family—who were a very old and distinguished set of persons—was a grasshopper. Now, when Gresham built the exchange it is natural that his crest should surmount the highest pinnacle on the building.

Of course, the building built by Gresham has long since passed away. It was destroyed in the great fire of 1666. Another structure was erected, but it, too, was burned down, though the present clock tower (shown in the photograph) remained.

It is a singular coincidence that the last tune played by the clock before the flames reached the tower was "There's Nae Luck About the House."

The grasshopper was destroyed in this second fire, but it was reconstructed on a more elaborate scale on the building of the last exchange. The last grasshopper was gilded.

A legend went that when the grasshopper on the Royal exchange and the dragon on Bow church met, a great disaster would happen to London. Both the dragon and the grasshopper were being repaired in the same shop about 1847, yet nothing of moment happened to London in that year.

The photograph shown here was taken from a roof facing the exchange.

FIRE ESCAPE TRUCK.

A New Invention Which, According to Its Originators, Makes the Saving of Life Easy.

No great improvement in fire ladders has been made for some time, the hook and ladder truck having retained its present character for many years. In a new and apparently practicable patented improvement in fire escape trucks

NEW LIFE-SAVING DEVICE.
(Lades-Parsons Extensible Steel Shaft Fire Escape.)

the familiar ladder is replaced by a telescoping extensible steel shaft which is pneumatically extended, resembling when extended an elongated pole with many sections. At the top of this steel column is a bracket arm from which swings a basket supported on ropes, in which the fire-bound victims make their descent to the ground. This device is the invention of Henry A. Lades and William C. Parsons, of Binghamton, N. Y. Provision is also made for tilting the steel shaft so as to throw the basket directly in front of the windows where it is required. With a fireproof basket and rope it is possible for women and children to make their escape from the upper stories of blazing buildings under circumstances where it would be necessary for a fireman to go up a ladder and assist or carry them to the ground. Furthermore, this arrangement can be operated as readily and with as great speed and be made with as great a reach as the longest ladders.

BOERS DRIVEN BACK

All Day Sunday the Battle Raged Fiercely.

BRITISH GAIN THREE POSITIONS

Buller's Forces Are Steadily Pushing the Enemy Backward In a Difficult and Uphill Fight In the Face of a Heavy Fire.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Yesterday was quite a record day at the war office. As if anticipating important news, the authorities announced on Saturday that the lobbies of the war office would be open throughout Sunday, and the knowledge that a great crucial battle was proceeding brought a continuous stream of inquirers of all classes.

Some gloomy forebodings were caused by the bulletin announcing that nearly 300 had been wounded, but in general a cheery confidence was expressed in the success of General Buller's movement. On its being announced that further official dispatches were improbable tonight the crowd dispersed, expressing disappointment that the news was no better.

The Times has the following, dated Sunday evening, from Spearman's camp:

"All yesterday and today General Warren has been attacking the Boers. Their position is a long ridge four miles northwest of Trichard's drift, ascending from the river. At dawn yesterday (Saturday) our guns occupied a kopje on the east of the range.

"The enemy's defenses were chiefly stone sangars extending forward and right along the spur, making the position semicircular. At 11 o'clock General Hart's brigade advanced on the left along a rocky, uneven spur into the semicircle under heavy fire from three directions. Taking advantage of all possible cover, the troops advanced to a point within 500 yards of the enemy's right wing, but they did not advance beyond the edge of the cover. There they remained until dark and bivouacked.

"In addition to Maxim-Nordenfeldts the enemy fired shrapnel captured at Colenso. Their fire was intermittent and was always temporarily silenced by our massed batteries. At night the enemy's right wing evacuated its position."

General Buller cables to the war office:

"Spearman's Camp, Jan. 21.—General Warren has been engaged all day, chiefly on his left, which he has swung forward about a couple of miles. The ground is very difficult, and as the fighting is all the time uphill it is difficult to say exactly how much we have gained, but I think we are making substantial progress."

A later dispatch says: "General Warren's engagement continues. He has forced the enemy from three positions. The Lancashire and Irish brigades are advancing steadily. The fire is very severe occasionally."

The war office has received the following from General Buller, dated Spearman's Camp, Jan. 21:

"In order to relieve the pressure on General Warren and to ascertain the strength of the enemy in the position in front of Potgieter's drift General Lyttleton made a reconnoissance in force yesterday. This kept the enemy in their trenches in full strength all day.

"Our casualties were: Third battalion, King's Royal rifles, 2 killed, 12 wounded and two missing."

The war office has posted this dispatch from General Buller, dated Jan. 21:

"The following were wounded in the action near Venter's spruit yesterday: Officers, staff, Colonel B. Hamilton and Major C. McGregor; Second Lancashire fusileers, Captain R. B. Blunt and Second Lieutenants M. G. Crofton and E. J. M. Barrett; First Border rifles, Captain C. D. Vaughan and Second Lieutenant Murlor; First York and Lancashires, Second Lieutenant A. H. Keirrey; Second Dublin fusileers, Captain C. A. Hensley, since dead, and Major F. English; Second Gordons, Second Lieutenant P. D. Stewart, and 279 noncommissioned officers and men."

The war office has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Cape Town, Jan. 21:

"General French reports a demonstration with cavalry and two guns toward Hebron on Friday, but that otherwise his situation is unchanged."

A third supplementary list of the British casualties in the attack upon Ladysmith on Jan. 6 is published by the war office. It shows 28 noncommissioned officers and men killed and five dangerously wounded. This brings the total of casualties in that engagement to 488.

The publication of the fact that President Kruger is sending a private car to take Mr. Webster Davis from Lourenco Marques to Pretoria is causing considerable speculation here as to whether Mr. Davis, notwithstanding the denials from Washington, has not some sort of official mission.

It is thought rather singular that a simple traveler, even though an official at home, should receive so much attention.

The American hospital ship Maine, from the West India docks, London, Dec. 23, has arrived here.

General Warren's Advance.

DURBAN, Jan. 22.—The Natal Advertiser has the following from Spearman's camp, dated Saturday:

"General Warren's column attacked a lengthy Boer position on the northern ridge of Spion kop. A heavy bombardment by a field battery preceded the advance. The Boers eventually replied with two guns, several machine guns and rifles. The British responded similarly, and long range firing became general, lasting until dark.

"General Hildyard drew the Boers from a splendid position simultaneously by a demonstration on their frontal position, drawing a feeble fire from their Nordenfeldts and rifles.

"The British naval guns and howitzers shelled the trenches with excellent effect, and many Boers were observed bolting. The British artillery completely silenced the Boer fire, and at nightfall the British infantry occupied an excellent advanced position."

Mr. Davis Received Kindly.

LOURENCO MARQUES, Jan. 22.—Mr. Webster Davis, United States assistant secretary of the interior, arrived here yesterday on his way to Pretoria and called upon the governor general, Captain Alvaro da Costa Ferreira, who gave him a most courteous reception and requested him to convey a message of special friendship to President McKinley. The Transvaal government has informed Mr. Davis that President Kruger's saloon carriage will convey him to Pretoria.

MUCH PRO-BOER TALK

An Enthusiastic Meeting Held In Washington.

STRONG RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY

British Rapacity and Barbarous War Tactics Strongly Denounced—The President Blamed For Not Taking Notice of the Outrages.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Grand Opera House, the largest auditorium in Washington, was packed to the doors last night with an enthusiastic audience, which vigorously expressed its sympathy with the Boers in their fight with Great Britain. The demonstration was planned as a means of evidencing public sentiment and in numbers and enthusiasm was fully up to expectations. The speakers included members of both branches of congress, and on the stage were other public men who came merely to add their moral support. The keynote of the speeches was that the Boers were fighting for their independence, as our forefathers had done in 1776.

Among those who occupied seats on the stage were Senators Mason of Illinois, Allen of Nebraska and Tillman of South Carolina, Representatives Clark, De Armond and Cochran of Missouri, Bailey of Texas, Carmack and Cox of Tennessee, Rhea, Jones and Lamb of Virginia, Shafroth of Colorado, Dovenor of West Virginia, Meyer of Louisiana, Sulzer of New York and Lentz of Ohio and Mr. Van Sicklen, representative of the Orange Free State at New York, and others. Congressman Sulzer presided.

Among the speakers were Senators Mason and Allen and Representatives Champ Clark and Bailey.

A number of letters and telegrams were received, including one from Senator Hale of Maine expressing regret at inability to be present and entire sympathy with the movement.

Strong resolutions of sympathy were adopted, in which England was accused of rapacity and greed and the president blamed for not taking proper notice of the outrages.

Pastor Kicks Over the Traces.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 22.—The Rev. James C. McInness, pastor of the Oakland Congregational chapel, yesterday announced his retirement from the ministry. He said: "I believe in dancing and a long list of other things that are tabooed by churchgoers when indulged in by ministers. If a man needs a drink, he has the right to take it. When I meet a man on the street, I like to slap him on the back and say, 'Hello, there, Bill,' in a good, hearty voice. I believe in God and Christianity, but the church is burdened with false ideas and full of sinful hypocrites, and some of my friends who might be called 'lushers' are infinitely better than these frauds of piety. The ministry is no place for a young man who wants his personal liberty. He must use too much hypocrisy himself and overlook too much hypocrisy in others."

Mexico Badly Shaken.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 22.—News is arriving from the interior points affected by the earthquake Friday night and Saturday morning. Much damage was done to property in Guadalajara, and the city of Colima, capital of the state of the same name, was the scene of terrifying experiences, accompanied by loss of life. The City of Mexico came off comparatively unscathed, few accidents occurring here, although some adobe huts in the suburbs fell in and one bridge was partly wrecked. The Church of the Three Kings at Atzchatzalco, in the suburbs, was cracked and will be closed for repairs.

Colson Indicted For Murder.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 22.—The grand jury has indicted ex-Congressman David G. Colson, who was colonel of the Fourth Kentucky regiment, for murder on two counts. The first charges the willful murder of Lieutenant Ethelbert Scott, one of the principals in Tuesday's triple tragedy, and the other the murder of Luther W. Demaree, one of the bystanders who was killed. The grand jury was granted a further extension of time, and it is understood that more testimony is to be heard as to the killing of Charles Julian, the other bystander.

Democratic Traveling Agent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The Chronicle today says: "W. H. Hinrichsen, ex-secretary of state, ex-congressman from the Sixteenth district and editor of the Illinois Democratic Bulletin, has been appointed general traveling agent of the national Democratic ways and means committee and will assume the duties of his office at once. Early this week he will start on a tour of the southern states and will meet the Democratic state committee of Louisiana Thursday."

A House Breaker Arrested.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 22.—The largest robbery which has occurred in New Haven in many years has been made public by the arrest of Aaron H. Swan, charged with burglary. Several days ago the house of H. A. Lincoln, 51 Lyon street, was entered and money, bank books, notes, etc., to the value of $20,000 taken. The matter was reported to the police, who have been investigating the matter quietly ever since. Swan's arrest was the result of their efforts.

Professor Washington In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Booker T. Washington addressed the Young Men's Sunday club yesterday at Quinn chapel, his subject being "The Industrial Development of the Colored Race In the United States." The speaker predicted a bright future for the colored people in this country. He appealed to his hearers to cultivate a high moral character and try to elevate men and women of the race who are less fortunate.

A Good Citizen Gone.

PETERBORO, N. H., Jan. 22.—Charles Brooks, one of Peterboro's most prominent citizens, is dead in his eightieth year. He was a native of Stow, Mass. He was president of the Peterboro Savings bank and a director of the First National bank. He served as selectman seven years and had also served as town treasurer and represented the town in the legislature.

Osman Digna In Prison.

SUAKIN, Egypt, Jan. 22.—Osman Digna, principal general of the late Khalifa Abdullah, who was captured last Thursday in the hills near Tokar, was brought here yesterday and imprisoned.

For the horse, as for his master,
Ivory finds abundant scope;
Galls and scratches heal much faster,
When well cleansed with Ivory Soap.
Where 'tis used, the work is lighter,
Sleek and smooth the horses' coats,
Harness softer, carriage brighter,
And—a final charm—it floats.

SHELDON WILL SHOW HOW.

Author of "In His Steps" to Be Editor For One Week.

TOPEKA, Jan. 22.—The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," is to be given an opportunity to edit a daily newspaper as he thinks a Christian daily should be edited. For the week beginning March 13 he will have absolute control of every department of the Topeka Capital-News, editorial and advertising. At the Detroit convention of the Christian Endeavor society Mr. Sheldon asked what "philanthropic gentleman in this age of munificent endowments to educational institutions would give $1,000,000 for the creation of a great Christian daily."

The philanthropic gentleman has not appeared with the money, but in response to the appeals of the leading citizens of Topeka, Mr. Sheldon's home, Mr. Dell Keyser, the president of the Topeka Capital company, offered to give the paper to Mr. Sheldon for one week, and the offer has been accepted. It is understood that able writers are to assist Mr. Sheldon and that statesmen, prominent divines and editors of some of the dailies of New York, Chicago and St. Louis will help him by suggestions. Mr. Sheldon has not yet given any intimation of his plans.

EYRE'S BODY FOUND.

Clubman of Chester, Pa., Had Been Missing For Weeks.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—On the shore of Raccoon island, in the Delaware river, near Bridgeport, N. J., yesterday John Carney discovered the body of George B. Eyre, the missing clubman of Chester, Pa., partially imbedded in the mud. It was towed to shore and taken to Bridgeport.

Back of the right ear is a gunshot wound nearly two inches in diameter. The head and skull are crushed. The feet were tied with a rope which looks like the painter of a gunning skiff.

Watch and rings were missing. Only a part of the chain was attached to his gunning suit. There was no money in the pockets.

Chief of Police Berry of Chester and several members of the Alpha Boat club went to Bridgeport and positively identified the body as that of Eyre.

The wounds on the head show conclusively that the man was murdered.

Eyre disappeared Dec. 21.

Trade at Manila.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The war department has made public a statement showing the imports at the port of Manila for the three months of July, August and September last, being the first official data relating to imports during so long a period since American occupation. The total value of merchandise entered at the Manila custom house for the three months named was $5,802,581. In addition there was $52,520 in gold coin and $255,294 in silver coin from British India and $332,707 in silver coin from China, bringing the aggregate of imports up to $6,443,102, or at the rate of more than $25,300,000 a year for Manila alone.

Veteran Editor Dead.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Jan. 22.—Ex-Judge Schoch, the oldest editor in point of active and continuous service on one newspaper in the United States, is dead at his home here at the age of 86 years. Ex-Judge Schoch took charge of The Jeffersonian in 1840 and since then had been editor and publisher. He enjoyed the best of health up to within two weeks ago and did work on his paper until quite recently.

Jailer Henry's Slayer Captured.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Jan. 22.—Ben Richardson, who murdered Jailer Allen Henry in the jail here on the 17th, has been captured at Mammoth Springs, Ark., by Benjamin Elder, the mayor of the town. Richardson went to the home of Elder and begged for food. Elder invited him in and when he had seated himself at the table covered him with a gun Richardson surrendered without resistance and confessed his crime.

Spanish Finances.

MADRID, Jan. 22.—The minister of finance has introduced in the chamber of deputies a bill authorizing the conversion at par into 4 per cent perpetual stock of the Cuban 6 per cent mortgage issue of 1886, the Cuban 5 per cent bonds of 1896 and the Philippine 4 per cent exterior debt.

FASTING AND PRAYER.

Frankfort (Ky.) Ministers Say People Should Humiliate Themselves.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 22.—The clergymen of Frankfort have decided that next Tuesday shall be set apart in this city as a day of humiliation and prayer. Services will be held in the Episcopal church at three different times during the day, the first service being at 9 a. m., the second at 4 p. m. and the third at 7 p. m. The churches uniting in observance of the day include the Episcopal, Baptist, Methodist, two Presbyterian, Christian and Roman Catholic—all the churches in Frankfort.

The clergymen of the various denominations announced from their pulpits yesterday that the deplorable events of the last week in the city of Frankfort and the continued talk of the possible repetition of such affairs as the Colson-Scott tragedy which is at times indulged in by indiscreet political partisans had rendered necessary some steps to awaken the public conscience to the dangers threatening the commonwealth.

Prayers will be offered at all three services asking that men of both parties may be guided to act with wisdom and moderation and that the danger of further bloodshed may be safely passed.

Attorneys of both sides were busy all day preparing evidence to be submitted during the next week. While no agreement has been reached regarding the time to be allowed for the further introduction of evidence, it is believed that it will require all of this week for the examination of witnesses and that arguments will not be made until next week. The Republicans have decided not to place William T. Clarke of New York on the stand and have withdrawn the subpœna served upon him. "These politicians," declared Mr. Clarke, "run around with a bunch of subpœnas in their hands and read them to every stranger that shows up. That's the only way they could have dragged me into the thing. Now, when I go back to New York, people will say I posed as the confidential man of Richard Croker when I did not." And Mr. Clarke was deeply disgusted.

IN CONGRESS.

Senate Will Talk Finance—House Will Discuss Roberts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The senate again this week will devote itself almost exclusively to speechmaking. A variety of subjects will be covered. The financial bill will remain the unfinished business, but the senate will not be held strictly to its consideration. Several set speeches probably will be made upon it, among those who are expected to speak being Senators Cockrell, Daniel and Allen. No announcement has yet been made of speeches on the affirmative side of the measure, but now that a day has been agreed upon for a vote it may be expected that some of the friends of the bill will speak in its defense.

The feature of the proceedings in the house this week will be the consideration of the case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon representative elect from Utah. The case has attracted intense interest all over the country. Though both the majority and minority of the committee which investigated the case agree that Mr. Roberts should not sit as a member of the house on account of alleged polygamous practices, there will be a royal struggle over the question of procedure, upon which the committee has split. The case will be called up tomorrow, and two, possibly three, days will be devoted to it. The majority of the committee hold that Mr. Roberts should be excluded, while the minority contend that he should be seated and then expelled.

Canal Arbitrators.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 22.—The Nicaraguan government will appoint Senores Jose D. Rodriguez and Bruno Buitrage as arbitrators for Nicaragua in adjusting the differences with the Maritime Canal company. It is understood that the government will object to United States Minister Merry and Mr. Rudolph Weiser, the company's agent, as representatives of the company in the arbitration.

An Inconsistent Policy.

It requires a philosopher of more than ordinary perspicuity to understand the reasoning of the Riker Hine trolley syndicate. We confess our inability to comprehend the motives that operate the corporation that is gridironing Union county with street railway tracks. However, without striving to delve into the innermost depths of the master minds that are directing the affairs of the trolley company, it is plain to be seen that their policy is a most inconsistent one—a veritable ebb and tide of contradiction of a most flagrant sort.

Scarcely a week passes but what some new order of things is inaugurated by the company which arouses public objection and indignation because of its being a violation of an understanding with the public. If it is not that, then it is a determination on the part of the trolley people to refuse to accede to what the public demand for the use of certain privileges. Whatever it may be the company attempts to fortify its attitude with the cry that it would be fatal for it to do anything else—in fact, it is among the impossibilities for it to do so. In the matter of fares, transfers and benefits to be allowed for the granting of franchises to it, we have seen instances of this sort many times. In this city a valuable franchise was refused only to be accepted later on with all the terms that the company at first said it was impossible for them to accept; in Elizabeth we have seen exactly the same course of events. Again in this city we have seen the company establish a system of carrying passengers to and from Dunellen, which allowed no transfers with the connecting trolley line, because, the syndicate claimed, it would lose money by doing otherwise. Yet within a few weeks they granted everything that had been asked of them. Recently in Westfield we witnessed the same kind of an exhibition with a similar result. Now, in the present month, the company cut off the right of transfers to Scotch Plains passengers for the various branches in this city. Under pressure of public sentiment the company retreated from its position in the matter in less than a week after the new order went into effect.

Giving the syndicate the benefit of doubt about its animus in such actions as are rehearsed above, the presumption must obtain that the company was justified, to protect its interests, in seeking to enforce the claims and rules which it made. In taking a stand in all these matters the company's officials have said that to conserve the interests of the capital that had been invested in the trolley enterprise it would be impossible for them to do otherwise than they proposed.

Yet in the face of these positive declarations that bankruptcy and failure stared them in the face to do contrary to what they had outlined, the syndicate has gone and done exactly what it proclaimed it was impossible to do. Such action has been accomplished finally by their own decision, and if they acceded to impracticable demands or conceded to unfair arrangements they had no one to blame but themselves, except insofar as they had overstepped the legal stipulations already entered into—and for these they should be held strictly accountable.

Now the trolley capitalists must have been either right or wrong. If the former, then they are a reckless set of men. If the latter, then they have been insincere and are entitled to no quarter in the consideration of the public. In taking a common sense view of the whole situation it appears that the syndicate has been dickering with the people in the form of several gigantic bluffs. By their pendelum-like antics they have lost whatever confidence the public ever had in them, and hereafter their dealings with municipalities should be carried out only with iron-clad contracts in which evasion will be fraught with such serious results that the people can depend upon a steady and honest service continuously.

An Exception to the Rule.

It is an accepted idea that anything that Senator Sewell favors or opposes before the Legislature will meet with a fate that is entirely in accordance with the Senator's opinion on the subject. But there are exceptions to every rule, and according to the New Jersey editor of the New York Tribune the people of the State will witness a demonstration of it at the present session. Respecting the abolishing of the spring elections, the Tribune says:

"General Sewell is not taking any part whatever in the movement to abolish spring elections. He does not believe in it; in fact, his personal opinions to the contrary are pretty strong. His judgment is in favor of having purely local or municipal questions or fights settled on their merits and by themselves at a time when they won't affect anything else and when anything else won't affect them. Indeed, if the change could be made without much cost or trouble the General would probably favor the election of Assemblymen, Senators and Congressmen separate entirely from county officials. But he will not interfere for or against the proposed Anti-Spring Election bill. He will leave the Statesmen in Trenton to fight it out among themselves. The present outlook is that the bill will pass."

The Legislature has paid a proper tribute to the memory of the late Vice-President Hobart in setting aside a day to be observed in honor of the lamented Jerseyman. January 30th is the date set for honoring the memory of one who was distinctly a Jerseyman from the day he was born to the day he died—always holding allegiance to this commonwealth, devoted to its interests and admired and loved by all its people. Mr. Hobart died at the high tide of success in life, his career adding lustre to the State which claimed him as its own.

After having drawn upon the wealth of the Gould family for several millions, the discredited and disgraced Count Boni de Castellane is returning to this country for the purpose of recouping his purse by some hook or crook. The Count may find it a hard job to raise the cash after raising so much duece.

Franklin Murphy, of Newark, was named at the Fremont Club, of Hudson City, Thursday night as a possible candidate for Vice-President of the United States. Samuel Monroe advanced the idea, and the members discussed it with considerable enthusiasm.

OLD FASHIONED IDEAS

Time was when people considered it necessary to go to New York City to buy Dress Goods. We are not going to debate the question as to what may have been necessary in days gone by, but we do assert most emphatically that only in exceptional cases is it necessary or good policy to run off to N. Y. to see what is new and desirable in these latter days. We admit that N. Y. merchants offer many bargains in Dress Goods, but invariably they are out of date or undesirable fabrics culled from stock and such goods as we refuse to handle. This season we have made heavy purchases of the newest weaves direct from mills of well established reputation and shall offer rare values in what fashion decrees shall be most worn. The last shipment brought us the following:

54 in. Cheviots, made from fine quality wool, excellently dyed and of beautiful lustre. They come in grays, castors, black and all the new spring shades, and are steam sponged and shrunken. Price is 1.25. If same goods can be bought in N. Y. for less than 1.50 money will be refunded.

Also the well-known VICUNA SERGES made by the Broadhead Worsted Mills. They are 52 in. wide, good weight, do not wrinkle or rough up and have a beautiful bright lustre. Exceedingly desirable for both beauty and service. Price $1.10 per yd. Also sponged and shrunken.

RIPPLE CLOTH—The latest weave and exquisitely beautiful, 54 in wide. Price 98c per yard. Only a few colors as yet.

GRANITE CLOTHS—Also made by the Broadhead Woolen Mills and controlled by us in this city. The name is a fair indication of the goods. They are made to wear, yet beauty of finish is a striking feature of the fabric. A large range of colorings to select from including the new blues, castors, grays, tans, etc. They are 38 in wide. We know of their selling in a neighboring city for 69c. Our price 59c.

These are but a few straws showing which way the Dress Goods Winds are blowing. All indications point to materials for Tailor-made Suits and you may depend upon our having the best. It will be a pleasure to show these goods, but please don't ask for samples. No Sample can give an adequate idea of the beauty of any Fabric.

What we claim for our dress goods is equally true of wash goods, embroideries, allovers, etc, They are just as new, equally attractive, quite as reliable and somewhat cheaper than those shown in N. Y. We ask Nobody to Buy. We ask everybody to Look. It costs nothing to look here. It costs something to look in N. Y.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 22.—The first accident in the township since the trolley line was opened up, happened Saturday afternoon. Scheelen Brothers, the borough grocers, were the victims. Their wagon, driven by Charles Scheelen, were making their usual Saturday delivery on Westfield avenue, when, without the warning ring of the bell or any other call of danger, the wagon was crashed into by a car. The result was the back of the wagon was scratched and one of the wheels was wrecked. The horse being a very gentle animal made no attempt to get away or the damage would probably have been a great deal worse. The only excuse the motorman gave was that he lost control of his car and was unable to stop as soon as he expected he could. Scheelen Brothers will look to the company for a settlement.

Miss Dorothy and Master La Pere, children of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Beekon, of Fanwood, tendered a party to a number of their little friends, at their home Saturday afternoon. In honor of a double event, as Master La Pere's ninth and Miss Dorothy's sixth birthday were only separated by two weeks, so the pleasant little affair was arranged in honor of both. Music, games and refreshments passed away several delightful hours to both the little guests and their young host and hostess and the party will remain a pleasant memory to both.

One of the afternoon trolley cars yesterday jumped the track while taking the Park avenue switch. Travel was delayed for half an hour, when jacks were brought from Plainfield and the car placed on the track again.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will hold a special meeting in their rooms this evening. Business of importance will come before the meeting and the members are urgently requested to attend.

Miss May Johnson, of New York city, was the guest Saturday and Sunday of Miss Susie L. Parse.

John R. Haskard, of Grant avenue, spent Sunday with his mother Mrs. John Haskard.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 22—Thieves broke one of the show windows in Mrs. E. Goldberg's shoe store, corner of North and Westfield avenues, early Saturday morning and stole sixteen pairs of shoes, valued at about $35. Officer Marsh, who is investigating the robbery, says that he has a clue and will, without a doubt, land the thieves.

There was a large crowd at the Social Club bowling alleys Saturday evening to witness the match game between the regular team, headed by C. E. Pearsall, and the scrub team, of which R. M. Stickle is the captain. Three games were played, the regulars taking two of them, but they defeated their opponents by only a few pins, while the "scrubs" gave them a good trouncing in the second game. Another series of games will be played the coming Saturday evening, as the members of the scrub team are confident that they can give the first team a good defeat.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Just as surely as you can name a meritorious minstrel organization, equally positive can you be of the fact that at some time in its career the name of John W. Vogel was hearlded as its manager, for John has directed the tours of every large minstrel company ever organized. This season Mr. Vogel presents John W. Vogel and Arthur Deming's big minstrels, a pretentious organization of fifty members, prominent among whom are Arthur Deming, Ollie Young, Bentham and Byrne, Thos. L. Mack, Olvio, Marion and Pearl, John T. Hoffman and John Queen. The vocal contingent comprises eight prominent soloists including Master Georgie Jones, the famous boy baritone. Lew Scott is in charge of the silver cornet band while the double symphony orchestra is directed by the well-known composer and arranger, E. L. Wayne. It has not been our good fortune to see this performance given by Vogel's new enterprise, but hardly a day passes without our noting a clever criticism in some exchange. The company is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow via the Central road in their own train of palace sleeping, dining and baggage cars and a big street parade at noon and a great minstrel show in the evening at Music Hall is assured. Seats can be secured at box office.

FASHION NOTES.

Out of Door Garments For Big and Little Girls.

The mode sanctions simplicity in the gowns for young girls. Many attractive ones are made with trimmings of narrow black velvet.

The circular ruffle is at last beginning to retire from favor. It was once universal, but now some of the new models quite ignore it. This is especially the case with wraps. Rich applications or elaborate schemes of stitching appear, but no ruffles. A new model of a loose, full length coat is open at the seams for about a foot from the edge, thus allowing for the flare of the gown, which has hitherto been accommodated by a circular flounce around the lower edge of the wrap.

The long, straight coat is or should be worn only by slender figures, and it must be properly trimmed, and the wearer must have a dignified carriage if it is not to appear like a sleeping costume. One of these coats seen the other day was of bright red cloth made perfectly plain and was irresistibly suggestive of a red flannel nightgown.

The girl's coat illustrated is of plain golf cloth. It is loose and has wide revers of plaid golf cloth down the front fastened by stitched straps of plain cloth with buttons. The large capuchin is lined with silk and bordered with plaid, which forms a little knot in front. The sleeves have plaid cuffs. The felt hat is trimmed with a chou and drapery of velvet and a curved feather.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE LATEST STYLES.

Sheathlike Princess Gowns and Plaited Skirts.

Skirts and bodices having been reduced to the lowest denomination of smooth tightness, the princess gown is the next step, and the newest ones are made like a sheath as far down as the knees, where the skirt suddenly flares. When the fastening is in the middle of the back, buttons and buttonholes are usually employed and are sometimes continued downward to the point where the skirt begins to expand. This is the extreme novelty of the moment. When the fastening is not in the middle of the back, there is, as a rule, no seam there at all.

PLAITED COSTUME.

The fastening may be immediately under the arm or concealed by the drapery or trimming of the front. In order to gain the necessary fullness over the bust without making the darts too large, an extra dart is placed in the middle of the front. Drapery, boleros, tunics and other accessories are frequently seen, but the most complicated of such costumes are made upon a plain, perfectly fitting, sheathlike foundation.

Plaited skirts are a novelty, but they do not depart from the clinging order, as the plaits are stitched down, pressed and the extra goods on the inside cut away. The picture shows a gown of this sort. The skirt of plaited panne has three stitched bands of cloth around the foot. The close bodice is of embroidered cloth, and over it is a short, plaited bolero of the panne, trimmed with stitched cloth bands. The tight sleeves of plain panne have stitched cloth bands across the top. Two choux and a drapery of panne fasten the fronts of the bolero. The toque of panne is trimmed with curled plumes and a chou of velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

"The Cowboy and the Lady."

Play in Which Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott Are Scoring a Success.

ANGLOMANIA, as we all know, is not so rampant as it once was; it has been modified, influenced to no considerable degree by Anglophobia. To-day London does not set the pace for us as once it did, and because a thing happens to be a success in that city it does not follow New Yorkers will accept the judgment. The converse also is true.

The English did not care for "The Cowboy and the Lady," and the piece was withdrawn for "The American Citizen." Here, both in Chicago and New York, the play is meeting with approval. Mr. Goodwin is the cowboy and Maxine Elliot the lady; the two, after various vicissitudes and hairbreadth escapes, join hands at the last. Mr. Goodwin plays the part of Teddy North, a college man out west for a taste of wild and woolly life. Maxine Elliot is Mrs. Weston, wife of a ranch owner. Mr. Weston, the husband, is no angel, and his wife is pictured as much too good for him. Teddy and Mrs. Weston are neighbors and great friends, and see a good deal of each other. Mr. Weston, who, as we have intimated before, is a scoundrel, neglects his wife for the society of Mollie Larkins, the proprietress of a dance hall. Mollie, who is not particular, also accepts attentions from a half-breed named Jim. Of course, out west this state of affairs couldn't go on very long without some shooting. Mrs. Weston's "gun" is the one used. Why the lady carries the weapon we do not know, but surmise it is for the smooth running of the plot's machinery. She gives the instrument to Teddy, probably in lieu of a tress or knot of ribbon such as ye ladye faire of old was wont to bestow, and then the troubles begin. Careless Teddy lays it on the counter in the barroom and forgets to take it up again. Jim, the half-breed, sees it, takes possession and the plot thickens.

Ranch society, as seen by the dramatist, who in this particular instance is Clyde Fitch, assembles on Mrs. Weston's invitation at a dance in the hall. After the ball is over Mr. Weston and Mollie Larkins are to elope, but Jim, who has learned of the plan, steps in and makes it impossible for Mr. Weston to keep his engagement. Jim turns out the lights, shoots his man and then makes his escape. When the lights are turned on there lies Mr. Weston on the floor dead; on one side the body stands Mrs. Weston, on the other Teddy North. The lady's pistol is found near by.

North thinks the lady has killed her unfaithful spouse; the lady thinks North has done the deed. The sheriff, who in all western tales is ever conveniently near, comes forward to do his part. As he is about to arrest the wife, North, to save her, says he did the shooting. In the trial, later, the real murderer is brought to light, and Mrs. Weston and Teddy are not separated by the iron bars of a prison. Teddy, who has proved himself, in spite of his clothes and his bringing up, a worthy member of the cowboy fraternity, is very popular on the ranch lands, and everybody rejoices when the cowboy and the lady are united.

What the present effete west will think of this romantic tale of their country does not matter to the New Yorker so long as he himself knows whether or not to approve of it; and as in these days Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliot are not dependent on road tours it probably does not matter a great deal to them whether or not they offend the west. The cowboy is becoming a thing of the past, but why should he not exist in the fancy of the dramatist?

Maxine and Goodwin are very popular in England, and this popularity has led to their purchase of a "place" in that country. Within driving distance of London, far enough away to escape the dust and grime of the teeming city, they have a very English, very trim, very charming nest. Velvety lawns, neat hedges, ivy-covered stone walks one sees on the outside; within, Maxine Elliot's exquisite taste is shown in the furnishings of the house, and the whole place speaks, in the souvenirs gathered in many lands, of the wide travels of the owners. In the stables are favorite horses, among them "Kentucky," and in the kennels are the dog friends. An ideal place it is to recuperate in after the excitement and wear and tear of the stage.

How very good to look at Maxine Elliot is, perhaps no woman on the stage more so. And such hands the writer has never seen, either on or off the stage! One does not soon forget her face, her form, her carriage—or her hands. Perhaps unfriendly critics say she trades on these, she does not feel it obligatory to slave at her art. But she has been very successful.

At the Empire theater in New York, Henry V. Esmond's new play, "My Lady's Lord," caters to this taste. Lady Doura, an archduke's daughter, in pique secretly marries Jack Martin, an unknown Englishman, though she is betrothed to a prince. She loves neither Englishman nor prince, and just wants to be allowed to remain in peace without any bothersome spouse. Of course princesses should have no notions of this sort; 'tis their business to have no tastes of their own, they are but servants of the state. The prince demands the culmination of the betrothal, the Englishman demands his wife. The princess sends word to her father she'll not marry the prince, and to the man she has hastily wed that she will have him locked up if he doesn't stop bothering her. An Englishman expects to be lord and master, even if his wife be a princess, and of course such a message as that is a challenge to the husband. The prince is determined to take the lady by fair means or foul, and makes plans to steal the damsel by night. Jack, who is cognizant of the plot, meets and fights with his titled rival. He is severely wounded, and in this condition is discovered in Lady Doura's room. Her father, the archduke, is very indignant and orders the intruder to be shot at daybreak! As the hour for execution draws nigh, the repentant lady appears, obtains pardon for the young man, and bestows her heart where she has already given her hand.

As in other fairy tales, they marry and live happily ever after. Mr. William Faversham and Miss Jessie Milward play the leading parts in this comedy.

We are told "lines of anxious, would-be purchasers besieging the ticket office" is a legendary situation, that few plays of to-day are so popular as to make this necessary. "Quo Vadis," then, is one of the few. The Chicago engagement has been extended from four to seven weeks, but even so, one often can purchase standing-room only, and tickets are sold far in advance. All sorts and conditions of men, all ages and classes, crowd and jostle to win their way to the aperture behind which stands the functionary with the precious bits of pasteboard. What is it the people like about this performance; what is it that appeals so to so many? Is it the gruesome in "Quo Vadis," or is it that attendance at the play is considered a semi-religious observance? Perhaps the latter, for even during the week before Christmas, always considered the dullest period of the whole season, the play "Ben Hur" showed no decrease of attendance. Both "Quo Vadis" and "Ben Hur" may be ranked as the great spectacular successes of the season, and while the former has many flaws, it is not politic, in the present state of enthusiasm in regard to the play, to speak of them.

Like other braves, those who have given late-expressed valuations of Dewey and Kipling, we will wait till the inevitable reaction comes.

HAS A FINE RECORD.

Field Marshal Lord Roberts the Idol of the British Army.

Served Two Score Years in India and Won Many Notable Victories—His Courage Exceeded Only by His Modesty.

Throughout the length and breadth of the vast British empire there is no name that has become to such an extent a household name as that of Field Marshal Lord Roberts, popularly known as "Bobs." The idol of officers, and especially of common soldiers, a man whose deeds and career have furnished the theme of many a stirring and patriotic verse, notably by Rudyard Kipling, Lord Roberts is regarded by the military authorities at Berlin, Vienna, Paris and St. Petersburg as the foremost and perhaps the only really capable British commander of the Victorian era, his celebrated march from Cabul to Candahar constituting one of the finest feats of English arms in modern times—a feat which called forth the most enthusiastic praise on the part of that past master of military science, Field Marshal Count Moltke.

"Bobs," says the Philadelphia Press, is the smallest holder of the queen's commission, being a mere pigmy as regards size. As a general rule small men, like small animals, are inclined to be self-assertive. But there is no soldier of the queen who is more free from this defect than the little field marshal, who is the most modest and unassuming of officers. Perhaps no stronger illustration of this can be given than is contained in his book, entitled "Forty Years in India." Although he is covered with orders and decorations bestowed upon him by a grateful sovereign and country, yet there is no trace of any insignia on the portrait which adorns the frontispiece of the book.

GEN. LORD ROBERTS.
(New Commander of Great Britain's Armies in South Africa.)

Like so many English officers, Lord Roberts may be said to have laid the foundation of his military career on the cricket field of Eton, and at 19 was already fighting the Afghans as a lieutenant of the Bengal horse artillery. Before he was five-and-twenty he had five horses shot under him in battle, had been twice wounded, repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches, and last, but not least, had won that Victoria cross which constitutes the climax of every Englishman's ambition.

Inasmuch as Lord Roberts with characteristic modesty refrains from giving any description in his book as to how he won his Victoria cross, the only reference to the matter being a brief mention in a footnote of three lines, to the effect that it had been awarded to him, it may be just as well to state that it was conferred upon him not for one, but for several feats of conspicuous gallantry at the battle of Khodagange, during the mutiny. In one instance he rescued a regimental flag from several Sepoys, attacking them single-handed and cutting two of them down, the others taking to flight. On the same day he rescued a wounded native officer from several Sepoys, killing one of the latter on the spot by a sweep of the saber, which literally split the man's skull.

"Quick as lightning and tough as steel" used to be the description applied to Lord Roberts during his younger days out in India, and that he deserved the qualification thus accorded to him is shown by the fact that on one occasion he rode from Chamkanie to Rawal Pinde, a distance of 100 miles, over frightfully rough country, in a little less than 12 hours.

What has won for him more fame, however, than anything else was his march to Candahar. He had captured Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, after the massacre of the English envoy there, Sir Louis Cavagnari, when news was suddenly brought to him of the crushing defeat of Gen. Burrows at Maiwand, the routed forces which had lost their guns being compelled to seek refuge in Candahar, where they were besieged by Ayoob Khan.

Without a moment's hesitation Lord Roberts started with a force of 10,000 men from Kabul to relieve Candahar. For the space of three weeks this expedition disappeared entirely from human ken. At length it emerged from the trackless and for the most part waterless regions between Kabul and Candahar, and under the walls of the latter city fought a battle and won a brilliant victory, inflicting a crushing defeat upon the Afghans.

This took place in 1880, and before then he had been mentioned in the dispatches more than 27 times. There is no doubt that he would never have been able to accomplish this forced march from Kabul to Candahar had it not been for the devotion and blind confidence with which he managed to inspire his men, white as well as natives.

LITTLE ROSE CRAIG.

Ellen Terry Is Bringing Up Her Grandchild to Be the Actress of the Future.

Miss Ellen Terry, who is now playing in this country with Sir Henry Irving, is trying an interesting experiment. It is her theory that a girl can be so educated that she cannot fail to succeed as an actress; that if a parent will begin to teach his boy to act at the very moment when he first initiates him into the mysteries of the alphabet he cannot fail to win fame and fortune on the stage.

In other words, while she does not entirely disregard the old theory that men and women are born players, just as they are born poets, she is of the opinion that early training is even more important, and she is now engaged in making a practical application of her theory.

No one who has seen Miss Ellen Terry play the youthful Clarisse de Maulucon would ever imagine that she was a grandmother, and yet such is the fact. Moreover, unlike many actresses, Miss Terry is not ashamed of her age. She is proud of the fact that she has been able to defy the ravages of the years so well, and she openly boasts of the little grandchild who is to be the great actress to whom the world will pay its honors when she, the grandmother, shall have ceased to play her parts.

The name of the little child who is being educated up to this ideal is Rose Marie Craig, and she is the daughter of Miss Terry's son, Gordon. At present little Miss Craig is but four years of age, but in spite of this, her training has already commenced.

When she still lay in her cradle her charming young grandmother dedicated her life to the stage, and her father and mother are anxiously assisting Miss Terry in carrying out the experiment. They have full confidence in her theory. They believe that she can do what she says she will do, and that their little girl will yet be the greatest actress the world has ever seen.

ROSE MARIE CRAIG.
(Ellen Terry's Talented Young Granddaughter.)

To begin with, the child shall be so educated that she will have no self-consciousness. To Miss Terry's mind this is the gravest of all faults, and is fatal to the success of man or woman on the stage. Already she is learning to have confidence in herself, and on her seventh birthday she will make her bow to the public.

Miss Terry believes that the period of self-consciousness begins soon after a person has attained this age, and she proposes that her grandchild shall become used to seeing vast audiences before she has become old enough to be tainted with this one grave fault.

She herself appeared upon the stage when she was eight years of age, and that, she believes, is the reason why sh has never realized that a crowd of people had their eyes fixed upon her. As it is, she never sees an audience, and the vast sea of faces that so terrifies many players has no effect upon her. Little Miss Craig is to be given the same advantage.

The next two years of the child's life will be spent in the theater. As often as possible she will be upon the stage during the progress of the plays. At first she will be given no lines, but she will have her place and she will be expected to fill it creditably. She will also be permitted to play about in the wings. She will become well acquainted with the uses of scenery and drops. She will learn all about wigs and paints. Costumes will become an old story to her.

During this time no one will be allowed to flatter her. Judicious praise may be given, but little of it, and she will be taught to believe that the only way to do a thing is to do it well. While she is undergoing this training, however, her physical training will not be neglected. She will have plenty of fresh country air. She will play in the fields. She will wear loose clothing. Everything will be done to make her a perfect specimen of healthy womanhood. Whether she is at home or on the stage, she will be surrounded by the best of people only.

When little Miss Craig is nine years of age attention will be paid to her ordinary education. She will learn to read the best books. She will be taught to see the beauty in blank verse. She will study the dramatists. She will become familiar with the people and customs of all ages. She will learn to play upon musical instruments, to sing, but above all, she will be taught to observe people. When all this has been accomplished she will be ready to go back to the stage.—Chicago Democrat.

IDEA TOO ORIGINAL.

The Mayor Suggested That the Town's Visitors Climb the New Standpipe for Entertainment.

In one of the towns of the upper peninsula they were preparing to entertain a delegation of eastern capitalists, many of them accompanied by wives and families, who were prospecting for investments in mining, railroad and other enterprises. At the meeting to make arrangements for the reception the new mayor presided. He had ideas of his own, says the Detroit Journal, and evidently thought that his official position entitled him to settle any disputed question. After several plans had been suggested, he took the floor.

"Gentlemen," said his honor, "what I insist upon is something original and something that these people will always recall as having happened right here. Our neighbors in the east dropped them a few thousand feet into a copper mine; our rival city to the north drove them six miles to see the water works; at that struggling little burg west of us they gave them a chance to blister their faces over the red sandstone quarries. We're no imitators. What I propose is that we let them climb, one at a time, to the top of that new standpipe of ours. They'll know we're up to date on our fire department and they'll get a splendid view of the surrounding country."

And it took the leading men of both part— to get the mayor's consent to another programme.

ORGANIST AN AUTOCRAT.

No One Must Dare to Criticise That Functionary's Part of the Church Service.

If there ever is any trouble in the congregation about the music, and if the minister ever worries himself, it is admitted at once that the congregation and the minister are alone to blame, writes Ian Maclaren in Ladies' Home Journal. But there are other difficulties, and they may be mentioned in a spirit of becoming humility. For one thing, the organist is an artist, and every artist has a nature of special refinement which cannot bear the rough-and-tumble ordinary methods of life. With a man of common clay you deal in a practical, straight-forward and even brutal fashion, arguing with him, complaining to him, and putting him right when he is wrong. But no man must handle precious porcelain in such fashion, or the artist will be instantly wounded and will resign and carry his pathetic story to every quarter, for, as a rule, the organist thinks that he is lifted above criticism and public opinion. It is impossible to teach him anything; it is an insult to suppose that anything could be better than the music he provides.

The Stellar Universe.

In Knowledge for November, Dr. Roberts gives a photograph of a new nebula, in the midst of which a dark sinuous vacancy, or rift, appears, "through which we can see into the starless vacancy of space beyond." Some of those who argue that space is finite hold that if it were infinite the infinitely distant stars in their aggregation would cover the face of the sky with light. This, however, assumes that stars are equally distributed throughout space, and such an assumption is contrary to all observable phenomena. Nothing warrants the idea that the infinity of space involves the assumption of its occupation by an infinite number of suns symmetrically arranged throughout it.

ABOUT SHOPLIFTERS.

How They Carry On Their Nefarious Trade in City Stores.

The Professionals Are Exceedingly Clever, But Amateurs Are Caught Before They Can Secure Much Plunder.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

A WOMAN dressed in a neat-fitting rainy-day skirt and a stylish Eton jacket was examining expensive laces at one of the big dry goods stores in Chicago. Her hat was of the latest make and bore the unmistakable air of Paris about it. The day was stormy, and so she carried in her hand a dream of a silk umbrella of a changeable shade something between a purple and a blue. The handle was of solid silver exquisitely embossed and engraved. One hand was neatly gloved. The other was uncovered. It was white and soft and the rings upon it glistened with precious stones. It required but a glance to see that the woman was refined and without question belonged to what the world for lack of a better name denominates as the upper class of society. This well-dressed, gentle-featured woman picked up the laces and looked at them critically. At times she had three or four pieces in her hand at once. Her umbrella was unfastened at the top and was held in the left hand near the edge of the counter. The attention of the saleswoman was engaged for a moment by another customer. Just then a modest-appearing woman in black with a veil partly drawn over her face stepped to the side of the woman with the rainy-day skirt.

The woman with the veil touched the other lightly on the shoulder and said:

"Pardon me, madam, but will you step with me to the manager's office?"

The shopper straightened up. Her face flushed.

"What do you mean?" she said.

The veiled woman nodded to a quiet-looking man who stood near and he quickly came to her side. Then turning to the other woman she said quietly:

"Madam, this is an officer; you will please come with us to the manager's office and avoid a scene."

The stylish woman in the rainy-day skirt and the Eton jacket was a shoplifter; the woman with the veil was a house detective, and the quiet-looking man was one of the Central police station detectives in citizen's clothes, detailed for special duty in the big dry-goods store during the rush season.

Without a word the woman caught shop-lifting went with the two detectives. The manager knew they were coming, for he had been notified by a messenger. As soon as the three had entered the door he said to the woman with the veil:

"Have you sent for the patrol wagon?"

"Yes," she replied, "it will be here in a few minutes."

The shop-lifter turned deadly pale; grasped a long pair of shears that were on the desk and made a clumsy dash at her throat with them. But the detective was too quick for her and took them from her hands.

"Hold on," he said.

With a sob the woman sank into a chair. As she raised her head for a moment what appeared to be a camera was turned toward her, and as it flashed across her that her picture was being taken for the rogues' gallery, she went into hysterics. In the meantime the house detective had opened the woman's umbrella and a half dozen pieces of lace fell upon the floor.

"Oh, I cannot stand the disgrace of this," moaned the shoplifter. "What will my husband say?"

A boy poked his head into the door.

"Patrol wagon's coming, sir," he said.

The woman fainted. When restoratives had been applied, the manager said kindly, but firmly:

"Madam, we have no desire to have you locked up if you will promise us that you will never attempt a thing of this kind again, and sign a confession."

"Oh, I'll promise, yes, indeed," said she, "and I'll sign anything; only let me go, and don't send me to the station."

It was all arranged in a few minutes. The woman had signed the "confession book," and went hurrying home as fast as she could. She was not a professional shop-lifter, and the chances are that she will never attempt to steal again. No doubt she was respectable—in the general acceptation of the term—and the lesson she received will probably last her for all time.

After she had gone the manager said:

"That woman is only one of a class of many in Chicago and other large cities. They are not professional thieves; they are not kleptomaniacs; I don't believe in that sort of thing; they come from well-to-do people. Why do they steal? The whole trouble is right here—the inordinate desire to get something for nothing. Ninety-nine out of 100 of the women who try to steal from this store are amply able to buy all the goods they want. We handle them all in about the way that this woman was handled this morning. Now, if I sent her to the police station, and she had been tried and fined or sent to the bridewell, it would have ruined her for life. She would have been disgraced, and after that she would not have cared what she did. It was all a bluff, that sending for the patrol wagon. She thinks we have her picture for the rogues' gallery. That camera is a dummy. But all these things have their effect. She was thoroughly frightened, and I do not believe she will ever steal again. Why did I make her sign the 'confession book?' That protects us. No one will bring suit for damages against us when a confession has been signed. There are women in this city who would come in our store and pretend to steal just for the purpose of getting us to bring them up here and accuse them. Then when we didn't find anything on them they would bring suit for damages against us. And they would find plenty of so-called lawyers to bring action for half of the prospective damages. So, you see, we are very careful not to make any mistakes.

"We have reliable women in our employ whose only business is to move about among the shoppers and keep an eye out for shop-lifters. They have on their hats and street wraps, and appear like customers. But they are trained to the business, and are shrewd and discreet. During the holiday season we employ private detectives, and the city also sends over all we ask for. No, sir, the professional thieves do not bother us much. The stealing all comes—that is nearly all of it—from people who do not have to steal."

IN THE MANAGER'S OFFICE.

This is one of the finest stores in Chicago. The experience in some of the cheaper places differed considerably. In one of the large department stores the principal difficulty seemed to be with the professional women shop-lifters. They make their living by stealing, and are very sharp and hard to detect. Their dresses are full in the skirt and have immense pockets on either side. Into these capacious pockets they readily drop all kinds of articles. They have been even known to conceal a sealskin jacket. They generally travel in pairs, and one engages the saleswoman and keeps a keen lookout for the house detectives, while the other stows away the goods. Their greatest handicap is that they are nearly all known to the city detectives. For this reason, during the holiday season, when the Central men are stationed in the stores, these thieves go to other cities where they are not so well known, and in their places other shop-lifters come here.

"Shop-lifters," repeated one of the lieutenants at Central police station. "Why, bless you, there are hundreds of them loose at holiday and festival times. It is their harvest. We had 16 lined up downstairs one morning. Sent them all to Harrison street station. Don't keep women here, you know. I have 60 men out in the down-town district in the stores and on the streets, looking after shop-lifters and pickpockets. Bless you, sometimes they are almost as thick as the genuine shoppers."

FARMERS PROSPERING.

Change of Crops Has Redeemed Bucolic Somerset, According to A. P. Sutphen.

Arthur P. Sutphen, secretary of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture, in his annual report just forwarded to the State Department, states that the farmers of Somerset county are now enjoying a period of unusual prosperity.

Two years ago there were many abandoned farms in the county and farming was considered the least profitable of all occupations.

There are now no abandoned farms in the county. A large number of farmers are making money raising small fruits, berries and other products not included in the produce of the large farms of the West, and others have realized substantial profits by raising poultry and other small stock on an extensive scale.

In view of the tendency toward fruit farming it is the belief of the Agricultural Society that a number of canning factories in the county would be highly profitable.

There have been built in the county under the State Aid Act about twenty-five miles of stone roads, and petitions are on file to build fifty miles more.

The dairy farms also report increased prosperity. The creameries are paying higher prices than last year, and the outlook is encouraging.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The Quakertown correspondent of a Hunterdon county journal tells of several old Bibles owned in that neighborhood: Mrs. Carrie W. Vail has one bearing date 1615, which belonged in the Wilson family, and contains their family record of the long, long ago. George W. Cronce has a Dutch Bible printed in Amsterdam in 1754. It has a record of the Williamson and Gulick families. But there is one in the possession of Rev. Frank Tomlinson, who lives a few miles distant, that bears date 1560. It was printed at Geneva by Rowland Hall. On one page is written "Charles Wolverton his book." "Bought of Hugh Haddy, of Burlington, for thirty shillings." It contains the date of the birth of his nine children, from 1698 to 1715. The family originally belonged to Wolverhampton, in England. It would perhaps be unkind to insinuate that the good residents of Hunterdon do not use their Bibles enough to wear them out.

SENATOR REED ON SINGLE ELECTION DAY

He Favors Consolidation of Two Elections.

HIS REASONS ADVANCED.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AGREES WITH HIM.

Senator Reed, in an Interview, Tells Why He Believes That the Doing Away With the Spring Election Would Work Advantageously, Particularly to People in Rural Districts.

The plan to do away with the spring elections in the boroughs and townships throughout the state has been advocated this winter and there is a prospect of some legislation to do away with that election and have all the public officers, State, county and of the municipalities, chosen at the general election in November. Senator Chas. A. Reed, of North Plainfield, is in favor of the change and would undoubtedly support any legislation toward that end. He has the backing of his county executive committee, all the members of which expressed themselves in favor of that course at a recent meeting.

"Yes," said Senator Reed, while in conversation with a Press reporter, "I believe the change would work very beneficially in Somerset county, particularly in the rural districts. In the spring, the roads are so bad that it is very difficult to get a good vote out. With a light vote, it is made possible to put into office men who could not get there if all the people had a voice in the matter. It gives an opportunity to work through schemes with the assistance of a light vote that are directly contrary to the general sense of the community."

The Senator further pointed out that with few exceptions the only people who objected to the combination of the elections were those who never went to primaries and were bound to object to anything. They declared that the municipal election must be entirely separate and distinct from the county and State elections where political issues played such a prominent part. Other objectors, the Senator said, were those who found it to their pecuniary advantage to have as many elections as possible.

As far as the business men of the county were concerned, the Senator pointed out that the two elections meant the loss of more time for them and a greater expense. It was decidedly more expensive to conduct two elections than one. There was always apt to be but little interest taken in the spring election unless some matter of particularly great moment came up and so the very object of a separate election to get a free expression of opinion from all the voters was defeated.

NEW EUCHRE CLUB.

Entertained for the First Time in a Pleasant Manner by Mr. and Mrs. William N. Tier.

The Montauk Eucure Club, a new card club recently formed, was entertained last evening for the first by Mr. and Mrs. William N. Tier, at their home on Bank place, when a most delightful time was had by the various members. The usual number of games were played and the honors for the women were given to Mrs. Horace Huff, first; Mrs. Robert M. Clark, second; Miss Addie Weaver, consolation. Edward O. Clark won first honors for the men, Robert M. Clark, second, and Horace Huff secured the consolation.

After the games dancing was enjoyed and at a late hour refreshments were served. The club numbers twenty, but one member could not be present last night. The following were the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. William N. Tier, Miss May McLoughlin, Miss Addie Weaver, Miss Williams, and Miss Breen, of Elizabeth; Edward O. Clark, Benjamin LaVere and Mr. Hankins.

The club will meet again in two weeks when the members will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, of Codington avenue.

Captured by Mr. Martine's Argument.

Mr. Van Sicien, of New York, who spoke at Saengerbund hall last night on the British-Boer war, was so much pleased with the logic and eloquence of James E. Martine that he then and there extended an invitation to Mr. Martine to accompany him on his itinery and speak at the mass meetings that are to be held in the various cities.

TALKED ABOUT ATHENS.

Interesting Illustrated Lecture by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards for Benefit of McAll Auxiliary.

The story of Athens, its growth and decay, interspersed with his own experiences in that ancient capital, was told by Rev. W. R. Richards in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening. The lecture was illustrated with a number of excellent views. The affair was for the benefit of the McAll Auxiliary, of this city, and was attended by a large crowd.

Dr. Richards sketched in an interesting manner something of the history of Athens, showing just where the great events in its history had taken place. Many views of the magnificent ruins were shown and the speaker related his own visits to the Acropolis.

He had quite a little to say about the history of Acropolis and the remains of the great temples still standing there, particularly the Parthenon. The other temples of lesser importance were briefly described together with the ruins of the theatres and other prominent places.

The lecture was a very interesting one and Dr. Richards proved a very pleasant entertainer. His talk was rendered particularly effective by the pictures.

IRREPRESSIBLE JOHN T.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN POPS UP WITH ADVICE.

Mr. Dunn Speaks His Mind to Col. Bryan—Says He Will be a Candidate for Mayor of Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 23.—There promises to be an old-fashioned political battle at the Democratic convention here to nominate a candidate for Mayor. Former Congressman John T. Dunn announces that he is in the field for the nonination for Mayor, much to the disgust of many of the party leaders. It is said one of the planks of the ex-Congressman's platform will be the widening and thorough drainage of the Elizabeth River, and that he will promise, if elected, to stir up the town with some of the reform measures he will try to inaugurate.

Years ago Mr. Dunn could have had the Mayoralty nomination, as he controlled enough delegates to the convention to capture it, but for the sake of harmony he gave way to another. Now he thinks it would be a fitting wind-up of his political career to be chosen Mayor of Elizabeth, as he has been Congressman, Speaker of the Assembly, four times a member of the Legislature and served several years as an Alderman of Elizabeth.

Mr. Dunn went to New York yesterday to call on William J. Bryan at the Hoffman House. Mr. Dunn sat in Congress with the Democratic leader, and said that the object of his mission was to have a talk with Mr. Bryan and get him to drop the finnncial question and make a fight against the Republican party on the issues of trusts and imperialism.

"If he does not abandon that 16 to 1 business," said Mr. Dunn, "we might just as well throw up the sponge in advance and stay away from the polls, as the Republicans will lick us out of our boots, and I propose to tell this to Mr. Bryan, no matter how he feels on the subject. We cannot stand for the Democratic financial doctrine of 1896, as the American people have already set the seal of their condemnation on it in a most emphatic fashion."

Missionary Meeting of Special Interest.

A missionary meeting of special interest was held last night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society at Trinity Reformed church. Mrs. F. C. Adams had charge of the meeting and conducted the opening exercises. Special features were the fifteen minute addresses on missions given by Mrs. Remson, of the First Presbyterian church, and Mr. Vroom, of Somerville. A pleasing part of the exercises was the contralto solo by Miss Charlotte Messersmith, of the First Baptist church choir. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Holmes. There was a very large attendance of members and friends of the society, all of whom greatly enjoyed the service and felt spiritually benefited.

Death of an Old Editor.

Austin Bittenbender, of 123 East East Fifth street, has received word of the death of his friend, ex-Judge Theodore Schock, of Stroudsburg, Pa., which occurred last Sunday. Mr. Schock was an editor of great prominence, having published for fifty-nine years The Jeffersonian, during which time he was continuously its editor. This paper was published at the same stand during that time, and it was printed on an old Washington handpress. Most of the type was set up by the editor.

SOCIETY'S RICH TREAT

ELABORATE FUNCTION GIVEN BY THE WORTHINGTONS

The Affair Held in the Murray Hill Hotel—In Honor of Dr. Henry Owsley and His Bride—The Guests.

There have been several fine receptions in Plainfield this winter, but nothing has altogether equaled the quiet elegance of the one given Saturday, January 20th, by former residents, Mrs. Lousie Grant Worthington and her daughter Laura, of the Murray Hill Hotel, New York city.

This social affair was given in honor of Dr. Henry Owsley and his bride, to whom Miss Worthington was recently bridemaid, and was attended by friends from Plainfield, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Brooklyn, Yonkers, Dobbs Ferry, Brookline, Mass., and a host of New Yorkers.

Mrs. Owsley is the daughter of Dr. Fowler, of New York.

Two drawing rooms were set apart for the occasion, with a large dining room and retiring rooms across the hall—handsome draperies across the space keeping everything private. Pretty maids and butlers galore, in white gloves, attended to the wants of the guests. Behind a bower of palms a band discoursed sweet music.

The rooms were artistically decorated with ropes of smilax, roses, pink and yellow, with such a profusion of English violets as to make the air redolent with their sweet perfume. The immense crystal gasalier, glittering like the sun, was a beautiful sight, with the delicate green smilax and an immense suivez-moi in heliotrope, satin ribbon hanging from the middle. The mantel pieces were covered with flowers, and handsome cabinets held rich bouquets.

The perfection of art, however, was reached in the dining room. The table was superb, with set pieces so large and so decorated as to open one's eyes with wonder. Some of them were put together in sections, so covered with savory jelly as to defy the partitions. One of the breasts of chicken was taken apart and the skill of the cusinier was certainly apparent. Here was a peacock in nuts and fruits—a perfect bird, with spreading tail of crystallized fruits and sweets. This was also served. Then the salads, creams, etc., were plentiful and good.

Mrs. Worthington and Miss Worthington were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Owsley, Mrs. Harrison Whittingham and daughters, Mrs. Keep, of Brookline, Mass.; Mrs. Painber, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Mc Guire, Mrs. William L. Patton, and the Misses Bowen, Peck, Owsley, Anderson, Hunt, Russel Lang, of this city.

Among the guests were: Judge Lowe and family, of Paris; Judge Lowe, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Slauson, Mrs. John French, Miss Mary French, of this city, and several hundred others.

HONORED CANADA GUESTS.

Delightful Tea Given Yesterday Afternoon by Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, of East Seventh Street.

A delightful tea was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, of East Seventh street, in honor of her friends, Mrs. Toller and Mrs. Bacon, of Ottawa, Canada, who are guests at her home. Flowers and shaded lights added to the beauty of the artistic rooms, which were filled during the hours ot the reception with a large number of guests. Mrs. Myers and her friends, Mrs. Toller and Mrs. Bacon, were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Charles E. Stillman, the mother of Mrs. Myers; Mrs. Wm. Stillman, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mrs. Charles Brooks, Mrs. Charles McCutchen and Mrs. Pliny Fisk, the two latter presiding at the table. Their aids were Misses Ginna, Dumont, Randolph and Cooley. The table decorations of pink roses and pink shaded candles produced a charming effect.

To Fill Vacancies.

The Rahway City Council, at its next meeting, will, it is said, fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Councilman Coles, of the Fifth ward, and the death of Councilman Miller, of the Fourth ward. Mr. Coles' seat is likely to be filled by the selection of former Assessor George Otto Graves, while H. M. Lamphear, and former Councilman Joseph Wooster are spoken of for the vacant seat in the Fourth ward. Mr. Wooster was a Democrat when a member before of the Council, but he has since become a Republican.

SYMPATHY FOR THE FIGHTING DUTCH

British Tyranny and Interference Roundly Denounced

BIG CROWD WAS PRESENT.

GEO. W. VAN SICLEN AND JAMES E. MARTINE HEARD.

Mr. Van Siclen was Prepared With Facts and Figures to Prove His Assertions — Eloquent Speech of Former Orator, Who Scathingly Arraigned the English Nobility — Resolutions of Sympathy.

Sympathizers with the Boers in their struggle with Great Britain for freedom are apparently to be found in great numbers in Plainfield. This was apparent last night at the Pro-Boer meeting held in Saengerbund Hall, which was packed with representative citizens, who expressed their sympathy at the eloquence of the speakers by frequent and generous applause and cheers.

The hall had been made attractive by the display of the national colors and the flags of the Transvaal Republic, which were suspended at the side of the stage. To the right of the speaker's desk was a good sized oil painting of Paul Kruger, President of the South African Republic. A streamer tacked over the stage contained in Dutch the words Eendracht Maakt Macht (Unity Makes Might.)

James E. Martine called the gathering to order and introduced as chairman of the meeting John VanHerwerden, who said his heart was too full to speak, but that he was pleased to see so many present to express sympathy for the course. Mr. Van Herwerden then introduced George W. Van Siclen, the principal speaker of the evening.

The speaker attributed the cause of the Boer war to the avarice of the English people, who wished to get rich at the expense of the hard working Boers. It was not an honest war, he said, but had been precipitated through the medium of the Stock Exchange. As soon as gold was found in paying quantities the Uitlanders had made excuses that they were being unjustly taxed. The fact is, said the speaker, the Uitlanders do not pay a dollar of the taxes. The only tax they were called upon to pay was 2½ per cent for digging the gold, which they took out of the country. This tax is not so very great when it is taken into consideration that England makes the United States pay 10 per cent. for digging gold on the Yukon river in Alaska, which he claimed did not rightfully belong to Great Britain. The Uitlanders were not obliged to dig the gold.

The statements made by the English that they were not allowed to hold public meetings were false. It was true, however, that the English had attempted to muzzle the press and the Boers had therefore resented this interference with their affairs.

As to the question of naturalization Mr. VanSicien said the Boers had twice acceded to the demands of the British to reduce the length of residence from 12 years to seven and finally to five years.

In closing his very intering speech, in which he frequently referred to notes containing statistics to prove his statements, Mr. VanSicien said he believed it to be the duty of President McKinley to offer to arbitrate between Great Britain and the Transvaal government with a view to putting an end to this cruel war.

Mr. Martine, then in an earnest speech, lasting about fifteen minutes eloquently depicted the trials and struggles of the unfortunate Boers. He said his sympaties were with the Dutch because he was partially of Dutch extraction on his mother's side, and the promptings of his heart bade him urge on their very just cause against the inroads of the tyranous power of Great Britain. The love of liberty possessed by all men for self government was an inherent right which commanded the respect and admiration of all Christendom. England had no more right to interfere in the government of South Africa than she had to come to America and attempt to dictate to the citizens of these United States how they should manage their affairs.

He characterized England's pretended friendship for this country as having been built up during the late war to invoke sympathy and aid which Great Britain realized it would soon need because of the threatened war it had at hand.

During Mr. Martine's speech he was frequently interrupted by applause and cheers, and his eloquence and forcible words held the close attention of the

A MID-WINTER WEDDING.

MISS MARGARET A BENNETT BECOMES MRS. DICKSON.

The Groom a Resident of Summit—Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Parents, Lincoln Place.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the mid-winter season was that of last evening when Miss Margaret A. Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Bennett, of 45 Lincoln place, was united in marriage to John Dickson, of Summit. The happy affair took place at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of only the immediate relatives. It was just 7 o'clock when the bride and groom entered the parlor to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march rendered on the piano by Andrew G. Carpenter. They took their position directly in front of a large bow window where Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church, stood waiting to perform the ceremony.

The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was handsomely gowned in pearl grey corded silk, with pearl and lace trimmings, and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

The ceremony was that of the Methodist Episcopol church, and was performed with a ring. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dickson received the hearty congratulations and well wishes of those present, after which the wedding supper was served in the dining room.

While the wedding feast was being enjoyed Mr. Carpenter added to the pleasure of the occasion by rendering some piano selections. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Dickson left for a short wedding tour, and they were given a rousing send-off. Upon their return they will make their home for the remainder of the winter at Summit. They were handsomely remembered with gifts of usefulness and beauty, among which was a solid silver tea service from the bride's former employers, J. A. Smith & Bro., in appreciation of her faithful service as their bookkeeper.

It was fully expected that Fred Bennett, a brother of the bride, who is now in the service of the U. S. Navy on the torpedo boat, Dupont, would be able to attend the wedding, but duties detained him and he could not be present. He was the only one of the family of ten who did not witness the marriage.

GUARD TO GO TO SEA GIRT.

Military Board Decides That the Whole Division Will be Ordered Out This Year.

The State Military Board has made a new neparture, and the entire National Guard of the State will be ordered into camp this year at Sea Girt. This will be the first time since the establishment of the permanent State camp that the whole division will be on duty. The rule has been that only one of the brigades was ordered to camp in each year and they went alternately, and consequently did service every second year.

The State Military Board met a few days ago and decided that the division should be sent to camp in July next, and the officers were instructed to make provision. One of the advantages that were claimed for the change is that it will promote pride and ambition to excel, and each brigade will endeavor to surpass the other and also afford an opportunity for comparisons and to determine the deficits, if an exist, in any brigade or regiment, and enable the introduction of new regulations if necessary to bring all up to the highest possible standard.

A Lively Runaway.

There was a lively runaway this noon when George J. Tobin's horse attached to the business wagon became frightened on North avenue in front of the proprietor's place of business and got away from one of the employes. The animal tore through North avenue, Park avenue and East Second street at rapid pace. The rig was stopped on Second street near Fire Headquarters. The damage was very slight. Fortunately the rig did not collide with any other wagons.

Two Cases of Contagious Disease.

There are now only two cases of contagious disease in the borough and both are nearly well. The edict issued by the borough Board of Health to the effect that every person not a member of a family where there is contagious disease, shall be fined $25 for entering the house, is having a good effect. Heretofore persons were very careless about going to houses where there was disease and this action has put a stop to it.

State Prison Statistics.

Union county has 52 State prisoners at Trenton. Out of 1,119 prisoners, 384 were born in New Jersey. There are 290 colored male prisoners and 12 female colored prisoners. October 31st, 1898, there were 1,223 prisoners.

LOCAL PLAYERS WON.

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Beat the New Brunswick Boys in a Basket Ball Game.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, January 23.—The basket ball team of the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. fell an easy victim last evening to a team sent over from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. It was not the regular team, but had no difficulty in handling the local players. While the team play was not what it might have been, the game was a good one and all the play was quick and clean. The rough features that have been so noticeable in past contests were entirely absent.

The first half was overwhelmingly in favor of the visitors. At the end of the half, they led by a score of 18 to 3. Then several changes were made in the second half and the Plainfielders failed to run up any high score. The final score was 21 to 7.

The teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD.		NEW BRUNSWICK.
Perrine	right forward	Kuhn
E. Moraller

SCHENCK TO BE JUDGE.

GOVERNOR SENT HIS NOMINATION TO THE SENATE.

James L. Griggs Named for Prosecutor—Recommendation of Local Republicans Were Perfectly Satisfactory.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 23.—When Senator Reed arrived in Trenton yesterday he visited Governor Voorhees with reference to the appointment of successors to County Judge Bartine and Prosecutor Dungan, of Somerset. The preferences of the Somerset county Republican executive committee was conveyed to the Governor by the Senator, and it was agreed at once that the former would act in accordance with the decision of the Somerset Republicans.

The result was that when the Senate convened last night the Governor sent in the nominations of Lewis H. Schenck for judge of the Somerset County Court, and James L. Griggs County Prosecutor. Both appointees live in Somerville. The nominations were referred and will be confirmed at an early date.

A mild sensation was created, before the adjournment, by a breaking of the news that Attorney General Grey's opinion was ready for submission to the Legislature touching the constitutionality of last winter's law, creating the office of Supervisor of Bills, and that he decides that the act is unconstitutional and, therefore, void.

Last night it is undecided whether the Legislature will go back to the old system of engrossing the bills or pass a law substituting printed bills for written ones for the official copies. It is probable that Supervisor Salmon will be made engrossing clerk instead. Until this matter is straightened out the Legislature will do little if any business.

Senator Pitney and Assemblyman Lewis, of the joint committee on the memorial session to be held in honor of the late Vice-President Hobart had a conversation with Attorney General Griggs over the long-distance telephone and Mr. Griggs accepted the committee's invitation to deliver the memorial address. The date of the memorial session has not yet been fixed, but will be either February 7 or 14.

Will Drill Out of School Hours.

A meeting of the members of the cadet battalion of the Plainfield High School was held in the High School building yesterday afternoon. It was decided after some discussion to drill out of school hours. The companies will meet separately one afternoon a week and devote an hour to company drill. A. B. Meredith, of the faculty, who is acting as drillmaster, will meet with the companies.

Motion for New Trial.

Counsellor Clarence L. Murphy went to Elizabeth this morning to make a motion for a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted in the case of George Christiansen against John Lambert, a verdict in which was given to the plaintiff last week. He was accompanied by Counsellor Craig A. Marsh, who has been associated in the case.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

Petition was yesterday filed in the Bankruptcy Court, Trenton, by Wm. Jeffrey, of North Plainfield, who is a flour merchant in New York, with liabilities of $105,939 and assets of $170. Of his debts $55,145 are held by secured creditors, but the securities are only worth $27,810, according to the petition.

QUAKERS RESIST MODERN IDEAS.

Ancient Meeting-House Will Not be Moved.

PLANS OF YOUNG MEMBERS.

THEY WANTED SOME IMPROVEMENTS MADE TO EDIFICE.

The Elders Objected to Disturbing the Historical Old Building, and it is Likely That it Will be Allowed to Stand as it Has for the Past 112 Years—Mentioned for City Hall Site.

Of late there has been an attempt on the part of some members of the Friends Society, whose meeting-house is located on Watchung avenue opposite North avenue, to make some improvements to the property, such as moving the meeting-house close to the property occupied by Mr. Peterson, placing a foundation under it, putting in steam heat, illuminating it in modern style and making some other improvements. These things have been discussed by what might be termed the younger portion of the Society, but the older members have been strongly opposed to any such movement and have discountenanced it to such an extent that it is safe to say that the improvements will not be made. The older members would not think of moving the building which has stood in one spot since 1788, and is by far the oldest structure in the city.

It has also been reported that members have been approached by members of the Common Council who have expressed a desire to purchase the property on the corner where the meeting-house stands, and this has given rise to the rumor that possibly the Council has its eye on it for a city hall. This cannot be verified, however. The majority of the members of the Association are perfectly satisfied to have everything remain as it is and there is no immediate chance of any change.

Last evening there was a meeting called for the purpose of giving the trustees the authority to sign the necessary papers in the sale of the Meeting's property at Rahway, which has just been sold to Judge Benjamin Vail. The proper authority was given. Nothing else of any importance was considered.

DEATH OF GEO. A. MOORE.

Once a Well-known and Prosperous Butcher—Bicycle Accident Hastened His Death.

Last evening about 11 o'clock occurred the death of George A. Moore, aged 44 years, of East Fifth street, who was for ten years one of Plainfield's well-known butchers, having conducted the place where J. W. Van Sickle is now located on North avenue. Mr. Moore was confined to his home since a year ago when he met with an accident. He was riding a bicycle and fell off, sustaining injuries which hastened his death. It has been about three years since Mr. Moore was in business. He was then located at the corner of East Front street and Watchung avenue.

Mr. Moore was born at the corner of Washington and East Second streets, where he lived for eighteen years. He has always lived in this city. He was a prominent member of No. 2 Engine Company, and after serving his time became a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association. The last time Mr. Moore was out was when the borough firemen gave a parade. He then rode in a carriage with Exempts who could not walk. He is survived by a wife, a brother, Benjamin Moore, of the butcher firm of Moore & Scheelein, a sister, Mrs. David Ryno, of East Second street. There are also several half brothers. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

Four Horses Burned to Death.

A barn occupied by George A. Beebe, an ice man, on North avenue, near Garwood, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday. How the fire started is unknown. Four horses, a lot of chickens, with wagons and farm implements, were burned. When the fire was first discovered an attempt was made to get the horses out, but it was impossible. The loss is about $1,000, partly covered by insurance.

Visited New Brunswick.

A large representation from the Shepherds of Bethlehem visited New Brunswick Lodge, No. 2, last night and witnessed the exemplification of degree work. After the lodge ceremonies a social time was enjoyed, refreshments served and dancing indulged in.

Mrs. John C. VanDyke, of East Front street, is detained at her home with the grip.

WOOD WIDE AWAKE.

Now on a Tour of Inspection Through Cuba.

LISTENS TO MANY COMPLAINTS.

Law Reforms to Be Instituted In Havana—Press Calls New Governor a Statesman — Wholesale Disinfection—Exhibits For Paris.

CIENFUEGOS, Cuba, Jan. 23.—Governor General Wood, General Lee, Mrs. Lee, General Chaffee, Mrs. Chaffee, General Ruis Rivera, Mrs. Rivera, Miss Lee, Miss Richards, Colonel Burton, inspector general; Colonel Black, chief engineer of the division of Cuba; Lieutenant Harper, aid to General Chaffee; Senor Gonzales, General Wood's secretary, and Senor Pedigo, General Lee's secretary, arrived here by special train from Havana yesterday.

The party left Havana at 6:15 in the morning. The train halted for half an hour at Matanzas, where breakfast was taken, although the party did not leave the depot. The band of the Tenth infantry played a selection, and all the officers on duty at Matanzas presented themselves.

At the other places where the train stopped the mayors came on board to make various requests, chiefly for assistance. Most of them asserted that the total absence of public work of any kind had greatly impeded the circulation of money in their districts and that capitalists were apparently not investing to any large extent.

The civil governor and chief of the rural guard boarded the train at Santo Domingo and accompanied the party to Cienfuegos. Here General Wood went over all the public institutions of the town, General Chaffee accompanying him.

At all the stations on the way the rural guards lined up and presented arms.

General Wood and party left last evening for Trinidad.

AFFAIRS IN HAVANA.

A Brighter Outlook In General Wood's Administration.

HAVANA, Jan. 23.—The newly appointed law reform commission will begin work almost immediately. Among the principal innovations will be the establishment of police correctional courts, presided over by salaried judges. The judicial system throughout the island will be made to lend itself to the speedy handling of cases in order that justice may be obtained without delay. At the same time facility to appeal will be granted.

The Lucha says:

"General Wood is a statesman rather than a soldier. This is exemplified in his latest decree, in which he softens the harsh and abrupt rules of the military regime and aims to stimulate civil procedure as well as to avoid any confusion between the military and the civil authorities."

During December 2,000 houses were disinfected in Havana.

Senor de Quesada has returned from his tour of the island and reports that the people are cheerful and confident of Cuba's future under the administration of General Wood. He is now busy preparing exhibits for the Paris exposition. These, he says, will be varied and numerous. He has a large assortment of tropical woods, tobacco and sugar and a really splendid collection of mineral specimens.

Condition In Honolulu Serious.

SIOUX CITY, Jan. 23.—Chrys Moller, a bullion broker of Tientsin, China, has just arrived here. He says the bubonic plague in Honolulu is worse than reported and that a dozen people are dying daily. He describes the burning of Chinatown by a vigilance committee while his ship was at Honolulu. The citizens claimed that the location was unsanitary and favorable to the spread of the plague. The site embraced ten blocks in the heart of the city, which it is now proposed to convert into a park. The celestials were given time to remove their property and ordered to live on a hilltop on the edge of the city.

Sweden Prepares For War.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 23.—In the Swedish budget, which balances nearly 150,000,000 kroner and which is the largest on record, King Oscar asks for 46 new batteries of artillery by the end of 1903. One hundred thousand new Mausers are to be manufactured and 50,000,000 cartridges to be in store within four years. A credit is asked for a trial mobilization of the army reserves. Another important item in the budget is the railway appropriation of 30,000,000 kroner, one-fourth of which is to be applied in the purchase of new rolling stock.

Where the Fifty Millions Went.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The president has sent to the senate in response to a resolution of inquiry a report from Secretary Hay as to the portion of the $50,000,000 defense appropriation expended by the state department. Supposed Thief Arrested.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 23.—A man supposed by the police to be one of the cleverest hotel thieves in the country has been arrested at the Union station. He is wanted by the Chicago authorities, and in his possession were found jewelry worth probably $2,000, a full dress coat and overcoat and fully 200 keys. The record is very distinct and shows the amplitude of the tremors to have been 23.5 millimeters.

PROFESSOR HAZEN HURT.

Weather Forecaster Seriously Hurt by Fall From Bicycle.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Henry A. Hazen, professor of meteorology and one of the chief forecasters of weather conditions at the weather bureau in this city, was probably fatally injured last night by being thrown from his bicycle. The accident occurred while the professor was on his way to the bureau. At the corner of Sixteenth and M streets he ran into a colored man, the force of the contact throwing him from the wheel and pitching him forward on his head. The blow was a terrific one, the skull being cracked from over the nose to the back of the head and causing also a hemorrhage of the brain. Physicians afterward trepanned the skull and removed a large clot of blood from the right side. They say his injury is one of the most severe on record, and the chances for recovery are very remote.

Professor Hazen was for some time an assistant to Professor Loomis of Yale university, but since 1881 has been identified with the government weather service at Washington. Professor Hazen was highly regarded as an efficient forecaster. He was 55 years of age and was born in India of missionary parents.

President Smith of the Montana National bank and Representative Murray of the Montana house of representatives were the only witnesses on the stand. Mr. Smith's testimony was immaterial. Mr. Murray testified that he was offered $10,000 to vote for Senator Clark by persons whom he considered representatives of that gentleman.

Durkee Claim Groundless.

QUINCY, Ills., Jan. 23.—Secretary of the Treasury Gage has wired the Quincy Whig as follows, "No foundation for alleged Durkee claims," in reply to a query concerning the sale of $12,000 worth of bonds in this city based on those claims. Bonds were based on claims by men representing so called Durkee heirs that there were due the heirs from the United States $260,000,000 on first mortgage Union Pacific bonds. A great many have been sold throughout the country at par.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—A small fire in the basement of the five story brick building at 89 Madison street brought to light an illicit distillery capable of producing more than 50 gallons a day. The place had been under surveillance since its opening about ten days ago by Edward F. Long of the internal revenue service. The fire itself did very little damage.

Watch Your Kidneys!

They are Filters For the Blood.
Impure Blood Causes Disease.

Few people understand the important part performed by the kidneys in filtering the blood. As the blood in its circulation through the body passes through the kidneys, its impurity is left in the kidneys, which in turn empties the secretions into the bladder in the form of urine.

If the kidneys are blocked and filtration of the blood from poisonous or diseased germs is prevented thereby, the result is one or all of the following: Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Weak Back, Pains in the Back and Loins, Scalding Dark and Cloudy Urine, Dizziness, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Congestion of the Kidneys, Bright's Disease and Inflammation of the Bladder.

Unhealthy Kidneys Must Be Treated

A medicine is needed that will properly promote the filtration of the blood and check the over-secretion of urine.

DR. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS is the only remedy absolutely and unconditionally guaranteed to cure every form of Kidney or Bladder complaints. Price 25 and 50 cents. Prepared only by CONGRESSMAN REEVES.

Well-Known Illinois Legislator Has Openly Announced His Desire to Become Governor.

Walter Reeves, at present the representative in congress of the Eleventh congressional district of Illinois, was born in western Pennsylvania in 1848. He came to Illinois in 1856. After leaving school he taught school for several years in La Salle, Livingston and Marshall counties. He saved his money and was enabled to study law. He was admitted to practice in Streator, Ill., in 1875, where he had resided for 24 years.

For many years he has been active in politics, and in 1894 when the Eleventh district was divided, the two leading candidates, Thomas J. Henderson and Henry Mayo, withdrew, and the party united on Walter Reeves. He defeated the democratic nominee for congress, Capt. Gibbons, by 4,982 votes, although at that time the district was believed to have a democratic majority of 2,000. In 1896 he was reelected by a majority of 6,251, and in 1898 he ran against ex-Attorney General Maloney and defeated him.

(Illinois Congressman Who Wants to Be Governor of the State.)

Mr. Reeves has served in congress with distinction. He was a member of the committees on rivers and harbors and patents. He was one of the members chosen by Speaker Reed to confer with the senate committee regarding the river and harbor bill. Mr. Reeves' efforts on that joint committee secured an investigation of the whole Nicaragua canal project. He has been greatly complimented for securing this action, which enabled congress to move intelligently in the matter.

Mr. Reeves has announced his candidacy for governor, and has been making a canvass openly for some months, declaring that he represents no faction.

In 1876 Mr. Reeves married Marietta N. Coggswell.

WASHINGTON'S RAZOR.

The Blade Once Used by the Immortal George Now the Property of a Missouri Lady.

The centenary of the death of George Washington has called forth the fact that a Missourian, Mrs. Julia E. Maus, of Linneus, is the possessor of a razor that was the property of the Father of His Country during the revolution, and which he used last on the morning following the battle of Brandywine, says the St. Louis Republic.

A well-known colonial character and especial friend of Washington's, Maj. Vivian Brookin, who was taking leave of his superior officer, said to the commander: "Gen. Washington, I want you to give me some trivial thing as a token of our friendship, and which I may retain as a keepsake."

The general, then just finishing shaving, turned from the mirror,

WASHINGTON'S RAZOR.
(Now in Possession of Mrs. Julia E. Maus, Linneus, Mo.)

handed Brookin the razor and replied: "Here, take this, and I assure you that with pleasure it is given."

When Maj. Brookin died, several years later, in Petersburg, Va., the razor was left to his grandson and namesake, Col. Vivian Brookin Holmes, who has relatives in Linneus and Centralia, Mo. The blade, after the death of Holmes, passed into the ownership of Mrs. Maus, who still retains the interesting relic.

Upon the blade of the razor, which is of a peculiar shape, the words: "Warranted Gratian," are found near its heel. The handle, on account of its great age, has almost decayed, only about half of the original remaining. In the center is a small ornamental carving.

South African War News.

The news from South Africa starts at Cape Town, is sent to Delagoa bay, thence to Mozambique, to Zanzibar, to Aden. There it is repeated to Suez, a distance of over 1,400 miles. From Suez it is repeated 143 miles to Alexandria, where it is repeated again, this time under the Mediterranean, 925 miles, to Malta. From Malta it goes to Gibraltar, and thence to Lisbon, the great cable center, 383 miles. At this point it plunges under the Atlantic, 890 miles, to Penzance, and so on to London, and the rest of the world.

NO BATTLE TIDINGS.

Buller Sends No Report of His Operations.

SEVERE FIGHTING SEEMS PROBABLE.

Further Accounts of Sunday's Fight Show British Advance to Have Been Slow and Hotly Contested. Rumor of Ladysmith's Relief.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—General Buller has reported nothing of his operations on Monday, and official and press intelligence leaves the British bivouacked Sunday night on the ground they had won after two days' fighting.

Military men assume that fighting must have taken place and that it was probably more severe than on the two preceding days. General Buller would not be likely to give the Boers leisure to add to the elaborate intrenchments, to arrange their artillery and to concentrate their forces.

The special correspondents Sunday night were allowed to send the announcement that the battle would be almost certainly resumed the following day, and hence official and popular anxiety is at high tension. The British military experts all share the hopes of their leaders, and, as Mr. Spenser Wilkinson points out, they hesitate to say a word that might be interpreted as unfavorable. Mr. Wilkinson refers to the "cooler judgment of German and Austrian critics," which means that some of the best judges look upon General Buller's enterprise as a forlorn hope, as merely a continual train of fighting which may prove too much for the physical energy of the troops engaged.

The Daily Chronicle's military expert says:

"Even when a battle is won in a single day, as a rule pursuit is only possible when fresh troops are available. But in this instance it is not a question of mere pursuit, but of renewing an attack upon intrenched positions after a day's hard fighting and a night of lying on the battlefield."

Re-enforcements aggregating 5,000 or more have reached Cape Town during the last three days. It is uncertain how these have been disposed, but probably most of them have been sent to Natal, where it is believed General Buller needs them.

The British in other districts in South Africa continue inactive. Lord Methuen's 13,000 men remain behind their works.

The Daily Chronicle has received the following, dated Jan. 22, 4:15 p. m., from Spearman's camp:

"The Boers admit 21 casualties during General Lyttleton's skirmish on Saturday.

"General Warren continues pushing, though he is necessarily making very slow progress, as the Boers are numerous and strongly intrenched.

"Our infantry is working over parallel ridges, with Lord Dundonald's cavalry lying well out on the left flank and awaiting developments. The Boers contest every inch of ground.

"This morning General Warren's artillery reopened fire, but the Boers did not reply, and our fire became less hot."

The Daily Mail has the following, dated Sunday night, from Spearman's camp:

"There has been hot fighting all day. At dawn our attack was resumed along the entire line, all the brigades taking part. We soon discovered that the Boers still occupied the range of hills in force, their position being very strong. The range is intersected by steep ravines and many approaches very difficult of access.

"Today the Boers who were driven from their trenches yesterday took cover in dongas and behind the rocks with which the hills are strewn. The forces therefore commenced the task of driving them out and set to work with good heart in the early morning. Much firing took place, and our progress was slow, but gradually British pluck told its tale, and the enemy fell back to another kopje. We swarmed on and occupied it, and then the attack recommenced with the utmost gallantry.

"The country simply abounds in hills favorable to guerrilla warfare, and our task is an arduous one. Nevertheless it is being gradually accomplished. Whenever any of the enemy were observed taking up a fresh position our field batteries poured in showers of shrapnel, and the rapid movement of the guns, followed by accurate shooting, must have greatly distressed them.

"The enemy were on the defensive almost the entire day save once when they attempted to outflank our left and were signally checkmated. They relied almost entirely on rifle fire. A few shells were fired from a heavy piece of ordnance, but these fell harmless.

"We now occupy the lower crest on the left and are converging slowly but surely to the Boer center. The Boer loss is unknown, but must have been heavy. Their killed and wounded are carried away to the rear rapidly. Strong rumors are in circulation that the Boers are retiring. The battle will be resumed tomorrow."

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Kimberley, dated Friday, Jan. 19, says:

"A 28 pounder gun, christened 'Long Cecil,' which was manufactured at the De Beers workshops was tried today and fired accurately at a range of 8,000 yards."

The Daily Telegraph publishes the following dispatch, delayed by the censor, from Rensburg, dated Sunday afternoon:

"Last evening about 9 o'clock the Boers began firing furiously all along their main position. Three tiers of rifle fire were visible. The firing lasted three-quarters of an hour. The reason for the alarm is not known here."

British Subjects Ordered Away.

KIMBERLEY, via Modder River, Jan. 23.—Native reports say that a proclamation has been issued at Barkly West by Commandant Boithof, ordering all British subjects to quit before Jan. 22. Ladies are being subjected to great insults. The Boers are again very active, bombarding heavily from all positions from dawn till 8 a. m., the fire being directed chiefly against the redoubts.

Rumor of Ladysmith's Relief.

DURBAN, Natal, Jan. 23.—The statement comes from an excellent source in Pietermaritzburg that Lord Dundonald has entered Ladysmith with 1,600 men. This is not confirmed from any other quarter, but it is known that Lord Dundonald's flying column has been acting well to the left of the line of advance.

THE KENTUCKY CONTEST.

Testimony Received In the Contested Election Case.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 23.—In the legislature yesterday morning the house contesting committee reported in favor of A. P. Crawford (Dem.) of Breathitt county and against Edward Markham (Rep.). The report was adopted without a dissenting vote.

All the Republican witnesses examined during the day testified in the afternoon, it having been previously arranged that the Monday evening session should be given to Mr. Goebel, the contestant, on account of time lost on the evening of the Bryan banquet. E. L. McDonald of Louisville was recalled. He testified of the unrest and anxiety in the city of Louisville just prior to the election and said it was due chiefly to lack of public confidence in the police, this condition having arisen from the attitude assumed by the police at primaries held in June.

Mr. McDonald stated in his evidence on Saturday that certain members of the Honest Election league of Louisville, of which he was one of the organizers, had seriously considered the advisability of carrying weapons to the polls to protect themselves, but had later given up the idea. He was subjected to a severe cross examination by Attorney Phelps on this point. He admitted that in making the statement that people went more freely to the polls because relieved of apprehension by the presence of the militia in the armory he was giving an opinion and not a fact known to him personally.

Judge J. W. Barr of Louisville, the Republican election commissioner for Jefferson county, in which Louisville is situated, testified in detail regarding the manner in which precinct officers were appointed and removed on the day immediately preceding the election.

Mrs. Jones Pleads Guilty.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 23.—The case of Mrs. Alice Jones, who with George Stevenson eloped to England last August, was called in court yesterday for trial. Stevenson impersonated John Jones, the woman's husband, and, going to the office of a real estate dealer, the elopers negotiated a mortgage for $600 on Mr. Jones' property. With this money they fled to Europe, but when they arrived at Liverpool they were arrested and later brought back to this country. Mrs. Jones was able to procure bail and was released. Stevenson was sent to jail and at his trial pleaded guilty to forgery. Judge Lynch would not sentence him until Mrs. Jones was tried. In the meantime the husband forgave his wife, and she was taken back to his home. As was expected, when Mrs. Jones was arraigned she pleaded guilty.

Olympia's Repairs Costly.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Half a million dollars is the estimated cost of repairing the Olympia, according to the reports to the board of naval construction. The work will be done at the Boston navy yard and will occupy about a year. The board has made no progress toward settling upon the plans for the three battleships authorized by the last congress. The secretary ordered the plans to be drawn last March, and it is estimated that they cannot be made ready for letting the contracts in less than six months from date.

Beef For the Boers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—A trainload of beef, 750,000 pounds, for the use of the Boers is being packed here by an agent of the Transvaal government. On account of recent seizures by British war vessels of ships bearing supplies destined for the Transvaal packers have refused to sell the beef for delivery beyond Chicago, and negotiations for transportation are pending. This is the second trainload of beef sold here for the Boers, the first consignment sold about a month ago being now, it is said, on the ocean.

Tuck Legacy to Dartmouth.

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 23.—An announcement in connection with the Amos Tuck legacy of $300,000 to Dartmouth college has been made by President Tucker to the effect that the endowment available will be used for the Amos Tuck school of administration and finance. The object of the school will be to train college graduates who propose to engage in affairs, whether they enter any of the professions or not, in the principles which underlie the management of private and public business.

Railroad Workmen Win.

BUFFALO, Jan. 23.—What promised to be a lively fight between the machinists in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western shops at Sloan and the officials of that road was averted yesterday. The men had demanded an increase in wages with a request for satisfactory rates for overtime. The shop committee, with Business Agent Daglish, met the officials of the road, who conceded the requests of the men. This agreement also takes effect in Elmira.

Street Car Strike Still On.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The strike of the United Traction company's men has progressed to a point where the railroad managers have told the men to return to work or their places will be filled. Not a wheel moved yesterday, and the company made no effort in the direction of a renewal of traffic. The men are on every street and corner where there is a track. They expect that the company will put on strangers. If they do, trouble is expected.

Philadelphia Customs Receipts.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—The annual report of the collector of customs of this port shows that the receipts for the calendar year just closed reached a total of $20,797,086, an increase of more than $1,000,000 over the year 1898. The total value of imports during 1899 was $48,241,016, an increase over 1898 of $10,724,309. Exports aggregated $67,014,250 the largest in the history of the port and an increase of $7,651,996 over 1898.

Schooner Abandoned at Sea.

NASSAU, N. P., Jan. 23.—The Ward line steamer Saratoga, Captain Johnson, from New York Jan. 18, which has arrived here, had on board the captain and five men of the schooner B. W. Morse, which sailed from Jacksonville Jan. 13 for St. John's, P. R., and which had been abandoned at sea northeast of Abaco. Two of the crew were drowned.

No Nomination Yet.

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—Governor Roosevelt stated yesterday that he would have no announcement to make relative to the appointment of a successor to the state superintendent of insurance. By some it is thought that the sending to the senate of a candidate by the governor will be deferred until next week.

IN PLAINFIELD.

Every Claim is Backed by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants anything stronger than the opinions and experience of his neighbors, what can it be? Mr. H. C. Lippencott of 39 Chatham street, says:-" I was a victim of kidney complaint and dreadful backache, so bad in damp weather or when I caught cold that I could not get about. I was in the hardware business at this time and the heavy lifting and being on my feet so much greatly aggravated the trouble. I was in my worst when I concluded to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It only required a few doses to convince me that I had the right remedy. My backache disappeared before I had finished the first box."

A FLOOD OF ORATORY.

Senate Continues Speechmaking. House Does Nothing Important.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Yesterday was given up to oratory in the senate, little business beyond routine being transacted. Mr. Pritchard of North Carolina delivered a long and carefully prepared address on the race question in the south, his remarks being addressed particularly against the proposed amendment to the constitution of North Carolina, which if enacted, he said, would disfranchise a large class of voters, both white and black. He was followed by Mr. Turner of Washington in a speech on the Philippine question, in which he arraigned the administration's policy as set out in the president's message and in the speech of Mr. Beveridge of Indiana. Mr. Turner was given close attention by his colleagues.

The house was in session only 40 minutes, and nothing of public importance was done except to refer to the speaker for settlement a dispute between the appropriations and military affairs committees relative to the estimates for the appropriations for the manufacture of small arms at the Rock Island and Springfield arsenals. Both committees claim jurisdiction. A few District of Columbia bills of minor importance were passed.

BRYAN IN NEW YORK.

Comes to Confer With Democratic Leaders.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—William Jennings Bryan is here to confer with leaders of the Democratic party in the east. He arrived in Jersey City on the Pennsylvania railway train from Washington and was received there by James Oliver, the sergeant-at-arms of the Democratic national committee. Mr. Oliver hired a cab, and the distinguished visitor was driven to his hotel, the Hoffman House.

Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas and Dr. J. S. Girdner of New York, a personal friend of Mr. Bryan's, were at the hotel to meet the visitor.

Mr. Bryan was asked whether there was anything he wished to say. He smiled and said:

"Yes; there are three things to say—three things about which I mean to talk wherever I go and whenever I speak. They are silver, trusts and imperialism. No, I don't care in what order you put them. Imperialism, trusts and silver, or any other way, so long as they all three are included."

Stole a Sack of Gold.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Clyde Wallace was held to the federal grand jury in $7,500 bonds on the charge of stealing a sack of gold from the United States subtreasury in Chicago, in which he was a clerk. Government officers who told of an alleged confession made by Wallace declared he had asserted he received an excess of $5,000 in gold when he made requisition on the vault clerk for $100,000 to be counted and that while this was evidently an error on the part of the vault clerk it had placed him in the way of temptation, and he had secreted the extra sack. When he had taken out a few gold pieces from time to time and could not replace them, it is said he put the partly filled sack in his pockets and spent the money in gambling and on the races.

Jamaica Rejects Chamberlain's Plan.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 23.—Jamaica has emphatically rejected Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's English direct fruit trade scheme to divert the bulk of the colony's trade from America to England, which calls for a subscription of £40,000 annually, Jamaica paying one-half. The consensus of public opinion replying to the governor's plebiscitic circular indicates a preference to depend on American trade, because the merchants are confident they can convince the American opponents of reciprocity that Jamaican interests do not conflict with theirs, while the colony's future is involved in American trade relations.

Why Denmark Would Sell.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Copenhagen correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "Negotiations for the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States are likely to undergo a new development. The United States government intends to acquire a sphere of influence in China. In that case Denmark, for the benefit of her newly founded commercial connections in east Asia, would through American concessions obtain a valuable equivalent for her western colonies."

Still Rough on Northeast Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 23.—Owing to the continuance of the tempestuous weather the coast folk are still unable to enter the coves with a view of attempting to recover the bodies of victims of the Helgoland wreck in St. Mary's bay. The French cable ship Francois Arago was compelled to return here in consequence of the heavy seas, which make it impossible for her to carry on the work of cable repairing on the Grand Banks.

Millionaire Dies Suddenly.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—Captain Julius Freidman, a millionaire, was found dead in his bed at the Palace hotel. Death was caused by heart disease, from which he had long been a sufferer. Captain Friedman leaves no close relatives.

New York Lawmakers Begin Another Week.

ECONOMY REDUCES APPROPRIATIONS

Assemblyman Harburger's Raines Law Resolution Tabled—Attempt to Prevent Italians From Working on Manhattan Tunnel.

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—The Rev. George N. Karner, pastor of the West End Presbyterian church, who offered prayer in the assembly last night, prayed fervently that the Lord would protect the members from the wineroom, the gaming board and the lobby.

Leader Allds introduced the annual appropriation bill, which appropriates $16,000,000. The lump sum appropriated is about the same as last year, except that they have taken over from the supply bill items aggregating $260,000, which is done in accordance with the recommendations of State Comptroller Morgan. This really makes the appropriation $200,000 less than last year's, which is due to the economy practiced by the different departments of the state.

Mr. Harburger of New York called up his resolution for debate which calls for the repeal of the Raines law. He was recognized by the chair and argued for the passage of his resolution at some length. In his usual vein the speaker paid his respects to Senator Raines and also to Mr. Rogers, chairman of the excise commission. In the cause of humanity and from a strictly moral standpoint he urged the members to adopt his resolution.

Mr. Rogers in reply said that, judging from the turbulent tirade of the gentleman from New York, he would have to serve as tamer of the tiny pugilistic Tammany tiger. He suggested that the proper reference of the resolution should be to the commission in lunacy, as the introducer was a monomaniac on the subject of excise. If the Democratic party should come into power tomorrow, and the speaker, they would not dare to tamper with the present Raines law.

On motion of Mr. Allds the resolution was laid on the table by a viva voce vote.

Mr. Minton of New York offered a resolution prohibiting the employment of Italian cheap labor on the construction work of the proposed new $35,000,000 tunnel for Greater New York. The introducer endeavored to have the rules suspended for action on his resolution, but Mr. McKeown of Kings objected, and it went over one week under the rules.

Mr. Bradley of Buffalo offered a resolution expressing sympathy with the Boers in their struggle with England for self government. It also went over one week.

Senator John Raines presided at the session of the senate in the absence of Lieutenant Governor Woodruff and Senator Ellsworth, president pro tem. A large number of bills were introduced.

New Jersey Legislature.

TRENTON, Jan. 23.—The two houses of the legislature had brief sessions last night in consequence of adjourning out of respect to the memory of ex-Attorney-General John P. Stockton, who died yesterday. Provision was made for the appointment of a committee to draft suitable resolutions. The senate held an executive session and confirmed all the pending nominations. The governor afterward sent to the senate these nominations which were referred: County judge of Somerset, Louis H. Schenck; prosecutor of Somerset county, James L. Griggs; prosecutor of Salem county, J. Forman Sinnickson. There were no bills introduced in the house.

A Bloody Christening.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 23.—At a christening at the home of John Lard, in Peckville, last night, when the festivities were at the breaking point and beer and whisky were flowing like water, Peter Chipriono had some words over a trivial matter with August Esconia and, drawing a revolver, fired a bullet into the brain of Esconia. He fired again and shattered the arm of Americo Marraugillo, again and August Bonnia received the bullet in his thigh. The rest of the bullets he tried to distribute among some 30 odd guests, but no more took effect. Chipriono was jumped upon by the infuriated guests, who tried to take his life, but the borough policeman arrived in time to prevent further trouble and brought his prisoner to the county jail. Esconia died without a murmur. The two wounded men will probably recover.

Strike of Rod Mill Workers.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 23.—The rod mill workers at the plant of the American Steel and Wire company, Rankin, have gone out on a strike, closing that department of the big works and throwing idle about 1,000 men. Only about 50 skilled men are involved. These men were organized Monday night into a lodge of the Rod Mill Workers' Association of America. The demands at Rankin are the same as those at the other rod mills.

Prairie Sights an Iceberg.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Captain Mackenzie of the converted cruiser Prairie reports having sighted an iceberg 400 feet high and about a quarter of a mile long in crossing the Atlantic last week. The discovery was in 45 degrees and 43 minutes north latitude and 45 degrees and 43 minutes west longitude, considered an unusually low point to fall in with such a huge berg.

Vessel a Total Loss.

DELAWARE BREAKWATER, Del., Jan. 23.—The tug North America reports that the British steamer Sutton, which is stranded on Fenwick island shoals, lies 1,800 feet northeast half north from whistling buoy, in nearly five fathoms of water. Bow and stern are visible. The vessel is a total loss. The North America recovered compasses, other nautical instruments and charts.

Gas Explosion In a Mine.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 23.—An explosion of gas in the Marvine mines in North Scranton resulted in the probable fatal injury of Thomas Coleman, aged 19, a driver boy, and the severe injury of Frank Parks, a driver boy, and Joseph Riniski, a laborer. Several other men were in the immediate vicinity of the explosion, but they were uninjured.

Killed by a Train.

SARATOGA, Jan. 23.—The Delaware and Hudson New York express ran over and decapitated Louis McGreer, aged 60, at Mechanicsville. The dead man was on his way for the doctor for his wife.

To Exempt Y. M. C. A. Property.

For sometime past there has been a vigorous effort on the part of the officers of the local Young Men's Christian Association to secure exemption from taxation for the property owned by the Association, but it has failed. The argument has been made that the Association is religious and beneficial in its operation, and that therefore its property should be classified the same as organized church belongings, which would permit it to be exempt. The issue was carried into court a year ago and a strong effort made to have the judiciary take that view of the matter, but it was found that there was not sufficient law for it.

Now, however, a bill has been prepared and will be introduced in the Legislature to accomplish the result sought for. The father of the measure is Assemblyman Lewis, of Passaic county. The bill exempts from taxation religious and charitable organizations, such as Y. M. C. A.'s and rescue missions. The measure provides that the property must be used in part by the institution or organization owning it, and that the entire income from the building must be used for the purposes of such organization, although partly supported by fees and charges received from beneficiaries.

The passage of this measure and its approval by the Governor would fit the case of the local Association in a very favorable manner, as no part of the income from the property of the Association is used for other purposes than its own benefit.

It is doubtful if the bill will pass, however, as there is a manifest inclination on the part of the Legislature to draw the line at passing further laws designed to exempt property from taxation. In a great many cases the matter has already been overdone because of sentiment and sympathy.

Some Prospective Legislation.

A Trenton correspondent observes that by the time the legislative mill gets ready for action there will be lots of grist prepared for it. The sewerage question, which directly concerns the pollution of the Passaic River, will be very prominent, and track elevation, which carries with it necessarily the abolition of grade crossing, will demand much attention. A new subject for consideration will concern the taxation of trolley franchises, which will present the question as to what is the character of such franchises. The proposition to reduce the legal rate of interest to five per cent. will provoke much contention, and the anti-Trust agitation may arouse much interest. Mr. McDermott's proposition to reduce the membership of Boards of Freeholders each to nine in Essex and Hudson, if agreed to, may lead to a similar reform in other counties. The Pitney Excise bill has already caused some commotion in this and other cities which it is supposed to effect. Instead of having the Excise Commissioners elected by the popular vote, the bill proposes that they should be appointed by the Judges of the County Courts. This would prove a radical change.

The death of former Attorney-General John P. Stockton removes a man who for a generation occupied a conspicuous part in the Democracy and public life of New Jersey. He was a gentleman of culture, having for years been one whose grace and polish brought out many bright spots in the coterie of men whose influence in this commonwealth was so strong and continuous that it was almost looked upon as invincible, but which finally collapsed through the indiscreet use of the power it had gathered in a run of thirty years. Mr. Stockton was one of the last to disappear, officially, under the new regime, having been superceded by a Republican three years ago.

The Cranford Chronicle, which has been the most friendly newspaper to the Riker-Hine trolley syndicate in Union county, has now turned against the actions of the syndicate and charterizes its conduct as a "robbing Peter to pay Paul policy." There can be but little real sympathy for such futile indignation as the Chronicle expresses. The Chronicle aided the Rikers in every way, shape and manner to form sentiment in their favor, and now if our esteemed contemporary feels that it is the victim of ingrates it has no one to blame but itself. It advocated the interests of the trolley syndicate with eyes wide open and in face of numerous warnings.

The fight between the Bryan members of the National Populist executive committee and those members who favor a straight Populist nominee is waxing furious in Nebraska. The committee will meet next month and will then set a time for the National convention. Bryan has advised that the Populists meet a week later than the Democratic convention, but those opposed to him desire an earlier convention. The middle of the road element is very active and the Bryan Populists are evidently alarmed.

It is announced on excellent authority that the appointment will soon be made by the President of David O. Watkins, last year's Speaker of the House of Assembly, and formerly Acting Governor, to be United States District Attorney of New Jersey, to succeed J. Kearny Rice, of New Brunswick. Mr. Rice's term expires in February. Mr. Watkins had the backing of General Sewell for the place.

The prompt manner in which Gov. Voorhees appointed the County Judge and the Prosecutor of Somerset county after the Republican county executive committee had expressed its preferences for proposed incumbents, is ample evidence that Senator Reed, who controls the executive committee, is regarded as the leading Republican of Somerset by the powers that be.

A small-sized row has been created in the Democratic Club, of New York, by the informal entertainment which its president tendered to Col. Bryan. Thus is the absence of the Boss made conspicuous. Had Sir Richard been at home there would have been better discipline among the "boys."

Col. Bryan is reported to be adverse to holding the Democratic convention in New York, but as a centre for holding political conferences the Nebraskan believes it to be at the head of the list.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Plainfield trolley company are laying plans to extend their lines to Stirling, through Washington Valley. When this is done and the line is built to Metuchen, Plainfield will have a trolley line running to all four points of the compass, and will be the trading centre for many miles of territory.—Somerville Democrat.

. . . . . .

Plainfield business men are striving to enlarge their trade by improving transportation facilities. They are urging the building of trolley lines to Metuchen and Summit. There is also a project mentioned of getting the Lehigh Valley Railroad to make connections with Plainfield by building a spur from South Plainfied. This will doubtless be built, at no distant day.—Metuchen Recorder.

Good Streets.

The streets of Plainfield are at present in excellent condition, thanks to the open winter and good work performed by the councilmanic street committee. A person can wheel almost anywhere in the city and there is scarcely any street but what is in good order. There are some bad spots, but they are few and the people appreciate the fact that they have such pleasant avenues upon which they ride.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

OLD FASHIONED IDEAS

Time was when people considered it necessary to go to New York City to buy Dress Goods. We are not going to debate the question as to what may have been necessary in days gone by, but we do assert most emphatically that only in exceptional cases is it necessary or good policy to run off to N. Y. to see what is new and desirable in these latter days. We admit that N. Y. merchants offer many bargains in Dress Goods, but invariably they are out of date or undesirable fabrics culled from stock and such goods as we refuse to handle. This season we have made heavy purchases of the newest weaves direct from mills of well established reputation and shall offer rare values in what fashion decrees shall be most worn. The last shipment brought us the following:

54 in. Cheviots, made from fine quality wool, excellently dyed and of beautiful lustre. They come in grays, castors, black and all the new spring shades, and are steam sponged and shrunken. Price is 1.25. If same goods can be bought in N. Y. for less than 1.50 money will be refunded.

Also the well-known VICUNA SERGES made by the Broadhead Worsted Mills. They are 52 in. wide, good weight, do not wrinkle or rough up and have a beautiful bright lustre. Exceedingly desirable for both beauty and service. Price $1.10 per yd. Also sponged and shrunken.

RIPPLE CLOTH—The latest weave and exquisitely beautiful, 54 in wide. Price 98c per yard. Only a few colors as yet.

GRANITE CLOTHS—Also made by the Broadhead Woolen Mills and controlled by us in this city. The name is a fair indication of the goods. They are made to wear, yet beauty of finish is a striking feature of the fabric. A large range of colorings to select from including the new blues, castors, grays, tans, etc. They are 38 in wide. We know of their selling in a neighboring city for 69c. Our price 59c.

These are but a few straws showing which way the Dress Goods Winds are blowing.

All indications point to materials for Tailor-made Suits and you may depend upon our having the best. It will be a pleasure to show these goods, but please don't ask for samples. No Sample can give an adequate idea of the beauty of any Fabric.

What we claim for our dress goods is equaly true of wash goods, embroideries, all-overs, etc, They are just as new, equally attractive, quite as reliable and somewhat cheaper than those shown in N. Y. We ask Nobody to Buy. We ask everybody to Look. It costs nothing to look here. It costs something to look in N. Y.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 23—Those who received summons Saturday to appear at Elizabeth yesterday morning before the Grand Jury, were on hand about twelve strong when that body met. Only three were called from the town and borough. Two detectives from New York were very much in evidence, and it is said they are the ones who have bought liquor in some of the local hotels. The calling of so many from the village was only for the purpose of getting some evidence to back up the detectives statements. They probably got the looked-for evidence very quick from the appearance of the case, only calling three before them.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company held an informal but very enthusiastic meeting in their rooms last night. The meeting was called for the purpose of reviving an interest among the members who have neglected meetings until the outlook had become very discouraging to the officers of the company. The financial condition of the company was found to be in better shape than ever and the only trouble that could be ferreted out was a lack of interest. But before the meeting closed encouragement had taken the place of discouragement among the officers. The pledges made gives Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company new life. The present year will see a revival of interest and the company will again hold the place it has held in the history of the town in the past.

The Baptist Young People's Association elected the following officers at their meeting Sunday evening: President, Rev. G. M. Shott; vice-president, F. W. Hoppell; corresponding secretary, Miss Boornmann; recording secretary, Miss Hannah Hayes; treasurer, George L. Dunn.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold a gala meeting in their rooms this evening. Beside installation of officers, the council will enjoy a visit from the the grand officers and a delegation from Cranford, Green Brook and Plainfield councils.

Miss May A. Ford who has been spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. John Ford, has returned to her home at Nepera Park, N. Y.

Miss Mamie Miller led the Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church last evening.

Rev. G. M. Shott spent yesterday in New York city attending the ministers' conference.

Dresden. Das königliche Medizinalkollegium nahm einstimmig einen Antrag an, welcher die Regierung ersucht, beim Bundesrathe dahin zu wirken, daß die Behandlung Kranker aus der Ferne durch in öffentlichen Blättern, Büchern u. s. w. gegebene Heilvorschriften unter Strafe gestellt und daß die Ankündigung oder Anpreisung solcher Fernbehandlung überhaupt bei Strafe verboten werde. In der Begründung des Antrages wurde darauf hingewiesen, daß eine Krankenbehandlung ohne Feststellung der Krankheit und ohne vorherige Untersuchung betrügerischer Schwindel sei.

Bautzen. Hier ist ein zehnjähriger Schulknabe, der den Robinson gelesen, aus Sehnsucht nach den Robinsoninseln, die er gleich hinter Dresden vermuthete, mit dem Schulranzen abgerückt und erst Abends zu den bekümmerten Eltern zurückgekehrt, weil ihm endlich der Weg doch zu weit erschienen war.

Borna. Im hiesigen Braunkohlenbergwerk stürzte der Schacht „Espenhain" ein, wobei drei Grubenarbeiter erschlagen wurden.

Leipzig. Die hiesige Strafkammer verurtheilte den internationalen Hochstapler und Schlittenfahrer Czepak aus Komotau, welcher bereits von den Gerichten in Breslau, München, Regensburg und Berlin zu Zuchthausstrafen in Höhe von 21 Jahren verurtheilt ist, zu weiteren drei Jahren Zuchthaus.

Oelsnitz. Ein Konsortium von Verehrern des ersten Reichskanzlers hier und in Markneukirchen sammelt Gaben zur Errichtung eines Bismarckdenkmals in beiden Städten.

Zwickau. Der 7jährige Sohn eines Gutsbesitzers in Schreiersgrün legte ein geladenes Gewehr, welches er in der Stubenecke gefunden hatte, scherzeshalber auf seinen etwa drei Jahre alten Bruder an. Durch Spielen an dem Hahn entlud sich plötzlich das Gewehr, die Kugel drang dem Bruder in den Kopf und tödtete ihn auf der Stelle. Der jugendliche Thäter entfernte sich nach der Katastrophe und ist trotz eifrigen Nachsuchens nicht wieder gefunden. Wahrscheinlich hat er sich im Walde aus Furcht vor Strafe selbst ein Leid angethan.

Thüringische Staaten.

Gera. Bei den Gemeinderathswahlen wurden in Tinz zwei und in Doma vier sozialdemokratische Kandidaten in den Gemeinderath gewählt.

Gotha. Von der Strafkammer hier wurde der Gemeindediener Bauer von Ichtershausen wegen Körperverletzung im Amte zu 14 Tagen Gefängniß verurtheilt. Der Angeklagte hatte vom Gemeindevorstand in Ichtershausen den Auftrag erhalten, einen Dienstknecht von auswärts, der sich lästig gemacht hatte, aus Ort und Flur Ichtershausen zu transportiren. Während des Transportes mißhandelte Bauer den Dienstknecht durch Säbelhiebe.

Der Bericht spricht sich ferner sehr energisch zu Gunsten des Mittellandkanals aus. —Der Norddeutsche Lloyd in Bremen hat die viermastige Bark „Albert Rickmers" angekauft, um dieselbe als Kadettenschulschiff zu verwenden.

Lübeck. In stürmischer Nacht ist das mit Steinen beladene Schiff des Schiffers Bruhns aus Lübeck auf dem Binnensee gesunken. Die Mannschaft hat sich an den Volksdorfer Strand gerettet. Schiff und Ladung waren nicht versichert.

RIPANS TABULES

"I used to be troubled with dyspepsia a great deal, but since last April I have not known what it feels like. I would have sour stomach and belch up anything the least bit greasy as sure as I ate it. I saw Ripans Tabules advertised in a St. Louis paper and decided to try them, so when I went to Guthrie I found some of them and have never been without them since. I used to drink liquor, but have no desire for it now. I can eat ham and beans, or cabbage boiled with fat meat—in fact, I can digest anything I eat without any trouble whatever. I have always lived on a farm and have done many a hard day's work when I was sick enough to be in bed—all on account of indigestion."

WINTER GOWNS.

Pretty Costumes For Ordinary and Theater Wear.

The bodice differing from the skirt is now worn chiefly for the theater, where the lower part of the costume is not seen and the upper part is doubly predominant. Dark skirts of satin or velvet are usually chosen, and if they have lost a little of their freshness it is of less consequence at the theater than anywhere else. The bodice is usually light or bright, and spangled and jeweled effects are here in their best and most appropriate service. Elaboration of trimming is much indulged in, and lace, ruches of mousseline de soie, applications, chenille net, all the newest decorations, are lavishly employed.

In a different type of costume the differing bodice also holds its own with great determination. Shirt waists of flannel or velveteen are much used with serge or cloth skirts for morning wear and similar hard service. The shirt waist costume may be considered a woman's undress uniform—comfortable, neat, convenient, appropriate for plain wear, but unsuited for social occasions, where something more formal and pretentious is required.

The costume shown in the cut is of silver gray cloth. The redingote skirt has seven lines of stitching around the foot at the back. The tablier has a band of deep knotted fringe. At each side of the tablier are two groups of three gold buttons. The tight bodice has a bolero front, the revers of white cloth being embroidered with silver gray silk. Bands of stitching border the revers and the flaring collar. The vest is of golden brown velvet fastened with small gold buttons. The sleeves have inside cuffs of the velvet, and the gray felt hat is also trimmed with golden brown velvet, with a gold buckle and a mottled plume.

FASHION HINTS.

The Correct Wardrobe of the Season.

It is not often that any style is universally becoming, but the bolero, in some one of its many forms, can be worn by almost everybody. It is in great favor this winter, appearing in all materials and in fur.

Nearly all parts of the costume are trimmed with fur this winter. Gowns, wraps and hats all show it. Jackets and boleros have large revers of fur, a fur collar and fur lined fronts. Redingotes are similarly trimmed, and garments having a body of fur are adorned with another kind of fur or with velvet, satin or lace.

Besides fur, a great deal of passementerie is used, and it often designs boleros on jackets and redingotes. For evening and theater wraps it is of the richest—jeweled, beaded and spangled, embroidered in silk and metal threads and mingled with tiny ruches of gauze and ribbon.

Some evening capes are entirely composed of flounces of fur, and the inside of capes is as elaborate as the outside, consisting often of fine ruffles or shirrings of gauze or lace.

The picture shows a hat covered with stretched black velvet. The brim has a wide border of black astrakhan, and the sole trimming is a sort of large butterfly of black velvet lined with white satin and stitched with white. This butterfly is fastened in front by a large silver and crystal buckle. The tight bolero is of black astrakhan and has a flaring collar lined with ermine and ermine revers.

ARE FULL OF FIGHT.

Mormons Will Engage in a Titanic Struggle for Existence.

Tenets of Their Faith Not Fully Understood by Eastern People —Polygamy the Keystone of the Church.

[Special Salt Lake City Letter.]

TO EASTERN people it no doubt seems very strange that the Mormon church has such a strong hold upon its members, especially the women. Therein lies its greatest power. There are fewer female than male apostates, and not many of either. The secret of the power of the church over women is found in the "Book of Mormon," which teaches that a woman's chances for eternal glory depend upon the number of wives her husband has. If her husband has only two or three wives he does not stand so well as he who has seven or eight. In taking these wives the husband is, according to these baneful teachings, obeying the Divine command, and, through him, his wives receive salvation. An unmarried person, especially a woman, is held to be of little consequence in this world, and the creed teaches, by implication, that an unmarried woman cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. That people should believe such odious doctrine in this age of civilization is indeed strange. And those who do believe it are as fanatical as were the persecuting fanatics of the dark ages who murdered those who differed from them. In addition, the wives of a numerously married man become queens and rulers in the next world, while those of a man not so numerously married become only servants. Of course all women want to be queens and rulers. It is necessary to make this plain in order that "gentile" readers may understand why women can sink all feelings of jealousy, love and humanity and consent that another woman, or women, should share her husband's affections.

They are more zealous than the men. They not only consent to the husband taking an additional wife, but urge him to do so. There are exceptions, but they are few. The power the husband holds over his wives is equally strong. According to the false teachings of the Mormon church, a wife cannot enter the kingdom of heaven except through her husband's mediation. In the marriage ceremony a veil is placed over her face, and also upon her death. And on the morning of the resurrection he raises that veil, otherwise she cannot be raised from the grave. This not only compels obedience, but inspires fear, and, if her husband so wills it, she is doomed to eternal death and damnation. Such teachings as the foregoing would be amusing, were they not so sacrile-gious. Can it be any wonder that people so stifled with ignorance as to believe such teachings are so defiant and fanatical? People here who understand the Mormon people also understand that the trouble with these undemocratic and un-American institutions has just commenced. In the first place, the Mormon church teaches that the "saints" are the "chosen people of the Lord," that the church is destined to rule over the United States, and, eventually, over the entire world; that this is the "true" church, and that, in order to carry out its destined work, the church should rule the state. That is why the Mormon church interferes in politics. Of course, the leaders deny this, but their teachings prove the contrary. In short, they claim that the church is vested with both temporal and spiritual power, with the church-head as the supreme ruler. It is well to understand this subtle teaching, for behind it lie the frequent "agitations" and political troubles of which easterners do not get a very clear idea. This is why Utah made so many efforts to get statehood, and why a polygamist is wanted in congress. Perhaps Utah furnishes a solitary instance where statehood was promised in consideration that the people would cease violating a moral law.

About three-fourths of the population of the state are Mormons, and while many of the Mormons do not live in polygamy, and have not, they believe in it, nevertheless. If they did not they would not be Mormons, for that is the main tenet of their creed. Since the recent agitation began those who were lukewarm in the faith have rallied to the support of the church. It has solidified the church, and those who think that Mormonism is dead, or even dying, are greatly mistaken. It is believed, and on good grounds, that polygamy is as much practiced now as ever. There is no way to prove the marriages, which are celebrated in secret in the temple, but common report and circumstantial evidence support this supposition. It should also be recollected that the Mormon church officials never promised the government to permanently renounce polygamy. Had they done so they would have renounced their church. Furthermore, the officials claim that they have not the power to do so, as it is a "Divine command." Consequently they only "suspended" its practice. As no definite time was stated, the "manifesto" suspending it can be repealed whenever the "prophet" has a "vision" to that effect. Of course, the gentile world will not know of this; such orders are issued secretly.

During the past year about 60,000 converts were added to the Mormon church—a greater increase than during any previous year. The total number in the United States, according to official church reckoning, is 300,000.

In addition to controlling Utah, the Mormons now hold the balance of political power in Idaho and Arizona. In an interview a leading church official stated to me that the church was pushing its "colonies" into every state and territory and that fewer immigrants are being brought to Utah than heretofore.

The reason, he stated, is that Utah is "pretty well filled up and other fields must be prepared." In other words, the Mormons have political control of Utah and are colonizing other states and territories with the view of controlling them.

Considering these facts, it is not likely that the Mormons will give up the political fight, no matter what congressional legislation may be had. Believing that their "divine mission" is to rule spiritually and temporally, they may continue even to the point of resisting the government, as they have done before. Just before our civil war, when they numbered only 60,000 in Utah, they assassinated United States officials, drove others from the country, defied the courts and with an army of 5,000 met the United States army, which had been sent out to quell the celebrated "'Mormon rebellion." The same defiant spirit prevails now. They do not believe that any human government has a right to interfere with them—that theirs is a "divine government."

It is with this view that the Mormons emigrated to the then far west, where they could establish a government, and, though their scheme for an "independent" government failed, they furnish the only instance in this country wherein a state grew out of the colonization of a religious sect.

The Mormons have no politics, as a principle—their first duty is to the church, and they vote for the "church candidate," irrespective of politics. In this union lies their strength. This unit system always has prevailed, and no doubt will so continue. It was thought by many that Mormonism would soon "die out under the influences of civilization." But it is not affected by surrounding civilization. On the contrary, Mormonism grows in spite of it. They claim that no "commission, no law or earthly power, can destroy plural marriages." It has been tried and failed. In spite of the anti-polygamy laws of congress, polygamy still exists. It was thought that statehood was the remedy, but that has also failed. An amendment to the constitution is proposed. But in order to disfranchise a polygamist the crime must be first proven. Under the Edmunds law many polygamists swore that they were not living in polygamy, and, consequently, voted. It will be as difficult now to prove a secret plural marriage as it was then. Furthermore, there is a sufficient number of Mormons not living in polygamy to control all elections. In an issue between Mormon and gentile they are a unit, and this, with their communistic principles, gives them a power possessed by no other sect of equal numbers. Very few "gentile" women vote, but the Mormon women never miss a chance, and it is invariably a vote for the church theocracy.

GEN. VICENTE PERAZA.

He Will Represent the Troubled Republic of Venezuela as Minister at Washington.

The bloody and long-drawn-out revolution in Venezuela having at last come to a close, the new government, presided over by Gen. Castro, has selected as its representative in Washington Gen. Vicente Peraza.

Gen. Nicanor Bolet-Peraza, the well-known Venezuelan litterateur and diplomat, was born June 4, 1838, in the city of Caracas, Venezuela. While yet a young man he took an active part in the political fights of his country and rose to the rank of general. He has achieved considerable reputation as an orator and is one of the foremost newspaper men in Venezuela. He has always been affiliated with the liberal party and has been assistant secretary of the interior and attorney general. He was a congressman from 1870 to 1878.

In 1889 he went to New York and founded and published for five years La Rivista Illustrado (Illustrated Review) and Las Tres Americas (The Three Americas). Both publications were printed in Spanish. Gen. Peraza was afterward a delegate to the Pan-American congress held in Washington in 1889, and at its close was appointed minister plenipotentiary to the United States. He has been consul general in New York of the republic of Salvador and later of the greater republic of Central America. He was a delegate to the universal postal congress in Washington in 1897. He took an active part in the revolution which resulted in the establishment of Gen. Castro's government.

PREMIER OF MANITOBA.

Political Advancement of Hugh John Macdonald, Son of the Great Canadian Statesman.

Hugh John Macdonald, who in consequence of the recent election in Manitoba will become premier of that province in succession to Thomas Greenway, who has been at the head of the liberal government for the last 12 years, is the only son of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, who was for nearly 40 years the leader of the Canadian conservatives and was for 17 years prime minister of Canada. Hugh John Macdonald is a lawyer of Winnipeg, and is now in his fiftieth year. He has been a member of the dominion parliament, and was minister of the interior in the administration of Sir Charles Tupper, which held office for two months in 1896.

His facial resemblance to his father is striking, and he has much of the political shrewdness which made Sir John the leading public figure in Canada during his lifetime. It is an open secret in Canada that Hugh John Macdonald is to become the leader of the dominion conservative party in succession to Sir Charles Tupper upon the retirement of the latter. This cannot be long delayed, as Sir Charles is now in his seventy-ninth year.

The Consumption of Beer.

Recent statistics show that the consumption of beer in Germany during the year 1897-98 was 1,383,700,000 gallons; 1,192,000,000 in Great Britain; 180,000,000 in France and about 90,000,000 in Russia. A better notion of the popularity of beer as a beverage is to be had from the estimate of consumption "per head" of the population. It is reckoned at 36 gallons in Belgium, 32 in Great Britain, 25 in Germany, 21 in Denmark, 12 in Switzerland, ten in the United States, 9½ in Austria-Hungary, nine in Holland, five in France, 3½ in Norway, 2½ in Sweden and one in Russia.

Treasure from the Sea.

Greek divers have discovered treasure in a Russian flagship sunk in Greek waters in 1770. Gold coins to the value of $55,000 have already been recovered, and the divers report great stores of silver and jewels, which the storms of a century have washed out from the hulk of the old wreck.

FOOD SUPPLY WAGONS.

Their Inventor Believes They Will Solve the Servant-Girl Problem to Everybody's Satisfaction.

Conservative old New Haven is soon to have a twentieth century convenience that will make one of the dreams of Edward Bellamy a practical realization. In his famous book entitled "Looking Backward" Bellamy describes great cooperative kitchens from which whole cities are to be fed. New Haven will shortly have a big kitchen from which her residents may order their meals and have them sent piping hot to their homes all ready to be served. This, in brief, is the latest idea of a Yankee invention, designed to solve the servant girl problem.

This scheme is not a mere dream. It is an idea of a New Haven business man who has made a success. It is backed by over 20 other New Haven business men, every one of whom is a practical and successful man in his line of business. These men have put their money into this idea because they believe that they have in this scheme a big fortune.

Many schemes have been tried in different parts of the world to supply food for families through cooperative kitchens. These schemes have never been very successful, because it has been impossible to keep food hot during transportation from one place to another. The scheme of many families eating together in one building has also proved objectionable. New Haven has apparently solved this problem by the invention of heat retaining devices by which a plate of soup or a roast of beef may be kept piping hot for as long as seven hours. The projectors say they can deliver, cooked and ready to serve, many dishes at a price equal to that which the housekeeper pays for the raw product.

In speaking of his scheme, Mr. S. H. Street said to a New York Herald reporter:

"This is not a mere dream. I have been studying this subject for years. I have discussed it with the best business men of the country. I have placed my ideas before them, and they have all told me that the scheme in practicable.

"People do not realize that it is possible to cook the cheapest portions of meat in a scientific manner and get as delicious dishes as are served in the finest restaurants in the country. It has been demonstrated that you can roast beef that costs four cents a pound—that is, sections of the beef that are not usually used for roasting—and get a more nourishing dish than you can from the choicest cuts. This, however, can only be accomplished by cooking the meat slowly and cooking it in a scientific manner.

"Cereals are very difficult to cook properly. So are baked beans and some kinds of vegetables. We will devote ourselves at first to cooking things that require long and careful cooking. We do not propose to meddle with steaks and chops, which are easily cooked. Later on we may take up all sorts of cooking."

The secret of Mr. Street's scheme lies in his patent device for retaining heat. This apparatus is apparently nothing more than a big bucket, metal covered and lined, with sides and bottom about two inches thick. There is a close-fitting top or lid of similar thickness. What the sides of the wall of this package are lined with Mr. Street does not say. Into this heat-retaining package are put porcelain cans, which fit tightly and have close-fitting covers.

Mr. Street proposes to have various sized packages, in which breakfast, luncheon and dinner can be arranged. In the bottom of the bucket is placed the dessert, then the meat and vegetables, and then the soup. This is for a dinner bucket.

These buckets are to be delivered in big wagons, in which there will be an arrangement along the side for holding them in place. The scheme is to have a large number of wagons, which will make trips through various sections of the city to deliver food and take orders for the following day. There will be small wagons for quick delivery of late orders.

Lace Made from Hair.

The most curious lace is called point tresse. It is very rare, and was made of human hair. French collectors say that it exists in the present day only in their cabinets. It was confined to the early part of the sixteenth century. Margaret, countess of Lennox, the mother of the wretched Darnley, sent from the Tower, where she was imprisoned when her son, Lord Charles Lennox, married the daughter of Bess of Hardwicke, a bit of this kind of lace to Mary, queen of Scots. This is a very strong proof of her belief in the queen's innocence of the guilt that had been imputed to her. The little square of point tresse was worked by the old countess' own hands from her own gray hair. It was, in fact, hair mixed with fine flax.

Recipe for Baking Onions.

Butter a baking dish and lay in it raw onions cut in slices half an inch thick. Bake them pale yellow and then take out of the oven. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with one-fourth of an inch of grated crumbs and cheese in equal parts. Return to the oven just long enough to melt the cheese.

ARIZONA SUN DANCE.

Heathen Ceremonials Observed by the Acoma Indians.

Although Ostensibly Christians the People of Various Far Western Pueblos Still Worship the Orb of Day.

[Special Acoma (Ari.) Letter.]

TRAVELERS return from India and tell us of the sun worship of the Parsees; of the prayers offered to the rising sun by devout citizens of Bombay. They would lift up their hands in amazement and horror were they told that there are thousands of sun worshipers in the United States of America at the present time. And yet such is the case. Every morning in the year men and women may be seen among our sun-worshipers, sprinkling their sacred meal to the rising sun and praying to the great morning luminary to bestow all his best gifts upon them.

"But," you ask, "where are such benighted heathen as this to be found in the United States?"

In Arizona and New Mexico. The pueblo or town Indians of Isleta, Laguna, Zuni, Acoma, etc., are all worshipers of the sun, and daily their adoration is offered, as well as in special ceremonies of great pomp and importance which occur less regularly.

If one leaves the transcontinental line of the Santa Fe railway on the journey to California, at the little town of Laguna in New Mexico, and drives, or rides horseback, 17 or 18 miles south, he will reach the wonderful "City of the Cliffs," Acoma. Here, in the first day of September of each year, the "feast of St. Stephen," the patron saint of the people, is observed. The feast is a strange and interesting mixture of Roman Catholic religious ceremonial and pure and unadulterated sun worship. I have seen the dance and its attendant ceremonies several times, and each time the "joinings" of the two kinds of worship become more apparent. The old priests, when Acoma was subjugated to Spanish rule 350 years ago, were wise. Instead of totally prohibiting the religious ceremonials of the people, they gave new and Christian interpretations to them, hence, today, we see an orthodox Catholic priest engaging in the rites of holy mass, and then marching in a procession to the plaza where the whole afternoon is spent in a dance performed in honor of the sun.

During these processions the visiting Mexicans often unite with the Indians, though, regarding themselves as superior to the natives, they head the procession, and slightly to one side, and thus preserve their dignity unimpaired. One of their number, on one occasion, was induced to add charm to the performance by rendition of certain airs on his accordion. During a solemn song, when the Indians were praying for the continued blessings of Those Above, the accompanist compelled his accordion loudly and insistently to give forth the strains of "Marching Through Georgia." Soon he changed it to "La Paloma," and then, when the most solemn part of the ceremony was reached, he thrilled the religious feelings of his auditors by bringing forth with intense fervor and power that soul-stirring melody, "After the Ball Is Over." But, happily unconscious of any incongruity, the earnest Indians sang on, and felt grateful to their Mexican friend for his helpful accompaniment.

In one of the main streets was a bower made of cottonwood benches, in which the wooden figure of St. Stephen, the patron saint, was placed, and here, during the day, all the devout women came to pray, offer up thanksgiving, and, at the same time, deposit at the shrine corn, bread, melons, beans, and other products of their gardens as thankoffering. Then began the dances.

Two families or clans took charge of this portion of the ceremonies. The women were clothed in all the finest garments they were able to obtain. Robes, elegantly woven and highly colored sashes, buckskin leggins, moccasins, necklaces and the like, and upon the head each woman wore a headdress of wood or leather, a foot or more high, and painted or carved, or both, to represent symbols connected with the worship of the sun. The lightning, rain clouds, the sun, the moon, the morning and evening stars, the planets, the milky way even, were all represented upon these headdresses. The men's chief article of clothing was the kilt, made of white cotton of home weaving and embroidered, in colors. Anklets, moccasins, necklaces and a bands around the head to bind the hair, with armlets and rattles, completed their outfit, while the women held twigs of pine or juniper in their hands, which they moved back and forth in time with the rattling of the men.

Now watch the dance. The men come two by two, followed at a yard or so distance by two women, side by side, men rattling, women gently shaking their pine twigs. The men move their lower limbs in a wild, quick, hippety hop fashion that is as impossible to describe as it is to imitate, for I verily believe a French dancing master would strive in vain to learn that "step." The women, on the other hand, follow the men in a kind of slow, gentle, shuffling movement, merely advancing a few inches at each "shuffle foward," and scarcely lifting their feet from the ground, but keeping perfect time to the gesticulating antics and frog-like jumpings of the men.

By the side of the dancers is a band of men who form the chorus. These are singing with a lusty vigor never excelled by the congregation at a negro camp meeting. Their leader gesticulates with hands and arms, waving them to and fro, tossing them upwards and thus invoking the favors of the sun god and Those Above upon the dance. Some of their music is wild and crude, but one song was sung with a precision and accuracy of tone and attack that would have compelled admiration from the most critical of eastern audiences.

Now the dancers face each other, and march and countermarch, then they march in open order, some going north and others south. Several complex figures are danced with perfect time and order, until the dancers are very weary and return to their underground "kiva" for a rest. Then the dancers from the other kiva come forth and keep up the ceremonies until they are ready to retire. And thus the afternoon is occupied.

Here and there on the housetops groups of interested spectators may be seen, clothed in their picturesque garments, highly colored, white and variegated, and almost as interesting because of their pronounced absorption in the ceremony as the dancers themselves.

Do you see that energetic dancer there? He seems to be the most sincere and earnest worshiper of the lot. And yet a few years ago that young man was taken into one of the kivas in the dead of the night, bound hand and foot and gagged, and whipped with a cruel rawhide scourge until his lacerated back flowed blood, because he had ridiculed and scoffed at this religious service of his people. He had been to one of the United States government's Indian schools, where he was taught to look above the superstitious ideas of his people, and when he returned home, his education complete, he dared to give expression to his radical ideas; this was the method taken to convince him that "conservatism was the best policy." He evidently learned the last lesson well, for, when telling me the story, he said: "Watch me to-morrow, and you will see that I dance more vigorously than any other Acoma Indian." And so he did, but the religious influence of it was somewhat lost by the fact that each time I passed him and he thought he was unobserved by his people, he turned and gravely "winked" at me.

Just as sun is about to set all the visiting Indians are called together and the chief shaman or medicine man throws one after another among them the gifts that have been placed on the shrine during the day. There is a great scramble for these gifts, for not only are they deemed of value, but the prayers and thanksgiving of the donors to the Great Sun are supposed to accompany the gifts, and thus bring blessings and good luck to the recipients.

The Daily Press Bowling League trophy will not come to Plainfield at the close of this season. That is one thing certain. When the Park Club team lost two out of three games rolled at Cranford last week, the faint chance of seeing the local club at the top of the heap was effectually blotted out. Cranford cannot win either and the fight that the Parks will have to make will be to keep out of last place. If Cranford persists in rolling her last games in the league, which are scheduled for Roselle, the way the games against the Parks were rolled, then the Plainfield club will have to look well that it does not fall to last place. The Parks still have two series of games to roll, three games at Westfield while Roselle will roll three games on the Park Club alleys.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

That portion of the theatre-going public partial to minstrel shows will hail with delight the announcement that John W. Vogel and Arthur Deming's big minstrel alliance is to appear at Music Hall tonight. What Jeffries is to the prize ring and "Imp" to the suburban, Vogel and Deming are to the minstrel world. The pages of minstrel history are brimful of bright accomplishments essayed by venturesome Vogel; yet this, his greatest and best effort, outclasses by far his previous records and proves to his admirers what untiring energy and originality can do. For many years Arthur Deming has been the popular favorite in minstrelsy. From Portland, east, to Portland, west, and from the roaring waters of the St. Lawrence to the home of the Red Snapper, this prince of end men and comedians counts his friends by the thousands. As is usual with the Vogel enterprises, the general make-up of the combination is above criticism. The vocal department is filled with famous faces and such full fledged favorites as Bentham and Byrne, musical comedians; Ollie Young, club expert; John Queen, comedian; Marion and Pearl, in their grotesque acrobatic gyrations, and the great Olvio, are in the olio. Their silver cornet band is ably conducted by Prof. L. L. Scott, while E. L. Wayne is the director of the grand double symphony orchestra, both very essential adjuncts to a clever minstrel performance.

MAY LEAVE PERTH AMBOY.

Lehigh Valley May Transfer Its Coal Yards to Bayonne.

The recent operations of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, including the purchase of Black Tom Island, have revived popular interest in a rumor, which has been current for some time, that the Lehigh Valley intends to extend its lines through Bayonne to the Kill von Kull and establish large freight and coal yards in Bayonne. It has been learned that there is every likelihood of the scheme being carried out, or at least a beginning of the project being made within the next year.

It is understood that the plan is to erect large coal docks and coal yards on Constable Hook, which will eventually take the place of the company's giant coal yards at Perth Amboy. The present location of the company's coal yards at Perth Amboy is convenient in many ways.

The coal yards and docks at Perth Amboy are extensive, and the company constantly employs between 150 200 boats, including coal barges, floats, tugs, steam lighters and freight lighters. The Perth Amboy plant employs between 1,000 and 1,500 men, according to the season of the year, and the demands of business, and the Bayonne coal plant, should it be established, would be as large, if not larger.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

People living on West Front street, beyond Grant avenue, are filled with righteous indignation because they cannot get gas. The Plainfield Gas Company has never laid pipes beyond Grant avenue, and persons residing in that section think that they are entitled to gas. There is a large settlement at that end of the city and the residents should receive some recognition. Of course they can secure electric light, but most of them prefer the gas, and they think that there is no good reason why they should not have it.

The Sparta correspondent of a Newton journal announces that "the contemplated change of undertakers for our village has fallen through, and hence Jacob Shuman, who, for the past thirty three years has had charge, will continue to look after the interest of the bereaved, no doubt assisted by his sons, Henry and Willard." And then he gravely remarks: "This will no doubt be satisfactory to the many in whose families he has been called in times past." It is to be hoped that the feeling of satisfaction and gratitude may extend to those who may require Mr. Shuman's services in the future.

The attention of The Daily Press has once more been called to the great volume of steam that pours forth from the catch basin located at the corner of West Front and New streets. It is a great nuisance and it seems very queer that there is not some legislation that will put a stop to it. It is said that the Plainfield Electric Light Company do not use it any more as an escape for their exhaust steam, as they have an arrangement at the works whereby it is used to good advantage. However, there must be some reason for the steam coming out of there, and in justice to the people who have to pass that point, as well as the residents in that vicinity, it should be stopped.

When it comes to righteousness in judgment, New Brunswick has a Daniel in the person of Judge Strong. A citizen of that place recently applied a strap to the anatomy of a young son of another citizen, because the boy had built a fire in close proximity to a lumber pile owned by the former. A lawsuit ensued, as usual, and the Judge, in charging the jury, learnedly maintained that the question at issue was as to whether "undue force was used in administering the spanking." The verdict was one of acquittal. If the Judge will go a step farther and designate the exact voltage or foot pounds or pressure that are necessary to apply a strap or shingle under such circumstances, there are parents and teachers who will hail him as a greater man than Solomon.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Unfair Proceeding of Freeholders.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Our worthy Street Commissioner, Andrew J. Gavett, has kindly answered my query "as to what authority the city had to repair county roads." I am grateful to Mr. Gavett for the information, but he should not take to himself the credit, as he told me Friday he did not know by what authority the work was being done by the city, but would immediately consult the Corporation Counsel, which I suppose he did, hence his reply. He also thanked me for calling his attention to the matter. I never have had occasion to examine the law with reference to the matter, but I find it is a very unjust one, as the County Board of Freeholders can designate a county road. The municipal authorities cannot exercise any control over the road by granting franchises for street railroads, permission for sewers, or sewer connections, privileges to gas companies to lay mains, etc., without first getting consent from the Freeholders. Still the municipal authorities are bound to keep the road in repair.

BASKET BALL PROSPECTS

REGULAR Y. M. C. A. TEAM HAS BEEN DISBANDED.

Veteran Team and a New Team are Both Playing Under Name of Association—No Regular Series of Games, However.

A very peculiar situation exists in the athletic department of the local Y. M. C. A. The regular basket ball team of the association has been disbanded and there are now two teams playing under the name of the association, the old veteran team, and another team composed of young men comparatively new at the game. Neither is looked upon by the physical work committee as the official team of the association. In fact, there is no official team.

The causes that led up to this state of affairs are several. It will be remembered that when the basket ball season opened in the fall, the physical work committee announced that the general development of the members of the association and not simply good basket ball was the aim of the physical department. Toward this end, a rule was made that no young man should be eligible to play on the team who did not attend class work regularly. As the members of the team of last season could not or would not attend class work, with a few exceptions, it became evident that there would have to be several changes on the team. Then Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood tried to secure games with proper clubs and found it exceedingly difficult. The clubs that he wanted were so far ahead of the Plainfielders as to completely outclass them. Games with such teams would amount to nothing and only discourage the local players. So the team was finally given up, practically disbanded.

Then came the plans for the game with Summit, and Mr. Heywood gathered the members of the old team together to meet the visitors, although they had not attended class work regularly. The team that went to New Brunswick last evening was composed of the new candidates for honors in the basket-ball arena. The old team will go to Summit soon to play a return game there.

The basket-ball enthusiasts of the city are sorry to see no prospect of a lively local season for the game. The large crowd at the last game showed how popular is the sport, and there is no doubt but that a regular series of games such as were played last season and the season before would be appreciated.

SYMPATHY FOR THE FIGHTING DUTCH.

audience.

The following resolution, which Mr. VanSicien said he would have sent to President Kruger, was then unanimously adopted:

"WHEREAS, We, the citizens of Plainfield in meeting assembled, take this opportunity to express our sympathy with the Boers in their heroic struggle for self government. Being blessed in America with liberty, we hold it to be our duty to lend all moral aid to struggling sister Republics in every quarter of the globe. The effort on the part of Great Britain to interfere in the internal affairs of the South African Republic is unwarranted and brutal; that the present war is cruel and repugnant to all Christian sentiment.

"RESOLVED, That to Paul Kruger and his spartan band we tender our warmest sympathy and convey the cheering knowledge that the heart of the great American people throbs in unison with the Boers in this their struggle for liberty against British tyranny and avarice.

"RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to our representative in Congress as expressive of our sentiment."

A collection was then taken for the widows and orphans of the Boers.

STRANGE SURGICAL CASE.

This Man Went Eleven Weeks with a Five-Inch Chisel Buried in His Head.

Charles Baker, a machinist, of Waynesboro, Pa., had for 11 weeks carried a steel chisel around in his head without knowing it was there.

Twenty-seven physicians, says the New York World, attended the unusual operation when the chisel was removed in Baltimore. Baker has recovered and returned to his work.

Mr. Baker operated a steam machine which contained two chisels and revolved 1,200 times a minute. One day early in September he was found unconscious beside his machine. He was bleeding freely from a cut on the nose, a cut on the chin and a cut on the leg.

WONDERFUL OPERATION.

An investigation showed that both chisels had been flung from the machine. One was found in the room, and the other had disappeared. The chisels were 5½ inches long, one inch wide and one-fourth of an inch thick. Baker remained unconscious three days. When he recovered he never thought for a moment that the missing chisel was in his head. He was not confined to his bed, but went about the streets. The cuts on his face had opened small arteries. The wounds did not heal rapidly by home treatment, and Baker placed himself in the care of St. Joseph's hospital. After a week or two at the hospital the wounds healed. The presence of the chisel was still unsuspected.

After he had the chisel in his skull for 11 weeks Baker began to complain of a stiffness of the muscles of the neck and a partial paralysis of the nerves of the face and neck. It was thought that some foreign substance had got into the wound, and it was decided to place Baker under the X-rays.

He was taken to the State Normal school at Baltimore. The fluoroscope revealed the chisel in the man's head. It reached from the bridge of the nose nearly to the spine.

The chisel in its course cut through the face bone, narrowly missed cutting the base of the tongue, the jugular vein, the base of the brain and stopped just short of the spinal cord.

An operation was decided upon and was performed by Prof. Louis McLane Tiffany and Dr. Carey B. Gamble, Jr., and the resident hospital surgeons. It was necessary to open Baker's face from the eyebrows down the nose to the upper lip. The flesh was laid to one side and then forceps were used in withdrawing the chisel.

It was feared that the chisel had been so firmly imbedded in the bones that considerable difficulty would be found in removing the tool. The fear was not realized.

DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.

Should Lord Salisbury Retire from Office, He Would Become Minister of Great Britain.

Repeated rumors of the retirement of Lord Salisbury lend interest to the report that the duke of Devonshire is to be the next prime minister of England. It is pointed out that Hon. Schomberg K. McDonnell, Lord Salisbury's principal political secretary, has volunteered for service in South Africa, and that this action would not have been taken if his principal intended to remain in office for any length of time. The duke of Devonshire is the leader of the liberal unionists. He is now 66 years old and has been prominent in politics for more than 40 years. Though a lifelong liberal he is one of the richest noblemen in England, owning nearly 200,000 acres of land, in addition to coal and other mines. He split with Gladstone on the question of home rule, but afterwards declined to join Lord Salisbury's cabinet after the secession of Lord Randolph Churchill. In addition to his house in London he owns no less than seven castles and country seats. He is a brother of that Lord Frederick Cavendish who was assassinated in Phoenix park, Dublin, in 1882.

GREAT INTEREST IN VISIT OF BRYAN.

Mr. Martine Believes He Will Come to Plainfield.

IN JERSEY CITY TONIGHT.

COMING OF NEBRASKAN WOULD AID LOCAL DEMOCRACY.

The "Farmer Orator" Has Received Many Assurances That a Great Crowd Would Greet Him—Mr. Martine to Visit the Nebraskan This Evening and Urge Him to Accept His Invitation.

Great interest has been manifested in the possible visit of Col. William Jennings Bryan to this city as a guest of James E. Martine. Mr. Martine has received letter after letter from Democrats within a radius of twenty-five miles of this city who are anxious to know the exact date of the visit of the Nebraskan, and who say that large delegations will come from their respective communities to give an enthusiastic greeting to the great Democrat leader.

Congressman Daly, who is managing the visit of Col. Bryan to New Jersey, wrote Mr. Martine last week that Mr. Bryan would probably be able to come to Plainfield one day this week, but since then it has been learned that a visit at this time will be impossible, as he has a number of previous engagements to fill within the next week.

Colonel Bryan is expected to speak in St. Peter's Hall, in York street, near Van Vorhis, Jersey City, this evening. Colonel Bryan will be escorted by Congressman William D. Daly, and probably by Corporation Counsel Minturn, of Hoboken, to the rooms of the Robert Davis Association, in Mercer street, near the City Hall, where the Colonel will have supper. The supper will be private and informal. It is likely that Congressman Daly will introduce Colonel Bryan. The Democratic county executive committee has charge of the arrangements.

Tomorrow Mr. Bryan will go to Pennsylvania, and thence to the New England States where he will be busy for several days. Then it is arranged that he shall return to New Jersey, and, figuratively speaking, make a swing around the circle. At this time Mr. Martine has strong and favorable hopes of bringing the distinguished leader to Plainfield. Congressman Daly has given the "Farmer Orator" assurances that if it is possible he will induce Mr. Bryan to become the guest of Mr. Martine and deliver an address here in Music Hall.

Mr. Martine will go to Jersey City this evening to personally call on Mr. Bryan and secure a promise from him that he will visit Plainfield, and be his guest at Cedar Brook Farm over night.

"I am confident that Mr. Bryan will come to Plainfield," said Mr. Martine today in speaking of the matter, "and he can rest assured that if he does come we will give him such a rousing welcome that he will not witness it exceeded in cordiality at any point that he visits. The very fact that we live in a veritable Gibraltar of Republicanism is argument enough to induce Col. Bryan to pay us a visit. We need elucidation of Democratic doctrine very seriously in this community, and no person could possibly tend to help us in that respect as much as my friend Bryan. For the sake of Democracy and its converts we need him here ten-fold more than the sections that are already strongly Democratic. Mr. Bryan would make friends for the cause in this vicinity by a personal visit here. His visit, however, would not mean that he would speak to Plainfielders alone, for I have received numerous assurances that there will be hundreds from neighboring towns that will journey here to meet him if he comes, so that he will come in touch with a very large territory. His visit would be a great encouragement to local Democracy, and I know it would be a gratification to Col. Bryan, if he comes, to see what a crowd he would attract."

Fined for the Storm's Litter.

Edward A. Slocum, manager of the Elizabeth Bill Posting Company, was fined $5 and costs in a police court yesterday. He protested that he was not responsible for the violation of the city ordinance as alleged. In the storm Saturday night a lot of theatrical posters were torn from the billboards and scattered over the streets. Mayor Mack made a complaint against Slocum, alleging that he was responsible for the litter in violation of the ordinance. Mr. Slocum will probably appeal. Mr. Slocum also runs a system of billboards in this city.

SPECIAL OFFICER ACCUSED.

Appointed to Keep the Peace in the Borough He is Charged with Being an Offender.

Special Officer Patrick Collen, of the borough police force, was arrested on this side of the brook last evening for his share in some troublesome times on Richmond street Monday morning. He was accused of beating and generally abusing Michael McEvoy, besides using some language that was inclined to be profane.

Lawyer Francis J. Blatz, of the firm of Murphy & Blatz, appeared for the prisoner and at the lawyer's request, the hearing in the case was adjourned until tomorrow morning. A plea of not guilty was entered. Collen was released last night after his arrest, Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, going his bond.

BURGLARS IN FANWOOD.

C. H. BUSH'S HOUSE RANSACKED WHILE FAMILY WAS AWAY.

Entrance Obtained by Prying Open a Window—Lot of Valuable Silverware was Stolen—Boroughites are Stirred Up.

Fanwood, which seems to be a Mecca for burglars, received another visit from midnight prowlers sometime during Monday night. This time it was the home of Charles H. Bush which was entered. The burglary was not discovered until yesterday morning when neighbors saw one of the windows open. Knowing the family was visiting in New York word was sent at once to Mr. Bush.

Upon investigation it was found the intruders had first tried to pry open the front door, but this plan did not seem to be a very easy one, so operations were changed and a window was pried open and an entrance made. Examination showed that the thieves had made a complete and thorough search of the entire house, ransacking bureaus, closets and every place where it was possible for anything valuable to be hidden. After being satisfied that they had not overlooked anything they departed with a number of valuable pieces of silverware and Mr. Bush's revolver.

No clue was left as to who the burglars were, but from the appearance of the house and the search they made they must have known that the family was away and that there was no fear of being disturbed. The residents of the borough are aroused over the robberies of late, and will probably form some plan in the near future for mutual protection from the midnight prowlers.

M'KINLEY MAY COME.

And Attorney-General Griggs Will Make Hobart Memorial Oration.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, January 24.—The joint committee in charge of the arrangements for the ceremonies incidental to Hobart Memorial Day, have decided to carry out the plan suggested last week to ask Attorney-General John W. Griggs to serve as the orator of the day. Assemblyman Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic, was delegated to secure the consent of the Attorney-General, and he at once called up Mr. Griggs on the long distance telephone.

The Attorney General was at his home at the National Capital, and he readily fell in with the plan of the committee. Mr. Griggs advised that the President of the United States and the members of his Cabinet be invited to participate in the observance, and also suggested that the date of the memorial day be left open until he could consult with President McKinley.

The Attorney General said that he thought it would be convenient for the President and the Cabinet members to attend the exercises, provided the date be fixed either for February 7th or 14th. Mr. Griggs told the Passaic Assemblyman that he would agree the accepted date from Washington, and on that agreement the matter was left open until the promised notice shall be given.

Another City Hall Site.

The property on Watchung avenue occupied by Peterson, the florist, and owned by the Friends' Society, has been considered by the special committee from the Common Council who are looking for a city hall site. It is definitely decided that the corner property cannot be purchased, but it is possible for the city to purchase the adjoining property if they want to.

MURDER TRIAL NOW ON

OPENING OF THE CASE AGAINST PHILLIP DAVIS.

He was the Slayer of George Monks—An Eye Witness' Testimony Heard—One Plainfielder Is On the Jury.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Elizabeth, Jan. 24.—The trial of Phillip Davis, a negro, of this city, indicted on a charge of murdering George Monks, an Englishman, who resided in Brooklyn and who was shot and killed by Davis on Christmas Eve on Third avenue, in this city, opened yesterday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer before Judges Van Syckel and Vail.

The prisoner, who in size seems a mere boy, is being defended by former Prosecutor Fred C. Marsh and Abe J. David. Prosecutor English is conducting the case for the State. A special panel of forty-eight talesmen was drawn for the trial, and the work of securing a jury was begun. The defendant's counsel subjected the talesmen to a sharp cross-examination as to their qualifications to serve on the case.

At the end of more than an hour a jury was finally selected before the special panel was quite exhausted. The jurors are: William Simmons, New Providence; George Earnest, Linden; James A. Long, Union; James Johnson, Fanwood; Joseph Clark, Fanwood; J. Wiswall Drayton, Plainfield; Charles E. Smith, Westfield; Bernard J. Lavin, Clark Luster, John Conrad, John P. Arnold and Simon Robinson, Elizabeth.

The case opened with the testimony of City Surveyor Luster, who drew a map of the scene of the shooting. The principal witness during the morning was Michael Kane, an eye witness of the shooting. He testified that Davis and Monks had a quarrel in Oincenzo Romano's saloon on Third avenue, and when they got into the street the fight was renewed with Davis getting the worst of it, and he then drew a pistol, fired at Monks and ran away.

The theory of the defence is that the shooting was done by Davis to protect himself from Monks, who was a much larger man than Davis and powerfully built.

ELEVEN BUILDINGS.

The Central Railroad Company Now Laying a Side Track to the Grounds of the Aeolian Organ Factory.

The Aeolian building scheme, already underway at Garwood, when completed will comprehend eleven buildings, scheduled for construction, one after another, according to the convenience of the several interests in the matter of removel to the new situation. The plan for this year includes the construction of a power house, a lumber shed, a lumber kiln and possibly the pianola factory. The laying of 3 400 feet of railroad siding has been already commenced; 800 feet of which will be immediately completed. The property of this great company begins about 700 feet east of Garwood station and parallels the railroad track for 1,700 feet toward Cranford.

It is hoped that the contract for the iron work on the new shops will be awarded to Garwood. One of the companies there has the plans and specifications in hand and are now figuring on the work.

WANT NEW SCHOOLHOUSE.

Piscataway Officials Looking for a Site On Which a New Structure Can be Built.

Harry Cathers, superintendent of the public school at New Market, called on S. D. Drake last evening, as a representative of the Piscataway Township Committee, for the purpose of ascertaining whether a suitable piece of property could be secured at Dewey Park on which a handsome public school building can be erected. The fact is that the school at Lincoln and the one at New Market is overcrowded, and something has to be done to relieve the pressure. Mr. Drake assured Mr. Cathers that no doubt a suitable piece of property could be secured, and the matter will be attended to at once.

If the property can be obtained, the Committee will go ahead at once and erect a fine school building which will be a credit to that section, and will be the means of drawing people there.

Who was the Purchaser?

Last evening S. D. Drake sold a very valuable piece of property in Woodland Park, 150 x 250, to one of Plainfield's most influential citizens, who will erect thereon a residence that will cost about $10 000. The property is located at the corner of Evergreen avenue. The deeds will be fixed today for the transfer of the property.

Miss Mary Terry, of 225 East Second street, who has been quite ill with malarial fever, is gradually convalescing.

EXPRESS PACKAGES SENT HELTER-SKELTER.

Heavy Truck Hit by Express Train Last Night.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR MAN.

JUMPED JUST IN TIME TO AVOID BEING HURT.

Express Truck Was Being Unloaded Into East Bound Car When West Bound Train Ran Into It With Great Force—Many Valuable Articles on the Truck Which Were Damaged.

Some kindling wood, a mass of twisted iron and a sadly dilapidated framework are all that remain of one of the United States Express Company's trucks. William Alberts, one of the local employes of that company, is happy that he, too, was not similarly wrecked. The cause of it was the west bound Easton express on the Jersey Central Railroad, due here at 6:38, which plowed into the truck last evening while the contents was being loaded into the express car on an east bound train.

There is an express car on the train from Philadelphia to New York, due here at 6:45 in the evening. That train was standing at the North Avenue station last evening. The express car was in the fore part of the train and the express truck was standing across the west bound track at the eastern end of the station while William Alberts was placing its load on board the truck.

The Easton express was ten minutes late and approached the station at a lively rate. The engineer did not notice the truck until too late to stop his train. Alberts heard the shouts of warning, saw the approaching head light and dove headfirst into the express car, just in time to save his own neck. The approaching locomotive struck the truck and scattered the wreckage all over the platform.

There were trunks, two hampers belonging to Hillier & Co., several castings and a number of packages on the truck. One of the hampers was demoralized, and its contents scattered about the platform. The trunks suffered slightly. The castings were broken in their tumble and a quantity of type, the property of The Sabbath Recorder, was strewn about the landscape.

In one of the packages was a gown, being returned to a prominent New York house, that was valued at $250. It was somewhat damaged. Other packages were tossed about but did not suffer. The truck itself was a complete wreck. The loss is placed by the express company at $50.

VETERANS WERE GUESTS

SUPPER GIVEN TO MEMBERS OF WINFIELD SCOTT POST.

The Affair Held in the W. C. T. U. Rooms Which Had Been Patriotically Decorated—The Ladies Who Were in Charge.

About thirty members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., assembled at the W. C. T. U. rooms last evening at 9:30 o'clock, after their regular meeting, and partook of a fine turkey supper provided and served under the direction of the committee on soldier and sailor work. This was the annual supper to this organization and it was as usual very enjoyable.

The rooms were decorated in a patriotic fashion. While the veterans were enjoying the supper much pleasure was added by the rendition on the piano of a number of popular selections by Harry Smalley. After the inner man was filled short and interesting speeches were made by the veterans in which the women were heartily thanked for the feast. Among those who spoke were Commander Berg, M. C. Dobbins, W. W. Coriell, E. C. Morse, Wm. Hand, Edward Milliken and many others. The chairman of the committee who arranged and gave the supper was Mrs. M. C. Dobbins. She was assisted by Mrs. B. K. Case, Mrs. S. A. Cahoone, Mrs. David Smalley, Mrs. Winters, Miss May E. Howlett, Mrs. J. W. Yates, Mrs. Honeyman, Mrs. Parse, Miss Florence Dodge. It was nearly 11 o'clock when the affair terminated, and as the veterans departed they took occasion to personally thank the women for their kindness.

Rode Bicycle on Sidewalk.

As Charles Sanborn had no boat to navigate South Second street, near Clinton avenue, he took to the sidewalk with his wheel. He was stopped by the police and ordered before City Judge Runyon. He came this morning and the Judge suspended sentence with a warning.

SOMERSET'S NEW JUDGE

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LOUIS H. SCHENCK.

Something About the Man Who Will Succeed Judge Bartine—Born and Raised at Neshanic, Somerset County.

Louis H. Schenck, who was nominated Monday night by Governor Voorhees to succeed Judge Bartine, of Somerset county, as County Judge, has an office in the Globe Building in Newark, and is well known there where he has practiced since 1877. He was born October 25th, 1853. He is a native of Somerset county, where he is well known. His father was John A. Schenck, who was a State Senator from Somerset for three years and who served six years in the House of Assembly.

Mr. Schenck was born at Neshanic, Somerset county, where he still resides. He was graduated from Rutgers College in 1874, and then took up law in Elizabeth, where he entered the office of the firm of Magie & Cross Mr. Schenck was admitted to the bar as an attorney at the June term, 1877, and became a counsellor in 1880.

From 1884 to 1886 he was in partnership with Elias F. Morrow, in Newark. In 1893 he was counsel to the Board of Freeholders of Somerset. He filled this position for only one year, but this was because the Board which appointed him was the only Republican Board that Somerset has had for the last fifteen or sixteen years. When a law was proposed in 1895 to have county judges elected instead of appointed, his name was the one most prominently mentioned by the Republicans. The law, however, was declared unconstitutional.

The friends who then wanted him nominated, urged him to seek the appointment to succeed Judge Bartine. It was in response to this sentiment that he became a candidate.

He has always been an ardent Republican and worked for his party in every campaign in his own section of the State. His practice has been a general one and it is the opinion of lawyers that he is well fitted for the office. He will maintain his Newark office. He will also arrange to accommodate the members of Somerset county bar by spending part of each day in Somerville.

The discussion of reports will be led by Donald MacColl, the State secretary. At the afternoon session Mrs. W. B. Millar, of Montclair, will read a paper on "The Means and Methods That Win." At 3 o'clock a business session will be held and pledges made for State work. Mrs. W. F. Bailey, of Summit, will read a paper on "Boys." Then a half hour will be devoted to explaining difficulties in the work, which is to be conducted by the president.

Special music will be prepared for the occasion and it is expected that the meeting will be an inspiring one. The out-of-town delegates will be supplied with a luncheon. The committee of arrangements is Mrs. M. B Baldwin, Newark; Mrs. Joseph C. Nixon, Hoboken; Mrs. J. H. Shafer, Summit.

Ferryboat and Lighter Collide.

The New Jersey Central Railroad ferryboat Communipaw on her 6:30 p m. trip from Liberty street last evening collided with a lighter on the New Jersey side of the river. The lighter keeled over and appeared to be capsizing, but she righted herself. The ferryboat was crowded with passengers and there was considerable excitement for a few minutes. Little damage, if any, was done to either boat. There were a number of Plainfielders on the boat.

Spoke in Elizabeth.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county superintendent of the W. C. T. U., went to Elizabeth yesterday afternoon and gave a report of her trip to the National W. C. T. U. convention held at Seattle. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Deland.

USED PENKNIFE TO STAB.

Mike Watson the Victim of Colored Man Who is Now Being Hunted by Police.

The police are looking for a colored man named Thomas Carter, who is charged with stabbing Michael Watson, of Grant avenue, in the hand with a penknife. It is alleged that Carter went to Watson's saloon Monday afternoon after a pail of beer and that some practical jokers took the beer away from him and drank it. They gave him money to buy more beer. A quarrel ensued and Watson tried to play the role of peace-maker. His hand was gashed with a penknife.

John Neuman and a young man named McCann were arrested Monday afternoon and taken before City Judge Runyon who discharged them. A warrant is out for Carter.

FELL FROM THE ROOF.

GEORGE BILYEU MET WITH A SERIOUS ACCIDENT YESTERDAY.

Was Painting the Vacant House, 939 Park Avenue, When the Breaking of Scroll Work Caused Him to Fall.

After a fall of thirty feet from the roof of a house yesterday afternoon, the ambulance was required to carry George Bilyeu to his home at 121 West Front street. His injuries were serious, but will, it is believed, not prove fatal. He is a painter in the employ of Marsh, Ayers & Co., of Park avenue.

Bilyeu was sent out by his employers to assist in painting the exterior of the vacant house, 939 Park avenue, owned by J. T. Vail. He had been there several days with other fellow-employes. Yesterday afternoon he was trying to paint the peak of the roof directly over a bow window extension that is two stories high. He stood on the roof to this extension and kept his balance by holding on with one hand to the scroll work at the peak of the roof, while he painted with the other.

Without warning the scroll work broke and Bilyeu lost his balance, tumbling off the roof. He struck the ground, landing on his side and shoulder. His comrades hurried to his assistance. They found that he was still alive, but badly hurt. Word was sent for the ambulance and medical aid. He was able to walk with the assistance of the others to the ambulance and was then taken at once to his home.

An examination of Bilyeu's injuries proved that he had three ribs broken, his ankle and wrist were sprained and he received internal injuries. Dr. B. Van D. Hedges attended him.

AFTER TRACTION COMPANY.

City Club of New Brunswick Says it Has Forfeited $3,000, and Wants to Have it Paid.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Jan. 24.—The City Club, which was an important factor in New Brunswick a few years ago, has made a startling re-entry into municipal affairs. The Brunswick Traction Company has been endeavoring for some time to have the city return to it a forfeit of $3,000, which was posted in 1895, when the local trolley system was constructed.

The legal action by which the City Club seems to have euchred the Traction Company out of $3,000 was instituted in the Supreme Court, Thursday, by T. B. Booraem, attorney for Charles J. Carpender, a member of the City Club. Justice Depue granted a rule on Mr. Booraem's motion to show cause why a mandamus should not issue, compelling City Surveyor Asher Atkinson to certify the work done by the City Railway Company of New Brunswick or its successor, the Brunswick Traction Company, under its franchise in this city.

Mr. Carpender and the City Club claim that, according to the twenty-ninth section of the ordinance passed by the Common Council October 7th, 1895, the Traction Company is bound to lay its tracks on all the streets mentioned in the charter. It is set forth by the City Club that, inasmuch as the City Surveyor has not certified that this work has been done, the Traction Company has forfeited the $3,000 which was put on deposit, and cannot therefore recover the same from the city.

The First Donators.

The Rasores Club, of this city, has obtained the honor of being the first organization in the State that has contributed a set of fifty books to make up a traveling library. The decision was made at the meeting of the club Monday morning, and Mrs. M. E. Kimball has been notified that this is the first donation of the sort the State has received.

TO CONTROL MILK SUPPLY.

ASSEMBLYMAN MEEKER INTRODUCES TWO BILLS.

One of Them Proposes to Establish the Borough of Baltusrol in Union County—First Bill Passes the House—Republicans Differ Over Muddle Caused by Supervisor of Bills Law.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 24.—The first measure introduced in the Legislature that is of local interest to Plainfielders was offered in the Senate yesterday by Senator Reed. It is a bill prepared in accordance with the ideas of the North Plainfield Board of Health, and in introducing it Senator Reed disclaimed responsibility for its origin by stating that it was offered "by request." The proposed bill gives local Boards of Health power to adopt, or alter ordinances prohibiting the sale of or having in possession for sale, milk containing any unhealthy ingredient or substance, or which has been transported or stored in an unclean manner or place, or which is produced from diseased cows. It was referred to the Committee of Public Health.

Assemblyman Meeker, of Union county, is the sponsor of two bills offered yesterday. One of them changes the name of the Reform School so that it shall hereafter be "The Trustees of the New Jersey State Industrial School for Boys." (Judiciary.)

The other incorporates the borough of Baltusrol, in Union county. (Towns and Townships.)

The opinion of Attorney General Grey to the effect that the law creating the office of Supervisor of Bills was unconstitutional was sent to the House this morning, and Charles H. Folwell, of Mt. Holly, who had served two years as engrossing clerk in the House, began to work for reappointment to that position.

Major Carl Lentz was of the opinion that Essex county, having been given the office of Supervisor of Bills under the new law, should under the old system of engrossing bills, to which the Legislature must now return, have the selection of an engrossing clerk both for the Senate and House.

Several Republicans differed with him in that view, and they went into a caucus, where there was some lively sparring. The Essex county representatives were plainly told that they had been given all the consideration they were entitled to, and should be willing to let Burlington county have some of the good things that were going around.

The first bill to pass the House at this session of the Legislature was one providing that the disabled soldiers of the Spanish and Philippine wars shall be admitted to the Soldiers' Home of New Jersey. The law was so constructed that only veterans of the Mexican and Civil Wars were entitled to admission to the institution.

A joint meeting of the Senate and House will be held next Tuesday, for the purpose of electing a State Comptroller and State Treasurer. There is no opposition to the re-election of Comptroller Wm. S. Hancock and Treasurer George B. Swain.

Governor Voorhees has nominated John Bellstab for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Mercer county.

BAD BOYS.

They Disturb Storekeepers and Are Given a Severe Lecture by the City Judge.

A dozen small boys came up before City Judge Runyon late yesterday afternoon. There was no formal complaint against them, but a number of the proprietors of the stores in the vicinity of Liberty and South Second streets asked the Judge to take some steps to secure peace and good order in that neighborhood.

The boys have been in the habit of throwing stones at the various stores and generally disturbing the lives of the proprietors. Those who appeared in the interests of law and order were Charles Arnold, Abram Linke, Louis Kadesh and William Manning.

The Judge was stern and lectured the boys soundly on their misconduct. They finally all made vigorous promises to behave in the future. The terrors of the Reform School were pictured as the sure ending of any more trouble of this kind.

Sentence Suspended.

Gabriel Brown, a man of color residing in the borough, engaged in a row with George Ralph, of Somerset street, last night, and the latter had Brown arrested. He was arraigned before Recorder Long who suspended sentence.

BOERS HOLD HEIGHTS

Warren Retains Perilous Position Gained Sunday.

STEEP SLOPES PREVENT GUN PLANTING

A Night Attack Contemplated to Carry Spion's Kop—Dutch Colonists Aid the Enemy—Boer Report of the Fight.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—General Buller's great turning movement, of which so much had been expected, has come to a standstill. His carefully worded message to the war office telling this after a silence of two days reads like an apology and an explanation.

General Warren holds the ridges, but the enemy's positions are higher. The British artillery is playing on the Boer positions, and the Boers are replying. The British infantry is separated by only 1,400 yards from the enemy, but an approach to the steep slopes across the bare open would expose the British to a fatal rifle fire.

General Buller's plans have reached their development. He declines to send his infantry across this zone against formidable positions by daylight and discloses his purpose to assault the Spion kop heights during the night. This appears to be the key to the Boer defenses. If he takes it and thus commands the adjacent country, an important and possibly a decisive step will be accomplished.

It seems that General Buller's dispatch reached the war office rather early in the night and was the subject of a prolonged conference between Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Balfour and several staff officials.

The following dispatch from General Buller, dated at Spearman's Camp, Jan. 23, 6:20 p. m., has just been posted:

"Warren holds the position he gained two days ago. In front of him at about 1,400 yards is the enemy's position, west of Spion's kop. It is on higher ground than Warren's position, so it is impossible to see into it properly.

"It can only be approached over bare, open slopes, and the ridges held by Warren are so steep that guns cannot be placed on them. But we are shelling the enemy's position with howitzers and field artillery placed on lower ground behind infantry.

"The enemy is replying with Creusot and other artillery. In this duel the advantage rests with us, as we appear to be searching his trenches, and his artillery fire is not causing us much loss.

"An attempt will be made tonight to seize Spion's kop, the salient of which forms the left of the enemy's position facing Trichard's drift and which divides it from the position facing Potgieter's drift. It has considerable command over all the enemy's intrenchments."

The Daily Chronicle publishes the following heliographic message from Ladysmith, dated Jan. 22, by way of Swart kop, Jan. 23:

"Yesterday we could see British shells bursting close to the Boer camp on the plateau this side of Potgieter's drift, but the camp still remains in position there today.

"We heard very heavy firing all this morning. The bombardment here is slack, but the Boer big gun on Mount Bulwana is still firing."

A correspondent of The Daily Chronicle at Sterkstroom, telegraphing Monday, says:

"Many Dutch colonists, although ostensibly loyal, really sympathize with the Boers and keep them posted regarding all British movements. They discharge rockets and make other probable signals to the enemy. A general rising, however, is no longer feared."

Mail advices to The Daily Mail from Lisbon, dated Jan. 19, say:

"It has been officially notified to the government here from Lourenco Marques that the Boers have committed a breach of neutrality by crossing Portuguese territory from Umballa to Rhodesia. A force of artillery has been sent there from Lourenco Marques, and the governor there has demanded re-enforcements from here.

"Everything is being carried out with all possible secrecy, but I am informed on good authority that a portion of the troops have already started for Lourenco Marques and that others will follow."

A dispatch from the Boer camp, upper Tugela river, dated Jan. 21, has the following:

"After Commandant Botha checked the British advance yesterday morning it was expected that there would be no further action until tomorrow. This afternoon, however, signs were discerned of an intended movement in the British northern camp.

"When the heat, which was more frightful than any yet experienced, had worn off, the British cannon started in full force, and their infantry advanced in extended order.

"Generals Botha and Cronje held the high hills over which the road to Ladysmith passed. When the Mauser fire opened, a pandemonium of sound filled the air. The vindictive crash of lyddite shells, the sharp volleys of Lee-Metfords and the whiplike crack of Mausers were interspersed with the boom of the Boer Maxims. The battle ended with darkness, but not without evidences of execution among the British that were manifested at sunrise.

"Field Cornet Ernst Emilio was killed; nor did the generals escape unscathed.

"At the central position, Swart kop, where the other road to Ladysmith crosses the hills, the British advanced from low kopjes on the banks of the Tugela unmolested. Then they entered the zone of Mauser fire, and, although their naval guns kept up the usual terrible racket, the advance was stopped and the British had to count out their dead and wounded.

"Commandant Viljoen and two burghers were knocked senseless by an explosion of lyddite, but Commandant Viljoen recovered. Field Cornet Heilbron was wounded and, on refusing to surrender, was shot.

"The British loss was probably insignificant. They complain that sporting Mausers were found on the field and soft nosed bullets, with Lee-Metfords. The Boers admit that sporting Mausers were occasionally found, but they deny the charge respecting expansive bullets. Not a shot was fired by the Boers with cannon or rifle at the Swart kop position this side the river.

"One thousand infantry and a battery advanced yesterday to the second row of low hills between the republicans and the river. Heavy cannonading proceeded at a range of 2,000 yards, but the federals maintained the silence of death. This must have staggered the British, as the advance was stopped, and this morning they had retired to their old positions."

A dispatch from Mafeking, dated Jan. 10, says:

"Since the artillery attack of Jan. 3 the Boers have not fired so many shells at this place. Natives report that the Boer chief gunner is wounded, that five men were killed and that their breastworks were damaged during the recent engagement.

"Commandant Erasmus and his friends are reported to have departed, and the Boer forces in this vicinity are apparently fewer in number. Their estimated strength is 2,000 men."

The Fighting at Spion's Kop.

BOER HEAD LAAGER, Ladysmith, Jan. 24.—A battle has been raging along the Olivior's Hoek road since Saturday between the Boers under Pretorius and 6,000 British. The fighting is in full swing at Spion's kop. The Boers under Botha and Cronje have been sent thither. The British elsewhere are only making a reconnoissance of the Boer positions. President Steyn was under fire at the foremost position of the Free Staters.

A FIERCE BURGLAR.

One Woman Fatally and Another Seriously Injured.

FRANKLINVILLE, N. J., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Mary Haskell of Needham, Mass., is dying and her sister, Mrs. Ellen Dennett of this place, is seriously wounded at the home of the latter as the result of an attack made upon them by a burglar.

Mrs. Haskell came from Massachusetts to visit her sister, who is a widow and lives alone at Franklinville and is credited with having considerable money. The burglar entered the house about midnight and, seizing Mrs. Dennett by the throat, threatened to kill her if she did not tell where her money was. The noise awakened Mrs. Haskell, and she went to the aid of her sister. The burglar struck Mrs. Haskell on the head with a heavy stick of wood, knocking her to the floor unconscious. Mrs. Dennett attempted to escape, and the burglar struck her on the head several times with the stick of wood and then escaped without having secured any booty.

Mrs. Dennett manged to get to the house of a neighbor and give the alarm. It was found that Mrs. Haskell's skull was fractured, and physicians say she cannot recover. Mrs. Dennett's injuries are very serious, but she may recover. A posse is in search of the burglar.

PROFESSOR HAZEN DEAD.

Never Regained Consciousness After His Fall From Bicycle.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Henry A. Hazen, one of the chief forecasters of the weather bureau, died here last night as the result of injuries received by a bicycle collision with a negro pedestrian. His skull was badly fractured, and he continued unconscious up to the time of his death.

Professor Hazen was well known among meteorologists and scientific men. He was born in India 50 years ago, his father being a missionary. He was graduated from Dartmouth college and then was connected with the scientific department of Yale university for nine years. He joined the United States signal service, now the weather bureau, in 1881. He was single and lived with a sister and two nephews. Another sister is a missionary.

California Legislature Summoned.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Governor Henry T. Gage has issued a proclamation calling for an extra session of the legislature to convene Jan. 29. The session is called for the purpose of electing a United States senator to succeed Stephen M. White, whose term has expired, and to enact necessary amendments to state laws. The last session failed to elect a successor to Senator White, owing to a prolonged deadlock. The membership is overwhelmingly Republican, and it is certain that a Republican senator will be chosen in White's place. Among the candidates who received votes at the recent session were Daniel M. Burns, General W. H. L. Burns, U. S. Grant, Jr.; Thomas R. Bard, Jr.; Irving M. Scott, M. M. Scott, Robert N. Bulla, George A. Knight and Charles Felton.

No Dewey Avenue.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The proposal to change the name of Elm street and Lafayette place to Dewey avenue having aroused a storm of protest from those who believe Lafayette's name should not be superseded by Dewey's, the board of aldermen has decided to name the thoroughfare Lafayette avenue. Elm street has recently been widened, and the rapid transit tunnel is to be built beneath it. When opened, it will be one of the most important streets in the city.

Clark Case Halts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The senate committee on privileges and elections has adjourned over until Monday in its investigation of the charges against Senator Clark of Montana. Witnesses for the prosecution were absent, and Senator Faulkner, for the defense, indicated a desire that none of those who are to be called as witnesses on that side should testify until the prosecution had completed its case.

No Bodies Recovered.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 24.—Another day has passed, and no bodies have yet been recovered from the wreck of the steamer Helgoland in St. Mary's bay. The continued failure causes general regret. The coast folk saw a number of bodies floating near the vessel. These they believe were brought up from the bottom by a cross current, due to the change in the wind.

Changes In Law Firm.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 24.—A change has been made in the law firm of which Smith M. Weed is a member. Thomas B. Cotter of Plattsburg has been taken into the firm, and offices will be opened in New York city and in Plattsburg. The firm's name in New York will be Smith, Conway & Weed, and in Plattsburg the firm's name will be Weed, Conway & Cotter.

GENEVA, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The banks here are understood to be fighting the scheme for forming a trust company here. Several of Geneva's most wealthy and prosperous citizens are at the head of the new scheme.

FISH THAT FISHES.

He Lies on the Bottom of the Sea, Waiting Motionless for the Approach of His Prey.

Most remarkable of strange fishes is the angler fish, whose very name seems a paradox. The fishing fish is nevertheless a reality, and a stern one to all that approach those awful jaws of his. With a body the color of mud he generally lies in the shadow of some rock on the bottom of the sea, waiting motionless for the approach of his prey. He is provided with an odd kind of fin just over the mouth, and this is held out in front of him to give warning of the coming of something to be swallowed. One taken alive was experimented on and it was found that if this projecting fin was touched with a stick, even though the stick did not come near the mouth, the jaws closed convulsively. This shows that the fin by some provision of nature closes the jaws as soon as it is touched. The mouth is tremendous, growing to the width of a foot when the whole fish is only three feet long. One of these anglers was caught not long since and though it was only 23 inches long, a fish 15 inches long was found sticking in its throat. The angler is provided with peculiar teeth set in double or treble rows along the jaws, and at the entrance of the throat. Some of these teeth are a foot long. He is not a pretty fish to look at, but he attends strictly to business and will swallow anything that touches his warning fin, whether it is meant for food or not. All kinds of things have been found in the stomachs of anglers, from bits of lead and stone to fish almost as large as the angler itself. This is without doubt one of the most peculiar and interesting fish in the whole ocean.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

INSECT CALCULATOR.

He Is Found in New Caledonia and Can Count Correctly Up to the Number Six.

There is a little insect found in New Caledonia called the "insect which counts," and which seems capable of counting to at least six. It is found on the leaves of the banana tree, and when the moment is favorable it may be seen to turn around, with its head as a center, in describing rapid circles. At first it executes six of them, nor one more nor one less, then it reverses the movement and makes the same number in an opposite direction. It stops a moment and begins again, but only makes five this time, always alternately in opposite directions. Another stop, then double rotation in alternative ways, the turns this time only being four, and so on, diminishing constantly in such a way as successively three, then two and at last one single turn.

After these gymnastic exercises, which are at the same time mathematical, the insect remains absolutely motionless until its agitation again takes possession of it and it gives itself up to its complicated calculations with an exactitude which many people might envy.

STRANGE FRIENDSHIP.

A Cat and a Pigeon That Live Together in Amity and Eat from the Same Plate.

Cats and pigeons as a rule do not associate with anything like friendliness. An exception to this fact is found at Wheeling, W. Va., where a white cat and a pigeon live in perfect amity, much to the pleasure of their feminine owner. They eat from the same plate, and one will not touch his food in the absence of the other. Frequently the cat takes a walk with the pigeon perched comfortably in his white fur.

On the Back of a Shark.

Capt. Vane, of Long Island, declares that the following story is strictly true. He was out after mackerel one night, when his dory began to move uneasily, and then slowly but steadily it rose in the air, and, turning over, threw Vane a couple of somersaults and landed him on the back of a big dog shark. He clutched the dorsal fin and held on. The shark was probably the more frightened of the two and started off at a racing clip. The man held on for a full mile and only let go when the shark dived. Then he was within a quarter-mile of the Half-Way Rock lighthouse, which he easily reached by swimming.

He Answered the Question.

There is a bright ten-year-old boy in Bangor, Me., whose aunt has a fad of keeping an autograph album. Some sentimental friend wrote upon one page the quotation: "What is so rare as a day in June." The youngster in question was looking over the book for a place to put his name and noticed this. The next page was vacant and he wrote in the bold, if somewhat scraggy chirography of youth, the answer as he saw it: "A Chinaman with whiskers," and then signed his name.

DISCUSSING ROBERTS

Great Flow of Oratory In the House.

ACCUSED PLEADS HIS OWN CAUSE.

Women In the Galleries Gave the Only Applause—Others Hiss the Mormon—Senate Still on the Philippine Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Yesterday was an oratorical field day over the case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon representative from Utah. The galleries were packed to suffocation, chiefly with women, and the spectators after listening attentively to the arguments of Mr. Tayler of Ohio and Mr. Littlefield of Maine for the adoption of the majority and minority reports respectively of the special committee that investigated the case, remained long after nightfall to hear the impassioned words of the accused as he faced the house like an animal at bay, knowing that every hand was raised against him.

Mr. Roberts was very adroit in the handling of his case and at times exceedingly dramatic. Taking advantage of the issue raised by the division in the committee as to the method of ousting him, he appropriated to himself the argument of the minority that he was constitutionally entitled to be sworn in and the arguments of the majority that, once sworn in, he could not be expelled. He defended the action of the Mormons in fighting the authority of the United States for years, because, he said, they believed that sentiment would change and dramatically stated that in those days he had rather have his flesh hewn from his bones than to have renounced his religious tenets. He concluded with an eloquent peroration in which he said he had never been conscious of a shameful act and if he was sent forth he would go with head erect and undaunted brow.

Strange to say, most of the applause he won was from women. But while they appeared to be his only partisans, other women manifested their bitter hostility by hissing him at every opportunity.

The speech made by Mr. Littlefield, who succeeds the late Mr. Dingley, in defense of the minority proposition to seat and then expel Mr. Roberts was a masterful effort and stamped him as one of the coming men in the house. The manner in which he tore some of the arguments of the majority into shreds jumped him into the front rank of debaters in the house. The speech made a deep impression. In fact, it is predicted by many members that the majority resolutions for exclusion cannot now carry.

Mr. Lacey of Iowa has a proposition which he will submit to expel Mr. Roberts by a two-thirds vote without seating him which will have supporters, and this may lead to a compromise proposition. Miss Roberts, daughter of Mr. Roberts, was in the reserved gallery throughout the debate. The debate will close tomorrow at 4:30.

Again the senate's session was devoted entirely to speechmaking. Mr. Turner of Washington concluded his address upon the Philippine question. He was followed by Mr. Ross of Vermont with a thoughtful and carefully prepared speech, in which he also discussed the Philippine question in connection with resolutions which he had offered. His presentation of the question was given thoughtful attention by his colleagues. Mr. McEnery of Louisiana delivered the concluding speech of the session on the race question in the south. He took strong ground in support of the constitution of Louisiana and of the proposed amendment to the constitution of North Carolina, which it is alleged practically will disfranchise a large class of voters.

Chinese Grand Master Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The body of Ying Hong, the grand master of Chinese Masons, who died in Toronto Saturday, arrived in this city last night. The funeral services will be held on Friday, and it is said they will excel anything of the kind witnessed in this city. Ying Hong was expected to visit this city in a few days to initiate a number of Chinese aspirants for Masonic honors. Besides having had the distinction of being appointed to his high office in Chinese Masonic circles by the emperor of China, Ying Hong was the wealthiest Chinaman on this continent. His fortune is estimated at over $1,000,000.

TOO MUCH WHISKY.

An Exorbitant Demand For Firewater at a Soldiers' Home.

ALBANY, Jan. 24.—State Comptroller William J. Morgan has been giving special attention of late to the very large amount of liquors consumed in the hospital at the Soldiers' home at Bath. It appears that from three to six times as much liquor was being consumed in the hospital at Bath as in the hospitals connected with other soldiers' and sailors' homes throughout the country. Formerly three barrels a month were called for, and during five months of the past year two barrels were allowed. The average for patients per month in the four large soldiers' homes has been: Bath, .65 gallon; Dayton, .18 gallon; Milwaukee, .25 gallon, and Hampton, .10 gallon.

It will be seen from this that the amount consumed at Bath is over six times as much as at the home at Dayton, the largest soldiers' home in the country. In addition to this amount large quantities of brandy, sherry, port and white wines were used.

Dr. Burleson, the physician in charge at the hospital, testified that the liquor supplied was not half enough.

Dr. J. M. Mosher of this city has made an investigation of the whisky used at the institution at the request of Comptroller Morgan and in his report says, "The amount of whisky used at this hospital is largely in excess of that provided in other institutions of a similar character, and there is no probability that a diminution would be detrimental to the welfare of the inmates."

A Mysterious Skeleton.

UXBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 24.—Many theories are being advanced to account for the presence of the mysterious skeleton found on the Scott farm. Anthony Mandeville of Woonsocket, R. I., visited the town, thinking the remains might be those of his son Henry, who escaped from the Spencer town farm last July while insane and has not been seen since. Mandeville was unable to identify the clothing, but the general proportions of the skeleton are those of his son. Residents of Uxbridge connect the find with the disappearance of Daniel Deady, an eccentric character who lived in the woods and was last seen near the spot in question about a year ago. Still others recall a mysterious horse and buggy which were found near the same spot last July and for which no owner was ever found, although they were extensively advertised. Judge A. A. Putnam has ordered an inquest to be held at an early date.

Big Fire In Montana.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 24.—A Great Falls (Mon.) special to The Pioneer Press says: "A report reached this city of a destructive fire in Teton county that destroyed ten square miles of range and burned four ranches. The loss is estimated at many thousand dollars. The fire started at Richardson's ranch by a spark from the chimney falling in the wood pile. A strong wind was blowing, and the fire swept on to the Halliday ranch, two miles away, burning all the buildings but the residence. A mile farther Knowles' ranch was left a blackened ruin. Clark Bros.' two ranches were partially burned, when the wind died down, and the fire turned to the mountain, where it was put out. No lives were lost, but there were many narrow escapes."

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Chinese Minister Deplores the Laws Which Bar His Countrymen.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister to the United States, was the guest of honor at the monthly dinner of the Presbyterian Social union of this city last night. The society is organized for the promotion of Presbyterianism in this country and in foreign lands. Many men prominent in the affairs of the church were present. W. W. Porter, president of the union, presided.

The Chinese minister did not make any extended remarks and spoke entirely on the Chinese exclusion laws. He deplored that such laws were in force against his countrymen and said that they were contrary to the maxim of the law that a man is innocent until he is proved otherwise. "But I regret to say," he continued, "that the opinion prevails that a Chinaman is a rascal until he has proved his respectability.

"My presence here is one more evidence of the kind feeling which has been shown me since my arrival in this country. I wish you would show the same consideration to the rest of my countrymen."

MILLER LOCATED.

Franklin Syndicate Man Said to Be In Canada.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—William F. Miller, who conducted the 520 per cent Franklin syndicate in Brooklyn, has been located in Canada and is under surveillance. This information is given out by the Brooklyn authorities. The police decline to state in what city or town Miller is stopping. Miller was indicted on Nov. 24 in conjunction with his assistant, Cecil Leslie, whose whereabout is unknown, for conspiracy in obtaining money through fraud and misrepresentation. This offense is not extraditable, and yesterday a new indictment was found against Miller for embezzlement.

The new indictment will be presented to Judge Aspinall in the county court on Friday, when extradition papers will be ready.

One Goebelite's Opinion.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 24.—Judge J. R. Morton, ex-circuit judge and one of the leading supporters of Goebel in central Kentucky, came out today in a card taking an advanced position on the situation at Frankfort. He says he has carefully examined the evidence of the contestants for seats of the Republicans and concluded that "the evidence offered by the contestants altogether fails to support the right or claim of contestants to the offices they seek. Their claim under evidence, in my judgment, is without foundation in law or in morals." He further says the course the Democrats are pursuing will plunge the party in "a gulf of disaster if not of dishonor."

Canada Prohibits Wood Pulp Export.

QUEBEC, Jan. 24.—The new discriminating stumpage dues on pulp wood are now in force in the province of Quebec. They have been fixed and made effective by an order in council which has received the signature of the lieutenant governor. It is expected that the result of this action on the part of the government will be to largely increase the amount of capital invested here in the manufacture of pulp and paper, as the action practically prohibits the exportation of pulp to the United States. The stumpage dues are increased from 40 cents to $1.90 a cord, and there is a rebate of $1.50 per cord upon all pulp wood manufactured in the province.

Klondike Steamers Suffer.

SEATTLE, Jan. 24.—The steamer Cottage City brings news that the steamer Townsend went on the rocks near Battery point going north, but got off and proceeded to Skaguay. On the return trip she was driven on the rocks near Maynes' Mission and smashed to pieces by the waves. The crew was saved and walked two miles to Haynes' Mission. The City of Seattle, seven days overdue from Skaguay, was found by the Cottage City between Point St. Mary and Point Bridget. She had lost her propeller and was at anchor 30 feet from the shore. The Cottage City brings her passengers safely.

LOOKING OVER CUBA

General Wood Continues His Inspection Tour.

PRISONS AND HOSPITALS VISITED.

The Governor General Believes In Supplying Public Work For the Destitute Instead of Furnishing Necessities.

CASILDA, Cuba, Jan. 24.—Governor General Wood, who is making a tour of inspection of the island, and his party arrived here on board the dispatch boat Ingalls at daylight yesterday morning. Later the general visited Trinidad and inspected the jail, hospitals and other public buildings at that place. Accompanied by General Fitz-Hugh Lee, General Chaffee, Colonel Black, Colonel Burton and other officers he visited the post of Company K, Second infantry, under the command of Captain Benham, whom General Wood complimented upon the manner in which the jail, hospitals and streets had been kept clean. A noticeable feature was that the women do all the street cleaning and the men do the laundry work. But the most noticeable feature of the province was the lack of public work, which has retarded its progress. General Wood does not believe in the advisability of supplying the people with oxen and farming implements, thinking it better to supply them as much as possible with public work and allow the men to save money and buy the necessary implements and oxen, which plan has been found to work so successfully in the province of Santiago de Cuba and Puerto Principe and which helps the country and helps the people as well. The general is in favor of making the people more self reliant, and he thinks this plan is the best way to do so.

General Wood says the prison at Cienfuegos was overcrowded. Otherwise it was in good condition. As the names of many of the prisoners have been sent in to headquarters with recommendations for pardon, it is probable that a number of them will be released shortly. He is of the opinion that the hospitals are dirty and that many improvements could be made.

The city of Trinidad has nominally 12,000 inhabitants, but in reality there are only about 8,000 souls in the place. A majority of them are very poor, although not in actual want. There are hardly any persons requiring assistance.

The party left here at 2 p. m. for Manzanillo.

Democratic Club Dines Bryan.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The dinner given by John W. Keller, president of the Democratic club, in honor of William J. Bryan, took place in the main dining room of the clubhouse last night. The guests ranged themselves around the table, which was spread along the northern wall of the room, Mr. Keller taking the head, with Mr. Bryan on his right and John F. Carroll on his left. The other guests were Health Commissioner Cosby, Andrew Freedman, Police Commissioner Bernard J. York, Senator Thomas F. Grady, Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, Corporation Counsel John Whalen, Justice James A. O'Gorman, ex-Governor Hogg of Texas, Maurice F. Holahan, president of the board of public improvements, and Colonel Brown. As the party took their seats the diners at the other tables applauded vigorously, but from that time until the conclusion of the dinner there was no other demonstration.

Ruskin Will Not Rest In the Abbey.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The dean of Westminster has offered a grave in Westminster abbey for the remains of John Ruskin. This honor, however, has been declined by Mr. Ruskin's relatives, who say in their reply to Dr. Bradley that it was the professor's own wish to sleep in Coniston churchyard, where his remains will be interred on Thursday. The dean and chapter of Westminster abbey are pressing the relatives to reconsider their decision. It is hoped that Mrs. Severn will yet consent to an interment in the abbey. The memorial presented to the dean in favor of interment here was very largely signed by eminent persons.

Friars Hooted, Otis Cheered.

MANILA, Jan. 24.—Archbishop Chapelle, papal delegate to the Philippines, gave a reception to the Catholic clergy and laymen for the purpose of conciliating the opposing factions. Many prominent Filipinos attended with a view of making a demonstration against the friars. They hooted Archbishop Nozaleda and every friar who appeared, crying "Fuera Nozaleda!" and "Fuera friales!" On the other hand, General Otis, who attended with his staff, was cheered. Mgr. Chapelle made a speech, asking for toleration and patience and promising a satisfactory settlement of the questions in dispute.

Rutherford Gets His Pay.

KOKOMO, Ind., Jan. 24.—David Rutherford was awarded a judgment of $1,000 in the circuit court against David Hiley for the saving of the latter's wife from drowning. During a flood last spring Hiley and his wife were swept off a bridge by a torrent. Hiley reached land and offered $1,000 for the rescue of his wife. Rutherford, after a long struggle, brought the woman ashore, but Hiley, who is a wealthy farmer, refused to pay the reward. Rutherford sued, and the jury allowed him the full amount.

Brooks House For Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 24.—In the presence of President Eliot and several invited guests the Phillips Brooks house was formally presented and dedicated to Harvard university yesterday. The ceremony was held in the reception room of the Brooks house, during which President Eliot made a brief speech accepting the gift in behalf of Harvard. In the evening a mass meeting was held in Sanders theater as a memorial to Bishop Phillips Brooks, who died seven years ago.

Five Lucky Children.

Elwood, the barb wire magnate, gave each of his five grown children a check for $100,000 at breakfast Christmas day at his home in Dekalb, Ills. The five children are William L., Perry, Puss Elwood Mayo, Mary Elwood Lewis and Jessie Elwood Ray.

Democratic Organization.

The members of the Union county Democratic executive committee will meet in Elizabeth tomorrow for the first time this year for the purpose of effecting an organization. With a National campaign less than six months away the political work that appears before the committee is of extraordinary importance.

For several years the Democratic county executive committee has been but little more than a name, for effective campaign work has not been accomplished by it. Under the reorganization plans of William Gourley, chairman of the State committee, the county committee is designed to be a much more important body, and it remains to be seen whether or not the Union county Democrats will rise to the occasion and shake off the lethargy that has characterized their political conduct for some time past.

It is patent to even a casual observer of things political in Union county that the Democrats are seriously handicapped without better organization. The Republicans have one of the most thorough and effective political organizations in the State, and no matter what the issues or the candidates may be it is a very difficult job for Democrats to attempt to win without meeting the G. O. P. on an organization basis.

In taking a forward step to eminence and influence in this county organization is one of the essentials for the Democrats. Chairman Gourley has devised what appears to be a practicable and efficient plan, and if the county committee is wise it will take aggressive steps to follow out the suggestions contained therein.

According to the idea of leading thinkers the greatest blessing that the world could be vouchsafed during the current year would be universal peace, but the Philadelphia Record sollicquizes that "it is to be feared that the hope thus expressed will be as far from realization a hundred years hence as it is now. The world is not ready for peace. The nations have not advanced sufficiently to permit the staying of evolution and the stoppage of improvement. The races have not reached the limit of their enlightenment. Until these things shall have come to pass there will be no peace; for human progress is always over the rough road that leads to the survival of the fittest and the extinction or—what is really the same—assimilation of the unfit. When man shall cease to be a predatory animal it will be time to look for universal peace."

The New York Herald has been figuring up the number of commuters that flock into New York daily, and computes that there are 178,000. It credits the New York Central with carrying the largest number—19,000 daily—the Lackawanna with 18,800, the Pennsylvania with 16 200, the Harlem Railroad with 14,000, the Long Island Railroad with 13 300, and so on down the list. The Erie is credited with carrying 10 000, in addition to the 9,100 carried on the Northern Railroad of New Jersey and the New Jersey and New York Railroad. But every seasoned commuter knows that this is a woeful underestimate, otherwise it would not be so hard to get a seat in the smoking car, adds the Passaic News.

Factional fights in Burlington county over the appointment of a Prosecutor of the Pleas to succeed Eckard P. Budd, whose term is about to expire, have reached such proportions that a number of leading Republicans have asked the Governor to make the appointment at once in order to avoid any further disruption. It had been agreed that two Republican Assemblymen should select a man for the position, with the understanding that he would be appointed, but they were unable to agree, because each has a candidate.

State Superintendent of Schools Baxter is constantly striving to improve the standard of the educational system of the State, but he realizes that talent in that direction cannot be secured without fair pay. In this connection he is now making a special plea for better salaries for county school superintendents. On the present basis these officials are prevented from drawing more than $1,300 per year for their services, and even as low as $500. Such salaries are considered altogether too low.

The decision that the law establishing the office of Supervisor of Bills for the Legislature, is unconstitutional, will tend to put a stop on law making until the difficulty is overcome. The people may object to the Legislature being in session for a lengthy period such as the muddle over the Supervisor of Bills may now cause, but that condition will be somewhat atoned for in the fact that the clogged wheels of legislation lessen the chances of mischevious laws.

That it is easier to preach than to practice what you preach, Rev. Dr. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," who will edit a Topeka paper for one week according to the ideas he has exploited in his pulpit, will probably be convinced of when he has ended the temporary authority in the sanctum that has been opened to him for advertising purposes by the newspaper that has afforded the chance to demonstrate his ideas.

State Tax Commissioner Charles C Black and Assemblyman George G Tennant in Jersey City have framed a bill for introduction in the New Jersey Legislature embodying the main provisions of the Ford franchise-tax law in this State. It provides, however, that the funds derived from franchise taxation shall go direct to the cities and towns in which the franchises are enjoyed, instead of into the general State treasury.

Former Assemblyman J. Martin Roll is against the bill to create the new borough of Baltusrol out of the town of Springfield. He says the proposed borough will have only about 70 voters, and it will have the rest of the present township politically in doubt. The Democrats of the township would be glad to have the borough created, for they might then be able to elect a Democratic Town Committee.

Col. Bryan must have had immediate use in New York for that barrel of oil which he says he carries with him to pour on troubled waters of the Democracy—judging by the fuss that some of the Democratic Club members made over the fact that he visited that citadel of Tammany forces.

It is suggested by the Colorado Springs Gazette that Mr. Rockfeller's gift of $100,000 to establish a chair of psychology in Columbia University is with a view to investigation of the question as to whether corporations have souls.

The Republicans seem very well satisfied to have the monetary system of this country run on the gold standard Gage.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

One man loses a foot in a hay press in Union, and he gets $7,000 damages. Another had his collie killed by a trolley car, and got a verdict of $200 And yet it has been proclaimed by a learned Justice of the Supreme Court that a child's life is worth $1 in the eyes of this rarely discriminating tribunal! Either the law touching man's negligence of his inner conscience ought to be amended or a tramp cat will be of more value than a human life.—New York Press.

Costs about ¼ as much as coffee. 15c. and 25c. per package. Ask your grocer for Grain-O.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 24.—Station Agent Fisher has gone to Trenton to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Master Masons as a delegate from Westfield lodge.

The home of Paul Kratzel, whose children have been afflicted with scarlet fever, is still under the ban of quarantine, notwithstanding that the Board of Health cards have been torn down, which has been done by some malicious person.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wherley, of Somerville, who have been visiting Mayor and Mrs. Swackhamer, have returned home.

There are letters advertised at the postoffice for Mrs. J. Everts and Clara Leslie.

Mrs. Nancy E Thomas is spending a few days with friends in New York city.

Wesley Blaine has been visiting friends in New Brunswick for a few days.

Mrs. W. E. Terry has returned from a visit with friends in Irvington.

Mrs W. H. Terry is visiting friends in Metuchen.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 24.—Fanwood Council, R. A., held an interesting meeting in their rooms last evening. The annual installation of officers was held and a very enjoyable visit was had from Grand Regent Lightfoot and staff, together with delegations from Cranford, Plainfield and Green Brook Councils During good of the order the members were entertained by several interesting addresses along the line of R. A. work. Sandwiches, coffee and cigars were served and altogether the council and their visitors enjoyed a very pleasant evening together.

In justice to the local hotelkeepers it is but right to say that the young boys who enjoyed a disgraceful drunk one day during the past week, purchased their hard cider at the Italian store on Forest avenue. The proprietor claims they said they were sent for the stuff by their parents.

Miss Sadie Reger, of the corps of teachers in the school, was suddenly called to her home at Succasunna yesterday morning by the serious illness of her little brother. During Miss Reger's absence her place will be filled by Miss Trautman.

Frank and Charles Cooper, former old residents of the village, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hand.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Jan. 24.—The Westfield Club members will entertain the members of the Social Club on Monday evening. The bowling teams of the two clubs will roll a series of three games at 8:30 o'clock, after which there will be refreshments and a social time, this in turn to be followed by dancing.

It is said that the Republicans of this town have slated Martin Welles, the present Township Committeeman, for the nomination of Freeholder. If this is so there promises to be a hot fight at the spring election as Mulford M. Scudder, the present Freeholder, will get the nomination from the Democrats, and both being strong in their party they will poll a large vote.

About fifty rooters will go to Roselle Thursday evening to help with their encouragement the Westfield Club team, which bowls with the Casino team in the Press Bowling League.

Edison in Jersey Trolley Scheme.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, N. J., Jan. 24.—Inventor Edison is said to be interested with Philadelphia capitalists in a proposed electric trolley line to connect Hackettstown, Washington, Easton, Lake Hopatcong and other towns. The route has been surveyed to within a mile and a half of Washington. Mr. Edison recently began operations at his large cement works at New Village and got the capitalists interested because of the insufficient railroad facilities.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"Hi Hubbard," which will be at Music Hall Saturday, is the latest and undoubtedly one of the best of the rural comedy dramas which have been playing in New York recently. It is a beautiful story of country life and serves to introduce Hi Huton in the title role. His portrayal of the honest old New England farmer received the unqualified endoresement of the entire New York press. The supporting company is an exceptionally strong one and the entire scenic production is carried intact. Numerous specialties are contributed by different members of the company which includes "The Sleepy Hollow Band" and concert orchestra, the band making a novel street parade between 12 and 1. There will be two performances—matinee and night.

* * * * *

There is a very large community among local theatre patrons who have wearied of so called up-to-date farce comedy, with its rag time adjuncts and horse-play burrah, and to these the coming of William Gillette's charming and refined comedy, "All the Comforts of Home," will be as welcome as flowers in spring. The popular comedy mentioned has this season been revived on an elaborate scale, with a specially selected company, new scenery, etc., and its coming is announced at Music Hall Tuesday of next week. Among the members of the company giving this production is Miss Myrtle Edwards, who won much press mention on her clever portrayal of the leading role. Guy Taylor Bennette and other players of reputation fill the various parts, and the performance in its completeness as to scenic and other details, and in its laugh-producing features, has won hearty praise everywhere.

* * * * *

Following upon the return engagement of the "Man in the Moon, Jr." was the first performance last night at the New York Theatre of "Broadway to Tokio," the new big production of extravaganza, comic opera, burlesque and ballet, of which the mangement of the New York Theatre is expecting to create a sensation as a most elaborate and gorgeous creation of the producers art. Its authors are Louis Harrison and Geoge V. Hobart, who is better known to fame as the author of the "Dinkenspiel" papers. The composers of the music are A. B. Sloane and Reginald DeKoven. "Broadway to Tokio" was planned and is hoped to be by the Messrs. Sire the biggest production of its kind ever given in New York, and New York means the United States. It is even more pretentious than the "Man in the Moon, Jr" in the first flush of its great success. Six hundred people, principals, ballet and chorus, are employed, and its scenic embellishment and stage coloring are of the most sumptuous and elaborate character As a spectacle it is pre eminent, and furnishes two ballets which are called the "Firefly" and "Japanese" ballets, both of which employs the entire dancing and chorus forces of the piece, which promise to reach a degree of splendor never before attained in spectacle. As a promoter of laughter and a producer of fun, its cast includes some thirty or forty clever people.

GOODBY TO THE COOK.

New Haven Trying the Delivered Meal Plan, With Success.

With the end of the nineteenth century the woman of many household cares welcomes the promise of freedom from fetters which have bound her hand and foot, the dethronement of the kitchen demigod—in other words, the family cook. Madam can now look forward with enchanted hope to the time when there will no longer be in store for her hours of tedious questioning and unsuccessful trips for references and, worse still, the contention with wasteful and incompetent help.

Edward Atkinson vowed to conquer the despotic female when he invented his device for preparing a course meal, sufficient for a family of six, over a lamp's flame. But on practical application the epicure found himself misled. Reluctantly he returned, a defeated victim, to the thraldom he had vainly struggled to cast off.

A MEAL CAN.

Now it is a resident of conservative old New Haven who is to promulgate a scheme for co-operative kitchen work such as Edward Bellamy dreamed of and dared to hold out as the millennium of womankind.

The many schemes that have been tried throughout the world to supply food to families from co-operative kitchens have failed because it has never been possible to keep the food warm. But this latest idea of Yankee inventiveness is the result of a successful business man's insight. It is backed financially by over 20 practical business men of New Haven. By the new plan soup, roast, vegetables, dessert and coffee can be delivered at your door piping hot as long as seven hours after cooking.

This co-operative schemer not only proposes to deliver deliciously cooked food prepared after scientific methods, but he claims that, profiting by buying in large bulk, he can save to the purchaser the price of fuel and other expenses, including the labor of preparing and cooking, besides the enormous waste which is inevitable in the average kitchen.

There are some special devices for cooking the cheaper portions of meat with resulting dishes as palatable as are served in the finest restaurants in the country. But the chief secret in the scheme lies in the method of retaining heat. The apparatus is a large bucket, copper covered and copper lined, with sides and bottom about two inches thick and a close fitting cover. The sides of the bucket are lined with a nonconductor of heat.

Into this receptacle are placed porcelain cans which have tight fitting lids. The bucket is divided into sections, the lower division containing the dessert, then the meat and soup on top. This arrangement is for a dinner can. There are to be breakfast and luncheon cans also.

The buckets are to be delivered in wagons which will have an arrangement for holding them firmly in place, thus doing away with much of the jarring occasioned by rough pavements, and will resemble the vehicles used by up to date bakers.

JEANNETTE DEVOE.

Notes of Woman's Work.

Mrs. Ogden Goelet is one of the richest widows in the world. The real estate holdings of her late husband in New York city were only second to those of the senior branch of the Astor family.

The unusual success that Miss Jennie Hilton has had in finding gold on Dominion creek, in the Klondike region, has won her the distinction of being the most successful woman gold miner in the United States.

An interesting feature at the Paris exposition will be a complete display of the lace making industry of the Indian women of the United States. A space 10 by 13 feet has been allotted for the Indian laces. Miss Sibyl Carter, director of the Indian lace making schools, has the exhibit in charge.

Sousa, like every other musician, needed a discoverer, and it was due to the appreciation of the manager of the Academy of Music in Philadelphia, Miss Hannah Harris, that the director of the little Marine band received an introduction to a concert audience. Gilmore had for many years played an annual engagement under her management. He was taken ill and unable to fill out his schedule. Miss Harris was worried, for the brass band had always been a popular feature. She had heard Sousa play in the White House gardens. She liked the swing and dash of his music. But she was uncertain if his small band would be strong enough to fill the great academy. She resolved to risk it. Sousa never played in concert before. He tried hard and won. Philadelphia went mad over him. Miss Harris had played a trump card.

Miss Eleanor Hosea of Cincinnati has achieved much success in painting "Indian pictures." She is the one woman who has gained marked recognition in this field.

The Danish West Indies

Something About the Three Little Islands Which We Talk of Buying From Denmark.

THE geography of the United States is changing rapidly these closing days of the nineteenth century. The next probable change is the addition of the Danish West Indies by purchase at a price which it is said will not exceed $4,000,000.

Rumor had it but a short time ago that these little islands were to pass into the hands of Germany, but for some reason the plan, if it were ever contemplated, fell through and Germany has disavowed any intention of attempting to possess the islands.

At one time the Danish West Indies were a prominent place in the western hemisphere. They have figured prominently in the history and romance of the American continents, and while much of their commercial importance has departed the romantic associations still remain to make them interesting. The Spanish pirates made these islands headquarters at the time our western waters swarmed with those bloodthirsty tyrants of the sea, and they have left about the towns and harbors an interest and romance that centuries will not efface.

PORT OF CHARLOTTE AMALIE AND HARBOR OF ST. THOMAS.

In the port of Charlotte Amalie, on the Island of St. Thomas, there stand two interesting old ruins which have formed the theme for song and story for two centuries. They are the famous towers of Blackbeard and Bluebeard, the swarthy pirates of whom every boy and girl has read. In these two towers were enacted the scenes in the domestic life of these two dreaded sea rovers that were to be handed down to many generations in the shape of interesting stories.

But little remains of Bluebeard's tower, but there is still enough for the people of the island to point out to the interested stranger where the room was located in which the young wife found the beheaded bodies of her predecessors.

Blackbeard's tower is still intact, and is pointed out to the stranger as one of the interesting sights of the island. One may wander through the rooms which legend tells us were used at one time by the pretty wife of the pirate, and in one of which the telltale love letters of the festive lord of the tower were found, and in another was held the fatal dinner party which resulted in the death of the sweethearts at the hand of the young and jealous wife.

These are among the romantic features of the islands which this country talks of buying. But it is not the romance for which the government would pay $4,000,000. What we would secure of intrinsic value for that amount of money would be one of the finest harbors in the western hemisphere. A harbor in which hundreds of vessels could find a safe anchorage from the typhoons of the South Atlantic, and yet it is a harbor in a little island that is only 12 miles long by three miles wide.

At one time this harbor was the headquarters for the vessels of the Royal Mail company, but gradually the importance of the islands declined and in 1885 this company removed its headquarters to Barbados. But the island is still a port of call for vessels plying between Europe and South American ports, and should the canal across the Isthmus of Panama be built this harbor would again become an important one to the shipping of the world.

The history of the Danish West Indies is quite as interesting as that of any other of the West Indian islands. The little group has at various times been the property of Spain, the Dutch, the English and the Danes. They were discovered by Columbus on his second voyage to America, and were first colonized by a few Spaniards, but in 1657 Dutch colonists took possession. The Dutch colonists finally left the islands and went to New York and then the English took possession of the islands. The Danes secured control in 1671, and with the exception of ten months in 1801, when they were held by England, Denmark has been the ruling power ever since.

The wars of Europe in which Denmark maintained neutrality had much to do with the prosperity of the Danish West Indies. Through them the colonies of the warring nations found their only market, and the harbor of St. Thomas was in those days crowded with the shipping of the world. Again during the American civil war the islands enjoyed an unusual prosperity because of their importance to the confederate blockade runners, but since that time the commercial importance of the islands has gradually declined.

The town of Charlotte Amalie is one of the finest and cleanest in the entire West Indian group. It is well built, well drained and has an abundance of pure water secured from West mountain, which rises to a height of 1,586 feet in the center of the island. The harbor and town are situated in the middle of the south coast, and the harbor is nearly landlocked. It is from 18 to 36 feet in depth and will easily accommodate vessels of the largest size. Among the improvements which have been made are a floating dry dock, completed in 1875, which is 250 feet in length; a steamslip capable of taking up a vessel of 1,200 tons, and excellent wharfs and coaling facilities. The town has a population of some 10,000 people, and the entire island of St. Thomas a population of about 5,000 more, and the population of the three islands numbers about 30,000.

The large majority of the population are of negro blood and these speak a Creole dialect, but among the white English is the common language used. It is taught in the schools, and used in the churches of all denominations. About one-third of the population are Roman Catholics, and the remainder divided between the Lutheran, the Dutch Reformed, Moravian and English Episcopal churches, and a Jewish community of some 500 or 600, who maintain a synagogue. There are in the town two hospitals, a library and reading room, a government college and a Roman Catholic college.

For many years the islands have been a source of expense to Denmark. Their commerce has declined to such an extent as to amount to almost nothing at the present time, and the greater part of their imports, with the exception of hardware and dry goods, now comes from the United States. United States Consul Van Horne, at St. Thomas, gives the imports of the three ports of entry of the islands, St. Thomas, Christiansted and Fredericksted, as $1,142,038 during the year 1898. Of this amount the United States supplied goods to the amount of $644,739. The exports were $574,720, and consisted of sugar, rum, molasses, bay rum and turtle shell. Of these the United States bought $383,767 worth.

The purchase of these islands by the United States is by no means a new idea. Secretary of State Seward, to whom we are indebted for the purchase of Alaska, wanted congress to buy the islands and inaugurated negotiations for their purchase, but at the last moment congress refused to provide the money and the negotiations amounted to nothing. At that time the price agreed upon was $7,500,000, and before Denmark would agree to sell she insisted that the question be submitted to the people of the two islands which were to be included in the purchase, the island of St. Croix being omitted. When the votes on the subject were counted it was found that there were only 22 against the proposition to sell to the United States.

James G. Blaine desired to see the islands purchased by this country, and opened negotiations with Denmark for that purpose during President Harrison's administration, but again the project fell through. The republican platform of 1896 advocates their purchase, and this time we may get them.

BERNHARD BRISTOL.

Apprehensive.

"It's no use trying to get ahead of 'em," said Mr. Blykins. "Capital is bound to take advantage of us. It can figure it out and make it all seem plain and plausible, and before we know it, we're being oppressed."

"What are you talking about?" asked his wife.

"The twentieth century."

"Oh, that's easy. You just make up your mind when you think it ought to begin and then say the other thing." Mr. Blykins looked at her witheringly and then exclaimed:

"Did you know that the twentieth century will be shy on Mondays? Of course, you didn't. You don't know any mathematics or chronology outside the grocery book. Scientists have lifted their minds higher and shown conclusively that while there will be plenty of Tuesdays and other days, we won't get the Mondays that are coming to us. I don't want to be violent, but I will say that when we consider that Monday is pay day with the concern I work for, the whole thing looks mighty suspicious." — Washington Star.

The Boers' Advantage.

The ability of a race of brave marksmen behind intrenchments, to make a formidable resistance to assault by the very best veteran soldiery is a fact familiar to all persons of historical intelligence. The repulse of the British regulars twice by our embattled farmers' line at Bunker Hill; the dreadful repulse of Wellington's seasoned "Peninsular war" veterans, 14,000 strong, under Pakenham, by 5,000 Kentucky and Tennessee hunters and Indian fighters at New Orleans; the destruction wrought by Hofer and his riflemen in the ranks of Marshal Lefebre's corps of Napoleon's army in the defiles of the Tyrolese mountains; the successful resistance to the Russian army offered by the Turks under English officers at Plevna, are cases in point.—Portland Oregonian.

Nature's Efforts.

My friend's colored maid came in one day after her regular weekly outing, looking as if she had enjoyed herself.

"Well, Susan," said my friend, who is sympathetic. "I suppose you saw all the pretty things in the stores downtown?"

"No'm; not z'actly. I ben lookin' at de handiwork ob de Lawd."

"Indeed? So you took a little trip to the country to see the fields and flowers?"

"No'm; no, indeedy. I ben at de dime museum. They has a hairy boy there and a two-headed man."—Waverly Magazine.

Making Kava.

Taking the root stalks of the plant, two men quickly stripped away the dark outer bark, and, laying the white pith on one flat stone, beat it to a pulp with another. The great kava bowl, a hollow dish supported by several feet—the whole carved out of a solid block of wood—was produced and the bruised root placed therein, water being poured over it. The maker in chief then went through a process of stirring, the dregs being ultimately strained out with a bunch of hibiscus fiber.—Blackwood.

Proved.

"A woman can't do a man's work," he asseverated.

"I maintain that she can," she persisted. "Any woman can do any man's work."

"Preposterous!" he declared. "A woman who tries to do a man's work will make a fool of herself."

"I am glad to see that you have come around to my view!" she exclaimed, triumphantly.

Then he began to think how he did it. —Judge.

Disposed Of.

Harlem Housewife (bursting into the caterer's shop in a rage)—Sir, the cakes you sent me yesterday were shocking, simply unfit to eat; I wouldn't throw such food to the pigs.

Caterer—I am very sorry, madam. I will take the cakes back and send you some others.

"Oh, you won't have to do that. We ate them all up yesterday for dessert." —N. Y. World.

Not So Serious as He Feared.

"But, papa," wailed the young woman, "you can have no idea how he loves me. He is willing to die for me this minute."

"Well," said the old man, scratching his chin thoughtfully, "I don't know that I have any objection to that. I was afraid he wanted to marry you."—Albany Argus.

Why the Governess Left.

Mamma (to little daughter)—Well, how does my little girl like the new governess?

Little Daughter—Oh, I think she's real nice. She says I am a very pretty little girl, and that papa is just the nicest and handsomest man she ever saw.—N. Y. Herald.

Philippine Volcanoes

The Interesting and Picturesque Features of Taal and Mayon.

PRACTICALLY all of the Philippine islands are of volcanic origin, and there are on the islands to-day a number of interesting volcanic mountains which have in time past brought death and destruction to the territory surrounding them.

Of these volcanic mountains four are of particular interest. Two of these, both located on the island of Luzon, are in constant eruption, but only at times become dangerous to the surrounding country. Of the other two one is located in the island of Negros and is in eruption occasionally, and the other is in the island of Camiguin. This last mountain suddenly arose from the plain in which it is located in 1872 and scattered destruction about it for many miles.

Taal volcano is almost within sight of Manila, being located in the center of Bombon lake, but 34 miles due south of the capital city. Its situation in the center of a large lake adds much to its picturesqueness, and is one of the sights that but few visitors to the islands fail to visit.

MAYON VOLCANO.

While the history of Taal is not so bad as that of Mayon, it is yet terrible enough to have laid several towns in ruins, and to have kept the people of the island of Luzon, and especially those of Manila, in terror for several months at one time. Taal has been in an active state from time immemorial, and a number of serious eruptions have taken place from it. Of these the first of historical importance was in 1641, when much damage was done, according to the native accounts. In 1709 and in 1716 the volcano was again in eruption, vomiting fire and stones, but no serious damage was done to the surrounding country. Probably the most interesting of the eruptions, although resulting in no particular damage, was that of 1731, when the entire lake in which the volcano is situated was agitated, and from which three tall columns of earth and sand arose within a few days and then subsided into the form of an island, of which the active volcano is now the center. At that time Taal gloried in an impressive cuneform peak rising to considerable height, but an eruption that occurred in 1749 destroyed this and left the crater disclosed as it is now shown in the accompanying engraving.

One of the parish priests of the neighborhood at that time describes the eruption of 1749 in a manuscript which is preserved in Manila. Of it he says:

". . . Daylight came and disclosed to view an immense column of smoke gushing from the summit of the volcano, and here and there from its sides smaller streams rose like plumes."

The last eruption of importance occurred in 1754, when the stones, lava, ashes and waves of the lake utterly destroyed the towns of Taal, Tanauan, Sala and Lipa and seriously damaged Balayan, 15 miles away. At this time cinders were carried as far as Manila, and, according to one writer, the people in the capital dined with lighted candles at midday and walked about the streets confounded and thunderstruck, clamoring for confession during the eight days that the calamity was visible.

Such has been the history of Taal. To-day it is a picturesque burning mountain rising from the center of a lake the waters of which are warmed by its eternal fires.

Mayon volcano is situated in the southern extremity of the island of Luzon, in the province of Albay, and is often called Albay volcano. It is remarkable not alone for its terrible history but for the perfection of its conic form as well.

Perpendicular walls of lava have formed on the slopes all around the mountain, and these prevent anyone reaching the crater, which is situated at the extreme peak, and is between 8,000 and 9,000 feet high. From this crater a constant stream of fire is pouring, which is discernible best on a clear, dark night.

The history of Mayon is far more terrible than that of Taal, and the date of its eruptions that have carried destruction with them comes down to a much closer time. The first eruption of which there is any authentic account was in 1769, which destroyed the towns of Cogsaua and Malinao, as well as several small villages, and devastated property for a radius of 20 miles around it. The eruption lasted for a period of two months, during which lava and ashes were thrown out incessantly.

The next serious eruption occurred in 1814, at which time five towns were destroyed, and it is estimated that more than 2,000 persons were killed by the falling lava and rocks. At this time the eruption came without any previous warning, and the people were unable to seek shelter before the terrible streams of lava were upon them.

TAAL VOLCANO.

The next disastrous eruption occurred in 1888, and, though it continued but for one night, it resulted in the death of more than a dozen people and the destruction of a great amount of property. But a year before the guns of Admiral Dewey's ships placed the islands in the hands of the United States Mayon belched forth with probably as terrible an eruption as has been recorded in the history of the volcano. This eruption occurred in May, 1897, and showers of ashes and lava fell like rain for a distance of 20 miles around the mountain. It carried destruction to thousands of dollars' worth of property, and more than 400 people were swept away in the streams of burning lava.

Of the other two volcanoes in the islands to which any special interest attaches the Canlauan volcano, in the island of Negros, is in eruption only occasionally and has never done any great amount of damage. Of the one in the island of Camiguin the most interesting thing about it is its origin. Without any previous warning of any kind the mountain rose suddenly from the center of the great plain in which it is situated in 1872, and to the natives it is the one great wonder of the world.

How a Boer Signs His Name.

The Boer may be fairly good at handling a rifle, but he is sadly deficient in his ability to handle a pen. When the average Boer has to attach his name to a document an air of importance pervades his dwelling for several hours. The children are constantly chided, the patient "vrouw" has a preoccupied look, and the husband himself puffs even more vigorously than usual at his pipe. Eventually a corner of the table is cleared and carefully wiped. The family Bible is placed in position, and the sheet of paper requiring the signature placed upon it. An expectant silence falls upon the company. "Stilte!" cries the wife. "Stilte, kindet jes, pappa gaat sein naam teken." ("Hush, children, father is about to sign his name."). The family stand round open-mouthed, and all eyes gaze expectantly upon the paper. With arms bared for the fray, and with pen carefully poised, the Boer bends to his task. The pen is gripped firmly between his horny fingers. In thick, ungainly scratches, and with slow and painful motion, the pen begins to work, and at the end of it, maybe four minutes, the deed is accomplished.—London Mail.

A Fiction About Panthers.

One of the time-honored attributes of the panther is his scream. One could not take $4,000,000 and therewith disabuse the American public of its fond belief in the womanlike wail of the panther. Yet many scientists to-day affirm that the panther is a mute animal, and does not scream at all. This latter I believe to be accurate, for my friend, "Old Bill" Hamilton, one of the few reliable and genuine old-timers of the Rocky mountains, tells me the note of the panther is a sort of hoarse, roaring noise, and he compares it rather to the roaring howl of the gray wolf than the voice of any other wild animal. He laughs at the "womanlike-wail" notion. Once when in camp in the Jicarilla mountains of New Mexico I heard at night the cry of what I supposed to be a mountain lion or panther. It was answered from beyond our camp, and the first animal passed within a few hundred yards. It might have been a wildcat, but the teamster who was with me said he thought it was a mountain lion.—Chicago Record.

"The Tomb of Romulus."

A notable recent achievement in archaeology is the discovery in the Roman Forum of a massive pavement of black marble nine feet square, which some believe to be the veritable "black stone" which the Romans venerated as marking the tomb of Romulus. Under the marble, among other objects, was a broken stele, or sepulchral column, covered with archaic Latin characters, and this is considered to bear out the statement of the later Roman historians that in the early days the Romans spoke a tongue which their descendants could not understand.—Youth's Companion.

Why Tommy Was Retired.

Sue (who has just been asked to play something on the piano)—I really can't play anything.

Tommy—But, I say, Sue, why don't you play that piece you spoke to me about?

"What piece?"

"Why, that one you told me to ask you to play when we had company, cause you knew it beter'n any of the others. I forget the name!"

Then Tommy was sent to bed.—N. Y. Herald.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

No man can set a proper example to his wife and to the children at the same time.

It never makes an old bachelor any more miserable because he knows what makes all the married women hate him so.

No woman who chooses to go 'round with a man's shirt, collar and necktie on has any business to expect a man to take off his hat to her.—N. Y. Press.

Hebrews in the British Army.

It is interesting to note that among the troops mustered into the service by the British war office are several companies composed exclusively of Hebrews. In Bombay there are two companies of Hebrew soldiers, and the army register shows that thousands of Hebrews have enlisted in the British army in recent years, most of them being now with the army in South Africa.—St. Louis Republic.

A Bad Break.

Nell—Mad at him? Why, he wrote a lovely poem to her.

She—You are the most exasperating man on earth. Here I scold you for half an hour, and you won't answer. Why don't you talk?

As Applied to Family Affairs.

"What," asked the teacher, "does anthracite mean?"

"That's a kind of coal," said little Willie.

"Yes. Anthracite coal is what we call hard coal. So anthracite must mean hard. Now, can you tell me what bituminous means?"

"That's coal, too," Willie replied.

"But it isn't the same kind of coal that anthracite is? Bituminous coal is what we commonly refer to as soft coal. Now, Willie, let us see if you can form a sentence containing the words anthracite and bituminous."

Willie thought the matter over for a minute and then said:

"Here's one. This morning before pa started downtown ma wanted five dollars for groceries and things, and she tried to get it by saying bituminous words, but pa gave her an anthracite look, and when he disappeared around the corner she was weeping bituminously."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Pole Star.

Prof. Campbell, of the Lick observatory, says the north pole star is approaching our solar system at the rate of seven miles per second. This velocity he calculated by means of the spectroscope. The professor further announces that the star is not single, but double. The companion star is not visible to the naked eye, but can be made out with a powerful telescope. The two stars revolve around their common center of gravity in a period of four days, their orbit being comparable in size to that of our own moon. It is also further believed that a third body is attracting the two-star system, thus causing a periodical variation in the velocity of the pole star.—Chicago Tribune.

Breaking It Gently.

The doctor came into the room rubbing his hands and smiling.

"Everything all right?" asked the man who was anxiously waiting for him.

"Couldn't be better," returned the doctor.

"Good," said the man, with a sigh of relief. Then, when he saw that the doctor intended to say nothing more, he asked, with some hesitation: "Er—ah—boy or girl?"

The doctor stopped rubbing his hands and looked a trifle uneasy, as if the task before him were not just to his liking.

"Well," he said, at last, "you'll need a tandem bicycle for it."—Stray Stories.

How Dogs Fool One Another.

A correspondent noticing my stories of "Daxies" (who "make believe" in order to draw off each other's attention from desirable things, and to oust each other from comfortable armchairs, promising burrows, and so forth), makes the following remarks: "'Paddy' and the retriever pretend at rabbit holes, just like your dog friends. When one dog is at the hole that the other thinks likeliest, the dog who is 'out in the cold' as it were, gets up a scene, and thus humbugs the dog in possession, and then slips into his place."—London News.

Getting His Money's Worth.

"Arthur, dear," she said, "I do wish you would not use cigarettes."

"Why?"

"Because you don't know what is in them."

"Oh, yes I do. Why, for the trifling sum that a cigarette costs you get nicotine, valerian, possibly a little morphine, and any quantity of carbon."

She looked up into his eyes and murmured: "Arthur, dear, it does seem like a bargain, doesn't it?"—Brisbane Review.

Stockingless German Soldiers.

Great attention is paid in the German army to the condition of the soldiers' feet. The German infantry soldier wears no stockings. He rubs his feet with lanolin or vaseline, which is rendered antiseptic by the presence of a little admixture of salicylic, carbolic acid or camphor, and then envelops them in a piece of flannel. This lessens the friction between boot and foot considerably and thus prevents the formation of boils.—Chicago Chronicle.

High Prices Turn Many.

"Please, sir, just a dime?" pleaded the thinly clad unfortunate.

"I have nothing for you!" blurted the pompous man in the $100 overcoat.

"Surely, you wouldn't turn a person away such a night as this?"

"Wouldn't I? Why, man, I am a theatrical manager. I turn away hundreds of people every night."—Chicago Evening News.

What He Played.

"You are very fond of games, Mr. Oldleigh," said the new member.

"Yes, young man," responded Mr. Oldleigh, "I used to play my favorite game when I was a kid in a crib."

"And what was your favorite game?"

"Cribbage."—Chicago Evening News.

His Discovery.

Growells (angrily)—You know that a fool can ask questions that a wise man can't answer, don't you?

Howells—I've heard so, but I never knew it until now.—Chicago Evening News.

Merely a Theory.

Smith—Jones fell asleep in a car and awoke to find his pockets rifled.

Brown—He must have been loaded.—Chicago Evening News.

Thankful for That.

He (rather backward)—Miss Edith, you look sweet enough to kiss.

She—Well! I'm glad to know it isn't my fault.—Puck.

A Pun.

The rout of the corner dudes would be a "flight of starers."—Chicago Dispatch.

BASEBALL.

The New Jersey State Baseball League is now fully organized, as a meeting was held at Newark Saturday evening, when all the remaining preliminaries were gone through with Permanent officers were chosen as follows: President, Ferdinand Fredericks, of Paterson; secretary, J. W. Dobbins, of Newark. Those present were David F. Driscoll, Jersey City; Ferdinand Fredericks, Paterson; Fred D. Burchell, Perth Amboy; Owen Sheehan, Trenton; J. W. The league is to consist of six teams, and it was decided that visiting clubs should have their choice of $40 or 50 per cent. of the gate receipts for Saturday games, or $40 or 37 per cent. of the gate receipts for Sunday games. The National League playing rules were adopted. Messrs. Burchell, Driscoll and Smith were appointed a schedule committee. The season is to begin on the first Saturday in May, and will close late in September. The next meeting of the league will be held Saturday, February 3d, when the schedule committee will make its report. Before the season opens each club must post a forfeit of $10, which will serve as an earnest of good faith and a definite determination to play the season.

ROD AND GUN.

An interesting live bird shoot took place yesterday afternoon at Rahway between "Pony" Lambert, of Westfield, and William Tucker, of Rahway. The shoot was for $50 a corner and 25 birds each. Lambert was defeated. He killed fifteen birds and his opponent sixteen.

A live bird shoot that will interest all local sportsmen will take place tomorrow afternoon at Scott Terry's, when Messrs. Andrew Sypler, Charles Johnson and J. Lamoda, of Raeville and Flemington, will contest with Albert Calloway, William Terry and Scott Terry. The shoot will be at 25 birds a corner and $25 a man. Each of the contestants are experts in the business and some fine shooting may be looked for.

LARGER SHIPYARD.

Lewis Nixon Secures More Property Adjoining His Big Plant at Elizabethport.

Lewis Nixon, owner of the Crescent shipyard at Elizabethport, has purchased the property of the Connolly Iron Sponge and Governor Company, in Fulton street, Elizabethport, which has a frontage of 122 feet on Staten Island Sound. The purchase includes a good wharf, and the price paid for the property is $30 000. The land adjoins that of the Nixon shipyard, which now can be greatly enlarged so as to accommodate the largely increased business of Mr Nixon.

It is rumored that some of the material for the new rapid transit railroad in New York will be turned out at Nixon's plant. It is also reported at Elizabethport that Mr. Nixon is negotiating for the purchase of the water front east of the Connolly property, and which is now owned by Charles Meyer and the Staten Island Ferry Company, and extends to the Central Railroad wharf at Livingston street. This deal, if consummated, would give the Nixon shipyard the most valuable water front at Elizabethport, extending from Livingston street to Marshall street, nearly 1,000 feet.

There is also a report that Samuel L. Moore Sons Crescent Iron Works may be amalgamated with or absorbed by the Nixon plant. The iron works are on the west side of South Front street, which separates the Moore works from the Nixon shipyard. A great part of the iron work for the shipbuilding business is now turned out by the Crescent works.

Successful Revival Services.

The Mt. Olive Baptist church was crowded to the doors last evening when the revival services were continued. Two persons confessed faith in Christ at the service held for young people and two more came out at the regular meeting. One was received into fellowship. Thus far forty-one have been added to the list of conversions. Many have been urging that the meetings continue, but owing to financial condition it may not be possible to do so. The matter will be left with the deacons.

George Taylor, of Codington avenue, is confined to his home with an attack of the grip.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The late John P. Stockton was well known in this city. He has spoken in this city many times in the past. In the days when the present City Hotel was known as Uncle Jake Thorn's Mr Stockton was a frequent visitor. He was a man of signal ability and a forcible speaker. In those days it was quite common during a campaign to have the eloquent Andrew Jackson Roger, of Sussex, and Judge Naar, of Trenton, as guests of the local Democracy.

A pool tournament is now in progress in one of the local pool rooms in which a number of the young men of this city have entered. The list of names as they appear on the schedule is a rather remarkable one. Most of the young men have entered under some nickname or with a name entirely different from their own, not caring for the publicity that might result. There are a few, however, who have been brave enough to come out under their own names.

It is rumored about the city that a certain business house is going to apply to the Common Council for a license to sell liquors, and in consequence other merchants in the same business are greatly agitated over the matter. Some claim that the Council will not establish such a precedent, but on the other hand it is said that there is reason to believe that the license will be granted. It is understood that a wholesale license will be asked for. If this should be granted it would give the people of Plainfield an opportunity to have their liquors delivered to them under cover, and no one would suspect or know what they were receiving. The subject, as stated, is agitating the minds of many, and no doubt there will be very strong opposition to the application should it be made.

The annual bicycle and automobile show is now in progress at Madison Square Garden, New York, and every day sees several thousand people there. Plainfield has been well represented there this week and the remaining days are likely to see still others from this city in attendance. The display is larger and more elaborate than in previous years. There is a decided absence of freak wheels and of multicycles. The brilliant colored enamels, seen so largely last year are still prominent, but the blacks predominate. There is a great display of the horseless carriages of all types and styles which have attracted much attention. Among those who are to be seen at the Garden are F. L. C. Martin, who makes his headquarters with one of the principal departments of the wheel trust, now called the American Bicycle Company, and H. L. McGee, who is connected with the Riker Electric Vehicle Company, of Elizabethport.

ELOPERS TELEGRAPH AHEAD

Hotelkeeper and His Wife Sponsors for This Couple.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Whitehouse, N. J., Jan. 24.—Late Monday night Landlord Thomas H. DeCator, of the Central Hotel, received a telegram stating that a couple soon would arrive in his house to be married, and asking him to procure a minister. Nothing loath, the genial proprietor invited in Rev. E. E. Roberson of the Methodist Episcopal church. Shortly after a team of steaming horses stood before the door and a couple stepped hastily from the carriage.

They were John Hunt, of Flemington, and Miss Ella Haffick, of Lambertville, who had eloped, completely thwarting the plans of their irate parents. The girl met her lover in Flemington, having gone there to spend the day with relatives, and the escape was easy.

DeCator and his wife acted as best man and bridesmaid. After the service there was a wedding supper, and the young folk went back to their parents and were forgiven.

The End of the Century Calendar.

The great progress of the printer's art in the nineteenth century is fittingly marked in this closing year by the artistic calendar we have just received from N. W. Ayers & Son, newspaper and magazine advertising agents, Philadelphia. This edition will not last long; while it does, those who send 25 cents to the publishers will recieve a copy postpaid.

—There will be election of two deacons this evening at the First Baptist church when a regular business meeting will be held.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Final Answer

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—Mr. Hetfield seems to have either forgotten or misunderstood the purport of our conversation on Friday morning, as I distinctly stated to him my understanding of the law, (which afterward proved to be correct,) but said I would consult the Corporation Council for greater certainty.

The same subject came up two years ago in relation to North avenue, and was settled the same way, but I had forgotten the wording of the law.

All this, however, is of trifling importance to the taxpayers, who are more concerned with the effect of the law, which will no doubt seem to all of them, as it does to our watchful ex Councilman, to be extremely unjust to our city.

My only excuse for trespassing again on your space, is to correct the impression that we had gone on with the work in East Third street with no idea of the law. Andrew J. Gavett, Street Commissioner.

TRADING STAMPS TO BLAME.

B. D. Newell's Business Drawn Away From Him and His Store is Now in the Hands of the Sheriff.

The grocery establishment of Bergen D. Newell, at 222 East Front street, was closed yesterday by the Sheriff on a judgment secured in the Supreme Court in favor of Alice A. Thatcher, for $180. Mr. Newell has been in the grocery business for about thirteen years, and was considered quite successful. He attributes his present trouble to a falling off in business and poor collections.

For some months there has been a strong rivalry among the merchants to secure business by means of the trading stamp. Mr. Newell told a Press reporter that the trading stamp had been largely instrumental in causing a falling off in his business owing to the efforts put forth by a rival establishment. Mr. Newell's many friends will be pained to learn of his business embarrassment and regret that he has been unable to weather the financial storm. If Mr. Newell can adjust matters satisfactorily with his creditors he may continue business.

The district session of the I. O. R. M. was held at Elizabeth last evening and the full board of great chiefs was present. On his return to this city, Great Senior Sagamore William Newcorn was accompanied by Great Sachem A. H. Stiles, of Atlantic City. Mr. Stiles is a guest in Plainfield today.

This evening, they will go to Paterson to attend the grand union meeting of the associated tribes of that city. Great Incohonee George T. Green, of Binghamton, N. Y, will be the orator of the evening. Tomorrow evening, a district session will be held at Paterson. Monday night there will be a district session at Mt. Holly.

A Pleasant Gathering.

A very pleasant time was had at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Coles last evening, when about twenty five young people gathered there and spent the evening with games and vocal and instrumental music. Later a collation was served. The decorations were green and white. At 1:30 the guests departed, assuring the host and hostess that they had spent a most enjoyable time. Among the guests were W. H. Cadmus and Miss Edna Cadmus, of Brooklyn, who are spending a few days with Mrs. Coles.

Of Interest to Smokers.

The briar pipe is not made of briarwood at all. The word "briar" is a corruption of the French word "bruyere," meaning "heath," and the wood used is really that of the heather. When these pipes were introduced into this country the tradesmen found that the French word was rather too difficult for the ordinary smoker to get hold of, and they soon twisted it into the familiar briar. The supply of this wood from France is now almost exhausted, and is only found in any quantity in the Alpes Maritimes.

WATCHUNG OFFICE GETS NO MAIL YET.

Jacob Blimm Refuses to Carry It There.

TOO LITTLE PAY, HE SAYS.

MANY RESIDENTS ARE OBJECTING TO POSTOFFICE.

Claim That it is Located Too Far From Centre of the Village, and That it Will be More Convenient to Get Mail From Plainfield as Heretofore—Service Will Begin as Soon as Possible.

The new postoffice has not yet been opened at Watchung, as Washingtonville is now known in the records of the postal department. The delay is occasioned by the inability of the Government to secure anyone to carry the mail there from this city at the rate offered by the postal authorities. It was expected that Jacob Blimm, who carries the mail once a day from Plainfield to Warrenville, and return, would take the contract for the Watchung mail, but the compensation offered by the representative of that department of the postal service was not sufficient in the eyes of Mr. Blimm.

The postoffice at Watchung, as now located by George Schmidt, the postmaster, is on the road to Sterling, nearly a half mile from the crossroads that form the centre of that settlement and where Demler's store is located. The old schoolhouse has been utilized as a postoffice.

This location has not found favor with a majority of the residents of Watchung who would naturally get their mail there. They claim that it is too far away from the centre of the village to be convenient, and that it should be located at or very near Demler's corner. Of course, those that happen to live on the Sterling road are not objecting. The others declare that they will continue to have their mail sent to Plainfield, and continue to get it, as usual, through the medium of the milkmen who return that way early in the morning after covering their routes.

Blimm's objection to carrying the mail is that he will have to go nearly a mile out of his way to deliver it at the post office while the compensation offered is very small. The matter does not lie with Postmaster Bird, of this city, but with the representative of the transportation department of the service. As soon as he completes arrangements for the carrying of the mail, the service will be started. There are quite a number, however, who declare that their mail will still be sent to the Plainfield office and predict an early end for the Watchung office unless the location is changed.

WON'T GIVE ABSTRACTS.

New Brunswick Property Owners So Tell Federal Government.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, January 25.—There is a hitch in the Government's plans to build a public building here. Charles G. Greenwald, Loyal T. Ives and Mrs. Isabella Martin, whose properties are included in the site together with that of the Howard Savings Institution, have all given notice to District-Attorney J. K. Rice that they object to going to the trouble and expense of furnishing the Government with an abstract of title. Judge Rice has notified the Government to this effect, but as yet has received no answer.

These three property owners, it is understood, did not anticipate the expense of getting an abstract of title, although the advertisement given out by the Government clearly shows that it was necessary.

Rahway's New Alderman.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, Jan. 25—The City Council has elected Former Councilman Joseph Wooster to fill the vacancy in the Fourth ward caused by the recent death of Councilman George Miller, Republican. The new Councilman was formerly a Democrat when in the board, but left that party on the financial issue, and is now a Republican. In the Fifth ward Former Assessor of Taxes Otto Graves was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Councilman W. A. C. Coles.

Brunswick Traction Officers.

The following officers were re elected at the meeting of the Brunswick Traction Company and the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company: President, Gottfried Krueger; vice-president, Andrew Radel; secretary and treasurer, Edward Radel. The principal point under discussion was the proposed extension of the New York and Philadelphia Company's lines in Somerset county. No definite action was taken.

INSURANCE AGENTS DINED BY COMPANY.

Prudential Men Enjoyed a Pleasant Evening.

AT THE HOTEL KENSINGTON.

ENCOURAGING TALK FOR NEW YEAR'S BUSINESS.

The Guests Were the Employes Engaged in Work in the Plainfield District—Local Superintendent Ball Presided at the Head of the Table—Appropriate Responses Were Made.

Last evening at the Hotel Kensington was held the annual banquet to the division superintendent, assistants and agents of the Plainfield district by the Prudential Insurance Company. There were about fifty guests present. Plainfield's new superintendent, Charles E. Ball, who has just been transferred from Dover, presided at the head of the long table, that extended from one end of the dining room to the other, while on his left was Division Superintendent Gammel, of Newark, and on the left was G. Elston Woodland, the retiring superintendent, who has been transferred to Trenton. From these officials on down the table was occupied by lesser lights in the service of the company.

It was nearly 9 o'clock when the dinner was concluded, and then Superintendent Charles E. Ball, of the local office, called for order and made a few remarks. He said that the Prudential Insurance Company was the best concern in the country to work for.

Division Superintendent Gammel was called upon and he gave an enthusiastic speech. He spoke of the work done by the company in 1899 amounting to $221,000,000 worth of business, showing that the company is only excelled by one other company. During last year there was paid out $6 000,000 in benefits, etc. Speaking of the Plainfield district he gave the men much encouragement. During the year of 1898 3,078 policies were issued and during 1899 5,000 were issued. He urged all to write the best business obtainable, and thus make the coming year, which will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the company, a banner one.

Mr. Gammel was followed by Assistant Superintendent G. W. Hope, of Somerville, who spoke kindly words concerning the goodness of the company. Daniel Haley, his assistant, followed with a few well chosen remarks. A very interesting short address was made by H. H. Kind, who has been assigned to take Mr. Ball's place at Dover. He was followed by a few remarks from Chief Clerk Ash, of the Home office. There were short speeches from Assistant Superintendent I. W. Binninger and Agent Compton Vail, of the local office. Superintendent G. Elston Woodland thanked all for the cordial support accorded him and gave the credit for all success to the men under him, whom he said are a loyal, true band of workers.

Assistant Superintendent G. H. Fairchild, of the local office, followed with a short speech, in which he thanked the company, and said that he was going to try to secure first place next year. Other remarks were then made by Agent D. W. King, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, of Plainfield; Assistant Superintendent W. J. Allen, Agent W. D. Crater, of Clinton; Charles Stedman, third assistant in the local office; H. D. Woodland, of Flemington; Agent Charles Wood, of Bound Brook; Agent Lovell, of Flemington; Assistant Superintendent H. N. Searls, Agent Robertson, of Lambertville, and Agent Seals, of Whitehouse.

During the evening Charles Stedman, of the local office, offered a challenge which was taken up by the Somerville men. Four boxes of cigars are to be contested for, and the branch doing the most business for the first three months will win them. In this line Mr. Gammel stated that the New Jersey superintendents at a meeting had divided the State in such a way that there should be contests for business. The leaders are Superintendent Frisby, of district No. 1, and Superintendent Reilly, of district No 2. In this contest Plainfield will work to beat New Brunswick in the year's work.

BRYAN WILL BE HERE WEDNESDAY, FEB. 7TH.

The Nebraskan Arranges the Date Himself.

TO BE MR. MARTINE'S GUEST

WILL SPEAK IN MUSIC HALL IN THE AFTERNOON.

The "Farmer Orator" Visited the Distinguished Democrat Last Night and was One of the Honored Guests in Jersey City—Promise of an Immense Crowd When He Visits This City.

Col. William Jennings Bryan last night settled the question of his proposed trip to this city by personally promising James E. Martine that he would speak in Music Hall Wednesday afternoon, February 7th.

As stated in The Press last night, Mr. Martine has received assurances all along that the distinguished Democrat would be his guest in the near future, but owing to the pressure that is brought upon Col. Bryan to visit various points, Mr. Martine decided that he had better go to Jersey City last night and secure a promise of a visit from the Nebraskan, personally.

Upon his arrival in Jersey City Mr. Martine was invited to be a guest at the dinner tendered to Mr. Bryan by Leader Robert Davis. He accepted and enjoyed the gathering in a most pleasant manner. At the time he had quite a long talk with the prospective Democratic candidate for President, when the subject of a visit to this city was broached. Mr. Bryan said that he had long wanted to visit Mr. Martine, but the demand on his time was such that he had found it an utter impossibility. However, now that he was in this vicinity he should try to perfect arrangements to do. His list of previous engagements was gone over, and it was found that it would be utterly impossible for him to come to this city so as to speak here in the evening.

It was then decided that Wednesday afternoon, February 7th, would be the most convenient time for him to come. That evening he has an engagement to speak in Carnegie Music Hall in New York, but in the afternoon he would be at liberty.

Mr. Bryan will arrive in Plainfield in time to visit Mr. Martine's home at Cedar Brook farm, and take lunch with him. Before the meeting in Music Hall in the afternoon an opportunity will be given those who desire to meet Col. Bryan to do so.

Already Mr. Martine has received numerous letters telling him that there will be large delegations coming from various towns in this vicinity to hear Mr. Bryan on the occasion of his visit to this city.

ANOTHER FIREMEN'S BILL.

Gives Authority to Chief Engineers to Transfer Men.

The Legislative committee of the Superior Fire Officers' Association of New Jersey is preparing a bill for an early presentation to the Legislature, with reference to the detailing and transferring of firemen after their appointment as such. The bill will provide for the absolute authority of chief engineers in these matters. The enactment of such a law, it is claimed, would take the paid fire departments of the State out of the domain of politics to a large extent and tend to increase their general effectiveness.

The Legislative committee of the Superior Officers' Association is: Chief Engineer John Stagg, of Paterson; Chief Engineer Kiersted, of Newark; Captain W. Exall, of Newark; Captain Harburger, of Newark, and Chief Doane, of Plainfield.

DIDN'T SEE TRAIN AHEAD

ONE FREIGHT TRAIN RUNS INTO REAR OF ANOTHER ONE.

Engineer of Forward Train Saw Collision Was Inevitable and He Started Up and Lessened the Impact—Small Damage.

While the west bound local freight was standing unloading at Fanwood station yesterday morning about 9 o'clock the Allentown freight, going east, came thundering along, passing the block signal and the flagman who had been sent back to guard the end. When the engineer of the local found that a collision was a sure thing he pulled his throttle and started so as to make the shock as light as possible. Owing to his presence of mind a bad wreck was averted, for the engineer of the Allentown train had not noticed the local ahead and if he had struck the train at a standstill freight cars would have been flying everywhere and there would probably have been some loss of life.

The two trains came together with no other damage than the wrecking of Conductor Case's caboose and damaging several freight cars. The engineer on the Allentown train had taken his eyes off the track ahead and was looking over his schedule and had not noticed that he had left the all right block signal behind.

WAR RELICS FOR G. A. R.

FOUR CANNON PRESENTED TO WINFIELD SCOTT POST.

The Gift Made by Uncle Sam—Cannon Will be Set on the Soldiers' Plot at the Hillside Cemetery, This City.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., has just received a very substantial gift from Uncle Sam in the shape of four large cannon, which are to be placed on the soldiers' plot in Hillside Cemetery. Notification of this gift was received recently and the Post has been discussing the question of transporting the cannon from Governor's Island, their present resting place, to Hillside Cemetery. Comrade Wm. Hand was appointed a committee of one to see how the work could be done, and he made a report last Tuesday evening at the Post. He learned that the Jersey Central would deliver the cannons to Plainfield for a very reasonable sum, $11. This was agreed to and it will be arranged among the members as to who shall take them from the railroad to the cemetery, where they will be properly mounted.

The cannons are of very large size, and those who have seen them say that they are just the thing for the purpose for which they are intended. When put in position they will present an imposing sight to visitors to the cemetery. Thus the property dedicated for the soldiers' plot will be greatly enchanced in value, and no doubt at some time in the near future a suitable monument will be erected in the centre of the plot, which will add to the general attractiveness.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY CAR.

Driver of Beer Delivery Wagon Blames the Motorman, and Vice Versa.

The delivery wagon of E. F. Randolph, beer bottler in Bound Brook, was struck by a trolley car of the Plainfield Street Railway last evening, near Clinton avenue. A man named Dougherty, from Bound Brook, was driving. He claims that the motorman was to blame while the latter says that Dougherty drove right across the path of the car. The wagon was turned over and its contents scattered over the road. There was a crowd of college boys from Rutgers College and they captured a number of bottles as souvenirs. The officials of the company claimed to know very little about the accident this morning.

Wouldn't Eat the Breakfast.

A queer looking character visited the residence of S. A. Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, early this morning and demanded a breakfast. He was uncouth and dirty with a shaggy unkept beard. He declared that he had spent the night in the woods behind the house. When a breakfast was given him he refused to eat it. Patrolman McCue was sent for from town but before he reached Mr. Cruikshank's house, the stranger had wandered off Woodland avenue to the south.

STRANGE MAN HAD A BIG HOLE IN HIS NECK

Picked Up on Front Street by Sergeant Kiely.

SENT TO THE HOSPITAL.

DOCTORS SAY HE IS SUFFERING WITH DELIRUM TREMENS.

Gave His Name as Andrew Healey and Said His Home Was in New Brunswick—Water Given Him to Drink Trickled Through the Hole in His Throat—Tells Conflicting Stories.

"Oh sir, don't let them get me," he begged of Sergeant Kiely. The stranger cast a fearful glance behind him and then continued his importunities. It was on West Front street last evening that the strange man approached the Sergeant. Calling Patrolman Myers, the Sergeant sent the stranger to the station house which promised freedom from the pursuing ones.

"May I have a drink?" asked the stranger. And Patrolman Myers complied with the request. The officer was then horrified to see the water trickle down the front of the man's coat. There was a deep gash in his neck through which the water streamed.

The stranger gives his name as Andrew Healey, of New Brunswick. How he came by the injury he cannot or will not tell. He was first heard of at Neshanic, N. J., where he wandered about Tuesday and Wednesday. Yesterday morning he went to Dr. J. E. Anderson, of that place, to have the wound dressed. The doctor took several stitches in the man's neck and declared that the oesophagus was almost severed. The man refused to go to a hospital then.

The police here believe that the man is suffering with delirium tremens and thus account for his constant fear that he is being pursued. He gives various reasons for the wound. He first declares that he tried to commit suicide, but that it hurt too much, then that he got into a fight and was wounded, and also that he had a boil on his neck and tried to open it.

Where he has been spending his nights and how he reached this city from Neshanic, it is impossible to say. The police think that he came down on a freight train over the Central or Lehigh Valley.

When Myers found the state the man was in, the Sergeant was notified and Dr. Carman summoned. The doctor examined the wound and ordered the man to Muhlenberg Hospital where he is now. The authorities in New Brunswick will be notified.

Chief Grant went to the Hospital this noon and interviewed Healey who talked very rationally. He said that he had been boarding with Jos. Higgins, of 105 Seaman street, New Brunswick, and was employed at the metal works there. He left that city Saturday or Sunday and went to Neshanic, he couldn't tell why.

He insisted that he had tried to cut a carbuncle out of his neck and that two men had chased him down the mountain near Neshanic. While running, he said, he fell into a barbed wire fence that made the wound worse.

STOLE TO GET MARRIED.

Garen Said He Wanted Money for His Wedding and Sold Golf Balls.

Owen Garen, nineteen years old, was arrested in Springfield yesterday charged with the theft of a large number of golf balls from the Baltusrol Golf Club. He sold for $40 the balls which cost $60 to the place in New York where they were purchased. He said he wanted the money for his wedding.

He has since been wedded to a young woman in Springfield. Garen's parents are living there and he ran a stationary engine in the town. He was lodged last night in the county jail in Elizabeth.

FRESHMEN ATE THEIR DINNER IN THIS CITY.

Rutgers College Boys Had a Gay Time Night.

PLENTY OF EXCITEMENT.

ATTEMPTED TO MAKE A SOPHOMORE A CAPTIVE.

Bound Brook Boy Rescued From the Freshmen by Colored Friends—Dinner at Park Hotel—On the Return a Mischevious Youth Got Himself Into the Law's Hands at Bound Brook.

While the seniors and juniors of Rutgers College banquetted at New Brunswick, last evening, the freshmen quietly stole over to Plainfield and enjoyed their annual banquet, undisturbed by their traditional enemies, the sophomores.

The freshmen laid their plans well. A delegation came to this city several days ago and made all arrangements for the banquet at the Park Avenue Hotel. H. W. vanHoevenberg, president of the class, was smuggled out of Brunswick yesterday noon and hidden so that he might not be captured. The speakers left at different hours of the afternoon coming to this city by train and trolley.

It was early in the evening when a group of the Freshmen boarded the trolley car going from Brunswick to Bound Brook. They allowed the car to get well away from the city in order that they might not be seen. Among the passengers in the car was Elwood Davis, a Sophomore, who commutes daily from his home in Bound Brook. He knew nothing of the dinner but the freshman pounced upon him and delared their intention of taking him to the dinner as the solitary representative of 1902. Davis objected but it made no difference, he was only one among a dozen and the will of the majority was law.

At Bound Brook the party alighted and escorted their captive about the streets intending to put him on a car for Plainfield. Among the colored residents of Bound Brook, there happened to be a number of his friends. Discovering Davis' predicament, they promptly rescued him from the clutches of the freshmen who were compelled to give up their cherished scheme of decorating the banquet table with a real live sophomore.

The freshmen all assembled at the Park Avenue Hotel and the dinner began at 8:30 o'clock. The menu was an elaborate one and excellently prepared. Covers were laid for thirty-three.

After the dinner was completed H. W. Hoevenberg, the class president, took his place as toastmaster and introduced the speakers. They were as follows: "Old Rutgers," A. W. Scott, Jr.; "The Faculty," Nathan Benedict; "New Brunswick," Theo. Tobiah; "Commuters," R. Harman-Ashley; "The Ladies," E. H. Houghtaling; "Athletics," B. J. Hotaling; "Our Outwitted Enemies," Wm. A. Fisher; "Class of 1903," Daniel Applegate.

The party left Plainfield for Bound Brook on the 12.44 train after a rather exciting parade down Park avenue. Arrangements had been made with Henry Bonham, of Bound Brook, for a stage to take the boys to New Brunswick. The stage was there to meet them, but had not left Bound Brook before one of the hind wheels collapsed. While the driver was trying to get another wheel the Freshmen wandered about Bound Brook amusing themselves in various ways.

At last one freshman, Carl Herbert, whose home is at Manasquan, N. J., ripped off the sign belonging to Lawyer Edward S. Fisher. Policeman John W. Sebring saw him and wanted to know what he was going to do with the sign. Herbert declared that he was going to take it home. Then the officer arrested him despite the efforts of Herbert's companions to prevent it.

Sebring, his prisoner and the rather worried freshmen started out for Squire Brampton's home. The Squire was aroused and persuaded to go down to his office. Runyon Field, of Fieldville, was in town and went bail for the appearance of the young man at a hearing Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Squire Brampton also demanded $20 cash bail which was raised among the college boys. At 3 o'clock the crowd started for New Brunswick and reached there without further adventures.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A KENSINGTON GUEST.

Charles E. Taylor, of DeRuyter N. Y., Had Heart Disease.

SALESMAN FOR SILVERWARE

IT WAS NOTICED THAT HE WAS SUFFERING WITH ASTHMA.

Arrived in the City Yesterday—Taken Ill in Joseph Blatz's Saloon—Able to Walk to Hotel, But Died Soon After—County Physician Ordered an Autopsy—His Wife Has Been Notified.

Last night while the employes of the Prudential Insurance Company were in the height of their festivities at the Hotel Kensington, where they were having a banquet, in the upper part of the hotel there was a man breathing his last. The sad affair was not known to the banqueters until after the dinner. The death cast a gloom over those at the hotel after it became known. The dead man was Charles E. Taylor, of DeRuyter, N. Y.

Mr. Taylor, who was employed as a traveling salesman for M. S. Benedict & Co., manufacturers of silver-plated ware at East Syracuse, N. Y., arrived in this city yesterday morning. He registered at the Hotel Kensington, and during the rest of the day he did very little, evidently intending to wait until today before making his rounds among the jewelers. It was noticed by several that that Mr. Taylor breathed heavily as though he had the asthma. In the afternoon he went to his room for a time, and was on hand at supper time, after which he staid about the hotel office for sometime.

About 8 o'clock he took a walk down town and stopped at the saloon of J. A. Blatz. He there complained of being ill and it was about 8:45 o'clock that Mr. Blatz summoned Dr. Pittis to his place. The latter at once noticed that the man was very sick and told him he had better return to his room at the hotel, which he did unassisted. Dr. Pittis accompanied him and upon their arrival at the hotel the physician put Mr. Taylor to bed. Seeing that he was suffering from asthma, he did all in his power to afford relief from the attack. The patient grew steadily worse, and Dr. Pittis summoned Dr. Clawson. They then gave additional heart stimulants and other treatment, but with no avail. The heart's action grew weaker and weaker until death came at 10:30 o'clock.

County Physician Dr. Westcott was immediately sent for by Dr. Pittis, and upon his arrival he ordered the body removed to George Cole's undertaking establishment, where an autopsy was performed by Dr. Pittis, under the direction of Dr. Westcott, assisted by Dr. Clawson. Dr. Tomlinson, Sergeant Kiely and Undertaker Cole was also present. The autopsy proved the diagnosis made by the physicians to be correct, namely that death was due to fatty degeneration of the heart, and there was every indication that Mr. Taylor had been a sufferer for a long time with asthma.

Papers in possession of Mr. Taylor disclosed his identity. He carried an accident policy, and among his papers was a roster of the De Ruyter Lodge, F. & A. M., and it is presumed that he was a Mason. He was a very large man, weighing about 215, but he was under size. He was a well-appearing person, and the local jewelers know his quite well. Last year was the first he came to this city representing the firm which employed him up to the time of his death. He had about $10 in money in his possession, letters from his firm and also from his wife. As soon as he died last evening a telegram was sent to Mr. Taylor's wife, but up to this noon no word had been received in response. One is looked for at any time. If there is no reply a telegram will be sent to the firm at East Syracuse. Mr. Taylor carried a grip in which he had samples of goods which he sells. As soon as possible arrangements will be made to ship the remains to De Ruyter, the former home of Mr. Taylor.
